Marin Mail Will Not Be Transferred

Postal Plans To Sort In San Francisco Out

By MARY LEYDECKER

In the wake of a flurry of complaints and petitioners, the U.S. Postal Service today did an about-face on plans to send Marin mail to San Francisco for sorting.

Guido A. Alasia, district manager for the San Francisco Postal District, said his department had "reassessed and reevaluated" earlier plans to put Marin's mail routinely through San Francisco's mechanized sorting system.

Alasia acknowledged there have been more complaints about mail service from Marin County than from other parts of the Bay Area, including petitions circulated and sent to Washington.

He said he thinks there is a "misunderstanding at this time" among many Marin residents, who do not realize that mail is sorted at the San Rafael Post Office Mondays through Fridays. On weekends, he said, Marin mail has been sent to San Francisco for distribution.

This practice will be discontinued beginning this weekend, Alasia said, and may result in "a little improvement" in service.

Alasia maintained, however, that Marin residents are now getting overnight delivery for letters mailed to recipients within the county "95 per cent of the time" and the most recent survey, he said, indicated 100 per cent such service.

He said problems caused after Christmas by a shortage of postal workers, a deluge of mail and a flu epidemic have been solved. Twenty-six additional employees, mainly clerks, are being hired for the San Rafael office, according to Postmaster Hugh Cassidy. San Rafael is the distribution point for Marin and Southern Sonoma post offices.

Alasia blamed slipups in the postal system on human error, saying we "are at the mercy of the operator and it is very easy for an operator in the San Francisco center to punch the wrong key" and send a letter in the wrong direction.

He himself, he said, had a pay check delayed several days because it went to Miami instead of his home in San Francisco.

Despite such problems, Alasia predicted that within a year and a half to two years, Marin's mail will go to San Francisco for mechanized sorting. At that time a letter mailed in Mill Valley to San Rafael would go by way of the Rincon Annex Post Office. Alasia said the machines by then would be better able to handle the mail than now, but did not say next-day delivery could be counted on.

Most of the mail originating on the Peninsula is now handled in this manner, Alasia said, but he admitted "there are some complaints."

In an attempt to allay other concerns expressed by petition signers, Alasia said there are "no immediate plans to discontinue Saturday deliveries in Marin" nor to discontinue window service at local post offices on Saturday mornings.

Alasia said that petitions signed by Marin residents had expressed fears such services would be discontinued.

He said his department, though, does intend to "evaluate" Saturday deliveries in San Francisco's financial district.

New School Head Guidelines Given

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Noneducators are invited to apply for the job of San Rafael superintendent of schools in one paragraph of an announcement brochure being circulated in the search for a new superintendent.

The paragraphs that follow, however, virtually rule out anyone who has not had administrative experience within a school district.

The brochure, prepared by outgoing Supt. John F. Plank and his staff, says under "Qualifications":

"The board of education is seeking the most qualified administrative leadership available. The position is not limited to candidates with school administration certification and experience."

Following this, however, the list of requirements specifies:

"Evidence of administrative experience at the district level in a unified or common-administration school district or its equivalent.

"Experience in working directly with the board of education. . .

"Demonstrated ability to work in harmony with the board of education, students, district employees and the public."

The brochure announces that 'a screening committee of professional educators will review the applications and may conduct preliminary interviews." This further reduces the possibility of a noneducator being selected.

"Candidates selected by the professional screening committee will be interviewed by a representative committee of teachers, parents, students, administrators and community leaders," the brochure continues. "Candidates selected by the screening process have an interview with the San Rafael Board of Education beginning May 21."

The May 21 start on interviews means that the two members of the board of education elected next Tuesday — at least one of whom will be new — will participate in the selection. San Rafael Board of Education members take office seven days after election, although trustees elected in school districts not governed by city charters do not take office until July 1.

The brochure specifies that the beginning salary for the new superintendent "will range between $25,000 and $30,000." Superintendent Plank is receiving $30,000 per year.

Mill Valley Hits Report On Shelter Ridge Plan

By REBECCA LARSEN

The Mill Valley Planning Commission, agreeing with residents last night, took issue with a consultant's report on proposed Shelter Ridge development and declared it finds the project would significantly affect the city's environment.

The commission's finding that significant increase in sewage, traffic and population would result was made at a hearing on the project planned on a hill above Highway 101 where 104 units have already been built.

Proposed by developer Harder-Odenthal are another 179 units on Shelter Ridge and, by a foundation, 72 nearby units of low and moderately priced housing.

For the developer, it was the second go-round before the commission, because the city council last week ruled that previously granted approval was void since deadlines on phases of planning had passed without being met.

The planning commission also voted unanimously to take an April 18 field trip to the Shelter Ridge site to prepare for further review of the environmental impact report on April 23. Representatives from interested homeowners associations, the city staff and the developer were asked to join the inspection.

However, commissioners indicated that they are sympathetic to the Shelter Hill low and moderate income housing units to be built near Shelter Ridge by the Interfaith Housing Foundation. At the request of the foundation's attorney Douglas Ferguson, they voted 5-1 to approve the concept of locating these units on the Shelter Hill site.

Ferguson asked that a record of the vote be sent to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission so that the foundation can apply for permits needed from that board. Commissioner Louis G. Millin voted against the measure.

During the hearing, both planning commissioners and audience members said that they disagreed with several conclusions of the environmental impact report on the Harder-Odenthal project by Environmental Science Associates of Burlingame.

"How can they say that new sewer hookups would have a 'slight' effect on the environment when we have such sewage problems here?" asked Jack Lloyd, 85 Shelley Drive.

Other residents complained about "slight" ratings given to noise and traffic created by the project.

Charles B. Bennett of Environmental Science Associates replied that the ratings were given because "any presence of human beings in an area would contribute to these problems."

"Significant ratings are given when a developer would have an impact out of proportion to the number of people there," he said.

At the suggestion of chairman Ivan S. Poutiatine, the commission decided to rate the development's impact on the environment as "significant" in several ways questioned by the audience.

Bradford McNutt, representing the developer, said he

Tiburon District To Consider A Full-Scale Treatment Plant

A pilot waste treatment system which uses algae to turn treated sewage into almost pure water will remain in operation at the Tiburon Sanitary District plant through the end of April while the fate of a full-scale plant is considered.

John F. Gorsich, president of Bio-Kinetics Co. of San Rafael, last night told directors of the sanitary district that Bio-Kinetics is having technical problems and trouble with suppliers and has not been able to meet a sefl-imposed timetable for installing a full-scale plant.

The district has a contract with Bio-Kinetics, signed last April, which gives the firm 18 months to perform and install equipment which will convert the district's entire sewage flow to almost pure water.

The company had planned to begin construction on the full plant last September, Gorsich said, but the inability to obtain satisfactory parts, coupled with fluctuations in the quality of the treated water, has resulted in delays.

The Tiburon board has been concerned, Gorsich said, at the delays and had asked Bio-Kinetics for a report on when the construction will begin.

Gorsich said he told directors last night the company wants to leave the pilot equipment in place at least through the end of April, when the firm will have a better idea of when construction can begin or whether the project indeed is feasible.

Directors agreed to give Bio-Kinetics 30 days to decide what to do. During that time the company will examine different ways of solving the treatment problems.

Under the contract, the Tiburon district will owe Bio-Kinetics nothing if the full-scale plant is not in operation by October, or $81,000 per year if the plant is built to the satisfaction of the district and the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

San Rafael Blocks Report On Santa Venetia Townhouse Plan

By ERIK M. INGRAM

San Rafael officials temporarily blocked county approval yesterday of an environmental impact report on a controversial townhouse project proposed for the picturesque ridgelands overlooking Santa Venetia.

The move came as the Marin County Planning Commission resumed its hearing on the San Pedro Reserve townhouse project, also opposed by some Santa Venetia residents who are contemplating purchase of the land for open space. (Another county planning commission story, page 3.)

Headed by San Rafael Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner, a contingent of six city officials charged that the project's environmental impact report, required by state law, is inadequate. They urged it be redrafted.

Among flaws in the report, they said, are unanswered questions on traffic, sewage, police and fire protection. The show of force by San Rafael, which sent officials from its police, fire, planning, public works and parks departments, drew applause from members of the audience.

After hours of discussion, the planning commission postponed action to its April 23 meeting so its staff and representatives of the firm which prepared the report can make corrections and additions to the report.

The project proposes 1,100 units in five cluster villages on a 256-acre site behind the Rafael Convalescent Hospital on North San Pedro Road.

Hotchner, who criticized the county planning department for not being critical enough in its review of the project, said the environmental report took too much for granted.

Backed by Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci and Deputy Police Chief Thomas Stevenson, Hotchner said the design of the project made it a nightmare for police and fire protection.

The environmental report, Marcucci said, dismissed fire protection saying a county "fire station" was located nearby.

That fire station, he continued, amounts to a brush fire truck and one fireman, whereas proper fire protection would require special structural fire equipment.

Hotchner added that the city would refuse to answer fire calls to the development.

Other city officials questioned traffic figures for the project and its lack of detailed plans for recreation facilities. (Its master plan shows tennis courts and a swimming pool at each village.)

A spokesman for Applied Sciences, which drafted the report, said the firm was limited economically from delving into the various points raised in depth.

Other speakers, three of whom said they represented the Las Gallinas Valley Master Plan Committee, also called the report inadequate since it failed to deal in depth with noise and air pollution or economic impact on the rest of the valley.

After postponing action on the environmental report, the commission heard a description of the project from architect Eugene Wedell of Sausalito.

In other matters yesterday, the commission approved a specific plan for Indian Valley near Novato, directed its staff to investigate illegal road grading on a ridge overlooking Forest Knolls, and refused to grant a use permit to Arthur H. Meyer to operate a plant nursery at the old Whole Systems recycling depot near the county heliport on Richardson Bay.

Nixon Asks Sweeping Foreign Trade Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress today for sweeping powers to expand trade with Communist nations, negotiate new foreign trade agreements, and retaliate for unfair restrictions on American exports by other nations.

In a message to Congress outlining the first major U.S. trading reforms since the mid 60s, Nixon also proposed tighter restrictions on American-owned firms whose operations abroad are deemed to threaten employment at home.

The trade bill, Nixon said in a short broadcast statement, "can mean more jobs and better jobs for American workmen." He added, "It can help American consumers get more for their money."

Under the proposed legislation, "most favored nation" treatment could be extended to the Soviet Union and China, putting their exports to this country in a competitive position with products of free world

Allende Charges U.S. Aided In Overthrow Plot

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — President Salvador Allende accused the U.S. government for the first time today of plotting with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) to prevent his inauguration and subsequently to cause civil war in Chile.

The Socialist president's accusation at an international workers' conference marked the first time he had publicly linked the U.S. government with ITT's alleged efforts against his government.

Allende said U.S. Senate hearings had proven "collusion" between the ITT and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in efforts to block his inauguration in November 1970 and later cause his overthrow.

SAVING LAGOON DUCKS

Foul For The Fish But Fine For Fowl

Marin County supervisors today played lord over fish and fowl at Civic Center Lagoon and decreed the ducks should be saved but the fish must perish.

The board's decision came after Pierre W. Joske, director of parks and recreation, told the board the friendly duck population is threatened with extermination from a disease called fowl choleria.

To combat the disease, he said, chlorine must be added to the water which will mean certain death to the carp, blue gills and sunfish.

Joske said about five ducks a day are dying from the disease, adding it would probably run its course in three to five weeks — enough time to wipe out the ducks.

However, he said with a note of optimism, the Civic Center Lagoon is usually replenished with a number of ducklings after the Easter holidays.

The choice is, he continued, adding chlorine to save the ducks and kill the fish, not add chlorine to save the fish and kill the ducks or "drain the lagoon and kill everything."

Supervisors, agreeing ducks are "better pets" than fish, decided to sacrifice the fish by adding chlorine. New fish can be planted in several weeks once the chlorine has done its job, Joske said.

"It sounds like an ecological loser either way," moaned Supervisor Michael Wornum good naturedly. "The fish lovers will hate us if we do and the duck lovers will hate us if we don't."

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini cast the lone opposing vote, saying nature "should be allowed to take its course."

House Sustains Nixon's Rural Sewer Grant Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today sustained President Nixon's veto of a rural water and sewer grant program, giving him his second major victory in a week in his fight with Congress over federal spending priorities.

This was the first test of House support for Nixon's drive to hold spending at $250 billion for the current year. The Senate last Tuesday fell short by four votes in a move to overturn Nixon's veto of a $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation program which he said violated his spending ceiling.

Nixon late last year ordered the water and sewer grant program terminated as of Jan. 1, claiming there were other rural aid programs that could be used for the same purpose at less cost to the government and that continued spending would be inflationary.

The new Congress passed a bill directing Nixon to continue the program, and this was the measure he vetoed last Thursday, claiming he was not subject to such a congressional order.

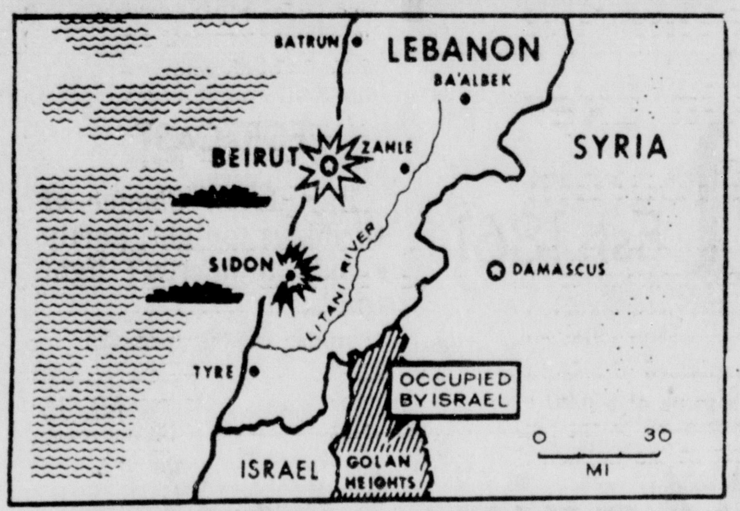
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today sustained President Nixon's veto of a rural water and sewer grant program, giving him his second major victory in a week in his fight with Congress over federal spending priorities.

This was the first test of House support for Nixon's drive to hold spending at $250 billion for the current year. The Senate last Tuesday fell short by four votes in a move to overturn Nixon's veto of a $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation program which he said violated his spending ceiling.

Nixon late last year ordered the water and sewer grant program terminated as of Jan. 1, claiming there were other rural aid programs that could be used for the same purpose at less cost to the government and that continued spending would be inflationary.

The new Congress passed a bill directing Nixon to continue the program, and this was the measure he vetoed last Thursday, claiming he was not subject to such a congressional order.



ACTION IN MIDEAST — This United Press International newsmap spots the latest centers of action in the growing Mideast crisis. Today Israeli units staged a bold raid on Beirut, killing three top Arab guerrilla leaders.

Israeli Units Stage Bold Raid On Beirut

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli paratroops and commandos landed on beaches near Beirut today, drove into the city in a fleet of cars apparently hired earlier by secret agents and killed three top Arab guerrilla leaders in their first strike into the heart of the Lebanese capital.

An Israeli leader called it a reprisal raid for previous Arab guerrilla attacks against Israelis and said the bold raid had struck a "serious blow" to the guerrilla movement. The Lebanese said the raid showed no one is safe from Israeli aggression.

The Israelis swooped in aboard launches at two beaches on Beirut's southern outskirts and drove to their target areas in a fleet of six civilian cars later found abandoned and bloodstained. One of the beaches was used for U.S. Marine landings in 1958, when the Lebanese government called for American help to fend off a threatening civil war.

Lt. Gen. David Elazar, the Israeli armed forces chief of staff, said in Tel Aviv the commandos, some of them dressed in civilian clothing, hit eight targets in Beirut and Sidon, 30 miles to the south, and warned that there might be more such attacks if Palestinian guerrillas attack Israelis again.

He said this raid was in retaliation for the attacks in Nicosia, Cyprus, Monday by Arab guerrillas against an El Al jet airliner and the home of the Israeli Ambassador to Cyprus. In the airliner attack, Israeli gunmen held the guerrillas at bay and prevented a bomb and machinegun attack on a loaded plane.

UPI Correspondent Charles R. Ridley reported from Beirut that the Israelis, in a meticulously planned raid that lasted only about two hours, assassinated the three guerrilla leaders, blew up buildings and garages, one of them a Palestinian headquarters, and fought street battles with Lebanese police and troops.

A separate Israeli force blew up a garage near the South Lebanon port of Sidon.

A Defense Ministry communique listed Lebanese casualties at four killed and 29 injured. The dead included two riot police and two Lebanese civilians. The ministry did not list casualties among "nonLebanese" which would include Palestinians. But the Beirut newspaper Al Safa said "some 40 Palestinians were killed or wounded." The Lebanese Red Cross issued appeals today for blood donors for the wounded.

An Israeli military spokesman said the Israelis suffered two dead and two wounded in the combined paratroop, naval and air operation.

Phnom Penh Embassies Are Ordered Abandoned

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today three foreign embassies, faced with dwindling supplies and a threatened Communist attack on Phnom Penh on Friday, have ordered all dependents temporarily out of the capital.

The sources said the evacuation of the British, Japanese and Israeli Embassies will be completed by Friday—the Buddhist New Year. They said the evacuation was prompted not only by security problems, but also because of shortages of fuel, power blackouts and a shrinking water supply.

Military intelligence reprts indicate that Communist units now operating within a 15-mile radius of the capital are planning to launch a combined rocket and sapper attack on the capital in celebration of the New Year.

Word of the evacuation came as a U.S. Embassy spokesman said Washington had approved an airlift of fuel supplies to ease critical shortage in Phnom Penh caused by encirclement of the capital by Communist troops.

Military officials at the same time said government troops had reopened one of the city's five severed major land supply routes—Highway 4.

Wage Floor Of $2.30 Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration proposed today to raise the federal minimum wage from $1.60 to $2.30 over a three-year period. This is more than administration backers in Congress have sought, but less than some Democrats have asked.

Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan presented the administration proposal before a House labor subcommittee.

Brennan, formerly a New York building trades union official, had supported organized labor's drive last year for an immediate $2 increase. Congress could not agree on a bill and labor this year proposed going to $2.20 an hour in one year and eventually to $2.50 an hour without a stated time goal.

TIMETABLE

Brennan said the wage for employes covered by the law before 1966 should go to $1.90 on enactment, $2.10 a year later, $2.20 in 1975 and $2.30 in 1976.

Those covered after 1966 would go to $1.80 immediately, $2 a year later, $2.10 in 1975, $2.20 in 1976 and $2.30 in 1977. The bulk of the covered workers are in the pre-1966 group.

Brennan also urged that the $1.30-per-hour minimum wage for farm workers be increased to $1.50 immediately, $1.70 a year later, $1.85 in 1975 and to $2 in 1976.

Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., ranking GOP member of the subcommittee and staunch administration backer, sponsored the main earlier GOP bill in the House.

FARM WORKERS

It called for an increase in the hourly minimum for non-farm workers to $1.80 immediately, $2 a year later, and $2.10 in 1975 for pre-1966 workers and go to $2.10 in three years for post-1966 workers. The farm wage increase under Erlenborn's bill would be to $1.80 after two years.

Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., the subcommittee chairman, studied Brennan's prepared statement prior to the start of the hearing and Brennan's appearance, and asked Erlenborn: "When did he change his mind? This isn't the song he was singing last year as a member of organized labor."

Erlenborn had no response except to say he had not been advised prior to Brennan's appearance what the administration would propose.

Peron Is Planning Argentina Return

SAN LUIS, Argentina (UPI) — President-elect Hector J. Campora said Monday that after his inauguration May 25 former President Juan D. Peron "will definitely settle in Argentina."

Campora won the March 11 elections with the aid of the slogan "Campora to office, Peron to power." Peron has spent most of his time in exile in Spain since he was overthrown by a miliitary coup in Argentina in 1955.

Environment Fair On 'Glassphalt'

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Visitors to the World Environmental Exposition next year will walk on 70 tons of old bottles and aluminum beer cans.

The material collected in a two-week public drive will be crushed and shredded into ingredients for the "glassphalt" Environmental Plaza at the expo site.

Plane Crashes; 146 On Charter

BASEL, Switzerland (UPI) — A British charter airliner circling for a second instrument landing attempt in a blinding snowstorm ripped through treetops in the hills south of Basel today and crashed in a thunderous explosion, killing most of the 146 persons on board.

Basel airport officials said they believed there were only seven survivors. Police, however, said: "There are believed to be 10 to 20 survivors, all badly injured."

The four-engine Vanguard turboprop craft, carrying clothing merchants and other visitors from Bristol, England, to the Basel Trade Fair, fell 12 miles south of this western Switzerland town near the farming community of Hochwald while making a second instrument landing attempt at the airport.

"Apparently the pilot had no time to signal an emergency," airport officials said. "There had been no may day or other emergency signal and obviously the hill just came out of the snow, and by then it was too late."

Because of the heavy snow conditions, communications and power in the Huchwald area went out shortly after the crash. It was two hours before the crash site was known and four hours before the first two survivors could be taken to the Basel County hospital. Helicopters ferried doctors and nurses to the crash scene.

Eyewitnesses said they heard the plane, engines whining, as it approached through the snowstorm. Then it crashed and exploded, they said.

Airport officials said the plane, owned by the Invicta Co., had overflown the airport and was trying a new approach from the opposite direction when it went down.

"The plane crashed onto wooded hills covered in three feet of snow," they said. "Rescue and search operations are extremely difficult because of the snow."

Russo Explains Why He Copied Secrets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Anthony Russo, weeping on the witness stand, said Monday he started down the road that eventually led to the Pentagon Papers trial when he began to empathize with the Viet Cong he interrogated for the Air Force.

Russo, on trial with Daniel Ellsberg in U.S. District Court, acknowledged he helped Ellsberg make copies of the secret Pentagon report on the war. His involvement was the upshot of a conversation with Ellsberg at a beach, Russo testified.

When he was still a researcher for the Rand Corp., Russo spent 18 months in Vietnam as the head of a team that interviewed scores of Viet Cong prisoners to study their motivation and morale.

Russo described spending two days with one Communist who Russo said had been tortured for months by the South Vietnamese, but would not break.

"He was the strongest man I have ever met—his constitution and personality," Russo said. "He talked about the presence of the Americans in Vietnam, the goals of the independence movement, how the people in the villages felt, how his own village was attacked.

"He recited poetry and sang a song to me. We established a rapport. I came to know the Vietnamese..."

Russo's voice broke. He held his head in his hands and wept. For almost a full minute he was unable to go on.

He sipped from a cup of water and looked up.

"As you see, even now when I think of it, it comes back to me..."

He began to weep again. His wife, Catharine, sitting in the front row of spectators, bowed her head.

He learned that in many cases children picked up unexploded bombs and "took them home where they would go off and the entire family would be killed," Russo said.

Russo said he resigned from the project when he learned his research was being used to bolster arguments in favor of Air Force bombing.

"It was lies, lies, lies," he said.

Gunman Shot

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops shot and wounded a gunman today in central Belfast in the third almost identical incident in three days.

Troops on patrol in the heavily Roman Catholic Lower Falls Road area spotted two men armed with rifles, kneeling in firing position. The men started to run and the British troops opened fire.

One was hit in the leg. Both were captured.

Sailors Punished

Nine blacks and the one white defendant were freed.

In the windup of the courts-martial that began in December, Capt. Bobby D. Bryant Monday imposed sentence on Airman Noel Smith, 19, of San Francisco, who was found guilty of assault and disrespect to an officer. Smith was fined $300, given 30 days at hard labor and reduced to seaman recruit.

A race riot raged through the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk last October as it steamed toward Vietnam from the Philippines.

Auto Emissions

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock Monday urged the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to grant a one-year extension to the auto industry for meeting stringent 1975 emission control standards.

In a letter to EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus, Woodcock said the recommendation was being made "after careful study, relying on reputable objective expert information and mindful of the essential need to protect our living environment."

Woodcock also urged the agency to insist that the industry made an "absolute good faith effort" to comply with the standards if the extension is granted.

Picasso Buried

MOUGINS, France (UPI) — The body of Pablo Picasso was removed today from his hilltop villa before dawn and entombed without ceremony in a crypt at his chateau 60 miles away.

The body was placed in the chapel of the chateau, a home Picasso bought at Aix en Provence in 1958.

A spokesman for the undertaker said only Picasso's 46-year-old widow Jacqueline, his son Paolo and a niece from Spain, Mrs. Dolores Vilato-Ruiz, were present when the body was placed in the crypt.

Warehouse Is Raided; 'Speed' Factory Found

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Narcotics officers raided a warehouse less than a block from police headquarters Monday and reported finding a "million dollar" amphetamine laboratory that could produce up to $200,000 worth of "speed" daily.

Police Sgt. Charles Hoenish said Clifford Ashworth, 27, was arrested as he fled from the "highly sophisticated" laboratory just two doors from the Hall of Justice.

Raiders hauled off two truckloads of chemicals, heaters, furnaces, test tubes and 21 partially filled gallon jugs they believed contained amphetamines.

Ashworth was arrested last week in a raid in another part of town and the warehouse was checked when it was learned he had rented part of it.

Gunman Shot

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops shot and wounded a gunman today in central Belfast in the third almost identical incident in three days.

Troops on patrol in the heavily Roman Catholic Lower Falls Road area spotted two men armed with rifles, kneeling in firing position. The men started to run and the British troops opened fire.

One was hit in the leg. Both were captured.

Sailors Punished

Nine blacks and the one white defendant were freed.

In the windup of the courts-martial that began in December, Capt. Bobby D. Bryant Monday imposed sentence on Airman Noel Smith, 19, of San Francisco, who was found guilty of assault and disrespect to an officer. Smith was fined $300, given 30 days at hard labor and reduced to seaman recruit.

A race riot raged through the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk last October as it steamed toward Vietnam from the Philippines.

Auto Emissions

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock Monday urged the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to grant a one-year extension to the auto industry for meeting stringent 1975 emission control standards.

In a letter to EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus, Woodcock said the recommendation was being made "after careful study, relying on reputable objective expert information and mindful of the essential need to protect our living environment."

Woodcock also urged the agency to insist that the industry made an "absolute good faith effort" to comply with the standards if the extension is granted.

Picasso Buried

MOUGINS, France (UPI) — The body of Pablo Picasso was removed today from his hilltop villa before dawn and entombed without ceremony in a crypt at his chateau 60 miles away.

The body was placed in the chapel of the chateau, a home Picasso bought at Aix en Provence in 1958.

A spokesman for the undertaker said only Picasso's 46-year-old widow Jacqueline, his son Paolo and a niece from Spain, Mrs. Dolores Vilató-Ruiz, were present when the body was placed in the crypt.

Warehouse Is Raided; 'Speed' Factory Found

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Narcotics officers raided a warehouse less than a block from police headquarters Monday and reported finding a "million dollar" amphetamine laboratory that could produce up to $200,000 worth of "speed" daily.

Police Sgt. Charles Hoenish said Clifford Ashworth, 27, was arrested as he fled from the "highly sophisticated" laboratory just two doors from the Hall of Justice.

Raiders hauled off two truckloads of chemicals, heaters, furnaces, test tubes and 21 partially filled gallon jugs they believed contained amphetamines.

Ashworth was arrested last week in a raid in another part of town and the warehouse was checked when it was learned he had rented part of it.

New Gallinas Growth Study Due

The Marin County Planning Commission sent its staff back to the drawing board yesterday to come up with some way of limiting growth in the Las Gallinas Valley pending adoption of the proposed countywide general plan. (Another county planning commission story, page 1.)

County planning officials two weeks ago suggested a building moratorium on new residential projects that do not conform with the slow growth recommendations of the countywide plan.

The county counsel's office killed the idea, however, saying it would be questionable to base a moratorium ordinance on recommendations contained in an unadopted plan.

At the urging of a San Rafael official, who charged that the county counsel's office is "unwilling to shoulder the burden" of a moratorium, the county planning commission voted unanimously to direct its staff to draft another ordinance leaving out direct reference to the countywide plan.

The two-hour discussion came as Sol Silver, chief of advanced planning, and Harvey Bragdon, chief of current planning, told the commission the planning department was ready to let the matter rest.

Silver, chief architect of the proposed countywide plan, said the moratorium proposed two weeks ago would have served as a test of the countywide plan's recommendations on growth limitation.

While not pleased with the county counsel's ruling, Silver said he was not in favor of a blanket moratorium to stop all growth in the valley — an alternative proposal suggested yesterday.

San Rafael Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner, who headed a contingent of six city officials, urged the commission and staff to try again on its moratorium proposal.

He said both his planning commission and city counsel are concerned over increasing development pressure in the valley, an area included in the city's "sphere of influence."

(The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board decided last Thursday to proceed with an interim expansion of sewage treatment facilities that will provide for about 1,000 additional residents in the valley over the next year.

(The board agreed to use district funds for the interim improvement, which will cost about $40,000 for construction of a sewage pond, he said.

(The board also agreed last Thursday that the one-year interim expansion will be followed by expansion providing for 800 to 1,000 new residents annually until 1978. The four-year incremental improvement will be made with federal funds.)

Hotchner suggested the county copy San Rafael's moratorium which allows development by use permit only until the general plan is adopted.

"The county counsel has taken the most narrow approach" in interpreting the law, Hotchner told the commission, adding it appeared to be "an unwillingness to shoulder the burden or a lack of research" on the county counsel's part.

Offering the services of the San Rafael City Attorney, Hotchner said the commission would find a moratorium could be declared legally "to shut the barn door" on runaway development.

Hotchner, who drew applause from the large audience, was supported by several valley residents representing the Las Gallinas Valley Master Plan Committee, which also called for a moratorium until the future of the valley can be adequately planned.

Harvey Bragdon cautioned that the board of supervisors has turned down moratorium requests from Strawberry and Tamalpais Valley residents who voiced similar concerns last year.

Chairman Jack G. Nixon, who said he supported limiting growth in the valley, told Hotchner he was "delighted with the city's position."

Noting San Rafael's past opposition to portions of the plan, Nixon asked "Does this mean your commission and council are endorsing the growth rate proposed by the countywide plan?"

Hotchner answered that both the commission and council realize some kind of growth rate limitation will have to be imposed countywide but still questions what the rate should be.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo then took her turn asking if San Rafael officials were departing from their past position that the city's general plan supersede the county's for areas within the city's sphere of influence.

Hotchner repeated the city's contention that San Rafael "is better able to do detailed planning" for areas around the city.

However, he continued, for limiting growth now the "pseudofigures" contained in the countywide plan would serve the purpose.

Following the brief exchange, Commissioner John F. West moved to continue study of the proposed moratorium and request the county counsel to attend the April 23 meeting to explain the county's liabilities in imposing a building ban. His motion passed unanimously.

Man Constructs Cross For Wife

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Walter L. Schwartz has constructed a 65-foot illuminated cross here in memory of his wife of 42 years, Betty, who died about a year ago.

The cross, which stands on an eight-foot concrete base, is constructed of steel covered by aluminum, and is illuminated at night by three 100-watt mercury vapor lights. "I sincerely believe it was God's will that I erect this beautiful and inspiring cross, the symbol of Christ, as a memorial to my beloved wife, Betty, that it would radiate and instill in man's mind God's love for us all," Schwartz said after a dedication service.

Film Set On Exercise Program

The program will begin April 30 at the college, cosponsored by the Institute of Health Research in San Francisco. Each weekday from 6:45 a.m. to 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 6:15 p.m., medical technicians and a coach will supervise participants who will make a three-mile jog or walk on the college track.

Each participant will receive a physical examination and undergo five weekly blood tests to check on progress of the exercise for men and women previously lacking a regular exercise program. Shower and dressing rooms will be available.

A fee will be charged for the jogging program and physical examinations.

Board Seeks Advice On Marsh At School

The Mill Valley School District board last night decided to get expert advice before allowing a marsh near Strawberry Point School to be disturbed.

Developers planning a condominium project on property across the Salt Works Canal from the school asked the board that an easement for access to the canal be on the district side and not the condominium side.

Marin Cay condominiums, a 49-unit project planned for 14 acres, was approved last week by Marin supervisors on condition that the county be given an easement to maintain the flood control canal.

Paul J. Broman, developer of the project, is reluctant to grant the easement, however, because about half of the 14 acres are under water and the easement would take still more of the project site, said William Schenck of the Marin County Planning Department.

Since an easement for the Richardson Bay Sanitary District already runs along the school side of the canal, Broman asked that the school district agree to the flood control easement there as well, according to Patsy White, secretary to the superintendent.

Trustees, however, delayed a decision until an expert in biology can study the marshland fronting the canal to determine if maintenance equipment would damage it, Mrs. White said.

The board also asked for more information on the financial and legal implications of allowing children from the Sausalito School District to attend Mill Valley's Middle School next year.

Mill Valley has said it can accept up to 40 Sausalito children in an experiment to expose them to greater selection of classes and to prepare them for the larger classes they will be attending at Tamalpais High School.

wants the report to note that the project would be one of the last places in the area where middle income families can buy homes. "Shelter Ridge fits precisely the objectives of the proposed Marin countywide plan already approved by the Mill Valley City Council," he said. "In our present economy, even at prices of $29,000 to $32,000, the units are moderate in cost. Another year of waiting, and prices could rise to $35,000 to $40,000."

"The project may represent a microcosm of the countywide plan," answered Edward J. Gingras, president of the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association which opposes the plans. "But why do the apartments have to be four stories high, right on the crest of the hill?"

Included in the master plan of Shelter Ridge before the commission are proposals for 23 single-family and duplex residences and for 156 condominiums. The developer is also seeking rezoning for an office building, not included in the plans originally approved in 1969.

The developer still has valid building permits for another 83 townhouses yet to be constructed.

Also last night, the planning commission discussed plans for rebuilding the Safeway market at Camino Alto and Miller Avenue along with constructing an office complex and car wash. Most comments centered on the noise that the car wash would produce.

Capitol Termed Quake Hazard

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The century-old, golden-domed Capitol—judged "hazardous" in case of fire or an earthquake—will have to be vacated, probably by the end of the year, according to a key lawmaker.

"I really believe it has come to the point that we have to move," declared Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, chairman of the Joint Rules Committee.

Burton's comment came following presentation to the committee of a study by VTN Consolidated Inc., of Irvine. It warned that earthquake damage to the Capitol, first used by the legislature in 1869, could cause a "catastrophic disruption of state government."

The VTN study, commissioned by the committee at a cost of $43,860, recommended that the historic west wing of the Capitol be dismantled and reconstructed from the ground up at a cost of $41 million.

nations entering the U.S. market.

Nixon urged rejection of congressional moves to deny most-favored-nation status to the Soviet Union until it lifts an emigration tax on Soviet Jews wishing to emigrate to Israel.

"I do not believe that a policy of denying most-favored-nation treatment to Soviet exports is a proper or even effective way of dealing with this problem," Nixon said.

"Most favored nation" tariff treatment means a foreign trading partner can import its goods into the United States at the lowest existing legal tariff in this country.

Poland and Yugoslavia are the only Communist countries at present enjoying this status, which also extends to the free world countries with whom the U.S. is joined under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The legislation would give Nixon power to decide when a trading nation appeared to be discriminating against American goods, and to retaliate with temporary higher tariffs or quota restrictions against products of that country entering the United States.

At present such retaliation can be imposed only against a country violating international trade agreements.

On the other hand, Nixon would be able to cut import restrictions temporarily in order to lessen inflationary pressures at home by putting foreign goods in price competition with domestic manufacturers whose price seemed too high.

The proposed legislation also would:

— Liberalize unemployment benefits for domestic workers displaced by imports.

—Impose new taxes on overseas subsidiaries of American companies, particularly those which ship finished products back to the United States.

—Grant trading concessions to underdeveloped countries.

—Authorize temporary import restrictions to help correct extraordinary deficits in the U.S. balance of payments.

Parts Stolen

Auto parts valued at $350 were taken during the weekend from D&W Auto Wreckers, 77 Hoag Street, San Rafael, by a thief who ripped a hole in a fence, police reported today.

Marinwood Summer Rec Budget Set

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission last night approved a preliminary budget of $4,200 for its 1973 summer program.

This year's budget is $200 less than in 1972, said Genevieve T. Bolding, district business manager. The commission predicted that $3,500 would be raised through fees for summer programs, the balance to be paid from tax revenues.

The commission also approved $370 for maintenance and repair of the district pool.

It recommended to the district board that $140 be authorized to buy a pacer clock to be used by the Marinwood swim team. The commission suggested it be paid for by excess registration fees from swim meets.

The commission adjourned until 8 p.m. May 3 when it will discuss the 1973-74 yearly budget in the Marinwood Community Center.

Novato Sets Up Impact Report Review Group

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee last night set up a subcommittee to review environmental impact reports, now required by the city on most developments.

Named to the subcommittee were Ernestine Barnwell, Donald Dickenson, Guy Napolitano and Lynn Childs, according to city administrative assistant Rodney B. Brown.

Subcommittee members are scheduled to sit in when the city's environmental impact report committee determines which projects require reports, Brown said.

The committee tentatively scheduled a joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission on an open space plan for Mount Burdell for April 26, Brown said.

Jail Is Given In Heroin Case

A mother of three, who sold heroin to supplement her welfare check, was ordered yesterday to serve eight months in jail for selling the narcotic to an undercover agent.

Marie Hendrix, 25, of Marin City also received three years probation from Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court. The judge followed a plea bargain under which she pleaded guilty last month.

Miss Hendrix was given a one-week stay to apply for work furlough since she recently obtained work as a grocery checker.

She was arrested Oct. 31 at the Corte Madera Shopping Center after selling five balloons of heroin totaling almost eight grams.

Alvarez Does Not Contest

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez, Jr., was divorced in the United States Monday by the woman he married only four months before he became the first American prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

Hortencia (Tangee) Alvarez, 32, obtained a Mexican divorce from the Navy flier in 1970. She now is married to Andrew Gonzales, 26, an Oakland auto parts dealer, and has an 18-month-old daughter. Her attorney advised her to obtain a California divorce.

Alvarez, 35, a POW for 8 ½ years, did not contest the divorce petition by his former wife which cited "irreconcilable differences." He did not appear for the divorce hearing.

Mercury Taken

the board will consider a four-year contract (Plank resigned in the middle of such a contract), and will provide the superintendent with an automobile.

The brochure contains a paragraph which has brought objections from some board of education candidates, as follows:

"The instructional emphasis and curriculum development has been toward greater individualized educational programs for children. The districts support such arrangements as open classrooms, multi-age grouping, team teaching and flexible use of time and space. For example, San Rafael High School is on a flexible, modular-time schedule and houses a school-within-a-school unit of 150 students, served by six teachers. There are two alternative on-location high school programs, and there is an emphasis on continuating (sic) education with a strong adult program."

Some of the board candidates contend the new superintendent should not be tied in advance to experimental programs which are still being evaluated.

Reagan Surplus Bill Is Stalled

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's bill to return a $852 million treasury surplus to income and sales taxpayers stalled in the legislature today as a Democratic-sponsored rival measure advanced.

Reagan's plan for disposing of the state's one-time $852 million surplus calls for delaying the scheduled June 1 imposition of the sales tax increase until Jan. 1 and granting a once-only 20 per cent reduction in personal income taxes on 1973 income.

The Democratic rival, co-authored by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, would consume the surplus by delaying the tax increase until July 1, 1974.

But unlike Reagan's, the Democratic proposal makes no provision for an income tax cut.

Quake Building Code Questioned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Earthquake experts believe stronger building codes are needed as research reveals more about how damage occurs during temblors.

A panel of scientists meeting here said Monday that California's current earthquake building codes might not be adequate to prevent damage to hospitals and other buildings if a strong quake occurred.

John A. Blume, an engineer, said that some of the buildings damaged in the 1970 quake in the San Fernando Valley were up to state building specifications. Structures could now be made safer because of more recent findings, he said.

Canada Unhappy In Truce Role

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Monday Canada will withdraw from the Vietnam truce observer force at the end of June if the situation "does not improve very substantially."

In a statement to Parliament, he said Canada would withdraw from the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) rather than risk Canadian lives for "a task which is not worth doing."

Sharp said the shooting down of an ICCS helicopter on Saturday with the loss of nine lives, including one Canadian, showed the situation in Vietnam was worsening.

Membership is open and the group has 35 members, he said. The senate has no regular meeting date, but meets on call.

Wilson's Skipper To Take A Rest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Commodore Joseph D. Cox sailed the S.S. President Wilson beneath the Golden Gate Bridge for the last time Monday after 25 years as skipper of one of America's last and finest passenger ships.

"The day of transportation by ship is long gone," he declared as the 300 passengers who made the liner's last voyage as a U.S. flag vessel disembarked.

Cox, 66, the master of the last American President Lines passenger ship since a year after she was launched in 1947, said he plans a long vacation but it won't be by boat.

"I wouldn't want to cruise," he said. "I've already been almost every place."

Mine Clearing Units To North

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Navy is loaning the North Vietnamese mine-clearing equipment and is teaching them how to use it.

The equipment includes RAPs, MOPs and plastic boats.

The MOP is a "magnetic orange pipe" which is dragged between two minesweepers to set off mines that are normally activated by the magnetic field of an iron-hulled ship.

The RAP is a "rotating acoustic pipe." A foot in diameter and four feet long, it contains a set of rattle bars that set up a clatter and explode mines that are normally triggered by the sounds of a ship's propeller.

Board Seeks Advice On Marsh At School

The Mill Valley School District board last night decided to get expert advice before allowing a marsh near Strawberry Point School to be disturbed.

Developers planning a condominium project on property across the Salt Works Canal from the school asked the board that an easement for access to the canal be on the district side and not the condominium side.

Marin Cay condominiums, a 49-unit project planned for 14 acres, was approved last week by Marin supervisors on condition that the county be given an easement to maintain the flood control canal.

Paul J. Broman, developer of the project, is reluctant to grant the easement, however, because about half of the 14 acres are under water and the easement would take still more of the project site, said William Schenck of the Marin County Planning Department.

Since an easement for the Richardson Bay Sanitary District already runs along the school side of the canal, Broman asked that the school district agree to the flood control easement there as well, according to Patsy White, secretary to the superintendent.

Trustees, however, delayed a decision until an expert in biology can study the marshland fronting the canal to determine if maintenance equipment would damage it, Mrs. White said.

The board also asked for more information on the financial and legal implications of allowing children from the Sausalito School District to attend Mill Valley's Middle School next year.

Mill Valley has said it can accept up to 40 Sausalito children in an experiment to expose them to greater selection of classes and to prepare them for the larger classes they will be attending at Tamalpais High School.

SHELTER

wants the report to note that the project would be one of the last places in the area where middle income families can buy homes. "Shelter Ridge fits precisely the objectives of the proposed Marin countywide plan already approved by the Mill Valley City Council," he said. "In our present economy, even at prices of $29,000 to $32,000, the units are moderate in cost. Another year of waiting, and prices could rise to $35,000 to $40,000."

"The project may represent a microcosm of the countywide plan," answered Edward J. Gingras, president of the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association which opposes the plans. "But why do the apartments have to be four stories high, right on the crest of the hill?"

Included in the master plan of Shelter Ridge before the commission are proposals for 23 single-family and duplex residences and for 156 condominiums. The developer is also seeking rezoning for an office building, not included in the plans originally approved in 1969.

The developer still has valid building permits for another 83 townhouses yet to be constructed.

Also last night, the planning commission discussed plans for rebuilding the Safeway market at Camino Alto and Miller Avenue along with constructing an office complex and car wash. Most comments centered on the noise that the car wash would produce.

Capitol Termed Quake Hazard

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The century-old, golden-domed Capitol—judged "hazardous" in case of fire or an earthquake—will have to be vacated, probably by the end of the year, according to a key lawmaker.

"I really believe it has come to the point that we have to move," declared Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, chairman of the Joint Rules Committee.

Burton's comment came following presentation to the committee of a study by VTN Consolidated Inc., of Irvine. It warned that earthquake damage to the Capitol, first used by the legislature in 1869, could cause a "catastrophic disruption of state government."

The VTN study, commissioned by the committee at a cost of $43,860, recommended that the historic west wing of the Capitol be dismantled and reconstructed from the ground up at a cost of $41 million.

nations entering the U.S. market.

Nixon urged rejection of congressional moves to deny most-favored-nation status to the Soviet Union until it lifts an emigration tax on Soviet Jews wishing to emigrate to Israel.

"I do not believe that a policy of denying most-favored-nation treatment to Soviet exports is a proper or even effective way of dealing with this problem," Nixon said.

"Most favored nation" tariff treatment means a foreign trading partner can import its goods into the United States at the lowest existing legal tariff in this country.

Poland and Yugoslavia are the only Communist countries at present enjoying this status, which also extends to the free world countries with whom the U.S. is joined under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The legislation would give Nixon power to decide when a trading nation appeared to be discriminating against American goods, and to retaliate with temporary higher tariffs or quota restrictions against products of that country entering the United States.

At present such retaliation can be imposed only against a country violating international trade agreements.

On the other hand, Nixon would be able to cut import restrictions temporarily in order to lessen inflationary pressures at home by putting foreign goods in price competition with domestic manufacturers whose price seemed too high.

The proposed legislation also would:

— Liberalize unemployment benefits for domestic workers displaced by imports.

—Impose new taxes on overseas subsidiaries of American companies, particularly those which ship finished products back to the United States.

—Grant trading concessions to underdeveloped countries.

—Authorize temporary import restrictions to help correct extraordinary deficits in the U.S. balance of payments.

Marinwood Summer Rec Budget Set

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission last night approved a preliminary budget of $4,200 for its 1973 summer program.

This year's budget is $200 less than in 1972, said Genevieve T. Bolding, district business manager. The commission predicted that $3,500 would be raised through fees for summer programs, the balance to be paid from tax revenues.

The commission also approved $370 for maintenance and repair of the district pool.

It recommended to the district board that $140 be authorized to buy a pacer clock to be used by the Marinwood swim team. The commission suggested it be paid for by excess registration fees from swim meets.

The commission adjourned until 8 p.m. May 3 when it will discuss the 1973-74 yearly budget in the Marinwood Community Center.

Novato Sets Up Impact Report Review Group

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee last night set up a subcommittee to review environmental impact reports, now required by the city on most developments.

Named to the subcommittee were Ernestine Barnwell, Donald Dickenson, Guy Napolitano and Lynn Childs, according to city administrative assistant Rodney B. Brown.

Subcommittee members are scheduled to sit in when the city's environmental impact report committee determines which projects require reports, Brown said.

The committee tentatively scheduled a joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission on an open space plan for Mount Burdell for April 26, Brown said.

Alvarez Does Not Contest

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez, Jr., was divorced in the United States Monday by the woman he married only four months before he became the first American prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

Hortencia (Tangee) Alvarez, 32, obtained a Mexican divorce from the Navy flier in 1970. She now is married to Andrew Gonzales, 26, an Oakland auto parts dealer, and has an 18-month-old daughter. Her attorney advised her to obtain a California divorce.

Alvarez, 35, a POW for 8 ½ years, did not contest the divorce petition by his former wife which cited "irreconcilable differences." He did not appear for the divorce hearing.

BROCHURE

the board will consider a four-year contract (Plank resigned in the middle of such a contract), and will provide the superintendent with an automobile.

The brochure contains a paragraph which has brought objections from some board of education candidates, as follows:

"The instructional emphasis and curriculum development has been toward greater individualized educational programs for children. The districts support such arrangements as open classrooms, multi-age grouping, team teaching and flexible use of time and space. For example, San Rafael High School is on a flexible, modular-time schedule and houses a school-within-a-school unit of 150 students, served by six teachers. There are two alternative on-location high school programs, and there is an emphasis on continuating (sic) education with a strong adult program."

Some of the board candidates contend the new superintendent should not be tied in advance to experimental programs which are still being evaluated.

Reagan Surplus Bill Is Stalled

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's bill to return a $852 million treasury surplus to income and sales taxpayers stalled in the legislature today as a Democratic-sponsored rival measure advanced.

Reagan's plan for disposing of the state's one-time $852 million surplus calls for delaying the scheduled June 1 imposition of the sales tax increase until Jan. 1 and granting a once-only 20 per cent reduction in personal income taxes on 1973 income.

The Democratic rival, co-authored by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, would consume the surplus by delaying the tax increase until July 1, 1974.

But unlike Reagan's, the Democratic proposal makes no provision for an income tax cut.

Quake Building Code Questioned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Earthquake experts believe stronger building codes are needed as research reveals more about how damage occurs during temblors.

A panel of scientists meeting here said Monday that California's current earthquake building codes might not be adequate to prevent damage to hospitals and other buildings if a strong quake occurred.

John A. Blume, an engineer, said that some of the buildings damaged in the 1970 quake in the San Fernando Valley were up to state building specifications. Structures could now be made safer because of more recent findings, he said.

Canada Unhappy In Truce Role

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Monday Canada will withdraw from the Vietnam truce observer force at the end of June if the situation "does not improve very substantially."

In a statement to Parliament, he said Canada would withdraw from the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) rather than risk Canadian lives for "a task which is not worth doing."

Sharp said the shooting down of an ICCS helicopter on Saturday with the loss of nine lives, including one Canadian, showed the situation in Vietnam was worsening.

The senate is headed by Ronald D. Schenck, president of the school board, and J. Wayne Womack, former Novato mayor is vice president, Fry reported.

Membership is open and the group has 35 members, he said. The senate has no regular meeting date, but meets on call.

Wilson's Skipper To Take A Rest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Commodore Joseph D. Cox sailed the S.S. President Wilson beneath the Golden Gate Bridge for the last time Monday after 25 years as skipper of one of America's last and finest passenger ships.

"The day of transportation by ship is long gone," he declared as the 300 passengers who made the liner's last voyage as a U.S. flag vessel disembarked.

Cox, 66, the master of the last American President Lines passenger ship since a year after she was launched in 1947, said he plans a long vacation but it won't be by boat.

"I wouldn't want to cruise," he said. "I've already been almost every place."

Mine Clearing Units To North

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Navy is loaning the North Vietnamese mine-clearing equipment and is teaching them how to use it.

The equipment includes RAPs, MOPs and plastic boats.

The MOP is a "magnetic orange pipe" which is dragged between two minesweepers to set off mines that are normally activated by the magnetic field of an iron-hulled ship.

The RAP is a "rotating acoustic pipe." A foot in diameter and four feet long, it contains a set of rattle bars that set up a clatter and explode mines that are normally triggered by the sounds of a ship's propeller.

City Redevelopment Pact With County Is Approved

The San Rafael City Council last night formally approved an agreement with the county regarding the city's redevelopment plans on condition that the Marin Community College District also accepts a city compromise offer on redecelopment financing.

Meeting in special session, the council heard Stephen Goldfarb, legal consultant to the redevelopment agency, outline the county agreement, which limits the city to a seven-year program for redevelopment and includes a complicated formula for sharing with noncity agencies some of the tax revenue generated by redevelopment.

Under state law, the redevelopment agency can freeze assessed valuation in the redevelopment area for up to 20 years, and use any increased revenue resulting from improvements to repay redevelopment financing.

Approval by the board of supervisors last Tuesday of 13 downtown San Rafael redevelopment projects ended a months-long battle over who would get increased tax revenue from increased property values in the redevelopment area.

College district trustees last Wednesday rejected two offers by the city to return some revenue that would be siphoned from the district in order to pay for redevelopment.

They appointed a four-man committee to further study the offers, one the same as that worked out with the county and the second the same as that accepted by the San Rafael Board of Education.

The college district is expected to make a final decision on the compromise proposals when it meets April 18.

"I am hopeful the college district will accept the same offer we made the city schools," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

And if the district doesn't, "then we go to court," the mayor said.

The council also met in closed session to instruct the city attorney on salary negotiations with city employees.

City Seeks Change In Present County Fire Protection Role

The San Rafael Fire Commission last night declared that the County of Marin is taking advantage of the city which provides fire services in unincorporated areas without compensation, and commissioners suggested a city committee work with county officials on the problem.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said it costs the city $2,100 for each call to any of six areas lying outside the city limits but within the city's sphere of influence.

Even more critical than the cost, he said, is that every time a fire department unit leaves the city, it decreases fire protection within the city limits.

The city currently is providing fire protection in the unincorporated areas of Rafael Meadows, Santa Venetia, Country Club, Bayside Acres, California Park and Knocknaboul.

A small county brush rig manned by one fireman at a Santa Venetia service station is incapable of providing structural fire protection in Rafael Meadows or Santa Venetia, and the city provides "first response" fire services in the other four unincorporated areas, Marcucci said.

The chief noted that San Rafael has unofficial mutual aid agreements with other cities and receives more aid from these cities than it provides. "It's truly mutual aid," he said. But the county has neither the trained men nor the equipment to provide reciprocal protection for structural fires.

"We have to put a lid on expenditures for the fire department," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini, who sat in on a portion of the meeting. He noted that cost of the fire deartment is the largest single expense in the city budget.

The county collects $67,000 annually in fire protection taxes in the area around San Rafael for fire services actually provided by the city, according to City Mgr. William J. Bielser, who also attended a part of the meeting.

The commission discussed alternatives to the problem, including a "get tough" proposal to refuse to provide fire protection services in unincorporated areas.

"Let the county feel some of the chagrin for not providing adequate service to these areas," Bielser said. "Let them bear the guilt."

The commission appointed commissioners Daniel C. Dufficy and H. Robert Ghilotti to a proposed committee to take the issue to the county. It would be rounded out by two city councilmen and Bielser, Bettini said they will be appointed at the next city council meeting.

The commission also authorized Marcucci to work out a mutual aid agreement with the Marinwood Fire Department for assistance during structural fires and resuscitator calls in the Mount Marin area of the city south of Lucas Valley Road.

Because response time to that area from city fire stations "is considerable," the agreement would make Marinwood fire units available on an "on call" basis to provide quicker service, Marcucci said.

"I am particularly concerned with resuscitator calls," he said. "Every second counts."

In return, Marinwood would participate in joint monthly training sessions with San Rafael and would be allowed to use the city's drill tower. Marinwood also would be allowed to borrow a reserve fire engine from San Rafael on a 72-hour basis in the event one of its engines breaks down, Marcucci said.

Judge Sees Hope For A Violator

A Fairfax man — even the judge thought had overcome his prison past — was ordered yesterday to serve six months in jail concurrent with the time he expects to receive for violating parole by engaging in a barroom brawl.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court reduced to a misdemeanor a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against George Robert Simpson, 45, then volunteered to write a letter on his behalf to his parole officer.

"He can make it, and he will make it, too," the judge said.

Simpson pleaded guilty March 19 to the assault charge filed after he struck two San Rafael men with a broken pool cue in a scuffle over use of a pool table at McKee's Hof Brau, 721 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, last Oct. 19.

Simpson, sent to prison in 1963 for robbery and kidnap, had been free of serious violations from his parole in 1971 until October and Menary said he thought his latest violation would not have occurred had he stayed out of bars.

"Mr. Simpson, when you get out, stay away from bars and booze," the judge warned.

Dowling was given a one year suspended sentence and placed on two years probation. Dowling, a former newspaper financial editor, had pleaded guilty.

Because response time to that area from city fire stations "is considerable," the agreement would make Marinwood fire units available on an "on call" basis to provide quicker service, Marcucci said.

"I am particularly concerned with resuscitator calls," he said. "Every second counts."

In return, Marinwood would participate in joint monthly training sessions with San Rafael and would be allowed to use the city's drill tower. Marinwood also would be allowed to borrow a reserve fire engine from San Rafael on a 72-hour basis in the event one of its engines breaks down, Marcucci said.

Judge Sees Hope For A Violator

A Fairfax man — even the judge thought had overcome his prison past — was ordered yesterday to serve six months in jail concurrent with the time he expects to receive for violating parole by engaging in a barroom brawl.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court reduced to a misdemeanor a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against George Robert Simpson, 45, then volunteered to write a letter on his behalf to his parole officer.

"He can make it, and he will make it, too," the judge said.

Simpson pleaded guilty March 19 to the assault charge filed after he struck two San Rafael men with a broken pool cue in a scuffle over use of a pool table at McKee's Hof Brau, 721 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, last Oct. 19.

Simpson, sent to prison in 1963 for robbery and kidnap, had been free of serious violations from his parole in 1971 until October and Menary said he thought his latest violation would not have occurred had he stayed out of bars.

"Mr. Simpson, when you get out, stay away from bars and booze," the judge warned.

Failure To File Sentence Given

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Allen V. Dowling, 60, former president of Chicago National Life Insurance Co., was sentenced Monday for failing to file federal income tax returns in 1966, when he made more than $77,000.

Dowling was given a one year suspended sentence and placed on two years probation. Dowling, a former newspaper financial editor, had pleaded guilty.

Mr. & Mrs. Patrick A. Lejeune

Mr. & Mrs. Patrick A. Lejeune, Ready ReservAccount and taxes.

The following is a transcript of an interview held with Mr. Pat Lejeune, produce broker.

"Well, Ready ReservAccount has come in handy a lot of times, in a lot of ways, but this could be the first year I've had to use it to cover my tax bill.

"In the past, I've used it on vacations when I ran short of money in my checking account, and wasn't in town to put more in. I've used it when there was 'too much month left at the end of the money.' Now, I'm getting ready to go out of town again, and I could end up a little short on April 16. So it's good to know I've got Ready ReservAccount to back up my checkbook. It's something special. You can quote me."

Thank you. We did. Ready ReservAccount. For when you have to write checks for more than you have in your checking account. Just one more of Security Pacific Bank's special services for special people. Like the Lejeunes. And you.

NEWS RACK PAYOFF — FOR POLICE

Fairfax Council Asks Rec Study

The Fairfax Town Council, faced with a park and recreation commissioner's demand for a sweeping reorganization of the town's recreation program, last night asked the commission to evaluate the program by next month.

The action comes in the wake of a recommendation by commissioner Irma Kay that the city fire recreation directors Susan and Richard Woodall and recreation leader Kim Parker.

"The council is concerned that our recreation program doesn't amount to much," said Mayor Albert E. Gately, adding that it is little more than a "paper program" due to an apparent lack of interest.

Mrs. Kay, however, said that the program had suffered due to an inadequate staff and a powerless parks and recreation commission. "We don't even have any authority over hiring and firing," she declared.

In addition to the dismissal of current recreation staff because they are "incompetent," Mrs. Kay is urging that the commission be responsible for preparing a budget for submission to City Aministrator Robert E. Crowe "prior to his submitting the budget to the city council"; that the commission interview all recreational staff before they are hired and that commissioners convene in special session to "formulate policy, goals and philosophy as well as establishing areas of responsibility for the commissioners."

Though other commissioners last night said they are also confused about the commission's goals and operating functions, they appeared to be in wide disagreement over what action to take.

"The commission is incompetent, not the recreation leaders," commissioner Leo Cronin told the Independent-Journal. "We haven't been giving direction" to the town recreational program, he said. Commissioner Randall Garrison said the proposal to fire the three recreation heads "ought to be looked into" and indicated that a review of their performance might show they need "more support" from the commission.

Gately asked commissioners to discuss the matter at 8 p.m. April 24, at the regular commission meeting, and come up with a "collective recommendation" on the situation.

The Fairfax Town Council Also:

ENVIRONMENT — Said the town will join other agencies in the county as a cosponsor of the "Total Environment Marin" conference on May 19, an event aimed at exploring human and environmental needs, according to resident Carol Staley.

MONO AVENUE — Approved a permit as requested by planning commissioner Harold S. Lezzeni for construction of a retail shop topped by three apartment units at 80 Mono Avenue.

FORREST AVENUE — Approved, with Egger dissenting, an appeal by Emil Renati of planning commission denial of a permit allowing two uncovered parking spaces on a car deck at 214 Forrest Avenue.

PAVILION — Authorized expenditure of up to $3,000 to hire architect Donald Olsen for drafting plans and specifications for renovation of the Fairfax Pavilion.

PERSONNEL — Approved a salary step increase to $974 monthly for building inspector Thomas Klarenbach.

SALES TAX — Said the city supports the City of Baldwin Park (Los Angeles County) in its effort to overhaul apportionate of sales taxes from a point of sale to a per-capita basis, but made no commitment on funding litigation on the matter.

STREET OVERLAY — Approved plans for the 1973 street overlay and resurfacing program, and called for bids on the resurfacing work.

CLAIM — Denied a claim for $2,178,000 filed by Max Friedman, who claims the zoning of his Marin Town and Country Club parcel represents inverse condemnation of the property.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fairfax Women's Club to consider the remainder of a lengthy agenda.

New Traffic Light Now In Operation

A newly installed traffic signal at South Novato Boulevard and Sunset Parkway, Novato, was to start operating today, according to Asst. Public Works Director Thomas J. Nolan.

The light will operate on green-yellow-red signals from 4 to 6:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8 a.m., the heavy traffic hours, Nolan said.

Breakfast With PT&T Is Praised

A breakfast meeting conducted by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. for the Fairfax City Council and phone company employees was praised last night by Fairfax's mayor as a public spirited activity, but one that might have been less controversial had it been publicly announced in advance.

Mayor Albert E. Gately called the meeting, attended by 63 phone company employees living in Fairfax, an example of "what democracy and America is all about."

"I think it's a good thing that corporations should encourage this type of thing," Gately said of the meeting at the Deer Park Villa last Wednesday. He added, however, that the company might have sparked better public relations had it informed the press of the event.

Gately asserted the breakfast made no violation of the spirit of the law since it was merely a social event aimed at promoting community involvement among company employees.

He said that he and council colleagues would welcome the opportunity to meet with other working residents "if any other corporation has this program."

Councilman E. Ross Parkerson later told a reporter that adverse publicity resulting from the meeting had apparently scuttled a public relations trip to view telephone operations in Monterey, a trip planned by the company for officials from Fairfax and other Bay Area communities.

The famous Klondike Valley, scene of the most spectacular gold rush in the world, was originally pronounced "Thrcndiuk" by the Yukon Indians.

Turfing Fuss Stalls Playground Proposal

A plan by the Fairfax School District board to turf a playground area and provide other improvements at Deer Park School failed to win the blessing of the Fairfax Town Council last night as councilmen deadlocked on how much grass should be planted.

The 2-2 split, with Councilman Lee Nelder absent, came after a parade of neighbors argued that plans to improve the playground would result in costly maintenance, more traffic congestion along Porteous Avenue and potential development of nearby water district lands.

Plans by the school district call for turfing two baseball diamonds and providing an access road to a play area at the school in a joint effort with the county parks and recreation department, which has jurisdiction over the unincorporated area of the school near Fairfax.

Councilmen were willing to ax the access road from the plan in an attempt to stem fears of future development of the area, but failed to agree on how much turfing should be allowed.

Councilmen Frank J. Egger and Robert R. Souza voted to support a "partial turfing" of about one acre of the schoolgrounds and supported annexation of the school site. Mayor Albert E. Gately and E. Ross Parkerson rejected the move.

Gately and Parkerson then voted to support turfing of about two acres of land as proposed by school officials, a move rejected by Egger and Souza.

The fate of the playground improvement plan appeared uncertain after the council's inconclusive action, with Gately saying that county officials would be wary of splitting an estimated $37,000 tab with the school district without a nod from the city fathers. School board member Laurence G. Hermann said trustees will wrestle with the matter at 7:45 p.m. next Tuesday when they meet in White Hill School.

Local residents, led by Robert Stout of 10 Barker Avenue who presented city fathers with a 115-signature petition opposing the improvement, declared they will appear at the meeting.

Citizen opposition scuttled a more massive plan to improve the area in 1968, when a plan to add a county park next to Deer Park School was abandoned.

Verdict Against Ford Is Upheld

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — An appellate court Monday upheld a $249,000 jury verdict against Ford Motor Co., because of an accident that occurred when a driveshaft broke on a 1968 Ford stationwagon.

Mrs. Susan Tokarz, who was injured in the three-car collision in 1970 near Kalama, Wash., contended Ford was responsible for the faulty equipment.

A superior court jury issued the judgment against Ford Oct. 29, 1971 and the State Court of Appeals unanimously upheld the decision, saying there was "established precedent" for the award.

Jail Ordered In Check Case

A 20-year-old Cupertino woman, who passed fraudulent checks to raise money for heroin, was ordered yesterday to serve 45 days in jail for two felony counts of passing illegal checks.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Patricia Ann Halajian on probation for one year, and told her she must redeem $423 in checks she passed and undergo periodic drug testing for drug use.

The former high school cheerleader told her probation officer she began using heroin at 17, about the time her parents separated.

San Rafael police arrested her March 5 on a warrant charging she passed an $82 check last Nov. 29 at George's San Rafael Recreation Parlor.

Student Field Trips Win Board Approval

The Lagunitas School District board last night approved overnight field trips to Death Valley and Point Reyes for about 45 students.

About 30 fourth through sixth grade students will camp at Death Valley April 19 through 23. Another 15 from the Open Classroom program — an informal educational program without highly organized curriculum — will camp at Point Reyes April 11 through 13 to study the mechanics of backpacking and hiking, said Anna Mae Kondratieff, business manager. They will join a group from the Mill Valley Middle School.

The Lagunitas School District Board Also:

President Thieu Gets Icy Welcome In Bonn

BONN (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam received an icy welcome today from the few government officials on hand for his visit that was marked by the most violent left-wing demonstrations since the 1968 political riots.

Thieu flew to Taipei after a stopover during which most government leaders' including Chancellor Willy Brandt were out of town.

Thieu witnessed none of the violence —the teargas, the water cannon, the flying cobblestones, the chants of "Thieu Out! Nixon Murderer!" His hosts shuttled him to and from the airport by helicopter and police kept the demonstrators far away.

The most violent episodes occurred before his arrival for a 50-minute chat with President Gustav Heinemann, the only ranking official who was in town to greet him.

Government spokesmen described the Heinemann-Thieu meeting as a cool and formal affair. They said Heinemann frankly outlined his nation's concern for political prisoners in South Vietnam and explained the popular hostility to Thieu's visit.

Prior to his Bonn stop, Thieu met for two hours in informal talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath at Checquers, the prime minister's official residence.

San Rafael Man Arrested On Weapon Charge

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A San Rafael man has been arrested by Sonoma County sheriff's deputies on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Stephen Michael Boyle, 22, of 1325 Lincoln Avenue, Apt. 2, was arrested by San Rafael police Sunday after a bulletin was issued in Sonoma County. He was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Central Sonoma Municipal Court.

Sheriff's Lt. John Hess said Boyle was arrested in connection with an incident Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Sonoma County Jail honor farm. Hess said Boyle had an argument with Paul R. Begins, 24, of Santa Rosa, and threatened him with a .32 caliber pistol. Begins had been visiting a friend at the honor farm.

Police said the gun was found hidden under a mattress in Boyle's apartment.

Council Approves Residence Zoning

The Novato City Council last night approved residential use for 21 acres owned by Harold Bloom south of Indian Valley Road with density conforming to the Indian Valley master plan, a minimum of one-acre lots.

For the Sidney Kerston property, 11 acres along Indian Valley Road, opposite Arthur Street, the council designated residential with density from one house per acre to one house per five acres, depending upon the slope.

All Foundation Officers Are Elected Again

All officers of the Marin General Hospital Foundation were reelected for another year, at the foundation's annual meeting in the hospital yesterday, according to Jack Craemer, board secretary.

The 11-man board of directors also voted to expand its membership to 18 members, and elected Jack Blaine, Shane Brady, Jane Drexler, Dr. James L. Goebel, Dr. Harry N. Hensler, William P. Murray Jr. and Anise Turina as new board members.

A. Crawford Greene Jr. was seated for another term as president, and Irving D. Chapman as vice president.

Burglary To Superior Court

Donald Edward Burns, 27, of San Francisco was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on two felony counts of burglary.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered him to appear April 18 after hearing the evidence of two burglaries in Sausalito homes Feb. 22.

Burns became a suspect March 5 when Sausalito police stopped a car containing Burns and his roommate, Paul Julian Bolton, 27, and noticed they were wearing clothes and jewelry similar to things taken in the burglaries.

Bolton is to be turned over to Marin courts after completing a hearing on probation violation in Contra Costa County.

Recreation Land Buying Plan Is Hit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Friends of the Earth charged yesterday the federal government has declined to take advantage of an opportunity to gain at least partial control of more land in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area than ordinarily could be obtained.

Connie Parrish, California representative of the conservation organization, said the National Park Service has decided against using $5.9 million in recently transferred park funds for down payments on land sought for the recreation area, which includes substantial acreage in Marin.

While the government is empowered to use the time-payment provision under legislation which approved the park, Miss Parrish said the park service has chosen to use the $5.9 million instead for full payment on purchase of large tracts of land.

She said the government thus will lose an opportunity to obtain at least partial control over more park acreage.

"This gives an outrageous boost to the land speculators and developers," she said. Miss Parrish said it will take $61.6 million to purchase 16,500 acres of private land for park completion.

Jon E. Cook, associate director for the park service's western region, said it was decided in Washington not to use the down-payment method, without indicating why, other than to say outright purchase is normal park service policy.

Peters Files For Divorce

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — William Wesley Peters, chief architect for the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, has filed for divorce from his wife, Svetlana, daughter of the late Russian dictator Joseph Stalin.

Peters said grounds for the divorce action filed Monday "are simply that my wife left me over a year ago." He said he did not know whether the action would be contested.

The couple separated in December 1971, when Mrs. Peters left Taliesin West, a community founded by Frank Lloyd Wright northeast of Phoenix. She said at that time she did not like communal living.

The couple was married April 7, 1970, at Taliesin West after a three-week courtship. They have a daughter, Olga, born May 21, 1971, in Greenbrae, Calif., during a stay with Peters' sister, Mrs. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

Peters said, "There's been a property settlement and a separation arrangement has been made which covers the child. I've agreed that Svetlana can have custody of the child."

Corte Maderans Ask For Marina On Creek

Eugene K. Royal and 127 other Corte Madera residents living east of Highway 101 petitioned the Corte Madera Planning Commission last night for a marina on San Clemente Creek.

Royal, of 69 Golden Hinde Passage, recited the neighborhood's long history of attempts to form an assessment district or otherwise have the creek dredged for yachtmen's use, according to William G. McBride, town zoning administrator.

The petitioners linked their request to redevelopment agency plans for the proposed Hahn shopping center east of Highway 101, just north of their neighborhood. They suggested the creek project might be part of the redevelopment plans, McBride reported.

Royal argued that although present thinking on the town's general plan is to preserve the creek as open space, the preservation of the Heerdt Marsh and bayward portions of the redevelopment district should provide enough preserves therefore, the creek should be dredged, he said.

The commissioners referred the petition to the town's general plan and open space committees, McBride said.

The Corte Madera Planning Commission also:

SHOPPING CENTER — Approved, with little discussion, the changes in the redevelopment area plans that will be given full-scale hearing before the Corte Madera Town Council at 7:45 p.m. Monday in the recreation center.

TAMAL VISTA — Split 2-2, with Commissioner William Collier absent, over proposed design changes in Trans Marin Properties' proposed eight-acre industrial-office project at 200 Tamal Vista. The developers proposed to lower the roofline and make the overall design more rectangular; several neighbors supported the changes. The issue was continued to May 14, for action by a full commission.

PUMP STATION — Approved design of the Fifer Pumping station on Lucky drive, and set a public hearing on the required environmental impact report for 7:30 p.m. April 24.

HEARINGS — Also called a special meeting for April 24 for hearings on Amin Quance's application to use a house at 102 Edison Avenue as a parish house, for the environmental impact report on the Madera Del Presidio development, on rezoning the southwest corner of Fifer Avenue and Lucky Drive from M to C-1, and on abandonment of Church Court.

BUDGET — Routinely approved a list of proposed capital outlays by various town departments for fiscal 1973-74, including $50,250 in flood control and drainage work; $31,0p0 in town park improvements; $8,000 for updating the zoning ordinance, and $58,800 for street improvements.

SIGN — Modified plans and approved a freestanding illuminated sign for the Sizzler restaurant, 101 Nellen Avenue.

DENIALS — Voted denial to a take-out restaurant at 305 Montecito Drive, for lack of offstreet parking, and a commercial sauna at 5776 Paradise Drive.

CONTINUED — To May 14, hearings on revising the subdivision ordinance to provide for dedication of school sites, planned unit developments and other changes.

A Hi-Fi Show in Burlingame calls for a SALE at Pacific Stereo

The Institute of High Fidelity show at the Burlingame Hyatt House is this weekend and you'll have the chance to see all the latest in audio equipment. In the meantime, you can see some of the best values in stereo components right here, and at all Pacific Stereo stores. Come take a look, and pick up your discount tickets for the Hi Fi show on April 13, 14 and 15. We'll be there too, with featured displays of Quadraflex speakers and Spectrosonic receivers in room 210.

Save Over $130 on a Popular Harman-Kardon System

The Harman-Kardon 330A AM/FM stereo receiver is rated at 45 watts (RMS), ample power for room-filling volumes with the efficient TransAudio speakers. Its tuner section is the best of six receivers we tested in this price range. Convenience features include indicator lights for the program sources, provision for two sets of speakers, tape monitor facilities and separate left and right tone controls. The price for all this is a surprisingly low $239.95. (The walnut case is optional.)

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable record changer with a cueing lever to gently put the arm and the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge on your records for you. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's normal price is $60.90.

TransAudio 1010's are two-way systems with ten-inch bass speakers that will go all the way down to the bass man's low E. They're a fine value at $119.90 a pair.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty

To purchase these separately, you would pay:

Harman-Kardon 330A	$239.95

A Good Choice for a First System

Here's a complete stereo component system featuring BSR reliability, and we have it at a low price of $177. The receiver is the new BSR 30, and they're to be complimented for coming up with a $130 receiver that sounds this good. An unusual feature is the FM center-channel tuning meter, which shows when you have the cleanest signal for good FM stereo reception. This AM/FM stereo receiver also has bass and treble tone controls, a headphone jack and an attractive oiled walnut case.

The BSR automatic record player is a fine value at $49.45, including a base and a Shure M75 magnetic cartridge with a diamond stylus. The 310 is an extremely reliable performer with a cueing lever that makes it awfully hard to scratch your records.

You probably know Harman-Kardon's very fine receivers and you should get to know their speakers, too. The model 20's included here are two-way eight-inch systems in walnut cabinets. You'll like both their sound and their low price of $79.90 a pair.

NEWS RACK PAYOFF — FOR POLICE

Fairfax Council Asks Rec Study

The Fairfax Town Council, faced with a park and recreation commissioner's demand for a sweeping reorganization of the town's recreation program, last night asked the commission to evaluate the program by next month.

The action comes in the wake of a recommendation by commissioner Irma Kay that the city fire recreation directors Susan and Richard Woodall and recreation leader Kim Parker.

"The council is concerned that our recreation program doesn't amount to much," said Mayor Albert E. Gately, adding that it is little more than a "paper program" due to an apparent lack of interest.

Mrs. Kay, however, said that the program had suffered due to an inadequate staff and a powerless parks and recreation commission. "We don't even have any authority over hiring and firing," she declared.

In addition to the dismissal of current recreation staff because they are "incompetent," Mrs. Kay is urging that the commission be responsible for preparing a budget for submission to City Aministrator Robert E. Crowe "prior to his submitting the budget to the city council"; that the commission interview all recreational staff before they are hired and that commissioners convene in special session to "formulate policy, goals and philosophy as well as establishing areas of responsibility for the commissioners."

Though other commissioners last night said they are also confused about the commission's goals and operating functions, they appeared to be in wide disagreement over what action to take.

"The commission is incompetent, not the recreation leaders," commissioner Leo Cronin told the Independent-Journal. "We haven't been giving direction" to the town recreational program, he said. Commissioner Randall Garrison said the proposal to fire the three recreation heads "ought to be looked into" and indicated that a review of their performance might show they need "more support" from the commission.

Gately asked commissioners to discuss the matter at 8 p.m. April 24, at the regular commission meeting, and come up with a "collective recommendation" on the situation.

The Fairfax Town Council Also:

ENVIRONMENT — Said the town will join other agencies in the county as a cosponsor of the "Total Environment Marin" conference on May 19, an event aimed at exploring human and environmental needs, according to resident Carol Staley.

MONO AVENUE — Approved a permit as requested by planning commissioner Harold S. Lezzeni for construction of a retail shop topped by three apartment units at 80 Mono Avenue.

FORREST AVENUE — Approved, with Egger dissenting, an appeal by Emil Renati of planning commission denial of a permit allowing two uncovered parking spaces on a car deck at 214 Forrest Avenue.

PAVILION — Authorized expenditure of up to $3,000 to hire architect Donald Olsen for drafting plans and specifications for renovation of the Fairfax Pavilion.

PERSONNEL — Approved a salary step increase to $974 monthly for building inspector Thomas Klarenbach.

SALES TAX — Said the city supports the City of Baldwin Park (Los Angeles County) in its effort to overhaul apportionate of sales taxes from a point of sale to a per-capita basis, but made no commitment on funding litigation on the matter.

STREET OVERLAY — Approved plans for the 1973 street overlay and resurfacing program, and called for bids on the resurfacing work.

CLAIM — Denied a claim for $2,178,000 filed by Max Friedman, who claims the zoning of his Marin Town and Country Club parcel represents inverse condemnation of the property.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fairfax Women's Club to consider the remainder of a lengthy agenda.

New Traffic Light Now In Operation

A newly installed traffic signal at South Novato Boulevard and Sunset Parkway, Novato, was to start operating today, according to Asst. Public Works Director Thomas J. Nolan.

The light will operate on green-yellow-red signals from 4 to 6:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8 a.m., the heavy traffic hours, Nolan said.

Breakfast With PT&T Is Praised

A breakfast meeting conducted by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. for the Fairfax City Council and phone company employees was praised last night by Fairfax's mayor as a public spirited activity, but one that might have been less controversial had it been publicly announced in advance.

Mayor Albert E. Gately called the meeting, attended by 63 phone company employees living in Fairfax, an example of "what democracy and America is all about."

"I think it's a good thing that corporations should encourage this type of thing," Gately said of the meeting at the Deer Park Villa last Wednesday. He added, however, that the company might have sparked better public relations had it informed the press of the event.

Gately asserted the breakfast made no violation of the spirit of the law since it was merely a social event aimed at promoting community involvement among company employees.

He said that he and council colleagues would welcome the opportunity to meet with other working residents "if any other corporation has this program."

Councilman E. Ross Parkerson later told a reporter that adverse publicity resulting from the meeting had apparently scuttled a public relations trip to view telephone operations in Monterey, a trip planned by the company for officials from Fairfax and other Bay Area communities.

The famous Klondike Valley, scene of the most spectacular gold rush in the world, was originally pronounced "Thrcndiuk" by the Yukon Indians.

Turfing Fuss Stalls Playground Proposal

A plan by the Fairfax School District board to turf a playground area and provide other improvements at Deer Park School failed to win the blessing of the Fairfax Town Council last night as councilmen deadlocked on how much grass should be planted.

The 2-2 split, with Councilman Lee Nelder absent, came after a parade of neighbors argued that plans to improve the playground would result in costly maintenance, more traffic congestion along Porteous Avenue and potential development of nearby water district lands.

Plans by the school district call for turfing two baseball diamonds and providing an access road to a play area at the school in a joint effort with the county parks and recreation department, which has jurisdiction over the unincorporated area of the school near Fairfax.

Councilmen were willing to ax the access road from the plan in an attempt to stem fears of future development of the area, but failed to agree on how much turfing should be allowed.

Councilmen Frank J. Egger and Robert R. Souza voted to support a "partial turfing" of about one acre of the schoolgrounds and supported annexation of the school site. Mayor Albert E. Gately and E. Ross Parkerson rejected the move.

Gately and Parkerson then voted to support turfing of about two acres of land as proposed by school officials, a move rejected by Egger and Souza.

The fate of the playground improvement plan appeared uncertain after the council's inconclusive action, with Gately saying that county officials would be wary of splitting an estimated $37,000 tab with the school district without a nod from the city fathers. School board member Laurence G. Hermann said trustees will wrestle with the matter at 7:45 p.m. next Tuesday when they meet in White Hill School.

Local residents, led by Robert Stout of 10 Barker Avenue who presented city fathers with a 115-signature petition opposing the improvement, declared they will appear at the meeting.

Citizen opposition scuttled a more massive plan to improve the area in 1968, when a plan to add a county park next to Deer Park School was abandoned.

Verdict Against Ford Is Upheld

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — An appellate court Monday upheld a $249,000 jury verdict against Ford Motor Co., because of an accident that occurred when a driveshaft broke on a 1968 Ford stationwagon.

Mrs. Susan Tokarz, who was injured in the three-car collision in 1970 near Kalama, Wash., contended Ford was responsible for the faulty equipment.

A superior court jury issued the judgment against Ford Oct. 29, 1971 and the State Court of Appeals unanimously upheld the decision, saying there was "established precedent" for the award.

Jail Ordered In Check Case

A 20-year-old Cupertino woman, who passed fraudulent checks to raise money for heroin, was ordered yesterday to serve 45 days in jail for two felony counts of passing illegal checks.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Patricia Ann Halajian on probation for one year, and told her she must redeem $423 in checks she passed and undergo periodic drug testing for drug use.

The former high school cheerleader told her probation officer she began using heroin at 17, about the time her parents separated.

San Rafael police arrested her March 5 on a warrant charging she passed an $82 check last Nov. 29 at George's San Rafael Recreation Parlor.

Stocks Show Strength In Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices advanced strongly in active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange in what analysts called investor enthusiasm over first quarter earnings reports.

Turnover totaled around 7,500,000 shares, against 5,190,000 shares Monday. Analysts were encouraged by the increased volume, saying it indicated the advance has more buying interest than the gains of the past two sessions.

The market's strength was attributed primarily to anticipation of substantial gains in first quarter net income and to declining short-term interest rates.

Magnavox was most active on the Big Board, unchanged at 14 ¾ on 62,500 shares.

Prices were higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. National Kinney Corp. was most active issue, off ¼ at 7 ⅜ on 128,200 shares.

Longs Drugs Stores Show Big Earnings

Longs Drug Stores, Inc., a retail drug chain operating 64 stores in California and Hawaii, today announced a 13 per cent increase in earnings and a 15-1/2 per cent increase in sales for its fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1973.

Unaudited net earnings for the year were $8,642,000 or $1.66 per share of common stock outstanding against $7,671,000 or $1.48 per share the previous year.

Behind The Profit Picture

By RICHARD NENNEMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

First-quarter earnings reports are starting to stream across the business wires. Some of them are going to be looking extremely good, and if anything can keep the stock market turned around — that might do it — at least after April 15 is behind us.

But there is a double edge to good profits. If they look too good, this will be used as ammunition by some to prove that wage and price controls have been too heavy on wages and not heavy enough on prices. This in turn could reinforce pressures on the government to be a little easier on the major labor contracts coming up this spring and summer.

So let's look at profits with more than just this quarter, or even last year, in mind. We need to pay attention to two figures — profits as an absolute number and profit margins as a per cent of sales.

As an absolute number, profits are doing very well. But it is only since mid-1972 that they have climbed back to their previous record peaks of 1966. Yet the gross national product in 1966 was only $750 billion against a GNP of $1,152 billion in 1972.

These are current dollar figures and don't take into account the changing value of the dollar in those six years. But compared with an increase of 54 per cent in current-dollar GNP, corporate profits at first declined because of the recession and have only now recovered to the point they were at in mid-1966. As a slice of the total income pie, the profits piece was definitely not the one a hungry boy would grab.

Now look at the bottom line on the accompanying chart — pre-tax profit margins. This is the counterpart, or the explanation, of the fact that absolute dollar profits have only caught up with their 1966 levels while the economy has been galloping forward. During most of the postwar period (this chart goes back to 1950) pre tax profit margins ran somewhere in the 10 to 15 per cent-of-sales area. From the end of 1965, they began to trend downward. From a level of 14 cents on each sales dollar in 1965, they went to a recession level of 7½ per cent, and are only now climbing back to the 10 per cent level.

We should be reading the coming corporate profits reports with two things in mind — what they augur for increased controls or for the labor negotiations, and, longer term, whether the margins can manage to hold up to at least the 10 per cent-of-sales level they enjoyed during almost all of the 1950's and 1960's.

A downtown art festival will be sponsored in San Rafael during Easter Week, Monday through Saturday next week, by the Marin Society of Artists in cooperation with the San Rafael Chamber of Commerceand the Downtown Merchants Association.

About 1,500 works of art by members of the artists society will be displayed in show windows and interiors of downtown business establishments. One artist will be featured per store.

Gayle Luchessa of Sleepy Hollow and Blanche Ayers of San Rafael are in charge of the downtown art festival.

NORTHGATE A & W Restaurant, which is going up at 3741 Redwood Highway across the highway from the Marin Civic Center, will open about June 15 as a regular sit-down restaurant with seating for about 65.

Owners of Northgate A & W are John A. Brunner of San Rafael, Hugh M. Wilcox of Ross and James R. King and Wilcox now operate the A & W Root Beer Drive-In at 836 Second Street in San Rafael.

"Northgate A & W will be completely different," said King. "It will be a regular sit-down restaurant with carpets, fireplace and the works."

Gentry Construction Co. is contractor, and Ghilotti Bros. is doing the site work. The pagoda-roofed building will be built of used brick. A landscaped parking lot will provide for 40 cars.

Immediately to the north of Northgate A & W is the new Grotto Restaurant, which is scheduled to open next month. Stan Valan of San Anselmo has operated the Grotto seafood restaurant at 909 Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael for the past five years.

Booby's Restaurant, which was dismantled to make way for Northgate A & W, will built anew where Herb's Pool Service is located at 3765 Redwood Highway. However, that construction cannot begin until Herb's Pool builds its own new building immediately to the north.

STUART D. MENIST of Kentfield was re-elected chairman of the board of the National Automobile Club at the annual stockholders' meeting last week. KEITH M. ASKEW of San Anselmo was re-elected president of the organization.

Student Field Trips Win Board Approval

The Lagunitas School District board last night approved overnight field trips to Death Valley and Point Reyes for about 45 students.

About 30 fourth through sixth grade students will camp at Death Valley April 19 through 23. Another 15 from the Open Classroom program — an informal educational program without highly organized curriculum — will camp at Point Reyes April 11 through 13 to study the mechanics of backpacking and hiking, said Anna Mae Kondratieff, business manager. They will join a group from the Mill Valley Middle School.

The Lagunitas School District Board Also:

NEGOTIATOR — Designated Supt. Harry F. Roche as negotiator for district personnel for salaries.

SCIENCE — Approved an application to the National Defense Education Act for $1,000 in science materials, $500 of which to be provided by the federal government.

GYMNASTIC — Agreed to buy about $600 in gymnastic equipment.

ART CENTER — Renewed San Geronimo Art Center lease for two months pending further study of operational costs to the district.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Approved a plan to participate in the Fairfax summer school program.

TEACHER AID — Agreed to employ Sally Frederickson of San Geronimo as a teacher aide for 12 hours a week.

MANAGEMENT — Designated the superintendency as a management position in compliance with the Dent Bill.

EDUCATION — Heard a report from William Walsh, chairman of the citizens' finance committee, that a proposal for early childhood education funds will be completed by Friday.

President Thieu Gets Icy Welcome In Bonn

BONN (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam received an icy welcome today from the few government officials on hand for his visit that was marked by the most violent left-wing demonstrations since the 1968 political riots.

Thieu flew to Taipei after a stopover during which most government leaders' including Chancellor Willy Brandt were out of town.

Thieu witnessed none of the violence —the teargas, the water cannon, the flying cobblestones, the chants of "Thieu Out! Nixon Murderer!" His hosts shuttled him to and from the airport by helicopter and police kept the demonstrators far away.

The most violent episodes occurred before his arrival for a 50-minute chat with President Gustav Heinemann, the only ranking official who was in town to greet him.

Government spokesmen described the Heinemann-Thieu meeting as a cool and formal affair. They said Heinemann frankly outlined his nation's concern for political prisoners in South Vietnam and explained the popular hostility to Thieu's visit.

Prior to his Bonn stop, Thieu met for two hours in informal talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath at Checquers, the prime minister's official residence.

All Foundation Officers Are Elected Again

All officers of the Marin General Hospital Foundation were reelected for another year, at the foundation's annual meeting in the hospital yesterday, according to Jack Craemer, board secretary.

The 11-man board of directors also voted to expand its membership to 18 members, and elected Jack Blaine, Shane Brady, Jane Drexler, Dr. James L. Goebel, Dr. Harry N. Hensler, William P. Murray Jr. and Anise Turina as new board members.

A. Crawford Greene Jr. was seated for another term as president, and Irving D. Chapman as vice president.

Burglary To Superior Court

Donald Edward Burns, 27, of San Francisco was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on two felony counts of burglary.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered him to appear April 18 after hearing the evidence of two burglaries in Sausalito homes Feb. 22.

Burns became a suspect March 5 when Sausalito police stopped a car containing Burns and his roommate, Paul Julian Bolton, 27, and noticed they were wearing clothes and jewelry similar to things taken in the burglaries.

Bolton is to be turned over to Marin courts after completing a hearing on probation violation in Contra Costa County.

San Rafael Man Arrested On Weapon Charge

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A San Rafael man has been arrested by Sonoma County sheriff's deputies on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Stephen Michael Boyle, 22, of 1325 Lincoln Avenue, Apt. 2, was arrested by San Rafael police Sunday after a bulletin was issued in Sonoma County. He was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Central Sonoma Municipal Court.

Sheriff's Lt. John Hess said Boyle was arrested in connection with an incident Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Sonoma County Jail honor farm. Hess said Boyle had an argument with Paul R. Begins, 24, of Santa Rosa, and threatened him with a .32 caliber pistol. Begins had been visiting a friend at the honor farm.

Police said the gun was found hidden under a mattress in Boyle's apartment.

Council Approves Residence Zoning

The Novato City Council last night approved residential use for 21 acres owned by Harold Bloom south of Indian Valley Road with density conforming to the Indian Valley master plan, a minimum of one-acre lots.

For the Sidney Kerston property, 11 acres along Indian Valley Road, opposite Arthur Street, the council designated residential with density from one house per acre to one house per five acres, depending upon the slope.

Recreation Land Buying Plan Is Hit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Friends of the Earth charged yesterday the federal government has declined to take advantage of an opportunity to gain at least partial control of more land in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area than ordinarily could be obtained.

Connie Parrish, California representative of the conservation organization, said the National Park Service has decided against using $5.9 million in recently transferred park funds for down payments on land sought for the recreation area, which includes substantial acreage in Marin.

While the government is empowered to use the time-payment provision under legislation which approved the park, Miss Parrish said the park service has chosen to use the $5.9 million instead for full payment on purchase of large tracts of land.

She said the government thus will lose an opportunity to obtain at least partial control over more park acreage.

"This gives an outrageous boost to the land speculators and developers," she said. Miss Parrish said it will take $61.6 million to purchase 16,500 acres of private land for park completion.

Jon E. Cook, associate director for the park service's western region, said it was decided in Washington not to use the down-payment method, without indicating why, other than to say outright purchase is normal park service policy.

Peters Files For Divorce

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — William Wesley Peters, chief architect for the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, has filed for divorce from his wife, Svetlana, daughter of the late Russian dictator Joseph Stalin.

Peters said grounds for the divorce action filed Monday "are simply that my wife left me over a year ago." He said he did not know whether the action would be contested.

The couple separated in December 1971, when Mrs. Peters left Taliesin West, a community founded by Frank Lloyd Wright northeast of Phoenix. She said at that time she did not like communal living.

The couple was married April 7, 1970, at Taliesin West after a three-week courtship. They have a daughter, Olga, born May 21, 1971, in Greenbrae, Calif., during a stay with Peters' sister, Mrs. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

Peters said, "There's been a property settlement and a separation arrangement has been made which covers the child. I've agreed that Svetlana can have custody of the child."

Corte Maderans Ask For Marina On Creek

Eugene K. Royal and 127 other Corte Madera residents living east of Highway 101 petitioned the Corte Madera Planning Commission last night for a marina on San Clemente Creek.

Royal, of 69 Golden Hinde Passage, recited the neighborhood's long history of attempts to form an assessment district or otherwise have the creek dredged for yachtmen's use, according to William G. McBride, town zoning administrator.

The petitioners linked their request to redevelopment agency plans for the proposed Hahn shopping center east of Highway 101, just north of their neighborhood. They suggested the creek project might be part of the redevelopment plans, McBride reported.

Royal argued that although present thinking on the town's general plan is to preserve the creek as open space, the preservation of the Heerdt Marsh and bayward portions of the redevelopment district should provide enough preserves therefore, the creek should be dredged, he said.

The commissioners referred the petition to the town's general plan and open space committees, McBride said.

The Corte Madera Planning Commission also:

SHOPPING CENTER — Approved, with little discussion, the changes in the redevelopment area plans that will be given full-scale hearing before the Corte Madera Town Council at 7:45 p.m. Monday in the recreation center.

TAMAL VISTA — Split 2-2, with Commissioner William Collier absent, over proposed design changes in Trans Marin Properties' proposed eight-acre industrial-office project at 200 Tamal Vista. The developers proposed to lower the roofline and make the overall design more rectangular; several neighbors supported the changes. The issue was continued to May 14, for action by a full commission.

PUMP STATION — Approved design of the Fifer Pumping station on Lucky drive, and set a public hearing on the required environmental impact report for 7:30 p.m. April 24.

HEARINGS — Also called a special meeting for April 24 for hearings on Amin Quance's application to use a house at 102 Edison Avenue as a parish house, for the environmental impact report on the Madera Del Presidio development, on rezoning the southwest corner of Fifer Avenue and Lucky Drive from M to C-1, and on abandonment of Church Court.

BUDGET — Routinely approved a list of proposed capital outlays by various town departments for fiscal 1973-74, including $50,250 in flood control and drainage work; $31,0p0 in town park improvements; $8,000 for updating the zoning ordinance, and $58,800 for street improvements.

SIGN — Modified plans and approved a freestanding illuminated sign for the Sizzler restaurant, 101 Nellen Avenue.

DENIALS — Voted denial to a take-out restaurant at 305 Montecito Drive, for lack of offstreet parking, and a commercial sauna at 5776 Paradise Drive.

CONTINUED — To May 14, hearings on revising the subdivision ordinance to provide for dedication of school sites, planned unit developments and other changes.

Judge Gives Ex-Convict Final Chance

Tommie Lee Walker, the pugnacious ex-convict who beat a Sausalito policeman into amnesia last year, received one final chance from a Marin Superior Court judge yesterday.

Claiming sending Walker back to prison would be tantamount to a death sentence, Judge Henry J. Broderick instead ordered the 27-year-old San Rafael man to serve six months in jail, then 18 more in the Delancey Street Foundation of San Francisco.

Walker was convicted in February of beating officer Robert Klein and a hitchhiker with whom he had a disagreement while waiting for a ride Sept. 28 in the 3000 block of Bridgeway.

Since Walker had prior assault convictions, he faced return to prison unless the judge ruled his case was unusual. Broderick made that finding yesterday and followed the recommendation of probation officer Jesse W. Johnson.

Johnson said, "It is obvious the defendant is not capable, in times of what he perceives as stress or provocation, to exercise control each citizen must maintain in his everyday relationships."

However, Johnson said, Walker "sincerely and generally attempted to develop appropriate controls" following his release from prison.

Committed to the California Youth Authority in 1961 for robbing a bus driver, Walker remained behind bars until 1970 because he three times assaulted guards in prisons.

For battery and resisting arrest last fall, the judge also placed him on three years' probation, raising to four the number of cases for which Walker is now on probation.

Johnson felt Walker might have avoided trouble after his release from prison had not "radical-liberals" befriended him. Johnson said these friends persuaded him to leave a training program in the East Bay.

Although the judge agreed to probation this time, he warned Walker it is his last chance.

Walker's trial was marked by a prosecution charge that defense witness Sandra Kahn, wife of a Stanford professor perjured herself when she denied knowing Walker and did not mention her membership in Venceremos, a Maoist revolutionary group.

She testified that Walker hit Klein, inflicting a broken nose, concussion and cuts and bruises, after the officer hit Walker with his night stick.

Perjury charges against Mrs. Kahn are still being considered, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman.

Richmond Firm Target Of Pollution Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District announced today it was taking action against a Richmond firm which has been accused of violating pollution standards.

The district said it has filed an abatement proceeding against Bituminous Products & Applications Company, Inc.

It said the firm's Richmond plant has been cited 33 times in the past 15 months for violating district regulations.

The action is the first step towards obtaining a court order which could close the plant.

Hopefuls Can't See Dollar Mansion Funds

Little hope for using city tax money to purchase the Dollar Estate was offered Marin Heritage members last night by candidates for San Rafael City Council.

Candidate Richard C. Fox said public money "should be spent only as a last resort" to save the Dollar mansion, "but may have to be used."

Incumbent Lawrence E. Mulryan said "outright city purchase is probably the least wise way to go."

Candidate Jack G. Nixon said "we don't have a lot of public money for these things (but) the city should make every effort to do what it can."

Candidate Thomas R. O'Toole suggested federal and state money might be obtained to save historic structures, but said top priority should go to restoring the old Boyd home, owned by the city and occupied by the Marin County Historical Society.

Candidate Carl J. Brown suggested a special 10-cent city tax be set up to build up a capital outlay fund, but pointed out that such a fund might be needed for many other things besides the Dollar property purchase.

Candidate Leo J. Tinkler said, "I don't believe it should be left up to the city council to decide what landmarks should go... They have misused their power."

O'Toole suggested that open space bond money might be used to buy the rear portion of the 11-acre Dollar property but expressed doubt it could be spent to purchase the mansion.

Mulryan felt there is a possibility that redevelopment funds could be used to save the building, since this could be interpreted as correcting blight within the redevelopment area.

The candidates appeared at Davidson School before a membership meeting of Marin Heritage, attended by about 30 members. Their remarks and the question session were restricted to the subjects of saving historic buildings and open space.

All endorsed a suggestion first put forward by Mulryan that the city set up a committee to review and evaluate old buildings that might have heritage value.

Tinkler, in his initial remarks, provided a musical interlude by singing a song of his own composition, "Ring a Bell for San Rafael." At its conclusion, he rang a bell.

Marinwood, San Rafael Fire Aid Pact Sought

The Marinwood Fire Commission last night supported a proposed mutual aid agreement with the San Rafael Fire Department.

Under the proposal, the Marinwood Fire Department would respond on an "on call" basis to structural fires and resuscitator calls in the Mount Marin-Twelveoak Drive area of the city in order to speed service, said Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield.

In return, Marinwood would hold monthly training sessions with San Rafael, using the city drill tower, and would be allowed to borrow a reserve city engine in the event one of its engines breaks down. San Rafael also would provide backup assistance if needed when Marinwood is on a fire call.

The commission also referred to the district business manager a contractual agreement with County Service Area 13, upper Lucas Valley, for fire protection services, and approved a raise effective May 1 for fireman William Doyle, hiking his salary to $ 891.

Family Picnic Plans Approved In Rohnert Park

The Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission last night approved plans for a family picnic April 21 at the proposed regional park area.

Recreation director James Pekkain said the John Rapoza ranch in the foothills of the Sonoma Mountains will be open for picnickers all day. Commissioners said it would give residents a chance to see the 110-acre ranch, which is slated to become a regional park if county and state funds are available.

Pekkain said golden Easter eggs will be scattered throughout the property and will yield prizes for children. Portable restrooms will be available, but families must bring blankets for picnic lunches since no other facilities will be provided.

The traditional city Easter egg hunt will be held Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Benecia Park.

In other business, the commission scheduled two special meetings. Pekkain said plans for bicycle paths will be reviewed April 23 at 7:30 p.m. and programs for 1973-74 on April 26 at 7:30 p.m.

Redevelopment Board To Meet

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency board will consider forming a committee to review the progress and staffing practices of the agency's project area committee at 8 p.m. today in the board of supervisor's chambers in the Marin Civic Center.

The project area committee, a citizens group formed to advise the board in redevelopment matters, has been almost inactive in recent months and has held only a few meetings since it was organized.

Man Nabbed For Exposure

A Novato man was arrested in Petaluma yesterday on suspicion of indecent exposure.

Bail was set at $10,000 for King Owen Tolles Jr., 35, of 15 Winged Foot Drive. He was scheduled for arraignment April 23 in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said he was arrested at 2:20 p.m. in the parking lot of the Petaluma Plaza Shopping Center after a woman reported a man exposed himself. Officers said the felony charge was lodged because of prior convictions on the same offense.

SPEAR COLUMN NOT RECEIVED

Roger Spear's "Successful Investing" column for this week has not yet been received by the Independent-Journal.

The column will be resumed as soon as it is received.

Stocks Show Strength In Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices advanced strongly in active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange in what analysts called investor enthusiasm over first quarter earnings reports.

Turnover totaled around 7,500,000 shares, against 5,190,000 shares Monday. Analysts were encouraged by the increased volume, saying it indicated the advance has more buying interest than the gains of the past two sessions.

The market's strength was attributed primarily to anticipation of substantial gains in first quarter net income and to declining short-term interest rates.

Magnavox was most active on the Big Board, unchanged at 14 ¾ on 62,500 shares.

Prices were higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. National Kinney Corp. was most active issue, off ¼ at 7 ⅜ on 128,200 shares.

Longs Drugs Stores Show Big Earnings

Longs Drug Stores, Inc., a retail drug chain operating 64 stores in California and Hawaii, today announced a 13 per cent increase in earnings and a 15-1/2 per cent increase in sales for its fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1973.

Unaudited net earnings for the year were $8,642,000 or $1.66 per share of common stock outstanding against $7,671,000 or $1.48 per share the previous year.

Behind The Profit Picture

By RICHARD NENNEMAN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

First-quarter earnings reports are starting to stream across the business wires. Some of them are going to be looking extremely good, and if anything can keep the stock market turned around — that might do it — at least after April 15 is behind us.

But there is a double edge to good profits. If they look too good, this will be used as ammunition by some to prove that wage and price controls have been too heavy on wages and not heavy enough on prices. This in turn could reinforce pressures on the government to be a little easier on the major labor contracts coming up this spring and summer.

So let's look at profits with more than just this quarter, or even last year, in mind. We need to pay attention to two figures — profits as an absolute number and profit margins as a per cent of sales.

As an absolute number, profits are doing very well. But it is only since mid-1972 that they have climbed back to their previous record peaks of 1966. Yet the gross national product in 1966 was only $750 billion against a GNP of $1,152 billion in 1972.

These are current dollar figures and don't take into account the changing value of the dollar in those six years. But compared with an increase of 54 per cent in current-dollar GNP, corporate profits at first declined because of the recession and have only now recovered to the point they were at in mid-1966. As a slice of the total income pie, the profits piece was definitely not the one a hungry boy would grab.

Now look at the bottom line on the accompanying chart — pre-tax profit margins. This is the counterpart, or the explanation, of the fact that absolute dollar profits have only caught up with their 1966 levels while the economy has been galloping forward. During most of the postwar period (this chart goes back to 1950) pre tax profit margins ran somewhere in the 10 to 15 per cent-of-sales area. From the end of 1965, they began to trend downward. From a level of 14 cents on each sales dollar in 1965, they went to a recession level of 7½ per cent, and are only now climbing back to the 10 per cent level.

We should be reading the coming corporate profits reports with two things in mind — what they augur for increased controls or for the labor negotiations, and, longer term, whether the margins can manage to hold up to at least the 10 per cent-of-sales level they enjoyed during almost all of the 1950's and 1960's.

Marin Society Of Artists Sets Downtown Easter Art Festival

A downtown art festival will be sponsored in San Rafael during Easter Week, Monday through Saturday next week, by the Marin Society of Artists in cooperation with the San Rafael Chamber of Commerceand the Downtown Merchants Association.

About 1,500 works of art by members of the artists society will be displayed in show windows and interiors of downtown business establishments. One artist will be featured per store.

NORTHGATE A & W Restaurant, which is going up at 3741 Redwood Highway across the highway from the Marin Civic Center, will open about June 15 as a regular sit-down restaurant with seating for about 65.

Owners of Northgate A & W are John A. Brunner of San Rafael, Hugh M. Wilcox of Ross and James R. Immediately to the north of Northgate A & W is the new Grotto Restaurant, which is scheduled to open next month. Stan Valan of San Anselmo has operated the Grotto seafood restaurant at 909 Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael for the past five years.

Booby's Restaurant, which was dismantled to make way for Northgate A & W, will built anew where Herb's Pool Service is located at 3765 Redwood Highway. However, that construction cannot begin until Herb's Pool builds its own new building immediately to the north.

STUART D. MENIST of Kentfield was re-elected chairman of the board of the National Automobile Club at the annual stockholders' meeting last week. KEITH M. ASKEW of San Anselmo was re-elected president of the organization.

Important Choice For School Board

The campaign for two seats on the San Rafael Board of Education has been somewhat overshadowed by that for city council. It shouldn't be. How the public schools are managed is of overwhelming importance both to the taxpayers and to their children.

Adding to the importance of next Tuesday's board election is the upcoming choice of a new superintendent. Although the screening process already is beginning, those elected Tuesday will share in the selection. How well they choose will have a great effect on the schools.

AS IN the city council race, there is one elected incumbent seeking a first full term — in this case, Paul K. McMullen, who was appointed a year ago to fill out the term of Paul L. Jones.

And, as in the city council race, there is no lack of qualified contenders.

The three with the most experience with school district affairs are McMullen, Lewis W. Pollock and Marie J. Sessi.

Pollock's experience has been gained "inside." He has worked on a series of committees for the city schools. In doing so, he has been closely associated with the present board and the outgoing superintendent. To an extent, he is privy to the inner workings.

Mrs. Sessi's experience has been gained as an "outsider." She has often been critical of things which went on in the schools. And she is a person who does not shrug her shoulders and say "there's nothing I can do about it." She tries to get to the bottom of the problem — which, with the school system, is no easy task. In her efforts, she has gained considerable knowledge about school laws and school operations.

POLLOCK IS running with open support of some of the holdover board members.

Pollock and incumbent McMullen therefore must be viewed as the administration candidates.

Pollock, however, is outspoken about some of what he considers shortcomings in the conduct of the schools, despite his closeness to the current administration. McMullen, while conceding in private conversations that the San Rafael schools have problems which need correction, offers little criticism in public, generally taking the attitude that all is well — although, of course, "it could be better."

Candidates Suzanne Beittel and Gale B. Fisher are by no means unacquainted with the schools and their problems. But they are not nearly so well acquainted with them as Pollock, Mrs. Sessi — and, presumably, McMullen, since he has been on the board a year.

WE BELIEVE in a variety of outlooks on a governing board. Any board made up of think-alikes will fail to do a good job of representing the people.

At the same time, we believe in some continuity. And since only one of the holdovers — Herman L. Childress — has served beyond two years, we feel Pollock's longtime close association with the school administration is important.

We therefore endorse Marie J. Sessi and Lewis W. Pollock for election to the San Rafael Board of Education.

Moonlighting Fair Director Prompts State Inquiry

By EARL G. WATERS

A full investigation of the management of California's district fairs has been ordered by Brunel Christensen, director of the state Department of Agriculture.

It is under his department that the Division of Fairs and Expositions supervises the activities of 76 district, county and citrus fairs supported by state funds. Their expenditures total some $25 million annually.

Christensen's inquiry is not prompted by any thought that the overall operations of these fairs is not going well. Rather his attention has been drawn to them by some reported improprieties on the part of few.

FOR THE MOST PART, these stem from the activities of Allen Ross, manager of the 19th Agricultural District at Santa Barbara. His job there is a full-time one paying him $19,500 a year, or about 10 per cent of the operating revenues.

Part of his duties at Santa Barbara is the management of the horse shows held there. But Ross has been using his state position as a base for the promotion of other horse shows. These outside activities constitute a flourishing private business for Ross, requiring a substantial amount of his time.

Some of these outside shows are state supported. Ross last year collected $13,800 in state funds over and above his regular salary from three other fair districts. He did this through contractual agreements with the Grand National Exposition (Cow Palace in Daly City), the Ventura County Fair (31st District), and the State Fair (52nd District).

He also received additional money for managing at least seven other outside shows, some of them supported with state funds.

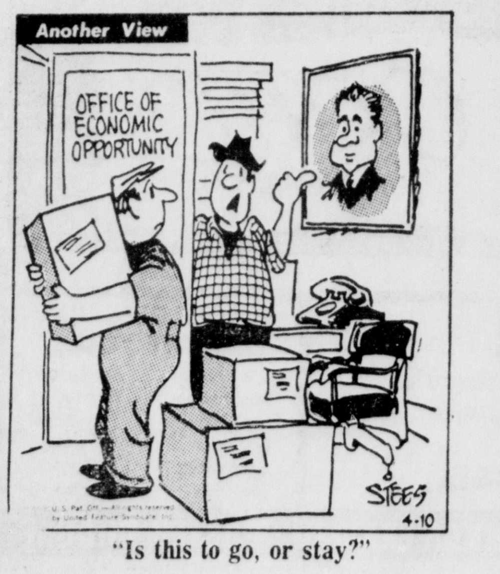
ROSS' EXTENSIVE moonlighting activities, while a full-time state employee, have raised some serious questions of public policy. In the first place it is disconcerting to other fair managers who devote all their efforts to the jobs for which they were hired. And his competition is bitterly resented by those whose entire livelihood is gained by managing horse shows.

The disclosure that Ross has "negotiated" trophy purchases for at least three of these shows gave further cause for investigation, for the purchases in question totalled $10,000 of state funds. Some of the purchases circumvented state law while others were in direct violation of the purchasing law which requires bids on orders over $500.

District boards which have contracted with Ross defend their action on the grounds Ross is a good horse show manager. But this image is threatened by charges of favoritism from exhibitors. Ross not only names all ring officials, but employs a member of his own board, Warren Underwood, as a steward.

This was the basis for a complaint lodged with the Cow Palace board by David B. Goodstein. He charged Ross and Underwood violated both state and show rules by permitting a post entry. He further stated it was not unusual for Ross to act "arbitrarily, capriciously and in a discriminatroy fashion".

The board heard Goodstein's complaint and then went into executive session to deny his protest. Since the law requires fair board meetings to be open to the public, Christensen is also questioning the board's action in closing its meeting.



"Is this to go, or stay?"

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Looks like the administration is trying to shut the Watergate after the cat is out of the bag.

A Democrat is a fellow who publicly washes the Republicans' dirty linen in Watergate seepage.

The application of an orb to the Watergate keyhole sure did cause a lot of political black eyes.

If you must have a moral: The best time for the GOP elephant to bug the Demo donkey is never again!

Commission Actions Confusing To Citizen

The action of the San Rafael Planning Commission on March 27 boggles the mind. They agreed to extend the moratorium on large developments for one year to allow for adoption of our new general plan. This plan, being drawn up by competent consultants, along with a 60-member citizen committee, will be a well-thought-out guide to future development and will be ready in six to nine months. It is the very reason for the moratorium and will enlarge good planning and development requirements.

In the same meeting the commission agreed to hear, in only 90 days, pleas for special use permits, which bypass the moratorium, for several massive developments. They did this against the recommendations of our city planning department, who want to wait for the new general plan.

I'm sure the developers want these permits before we adopt the new general plan which may be more restrictive on them (ut in the interest of all San Rafael).

I'm very disappointed in all this...

Some 'Welcome Home' Flags Flew Too Late

I want to thank you for the coverage you gave the return of Capt. William Butler to San Rafael and particularly Glenwood. The whole day was, as you said, like an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration.

The main reason for this letter is hopefully to inform citizens of the proper display of our flag. I was responsible for the delivery of flags to homeowners who wished to fly but did not have a flag of their own. The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce loaned us flags for this purpose, for which we are very grateful. Unfortunately, many people left their flags up all night or at least until 11 p.m. when I observed many still flying. Flags should be taken down at sunset at the latest. Seeing them flying late sort of took the edge of the otherwise joyous day.

We are trying to recover all the flags, but some homeowners have as of this writing failed to return the flags and a reminder to them would help.

Duty To Country Held Mistaken Idea

The question of amnesty for those who fled from military service during the Vietnam War is based on the premise that all young American men have a "duty to their country." This, of course, runs counter to the basic premise of the United States that each individual has a inailable (sic) right to his life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

The old shibbolith that the government is the servant of the people is curiously missing from the idea of "duty to one's country." This reverses the master-servant status so that the servant (government) is the master of the master (people) when it can forcibly coerce a young man to go out and die for the idea of government. So, the question of amnesty, based on the premise of the United States, is invalid in as much that the right to live or die for another's cause should be left to the individual and not to outside forces...

Someone Speaks Up For The Smokers

Re: "Non-Smoking Jurors Denied Facilities," Charlotte Patera, March 29 I-J:

Why the petty gripe? True, there are no specified rooms for non-smokers. She mentioned the jurors' lounge, the waiting place — very comfy, hot drinks, and smoking allowed. The jurors' assembly room, "straight-back chairs, windows shrouded in draperies, shutting out sunlight." TV permissable. No smoking. Her words.

Truth is, it is all very comfortable and suited to most during their waiting period and beyond.

When the prospective jurors are selected, it sometimes becomes a trying and traumatic experience for some till the trial is finished, but we deem it our civic and birthright duty. I sat on the same jury panel with Mrs. Patera. All this lady seemed fretful about was the smoke she thinks she absorbed in her hair, clothing and lungs being forced to be amongst the smokers. She was duly paid for her time contributed. I would like to know how she conducts her daily chores outside her home, amongst the dirty smokers.

Teachers' Judgments Not Always Reliable

Mr. Daubenfeld's letter (Apr. 3) is, I think, the straw that etc.

... Professionals are incapable of fairly judging their peers, as witness the attempts of doctors and lawyers.

An intelligent student knows a stupid teacher when he encounters one. Our son wasn't impressed with his freshman English teacher (at Redwood High School) who said teaching English grammar bored her, nor were we. She's now running for a place on the Tamalpais High School District board!

He knew how "intelligent" his third grade teacher was — or wasn't. We got around that one by telling him he had to learn to live with the vast majority of people who weren't overblessed with brains.

And how about the eighth grade teacher, now a principal, who told me our son was "in no way exceptional." Or the "adviser" at Redwood who told him he could probably get into any second-rate college he chose? (He graduated from M.I.T.)

These should judge each other? Oh, great!

Second-Class Mail Increase Threatens Voices Of Dissent

WASHINGTON — "These are the times that try men's souls." Those often quoted words of Thomas Paine, the great pamphleteer of our Revolution, have an echo today. It is the echo of the lonely dissenter, the angry dissenter, speaking out against the great bland mass that bears in our time the spurious label of the conventional wisdom.

With the overpowering force of television, the dissenting voices are having an increasingly difficult time being heard or, for that matter, even surviving. The United States Postal Service, the hybrid creature that seems to have embodied all the ills of the old post office, is proceeding with rate increases threatening the existence of small publications, many of them nonprofit or skirting close to the edge.

With Life the last in a long series of fatalities, the carnage for the printed word has been terrible. When the postal rate increase on second-class mail was first announced, Life in an editorial said this would mean finding an additional $130 million in revenue by 1976, which was more than twice the profit earned by all magazines in 1970. Reports today have it that at least one surviving mass publication is in trouble.

BUT IT IS NOT the big commercial operation that is the concern of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., in the measure he is pushing in the Senate. His bill is a response to the threat to the dissenters, and also to the pressure that sharply increased postal rates would put on the religious, labor and agriculture press. Following the practice of 178 years, prior to the creation of the Postal Service, it would restore the subsidy for publications that might not otherwise survive.

From Human Events on the right to the New Republic on the left, the margin of survival is increasingly narrow. Across the country are many lively, stimulating monthlies and weeklies that may be crowded out. The Progressive in Wisconsin, carrying the flag for the great LaFollette tradition, and the Texas Observer in Austin, so far standing up to the powerhouse of money and Texas-style politics as an independent critic, are two examples. In presenting his measure, Senator Nelson quoted Walter Lippmann:

"The unexamined life, said Socrates, is unfit to be lived by man. This is the virtue of liberty, and the ground on which we may best justify our belief in it, that it tolerates errors in order to serve the truth. When men are brought face to face with their opponents, forced to listen and learn and mend their ideas, they cease to be children and savages and begin to live like civilized men. Then only is freedom a reality, when men may voice their opinions because they must examine their opinions."

THE WAY IN WHICH the President can command the television networks is a phenomenon unknown to the era of the printed word. It is a power increasingly great, as authority is centralized in the White House. With a notice of only an hour or two, the President can order up an audience of millions.

Requests for equal time, if the address has political implications — as it almost invariably has — are more often than not refused. Many disturbing signs point to a concerted intention within the administration to narrow the channels of dissent. The attacks on the media, both direct and indirect, have had a cautionary effect, particularly on the networks.

If non-small independent journals are to be forced out — and among the number are many weekly newspapers — the flow of ideas, of criticism, protest will be further narrowed. Nelson notes that for small, diverse publications the postal rate increase can be many times 127 per cent which is to be effective beginning July 6 and phased in over five years. For many of these publications, postal rates represent a large percentage of their costs.

THE SENATOR has several co-sponsors for his measure, and it is believed that the chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., leans toward it. Opposition to the subsidy in the past has come from the conviction that wealthy publications, such as Reader's Digest, were getting a free ride at the taxpayers' expense. At one point the subsidy to the Digest was estimated to be $17 million. But with the whopping increase in the rates the giants, or those that have survived, are no longer so happily situated.

Billy Graham, who runs one of the largest religious publishing houses in the country with a big operation in Minneapolis, would be hit by the increase. He could put in a word to his friend the President if he would. But it is the small publications that are caught in the switches. With its lamentable performance, the United States Postal Service has drawn a growing chorus of anger and disgust, coming not from publishers but from outraged citizens across the land.

GOP May Survive Its Scandals —If Prices Quit Skyrocketing

The troubles come in two kinds. First, there are the matters concerning the 1972 election campaign. These include the Watergate burglaries, the soliciting of campaign contributions from persons in difficulty with the law or regulatory agencies of government (The Vesco case), and the unbrilliant performance of President Nixon's candidate for the directorship of the FBI, L. Patrick Gray III, on a Senate witness stand. The three stories, all tangled together, are bad, and apparently getting worse.

The second kind of trouble concerns the state of the economy. Phase 3 is losing believers. Inflation seems to be once more out of control — or a lot of people think it is.

FOR SOME LIGHT on the political weight of such troubles, we thumbed back through the history books to see how much harm Republican scandal in the past has done the Republican Party.

The Grant administration was notroious. One of its worst, of many, scandals came during the first Grant term. Personal friends of the President himself were mixed up in an effort to corner the gold market. It nearly worked. Henry Adams said "the worst scandals of the 18th century were relatively harmless by the side of this." Reform Republicans joined with Democrats to nominate New York editor Horace Greeley to run against Grant. On election day General Grant carried all but six states of the Union with over two-thirds of the popular vote.

The second Grant term was marked by even worse scandals. This time the voters paid some attention. Democrats won the 1874 mid-term election and very nearly took the presidency two years later. Republicans held it only by methods which most historians now agree include just plain vote stealing as well as a corrupt deal at the expense of southern Negroes. The Democrats did get the White House in 1884. A decisive reason was that the Republican candidate, James G. Blaine, had personally profited from office both when speaker of the House of Representatives and later as secretary of state.

The Harding administration was tainted by more thievery from public funds and by more misuse of office than was the Grant administration. But the early death of President Harding and a reform administration under Calvin Coolidge seemed to smooth the matter over. The Republicans lost the White House in 1932, not over the Harding scandals, but because of, and after the beginning of, the 1930 depression.

THE RECORDS WOULD seem to indicate that American voters are much more influenced by economic conditions than by scandal in high places. The Grant scandals had some, but small political effect. Blaine's personal misdeeds do seem to have denied him the presidency. The behavior of Harding's friends ruined the Harding reputation, and probably ended his life. They seem to have done the Republican Party minimal if any immediate damage.

President public attitudes seem to conform to the established pattern. Citizens all over the country are loud in their protests over high food prices. Interest in the Watergate, Vesco, and Gray affairs is still limited and seems not to concern most people greatly.

The tentative conclusion from the above would seem to be that Mr. Nixon can probably ride out the Watergate-Vesco-Gray business (unless it gets very much worse) provided the economy is stable and prosperous by next election time. If the economy is off then, of course, the scandals would probably look larger to the voters than they yet seem to do. The American voter has, so far, been tolerant of impropriety in high places, when his pocket was full.

Judge Gives Ex-Convict Final Chance

Tommie Lee Walker, the pugnacious ex-convict who beat a Sausalito policeman into amnesia last year, received one final chance from a Marin Superior Court judge yesterday.

Claiming sending Walker back to prison would be tantamount to a death sentence, Judge Henry J. Broderick instead ordered the 27-year-old San Rafael man to serve six months in jail, then 18 more in the Delancey Street Foundation of San Francisco.

Walker was convicted in February of beating officer Robert Klein and a hitchhiker with whom he had a disagreement while waiting for a ride Sept. 28 in the 3000 block of Bridgeway.

Since Walker had prior assault convictions, he faced return to prison unless the judge ruled his case was unusual. Broderick made that finding yesterday and followed the recommendation of probation officer Jesse W. Johnson.

Johnson said, "It is obvious the defendant is not capable, in times of what he perceives as stress or provocation, to exercise control each citizen must maintain in his everyday relationships."

However, Johnson said, Walker "sincerely and generally attempted to develop appropriate controls" following his release from prison.

Committed to the California Youth Authority in 1961 for robbing a bus driver, Walker remained behind bars until 1970 because he three times assaulted guards in prisons.

For battery and resisting arrest last fall, the judge also placed him on three years' probation, raising to four the number of cases for which Walker is now on probation.

Johnson felt Walker might have avoided trouble after his release from prison had not "radical-liberals" befriended him. Johnson said these friends persuaded him to leave a training program in the East Bay.

Although the judge agreed to probation this time, he warned Walker it is his last chance.

Walker's trial was marked by a prosecution charge that defense witness Sandra Kahn, wife of a Stanford professor perjured herself when she denied knowing Walker and did not mention her membership in Venceremos, a Maoist revolutionary group.

She testified that Walker hit Klein, inflicting a broken nose, concussion and cuts and bruises, after the officer hit Walker with his night stick.

Richmond Firm Target Of Pollution Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District announced today it was taking action against a Richmond firm which has been accused of violating pollution standards.

The district said it has filed an abatement proceeding against Bituminous Products & Applications Company, Inc.

It said the firm's Richmond plant has been cited 33 times in the past 15 months for violating district regulations.

The action is the first step towards obtaining a court order which could close the plant.

Hopefuls Can't See Dollar Mansion Funds

Little hope for using city tax money to purchase the Dollar Estate was offered Marin Heritage members last night by candidates for San Rafael City Council.

Candidate Richard C. Fox said public money "should be spent only as a last resort" to save the Dollar mansion, "but may have to be used."

Candidate Jack G. Nixon said "we don't have a lot of public money for these things (but) the city should make every effort to do what it can."

Candidate Thomas R. O'Toole suggested federal and state money might be obtained to save historic structures, but said top priority should go to restoring the old Boyd home, owned by the city and occupied by the Marin County Historical Society.

Candidate Carl J. Brown suggested a special 10-cent city tax be set up to build up a capital outlay fund, but pointed out that such a fund might be needed for many other things besides the Dollar property purchase.

Candidate Leo J. Tinkler said, "I don't believe it should be left up to the city council to decide what landmarks should go. . . They have misused their power."

O'Toole suggested that open space bond money might be used to buy the rear portion of the 11-acre Dollar property but expressed doubt it could be spent to purchase the mansion.

Mulryan felt there is a possibility that redevelopment funds could be used to save the building, since this could be interpreted as correcting blight within the redevelopment area.

The candidates appeared at Davidson School before a membership meeting of Marin Heritage, attended by about 30 members. Their remarks and the question session were restricted to the subjects of saving historic buildings and open space.

All endorsed a suggestion first put forward by Mulryan that the city set up a committee to review and evaluate old buildings that might have heritage value.

Marinwood, San Rafael Fire Aid Pact Sought

The Marinwood Fire Commission last night supported a proposed mutual aid agreement with the San Rafael Fire Department.

Under the proposal, the Marinwood Fire Department would respond on an "on call" basis to structural fires and resuscitator calls in the Mount Marin-Twelveoak Drive area of the city in order to speed service, said Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield.

In return, Marinwood would hold monthly training sessions with San Rafael, using the city drill tower, and would be allowed to borrow a reserve city engine in the event one of its engines breaks down. San Rafael also would provide backup assistance if needed when Marinwood is on a fire call.

The commission also referred to the district business manager a contractual agreement with County Service Area 13, upper Lucas Valley, for fire protection services, and approved a raise effective May 1 for fireman William Doyle, hiking his salary to $ 891.

Family Picnic Plans Approved In Rohnert Park

The Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission last night approved plans for a family picnic April 21 at the proposed regional park area.

Recreation director James Pekkain said the John Rapoza ranch in the foothills of the Sonoma Mountains will be open for picnickers all day. Commissioners said it would give residents a chance to see the 110-acre ranch, which is slated to become a regional park if county and state funds are available.

Pekkain said golden Easter eggs will be scattered throughout the property and will yield prizes for children. Portable restrooms will be available, but families must bring blankets for picnic lunches since no other facilities will be provided.

The traditional city Easter egg hunt will be held Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Benecia Park.

In other business, the commission scheduled two special meetings. Pekkain said plans for bicycle paths will be reviewed April 23 at 7:30 p.m. and programs for 1973-74 on April 26 at 7:30 p.m.

Redevelopment Board To Meet

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency board will consider forming a committee to review the progress and staffing practices of the agency's project area committee at 8 p.m. today in the board of supervisor's chambers in the Marin Civic Center.

The project area committee, a citizens group formed to advise the board in redevelopment matters, has been almost inactive in recent months and has held only a few meetings since it was organized.

Man Nabbed For Exposure

Bail was set at $10,000 for King Owen Tolles Jr., 35, of 15 Winged Foot Drive. He was scheduled for arraignment April 23 in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said he was arrested at 2:20 p.m. in the parking lot of the Petaluma Plaza Shopping Center after a woman reported a man exposed himself. Officers said the felony charge was lodged because of prior convictions on the same offense.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRANK FARRARA

Latest Inside Tips On Marin, Direct From Martha Mitchell

Not too long ago, when the Independent-Journal had a new telephone system installed, communication was shaky and a stray call slipped through the switchboard to the Novato bureau office.

"Is this the United Press?" the caller asked.

"No, this is the Independent-Journal."

"Oh, well, are you a reporter?"

"Yes."

"Good, because I have some news for you. I was going to give it to the wire services, but you'll do."

"Okay, I'm ready."

"THIS IS MARTHA Mitchell and I'm calling from my secret shoe telephone so I'll have to speak quietly. . .Now on this Watergate thing. . ."

"Wait a minute," the reporter said. "I'd rather not hear anything about Watergate. You can give that to James Reston. We're a local newspaper. Don't you have anything about Marin County?"

"Just a minute," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I'll have to look in my secret diary."

DURING THE WAIT, the reporter ordered his co-workers to lock the doors and shouted, "If you see the FBI coming, don't let them in. I'm talking to Martha Mitchell."

"Hello, I'm back," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I've got something for you on Hamilton Air Force Base. They are going to sell it to Howard Hughes."

"You mean the story about joint use by Hughes Air West and the Air Force is a cover up?"

"Well, it's the start of the takeover, and as soon as Hughes gives the Air Force the plans for his flying boat, he gets the whole base," Mrs. Mitchell said.

"HERE'S ANOTHER one I got from a high source," she said. "ITT is contributing $250,000 to a campaign to keep James Kimo Campbell from being elected to the Marin Community College District board. They're spreading rumors he's a friend of Rick Beban."

"How about the Point Reyes National Seashore? Have you heard anything about that?" the reporter said.

"Well, Pat told me the other day. Oh, my! Did I say Pat? I didn't mean I heard it from that high a source. Maybe it was Tricia. At any rate, the reason they're buying the seashore is it's going to be the summer White House for President Agnew. He didn't want to have a place too close to San Clemente. You know Dick would be butting in all the time."

"HAVE THEY DECIDED yet what they're going to do with Alcatraz Island?"

"Oh yes, we have a guerrilla force out there now plotting the overthrow of Mayor Alioto."

"I can't believe it," the reporter said. Those were his last words, for when he hung up two CIA agents disguised as telephone repairmen whisked him away and his stories were never written.

Duties At Camp Are Described

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan, described by her husband as "a wonderful wife and a wonderful friend," picked up Jewish children by the hair and tossed them onto trucks headed for the gas chambers, according to court testimony.

The testimony was revealed Monday in Brooklyn federal court where Mrs. Ryan, 51, a former Nazi concentration camp guard and now a housewife in Queens, is fighting extradition to face murder charges in West Germany. Former inmates of the camps where she worked gave the testimony in 300 pages of affidavits.

One of them, Rachel Strauser, said she "remembered several trucks driving up to the camp ... I saw the Braunsteiner woman drag out children by their hair and brutally throw them into the trucks. They screamed and it was horrible. When the children tried to run away she grabbed them and threw them back into the trucks."

Lucyna Domb, a former prisoner at Maidanek who now lives in Israel, said, "The Braunsteiner woman was never without a whip or tvstol. She always found a reason for beating someone. During roll call one day she whipped a woman. The woman collapsed. She was blue all over. Later she was carried to the sick quarter and died."

Mrs. Ryan was a guard at concentration camps at Maidanek, Poland, and Ravensbruck, Germany. An estimated 1.5 million Jews were murdered at Maidanek.

Her husband, Russell Ryan, embraced his wife when he joined her at the defense table. Later, outside the courtroom, he said, "She's a dedicated woman, a wonderful wife and a wonderful friend and neighbor to everyone.

Ship's Captain Shark Victim

BEIRA, Mozambique (UPI) — Port authorities said today they think the captain of a Greek tanker was eaten by sharks when he dived overboard in the Mozambique channel in an attempt to repair the propellor of his ship.

The 16,000-ton vessel was sailing from the Persian Gulf with a cargo of petroleum for U.S. ports. The captain reported a slow leak in the stern because of propeller damage, then crewmen said he dived overboard to see what he could do to fix it.

He did not surface and the ship continued toward Lourenco Marques.

Watergate Culprit Discovered —Just Like In Detective Stories

WASHINGTON — Peter Falk, playing his famous role of Columbo. walked into the East Room of the White House in his dirty raincoat and flashed his police card. "Inspector Columbo," he said, showing it to President Nixon. "Say, this sure is a nice house you got here. How much does a place like this cost?"

"I'm having a private party for the staff," the President said indignantly. "What do you want?"

"Oh, I really apologize," Columbo said. "I didn't mean to come busting in on a party. Say, is this a real oil painting of George Washington? It's a fantastic work of art —don't get me wrong, I don't know anything about painting."

"WILL YOU STATE your business, inspector?"

"I'm just making some routine inquiries about the Watergate bugging case. You see, I'm on loan to the Senate investigating committee from the Los Angeles Police Department. It will only take a few minutes."

"We have nothing to hide here," the President said. "This is my assistant, H. R. Haldeman; my legal aide, John Dean III; my former assistant, Charles Colson; the former secretary of commerce, Maurice Stans, and the former attorney general, John Mitchell, and his wife Martha."

"This is really a great honor," Columbo said. "I never thought I would get to meet so many important people. Wait till I tell my wife. She's really going to be bowled over."

"What exactly is it you want to know?" the President asked.

"Oh, yes," Columbo said, taking out his pad and pencil. "Now let me see."

MARTHA MITCHELL said, "Inspector, I'd like to tell you a few things about the Watergate. . ."

"Martha, will you shut up?" John Mitchell interrupted.

"They're not going to hang this on my John," Martha said.

"Martha!"

"Can I offer you a drink, inspector?" the President asked.

"Just some orange juice if you've got it, Mr. President. I have a bad stomach. You know in this job you never eat properly. Last night I had a tuna fish sandwich on a roll and. . ."

"WILL YOU GET ON with it, inspector?" H. R. Haldeman said.

"I'm sorry, where was I? Oh yes, now about the Watergate. This is just routine, you understand, but where were each of you the night of the break-in?"

"I was watching 'Patton,'" the President said.

"I was in Mexico City at a bank," Maurice Stans said.

"I was reading FBI files," John Dean III said.

"I was cutting the budget," H. R. Haldeman replied.

"I'll tell you where John was," Martha Mitchell said.

"Martha, clam up," John Mitchell said.

"Well if I don't tell him, I'll tell United Press," Martha said.

"You see," Columbo said, shutting his notebook, "I knew this would all be a waste of time. I told them no one in the White House knows anything about the Watergate. Say, that is some rug. Do you mind if I take a picture of it to show the folks in Los Angeles?"

JUST THEN the Butler came in with Columbo's glass of orange juice.

"Thank you very much," Columbo said to the butler, "I didn't get your name."

"Alfonse, sir."

"Where were you on the night of the break-in, Alfonse?"

"I was polishing the silver."

"You're lying, Alfonse. You were at the Watergate."

"See here, Columbo," the President said, "you're relying on hearsay evidence."

"No, I'm not, Mr. President. This coaster that the orange juice was served on says 'Property of the Watergate Bar and Grill.'"

"My God!" said H. R. Haldeman, "the butler did it."

"WHY DIDN'T WE think of that?" John Dean III said.

"Thank heavens, Columbo, you discovered the culprit," John Mitchell said. "Now we can all sleep tonight."

Martha Mitchell piped, "Wait a minute, Mr. Columbo, there's a lot more to this than you think."

"Dammit Martha!" yelled John Mitchell, "will you keep your big trap shut?"

Earth Week

During Earth Week, one environmental problem receiving attention is our soaring need for energy. While individuals can conserve energy by burning fewer lights and doing more walking and bicycling, conservation also can be practiced by industry. One large corporation found it could cut heating costs at its new headquarters by partly relying on such previously ignored factors as the body heat of workers. It's estimated that such conservation measures could reduce our total energy demand between 10 and 15 per cent.

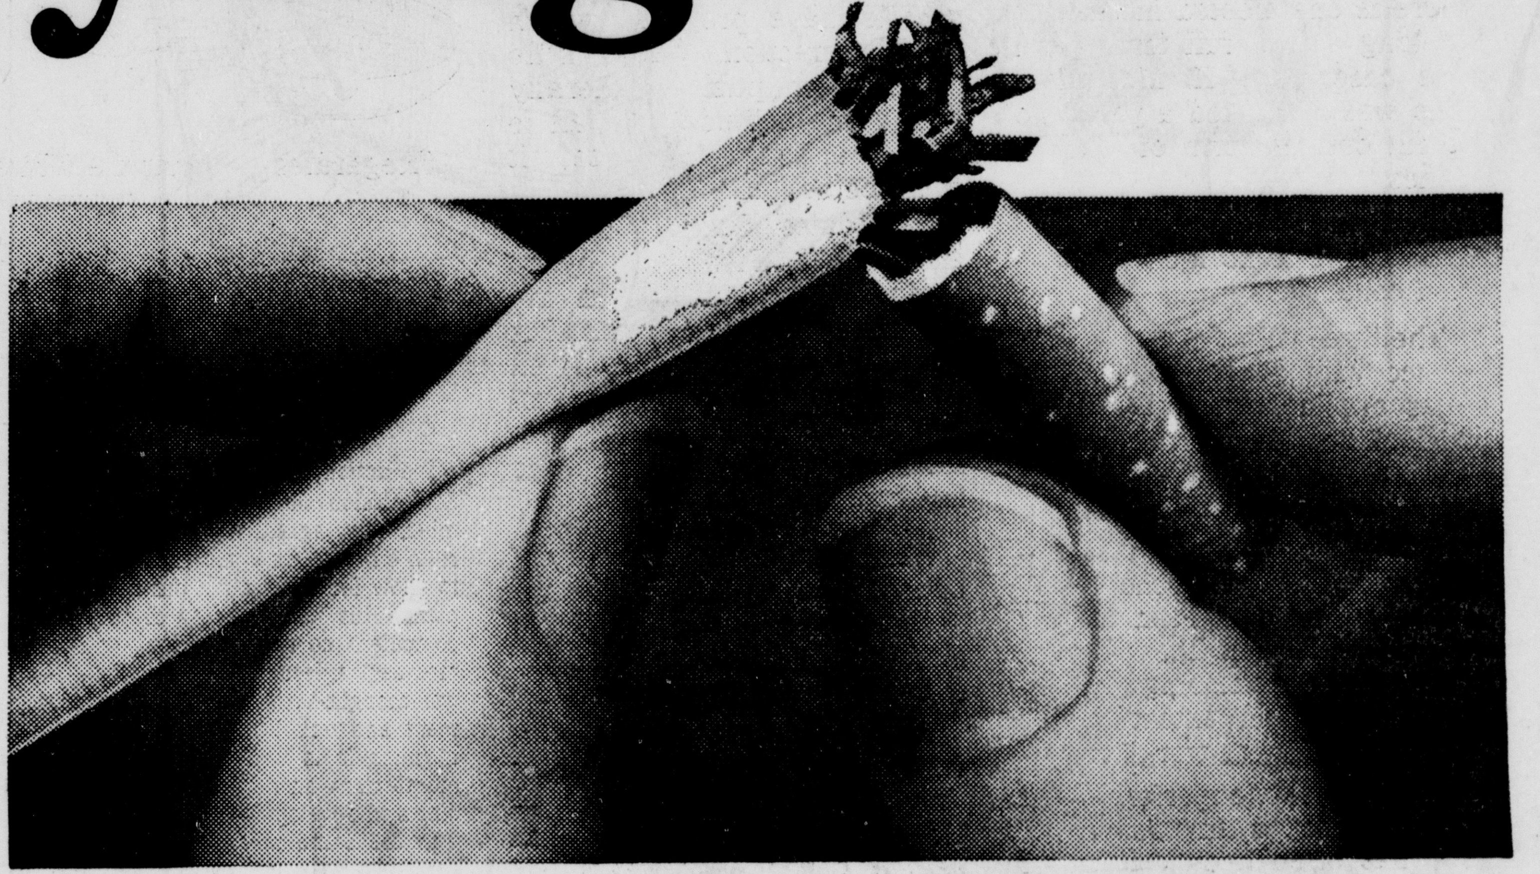
Take away your filter and what've you got?



A lot of brands are talking about their filters lately.

That's all well and good. The filter is an important part of your cigarette. (We know. We give you the most famous one of all: the Kent Micronite filter.)

But how many cigarettes have something to say about the other end? The tobacco end. The part that gives you what you smoke for... taste.

One brand that has plenty to say is Kent.

24 quality tobaccos are blended into each Kent. And we go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find them.

We also insist upon the lower-leaf tobaccos for Kent. They're a lot milder than the leaves at the top of the plant.

In fact, we place as much importance on our tobacco as we do on our famous filter.

Because without either one, we couldn't give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

Mild, smooth taste. Micronite filter.

Important Choice For School Board

The campaign for two seats on the San Rafael Board of Education has been somewhat overshadowed by that for city council. It shouldn't be. How the public schools are managed is of overwhelming importance both to the taxpayers and to their children.

Adding to the importance of next Tuesday's board election is the upcoming choice of a new superintendent. Although the screening process already is beginning, those elected Tuesday will share in the selection. How well they choose will have a great effect on the schools.

AS IN the city council race, there is one elected incumbent seeking a first full term — in this case, Paul K. McMullen, who was appointed a year ago to fill out the term of Paul L. Jones.

And, as in the city council race, there is no lack of qualified contenders.

The three with the most experience with school district affairs are McMullen, Lewis W. Pollock and Marie J. Sessi.

Pollock's experience has been gained "inside." He has worked on a series of committees for the city schools. In doing so, he has been closely associated with the present board and the outgoing superintendent. To an extent, he is privy to the inner workings.

Mrs. Sessi's experience has been gained as an "outsider." She has often been critical of things which went on in the schools. And she is a person who does not shrug her shoulders and say "there's nothing I can do about it." She tries to get to the bottom of the problem — which, with the school system, is no easy task. In her efforts, she has gained considerable knowledge about school laws and school operations.

POLLOCK IS running with open support of some of the holdover board members.

Pollock and incumbent McMullen therefore must be viewed as the administration candidates.

Pollock, however, is outspoken about some of what he considers shortcomings in the conduct of the schools, despite his closeness to the current administration. McMullen, while conceding in private conversations that the San Rafael schools have problems which need correction, offers little criticism in public, generally taking the attitude that all is well — although, of course, "it could be better."

Candidates Suzanne Beittel and Gale B. Fisher are by no means unacquainted with the schools and their problems. But they are not nearly so well acquainted with them as Pollock, Mrs. Sessi — and, presumably, McMullen, since he has been on the board a year.

WE BELIEVE in a variety of outlooks on a governing board. Any board made up of think-alikes will fail to do a good job of representing the people.

At the same time, we believe in some continuity. And since only one of the holdovers — Herman L. Childress — has served beyond two years, we feel Pollock's longtime close association with the school administration is important.

We therefore endorse Marie J. Sessi and Lewis W. Pollock for election to the San Rafael Board of Education.

Moonlighting Fair Director Prompts State Inquiry

By EARL G. WATERS

A full investigation of the management of California's district fairs has been ordered by Brunel Christensen, director of the state Department of Agriculture.

It is under his department that the Division of Fairs and Expositions supervises the activities of 76 district, county and citrus fairs supported by state funds. Their expenditures total some $25 million annually.

Christensen's inquiry is not prompted by any thought that the overall operations of these fairs is not going well. Rather his attention has been drawn to them by some reported improprieties on the part of few.

FOR THE MOST PART, these stem from the activities of Allen Ross, manager of the 19th Agricultural District at Santa Barbara. His job there is a full-time one paying him $19,500 a year, or about 10 per cent of the operating revenues.

Part of his duties at Santa Barbara is the management of the horse shows held there. But Ross has been using his state position as a base for the promotion of other horse shows. These outside activities constitute a flourishing private business for Ross, requiring a substantial amount of his time.

Some of these outside shows are state supported. Ross last year collected $13,800 in state funds over and above his regular salary from three other fair districts. He did this through contractual agreements with the Grand National Exposition (Cow Palace in Daly City), the Ventura County Fair (31st District), and the State Fair (52nd District).

He also received additional money for managing at least seven other outside shows, some of them supported with state funds.

ROSS' EXTENSIVE moonlighting activities, while a full-time state employee, have raised some serious questions of public policy. In the first place it is disconcerting to other fair managers who devote all their efforts to the jobs for which they were hired. And his competition is bitterly resented by those whose entire livelihood is gained by managing horse shows.

The disclosure that Ross has "negotiated" trophy purchases for at least three of these shows gave further cause for investigation, for the purchases in question totalled $10,000 of state funds. Some of the purchases circumvented state law while others were in direct violation of the purchasing law which requires bids on orders over $500.

District boards which have contracted with Ross defend their action on the grounds Ross is a good horse show manager. But this image is threatened by charges of favoritism from exhibitors. Ross not only names all ring officials, but employs a member of his own board, Warren Underwood, as a steward.

This was the basis for a complaint lodged with the Cow Palace board by David B. Goodstein. He charged Ross and Underwood violated both state and show rules by permitting a post entry. He further stated it was not unusual for Ross to act "arbitrarily, capriciously and in a discriminatroy fashion".

The board heard Goodstein's complaint and then went into executive session to deny his protest. Since the law requires fair board meetings to be open to the public, Christensen is also questioning the board's action in closing its meeting.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Commission Actions Confusing To Citizen

The action of the San Rafael Planning Commission on March 27 boggles the mind. They agreed to extend the moratorium on large developments for one year to allow for adoption of our new general plan. This plan, being drawn up by competent consultants, along with a 60-member citizen committee, will be a well-thought-out guide to future development and will be ready in six to nine months. It is the very reason for the moratorium and will enlarge good planning and development requirements.

In the same meeting the commission agreed to hear, in only 90 days, pleas for special use permits, which bypass the moratorium, for several massive developments. They did this against the recommendations of our city planning department, who want to wait for the new general plan.

I'm sure the developers want these permits before we adopt the new general plan which may be more restrictive on them (ut in the interest of all San Rafael).

I'm very disappointed in all this...

Some 'Welcome Home' Flags Flew Too Late

I want to thank you for the coverage you gave the return of Capt. William Butler to San Rafael and particularly Glenwood. The whole day was, as you said, like an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration.

The main reason for this letter is hopefully to inform citizens of the proper display of our flag. I was responsible for the delivery of flags to homeowners who wished to fly but did not have a flag of their own. The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce loaned us flags for this purpose, for which we are very grateful. Unfortunately, many people left their flags up all night or at least until 11 p.m. when I observed many still flying. Flags should be taken down at sunset at the latest. Seeing them flying late sort of took the edge of the otherwise joyous day.

We are trying to recover all the flags, but some homeowners have as of this writing failed to return the flags and a reminder to them would help.

Duty To Country Held Mistaken Idea

The question of amnesty for those who fled from military service during the Vietnam War is based on the premise that all young American men have a "duty to their country." This, of course, runs counter to the basic premise of the United States that each individual has a inailable (sic) right to his life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

The old shibbolith that the government is the servant of the people is curiously missing from the idea of "duty to one's country." This reverses the master-servant status so that the servant (government) is the master of the master (people) when it can forcibly coerce a young man to go out and die for the idea of government. So, the question of amnesty, based on the premise of the United States, is invalid in as much that the right to live or die for another's cause should be left to the individual and not to outside forces . . .

Someone Speaks Up For The Smokers

Re: "Non-Smoking Jurors Denied Facilities," Charlotte Patera, March 29 I-J:

Why the petty gripe? True, there are no specified rooms for non-smokers. She mentioned the jurors' lounge, the waiting place — very comfy, hot drinks, and smoking allowed. The jurors' assembly room, "straight-back chairs, windows shrouded in draperies, shutting out sunlight." TV permissable. No smoking. Her words.

Truth is, it is all very comfortable and suited to most during their waiting period and beyond.

When the prospective jurors are selected, it sometimes becomes a trying and traumatic experience for some till the trial is finished, but we deem it our civic and birthright duty. I sat on the same jury panel with Mrs. Patera. All this lady seemed fretful about was the smoke she thinks she absorbed in her hair, clothing and lungs being forced to be amongst the smokers. She was duly paid for her time contributed. I would like to know how she conducts her daily chores outside her home, amongst the dirty smokers.

Teachers' Judgments Not Always Reliable

Mr. Daubenfeld's letter (Apr. 3) is, I think, the straw that etc.

. . . Professionals are incapable of fairly judging their peers, as witness the attempts of doctors and lawyers.

An intelligent student knows a stupid teacher when he encounters one. Our son wasn't impressed with his freshman English teacher (at Redwood High School) who said teaching English grammar bored her, nor were we. She's now running for a place on the Tamalpais High School District board!

He knew how "intelligent" his third grade teacher was — or wasn't. We got around that one by telling him he had to learn to live with the vast majority of people who weren't overblessed with brains.

And how about the eighth grade teacher, now a principal, who told me our son was "in no way exceptional." Or the "adviser" at Redwood who told him he could probably get into any second-rate college he chose? (He graduated from M.I.T.)

These should judge each other? Oh, great!

Second-Class Mail Increase Threatens Voices Of Dissent

WASHINGTON — "These are the times that try men's souls." Those often quoted words of Thomas Paine, the great pamphleteer of our Revolution, have an echo today. It is the echo of the lonely dissenter, the angry dissenter, speaking out against the great bland mass that bears in our time the spurious label of the conventional wisdom.

With the overpowering force of television, the dissenting voices are having an increasingly difficult time being heard or, for that matter, even surviving. The United States Postal Service, the hybrid creature that seems to have embodied all the ills of the old post office, is proceeding with rate increases threatening the existence of small publications, many of them nonprofit or skirting close to the edge.

With Life the last in a long series of fatalities, the carnage for the printed word has been terrible. When the postal rate increase on second-class mail was first announced, Life in an editorial said this would mean finding an additional $130 million in revenue by 1976, which was more than twice the profit earned by all magazines in 1970. Reports today have it that at least one surviving mass publication is in trouble.

BUT IT IS NOT the big commercial operation that is the concern of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., in the measure he is pushing in the Senate. His bill is a response to the threat to the dissenters, and also to the pressure that sharply increased postal rates would put on the religious, labor and agriculture press. Following the practice of 178 years, prior to the creation of the Postal Service, it would restore the subsidy for publications that might not otherwise survive.

From Human Events on the right to the New Republic on the left, the margin of survival is increasingly narrow. Across the country are many lively, stimulating monthlies and weeklies that may be crowded out. The Progressive in Wisconsin, carrying the flag for the great LaFollette tradition, and the Texas Observer in Austin, so far standing up to the powerhouse of money and Texas-style politics as an independent critic, are two examples. In presenting his measure, Senator Nelson quoted Walter Lippmann:

"The unexamined life, said Socrates, is unfit to be lived by man. This is the virtue of liberty, and the ground on which we may best justify our belief in it, that it tolerates errors in order to serve the truth. When men are brought face to face with their opponents, forced to listen and learn and mend their ideas, they cease to be children and savages and begin to live like civilized men. Then only is freedom a reality, when men may voice their opinions because they must examine their opinions."

THE WAY IN WHICH the President can command the television networks is a phenomenon unknown to the era of the printed word. It is a power increasingly great, as authority is centralized in the White House. With a notice of only an hour or two, the President can order up an audience of millions.

Requests for equal time, if the address has political implications — as it almost invariably has — are more often than not refused. Many disturbing signs point to a concerted intention within the administration to narrow the channels of dissent. The attacks on the media, both direct and indirect, have had a cautionary effect, particularly on the networks.

If non-small independent journals are to be forced out — and among the number are many weekly newspapers — the flow of ideas, of criticism, protest will be further narrowed. Nelson notes that for small, diverse publications the postal rate increase can be many times 127 per cent which is to be effective beginning July 6 and phased in over five years. For many of these publications, postal rates represent a large percentage of their costs.

THE SENATOR has several co-sponsors for his measure, and it is believed that the chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., leans toward it. Opposition to the subsidy in the past has come from the conviction that wealthy publications, such as Reader's Digest, were getting a free ride at the taxpayers' expense. At one point the subsidy to the Digest was estimated to be $17 million. But with the whopping increase in the rates the giants, or those that have survived, are no longer so happily situated.

Billy Graham, who runs one of the largest religious publishing houses in the country with a big operation in Minneapolis, would be hit by the increase. He could put in a word to his friend the President if he would. But it is the small publications that are caught in the switches. With its lamentable performance, the United States Postal Service has drawn a growing chorus of anger and disgust, coming not from publishers but from outraged citizens across the land.

GOP May Survive Its Scandals —If Prices Quit Skyrocketing

The troubles come in two kinds. First, there are the matters concerning the 1972 election campaign. These include the Watergate burglaries, the soliciting of campaign contributions from persons in difficulty with the law or regulatory agencies of government (The Vesco case), and the unbrilliant performance of President Nixon's candidate for the directorship of the FBI, L. Patrick Gray III, on a Senate witness stand. The three stories, all tangled together, are bad, and apparently getting worse.

The second kind of trouble concerns the state of the economy. Phase 3 is losing believers. Inflation seems to be once more out of control — or a lot of people think it is.

FOR SOME LIGHT on the political weight of such troubles, we thumbed back through the history books to see how much harm Republican scandal in the past has done the Republican Party.

The Grant administration was notroious. One of its worst, of many, scandals came during the first Grant term. Personal friends of the President himself were mixed up in an effort to corner the gold market. It nearly worked. Henry Adams said "the worst scandals of the 18th century were relatively harmless by the side of this." Reform Republicans joined with Democrats to nominate New York editor Horace Greeley to run against Grant. On election day General Grant carried all but six states of the Union with over two-thirds of the popular vote.

The second Grant term was marked by even worse scandals. This time the voters paid some attention. Democrats won the 1874 mid-term election and very nearly took the presidency two years later. Republicans held it only by methods which most historians now agree include just plain vote stealing as well as a corrupt deal at the expense of southern Negroes. The Democrats did get the White House in 1884. A decisive reason was that the Republican candidate, James G. Blaine, had personally profited from office both when speaker of the House of Representatives and later as secretary of state.

The Harding administration was tainted by more thievery from public funds and by more misuse of office than was the Grant administration. But the early death of President Harding and a reform administration under Calvin Coolidge seemed to smooth the matter over. The Republicans lost the White House in 1932, not over the Harding scandals, but because of, and after the beginning of, the 1930 depression.

THE RECORDS WOULD seem to indicate that American voters are much more influenced by economic conditions than by scandal in high places. The Grant scandals had some, but small political effect. Blaine's personal misdeeds do seem to have denied him the presidency. The behavior of Harding's friends ruined the Harding reputation, and probably ended his life. They seem to have done the Republican Party minimal if any immediate damage.

President public attitudes seem to conform to the established pattern. Citizens all over the country are loud in their protests over high food prices. Interest in the Watergate, Vesco, and Gray affairs is still limited and seems not to concern most people greatly.

The tentative conclusion from the above would seem to be that Mr. Nixon can probably ride out the Watergate-Vesco-Gray business (unless it gets very much worse) provided the economy is stable and prosperous by next election time. If the economy is off then, of course, the scandals would probably look larger to the voters than they yet seem to do. The American voter has, so far, been tolerant of impropriety in high places, when his pocket was full.

Youth Killed In Break-in Try

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A homeowner shot and fatally wounded a youth who police said appeared to be attempting to break into a house in Ingleside Terrace.

John Mona, 68, said he fired Monday night when he saw the youth on the ledge of his house.

The dead youth was identified tentatively as Vincent Barrow, 16, of San Francisco.

Mona's shot with a .22-caliber rifle struck the youth in the head and he fell 18 feet to a cement patio, police said.

Investigators reported finding a loaded 9-millimeter pistol and a pellet gun in the area where the youth fell.

No Reason Found For Jet Crash

By FRANK FARRARA

Capt. Michael D. Burmeister, 25, of Northfield. Minn., killed in the crash of an F-106 fighter jet plane four miles north of Novato Nov. 26., may have been distracted or disoriented before the crash.

An Air Force investigation board, which didn't list a cause, said the plane was in sound condition and there was no indication of "dereliction of duty or substandard performance on the part of anyone connected with the aircraft accident."

In testimony, Capt. Manly A. Ray Jr. of K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich., who observed the take-off, said: "The only opinion I have as to what caused the accident is that the wing man (Burmeister) may have been distracted or disoriented for some reason that is not known at this time."

Burmeister and Capt. David Kolodzinski had taken off for their home base in Michigan and disappeared into the overcast when Burmeister's plane crashed into a hill east of H Lane on a Sunday morning.

Testimony revealed that Capt. Burmeister, flying as wing man, had lost the leader, Kolodzinski, in the overcast.

Kolodzinski testified that at one point Burmeister "told me he had lost me. I said, 'Okay I'm on top, just 1,100 feet, go ahead and get in trail with me'."

The control tower had noticed that the speed brakes on Burmeister's plane were open on takeoff and a radio message was sent to him.

Capt. Paul R. Henderson of the 4661st Air Base Group at Hamilton Air Force Base, who was in charge of the investigation, asked Kolodzinski if Burmeister was still on his wing at the time of the message about the speed brakes.

"The transmission came after the first time I had seen him flying what I thought was a position off my aircraft," Kolodzinski replied.

"I'm trying to establish here whether he received this call at this point and might have diverted his attention into the cockpit to see if his speed brakes were, indeed, retracting. Is it quite possible this could have happened?," Col. Henderson asked.

Kolodzinski replied, "It is possible because I waited a considerable length of time, at least more than normal before I rogered the call, expecting him to say 'yes, my boards were open' or 'have got them closed now,' so I rogered the call when he said nothing."

Despite the speed brakes being open on takeoff, observers said he was still holding his position on the lead plane until he disappeared into the overcast, the investigation board reported. The ceiling was 300 feet and there was three miles visibility.

Investigation also showed that the speed brake actuators were fully retracted and locked on impact, and even if they had remained open that wouldn't have created sufficient drag to prevent Burmeister's plane from climbing through the overcast, the report said.

Kolodzinski said that when Burmeister didn't return his calls, he started looking for him and, when he rolled his plane to the left, noticed "dark gray smoke that had come up through the overcast."

Investigators reported Burmeister's plane was "operational ready" and one of the best in the 87th Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

Although Burmeister had made no emergency calls, there was no evidence of radio malfunction, the board reported.

Burmeister was "physically fit," experienced in flying the F-106 and had sufficient rest before the flight, the board said.

Burmeister had been to dinner in San Francisco with Kolodzinski and Ray the evening before the flight and had two beers and one mixed drink over a four-hour period, the board said. He retired at 11:30 p.m. and arose about 8 a.m. and was reported alert before takeoff, the board said.

An autopsy indicated no physical condition that would have caused Burmeister to lose control of the plane, the board reported.

Volunteer Bureau Picks Up

The Volunteer Bureau of Marin County has announced a 20 per cent increase in registration of new volunteers since Feb. 11.

Executive director Marion R. Kelley credits the rise with an advertisement run in the Independent-Journal during the seven-week period of Feb. 11 through March 31.

"In both February and March, we received a definite increase in phone calls from people who are employed daily, often out of the county, but who nonetheless want to get involved," Kelley said.

"We can conclude that advertising in the I-J has boosted our registration statistics by at least 20 per cent during the seven-week period of Feb. 11 through March 31, 1973," Kelley said.

The volunteer bureau, a member agency of United Crusade, has offices at 725 A Street in San Rafael.

$20,372 From Charity Walk

With only half the pledges collected so far, young participants in the March 3 "happiness walk" benefit for the United Cerebral Palsy Association had turned in $20,372 by yesterday.

Mimi Zellers, publicity chairman for the fund campaign said at least 500 more of the 1,000-plus hikers who participated are expected to turn in their pledges by Friday.

The Marin hikers had planned to walk 20 miles; the marathon was cut short by rain, but almost all donors have met their pledges for the full distance, Miss Zellers said. Similar hikes were held in four other counties, with free trips to Disneyland promised to the 10 hikers in the Bay Area who collect the most contributions.

Six-Month Jail Stay Is Ordered

A 25-year-old San Rafael man, who stole a banquet in liquor and frozen food from a San Rafael restaurant, was given six months in jail or a treatment facility yesterday for the felony burglary.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Philip Bryan Crist on probation for three years and directed him to pay $158 for food that spoiled after he stole it Dec. 30 from the Medallion restaurant.

Crist's probation officer, Patricia L. Schuman, said he is "on a treadmill of alcohol acting as a catalyst leading to violence and consequential law violations."

Crist told her he broke into the restaurant "out of curiosity" and believes alcohol gives him power. However, Crist promised the judge not to drink during his probationary years.

He was in jail for being drunk the day after the burglary when the stolen food and drink were found in his house.

Latest Inside Tips On Marin, Direct From Martha Mitchell

Not too long ago, when the Independent-Journal had a new telephone system installed, communication was shaky and a stray call slipped through the switchboard to the Novato bureau office.

"Is this the United Press?" the caller asked.

"No, this is the Independent-Journal."

"Oh, well, are you a reporter?"

"Yes."

"Good, because I have some news for you. I was going to give it to the wire services, but you'll do."

"Okay, I'm ready."

"THIS IS MARTHA Mitchell and I'm calling from my secret shoe telephone so I'll have to speak quietly. . .Now on this Watergate thing. . ."

"Wait a minute," the reporter said. "I'd rather not hear anything about Watergate. You can give that to James Reston. We're a local newspaper. Don't you have anything about Marin County?"

"Just a minute," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I'll have to look in my secret diary."

DURING THE WAIT, the reporter ordered his co-workers to lock the doors and shouted, "If you see the FBI coming, don't let them in. I'm talking to Martha Mitchell."

"Hello, I'm back," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I've got something for you on Hamilton Air Force Base. They are going to sell it to Howard Hughes."

"You mean the story about joint use by Hughes Air West and the Air Force is a cover up?"

"Well, it's the start of the takeover, and as soon as Hughes gives the Air Force the plans for his flying boat, he gets the whole base," Mrs. Mitchell said.

"HERE'S ANOTHER one I got from a high source," she said. "ITT is contributing $250,000 to a campaign to keep James Kimo Campbell from being elected to the Marin Community College District board. They're spreading rumors he's a friend of Rick Beban."

"How about the Point Reyes National Seashore? Have you heard anything about that?" the reporter said.

"Well, Pat told me the other day. Oh, my! Did I say Pat? I didn't mean I heard it from that high a source. Maybe it was Tricia. At any rate, the reason they're buying the seashore is it's going to be the summer White House for President Agnew. He didn't want to have a place too close to San Clemente. You know Dick would be butting in all the time."

"HAVE THEY DECIDED yet what they're going to do with Alcatraz Island?"

"Oh yes, we have a guerrilla force out there now plotting the overthrow of Mayor Alioto."

"I can't believe it," the reporter said. Those were his last words, for when he hung up two CIA agents disguised as telephone repairmen whisked him away and his stories were never written.

Duties At Camp Are Described

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan, described by her husband as "a wonderful wife and a wonderful friend," picked up Jewish children by the hair and tossed them onto trucks headed for the gas chambers, according to court testimony.

The testimony was revealed Monday in Brooklyn federal court where Mrs. Ryan, 51, a former Nazi concentration camp guard and now a housewife in Queens, is fighting extradition to face murder charges in West Germany. Former inmates of the camps where she worked gave the testimony in 300 pages of affidavits.

One of them, Rachel Strauser, said she "remembered several trucks driving up to the camp ... I saw the Braunsteiner woman drag out children by their hair and brutally throw them into the trucks. They screamed and it was horrible. When the children tried to run away she grabbed them and threw them back into the trucks."

Lucyna Domb, a former prisoner at Maidanek who now lives in Israel, said, "The Braunsteiner woman was never without a whip or tvstol. She always found a reason for beating someone. During roll call one day she whipped a woman. The woman collapsed. She was blue all over. Later she was carried to the sick quarter and died."

Mrs. Ryan was a guard at concentration camps at Maidanek, Poland, and Ravensbruck, Germany. An estimated 1.5 million Jews were murdered at Maidanek.

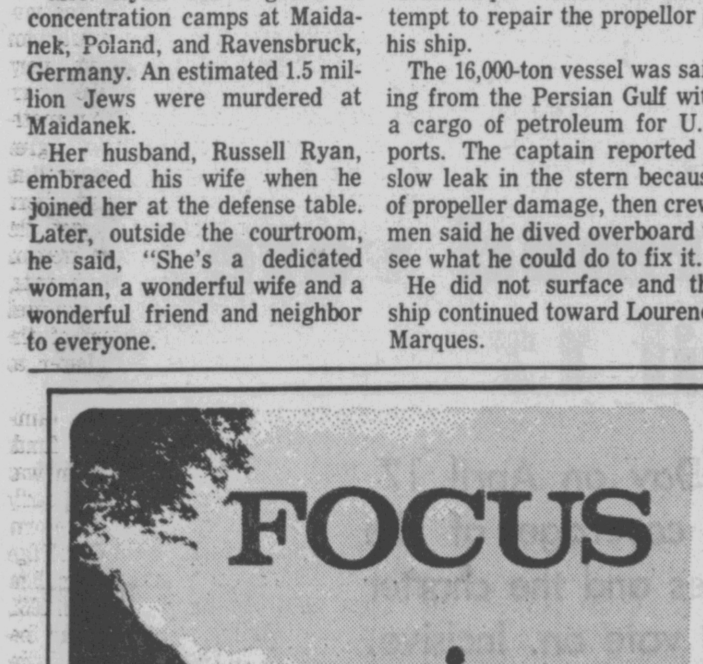
Her husband, Russell Ryan, embraced his wife when he joined her at the defense table. Later, outside the courtroom, he said, "She's a dedicated woman, a wonderful wife and a wonderful friend and neighbor to everyone.

Ship's Captain Shark Victim

BEIRA, Mozambique (UPI) — Port authorities said today they think the captain of a Greek tanker was eaten by sharks when he dived overboard in the Mozambique channel in an attempt to repair the propellor of his ship.

The 16,000-ton vessel was sailing from the Persian Gulf with a cargo of petroleum for U.S. ports. The captain reported a slow leak in the stern because of propeller damage, then crewmen said he dived overboard to see what he could do to fix it.

He did not surface and the ship continued toward Lourenco Marques.



Earth Week

During Earth Week, one environmental problem receiving attention is our soaring need for energy. While individuals can conserve energy by burning fewer lights and doing more walking and bicycling, conservation also can be practiced by industry. One large corporation found it could cut heating costs at its new headquarters by partly relying on such previously ignored factors as the body heat of workers. It's estimated that such conservation measures could reduce our total energy demand between 10 and 15 per cent.

ART BUCHWALD

Watergate Culprit Discovered —Just Like In Detective Stories

WASHINGTON — Peter Falk, playing his famous role of Columbo. walked into the East Room of the White House in his dirty raincoat and flashed his police card. "Inspector Columbo," he said, showing it to President Nixon. "Say, this sure is a nice house you got here. How much does a place like this cost?"

"I'm having a private party for the staff," the President said indignantly. "What do you want?"

"Oh, I really apologize," Columbo said. "I didn't mean to come busting in on a party. Say, is this a real oil painting of George Washington? It's a fantastic work of art —don't get me wrong, I don't know anything about painting."

"WILL YOU STATE your business, inspector?"

"I'm just making some routine inquiries about the Watergate bugging case. You see, I'm on loan to the Senate investigating committee from the Los Angeles Police Department. It will only take a few minutes."

"We have nothing to hide here," the President said. "This is my assistant, H. R. Haldeman; my legal aide, John Dean III; my former assistant, Charles Colson; the former secretary of commerce, Maurice Stans, and the former attorney general, John Mitchell, and his wife Martha."

"This is really a great honor," Columbo said. "I never thought I would get to meet so many important people. Wait till I tell my wife. She's really going to be bowled over."

"What exactly is it you want to know?" the President asked.

"Oh, yes," Columbo said, taking out his pad and pencil. "Now let me see."

MARTHA MITCHELL said, "Inspector, I'd like to tell you a few things about the Watergate. . ."

"Martha, will you shut up?" John Mitchell interrupted.

"They're not going to hang this on my John," Martha said.

"Martha!"

"Can I offer you a drink, inspector?" the President asked.

"Just some orange juice if you've got it, Mr. President. I have a bad stomach. You know in this job you never eat properly. Last night I had a tuna fish sandwich on a roll and. . ."

"WILL YOU GET ON with it, inspector?" H. R. Haldeman said.

"I'm sorry, where was I? Oh yes, now about the Watergate. This is just routine, you understand, but where were each of you the night of the break-in?"

"I was watching 'Patton,' " the President said.

"I was in Mexico City at a bank," Maurice Stans said.

"I was reading FBI files," John Dean III said.

"I was cutting the budget," H. R. Haldeman replied.

"I'll tell you where John was," Martha Mitchell said.

"Martha, clam up," John Mitchell said.

"Well if I don't tell him, I'll tell United Press," Martha said.

"You see," Columbo said, shutting his notebook, "I knew this would all be a waste of time. I told them no one in the White House knows anything about the Watergate. Say, that is some rug. Do you mind if I take a picture of it to show the folks in Los Angeles?"

JUST THEN the Butler came in with Columbo's glass of orange juice.

"Thank you very much," Columbo said to the butler, "I didn't get your name."

"Alfonse, sir."

"Where were you on the night of the break-in, Alfonse?"

"I was polishing the silver."

"You're lying, Alfonse. You were at the Watergate."

"See here, Columbo," the President said, "you're relying on hearsay evidence."

"No, I'm not, Mr. President. This coaster that the orange juice was served on says 'Property of the Watergate Bar and Grill.' "

"My God!" said H. R. Haldeman, "the butler did it."

"WHY DIDN'T WE think of that?" John Dean III said.

"Thank heavens, Columbo, you discovered the culprit," John Mitchell said. "Now we can all sleep tonight."

Martha Mitchell piped, "Wait a minute, Mr. Columbo, there's a lot more to this than you think."

"Dammit Martha!" yelled John Mitchell, "will you keep your big trap shut?"

Take away your filter and what've you got?

A lot of brands are talking about their filters lately.

That's all well and good. The filter is an important part of your cigarette. (We know. We give you the most famous one of all: the Kent Micronite filter.)

But how many cigarettes have something to say about the other end? The tobacco end. The part that gives you what you smoke for. . . taste.

One brand that has plenty to say is Kent.

24 quality tobaccos are blended into each Kent. And we go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find them.

We also insist upon the lower-leaf tobaccos for Kent. They're a lot milder than the leaves at the top of the plant.

In fact, we place as much importance on our tobacco as we do on our famous filter.

Because without either one, we couldn't give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

Former Ballerina, Actress Doesn't Like To Talk Shop

By JOAN LISETOR

FORMER BALLERINA Moira Shearer will conclude a six-week lecture tour in the United States when she speaks Friday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael. She revealed she never really enjoyed ballet during a visit to Marin County prior to her talk. (I-J photo by Bob Hax)

Moira Shearer would rather talk about her family, politics — just about anything — more than ballet.

The former ballerina and actress is currently on an American lecture tour. She left her home in Scotland in mid-March and will return Friday following her final speaking engagement which will be at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

She is anxious to return home to her husband, Ludovic Kennedy, a writer and journalist, and their four children, aged 10 to 21, she said during a visit to Marin County.

Miss Shearer said she would neither encourage nor discourage her children if they choose to follow into her footsteps, but she is pleased that they show talents for drawing and painting.

"It is difficult to say you enjoy (performing) ballet. It is satisfying occasionally when you feel you have given a good performance, but that only happens about once every five years. Usually there is a flood of tears in the dressing room after a performance because of a mistake that the public does not even know you made," she said.

SHE BEGAN training when she was 10, and "when the war came along you used what you knew, whether you wanted to or not."

She began touring with a company when she was 15, and, because of the popularity of ballet in Britain during the war, was busy 52 weeks a year. They also toured Europe entertaining troops.

In 1947 she made the film, "The Red Shoes," which brought her international fame.

"I love acting, and switched to acting because it allowed a normal married life," she said.

"I had the great, good fortune of getting the role in 'I Am A Camera,' on which 'Cabaret' was based. It ran six or eight months. The timing was good because by then I had more children," she said.

Politics intervened in 1956, she said.

"You know the British loathe their political parties, the Labor and Conservative. They love the Labor party, but they have no courage to vote for it.

"REMEMBER THE Suez crisis, 1956? It incensed my husband, upset him enough to run for Parliament. He very nearly made it, but he is too nice and straightforward for politics," she said.

Kennedy is a journalist on the British Broadcasting Company and has written a book about Americans, "Very Lovely People," published by Simon and Schuster in 1970. Miss Shearer accompanied her husband on a promotion tour following the book's publication here. It was her first time in the United States in 15 years.

"I am enjoying this tour. I talk about the history of ballet. It's fascinating, but I have been in some strange places like a church with Christ looming over me, and I am not at all sure the things I was saying were suitable to a church setting," she said.

Miss Shearer rarely attends ballet today and is not at all familiar with changes that have taken place in the art, she said.

"I was not at all a dedicated dancer. I didn't choose (ballet) myself, and it didn't break my heart to stop dancing," she said.

For entertainment she prefers the straight theater or a good movie, she said.

MR. AND MRS. Henry J. Giambastiani enjoy the cards and gifts they received for their golden wedding Sunday at their home in San Rafael. They were married April 8, 1922, in San Francisco and have lived in San Rafael since 1946. (Independent-Journal photo)

Giambastianis Are Amazed How Fast 50 Years Passed

Fifty years ago Henry J. Giambastiani and Emma Giordani were married at Holy Redeemer Church in San Francisco, and now, celebrating their golden wedding, they wonder at how quickly the years have gone.

Living in the trim house on Antonette Avenue in San Rafael which they bought in 1946, they remember the golden wedding celebration they held there for his parents, the late Romualdo Giambastiani and his wife Rosina. For their own celebration on Sunday, the Giambastianis and their immediate family gathered for a dinner at the Green Mill Inn in Cotati.

Giambastiani knew Marin well, when they came to San Rafael in 1946. He was born in Inverness Park and lived there until he was 19 and went to work in San Francisco driving a truck. He continued work as a teamster from 1928 to 1966, commuting for some 20 years to his work with Coast Envelope Co. in San Francisco and South San Francisco.

Emma had come from her birthplace in Paganico, Lucca, Italy in 1920 with her aunt and uncle when she was 15. They came from San Francisco to bring her back from Italy.

"My uncle thought it would be an easier life in America because women didn't have to go out to work. Then women worked so hard in the fields and then would come home and cook," she explains. "It took 30 days to come. Now it takes less than a day."

Emma settled with her uncle and aunt in San Francisco and began to work at a cookie factory. The couple met in the city and after they were married they lived in a house on Ord Street. They raised two daughters, now Alice Kabanuck and Geraldine Lovatti, both of Novato, and Emma had become an American citizen.

Henry Giambastiani has been retired for seven years and he enjoys working in their well-kept garden. But he said of the neighborhood, "It's getting crowded. We moved from San Francisco because it was crowded and now it's getting crowded here."

His brother Louis lives just a block away, and his sister Julia Rosino also lives in San Rafael. His brother Emilio still lives in Inverness Park and another brother, Peter, resides in Forest Knolls.

Mrs. Giambastiani's family is in Italy, and she went to visit them for two and a half months in 1963.

"The whole town is related and people are closer there than here. I was busy all the time" she said of the visit. She would like to do it again someday. "Life is much better for people there now," she said.

Meantime, she is content, enjoying crocheting and embroidering, and working in a laundry part-time. "And I love the cooking". "She's a good cook all right," added Giambastiani.

The Giambastianis have four grandchildren, Glen, Gary and Cheryl Kabanuck, and Alan Lovatti, and they have two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Giambastiani is a long-time member of Court St. Raphael 1406, Catholic Daughters of America, and her husband is a member of Sons of Retirement and Teamsters Local 85.

"Fifty years went too fast," she commented. "It feels good," said he.

Brides Taking Natural Approach

Instead of hobbling down the aisle on yesterday's spiked heels and pointed-toed shoes, modern brides take the natural approach to fashion.

Today's back-to-nature style trend has liberated the foot and placed it in sandals and open-toed shoes to match casual-style peasant or Victorian gowns.

Omitted were the ingredients 1½ cups whipping cream and 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar.

Avoid Burns While Cooking

When toiling over a hot stove, turn pot handles to the rear to avoid a disastrous collision with what's cooking. Never wear loose-fitting clothes while cooking, for they might be ignited by burners. Keep dish towels and pot holders away from burners.

See that boiling liquids do not run over and avert your face when steam spouts from a bubbling pot. Use tongs to handle frying foods. Light your match before you turn on a gas burner.

Keep hands away from burners of electric stoves; they might be on without your being aware of it.

Marin Families To Host German Guests

By MOLLY MARIN

A reception is being given Thursday afternoon in the Redwood High School library for 20 visitors from Preetz, Germany, who will be house guests of Marin families for three weeks.

Most of the visitors have been involved in a student exchange program between families in Marin and Preetz and have either hosted exchange students in their homes or sent their children here.

The families want to sample the taste of America the German and American students have described, according to the coordinator of the visit, Mrs. James Moore of Kentfield, but group trips to Yosemite National Park, Bear Valley and the Sonoma Napa wine country are planned.

MARIN CIVIC Ballet Association members are hosting a reception for former ballerina and actress Moira Shearer Thursday evening in the Marin Civic Ballet Association Building in San Rafael.

CHRISTINE ANNE Humphrey of San Rafael will spend the summer working as a stewardess aboard trains in Switzerland.

ANOTHER YOUNG San Rafael woman planning a trip to Switzerland is Cynthia Joan Pareto, who will attend the American Fashion College of Switzerland.

The college is located in Lucerne and trains American students for careers in the fashion industry in the United States. Students visit European fashion capitols, Paris, Rome and Madrid, to enhance knowledge of famous designers, painters and European cultures.

Born in San Francisco April 3, 1880, Miss Allen was educated on the Isle of Man in Great Britain. She lived in Bolinas for many years before returning to San Francisco and then moving to San Rafael about 25 years ago.

Miss Allen has been active in the Red Cross and St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

Orchestra Wins Top Citation

The combined Santa Venetia School and Davidson Middle School orchestra of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students won a "comlmand performance" award Saturday at the California Music Educators Festival in Santa Rosa.

The award is given to those groups which receive a superior rating from each of three judges in the competition, said orchestra director Robert Jacobson.

The Marin group was among three of 25 competitors to get the top award, Jacobson said.

Youth Killed In Break-in Try

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A homeowner shot and fatally wounded a youth who police said appeared to be attempting to break into a house in Ingleside Terrace.

John Mona, 68, said he fired Monday night when he saw the youth on the ledge of his house.

The dead youth was identified tentatively as Vincent Barrow, 16, of San Francisco.

Mona's shot with a .22-caliber rifle struck the youth in the head and he fell 18 feet to a cement patio, police said.

Investigators reported finding a loaded 9-millimeter pistol and a pellet gun in the area where the youth fell.

No Reason Found For Jet Crash

By FRANK FARRARA

Capt. Michael D. Burmeister, 25, of Northfield. Minn., killed in the crash of an F-106 fighter jet plane four miles north of Novato Nov. 26., may have been distracted or disoriented before the crash.

An Air Force investigation board, which didn't list a cause, said the plane was in sound condition and there was no indication of "dereliction of duty or substandard performance on the part of anyone connected with the aircraft accident."

In testimony, Capt. Manly A. Ray Jr. of K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich., who observed the take-off, said: "The only opinion I have as to what caused the accident is that the wing man (Burmeister) may have been distracted or disoriented for some reason that is not known at this time."

Burmeister and Capt. David Kolodzinski had taken off for their home base in Michigan and disappeared into the overcast when Burmeister's plane crashed into a hill east of H Lane on a Sunday morning.

Testimony revealed that Capt. Burmeister, flying as wing man, had lost the leader, Kolodzinski, in the overcast.

Kolodzinski testified that at one point Burmeister "told me he had lost me. I said, 'Okay I'm on top, just 1,100 feet, go ahead and get in trail with me'."

The control tower had noticed that the speed brakes on Burmeister's plane were open on takeoff and a radio message was sent to him.

Capt. Paul R. Henderson of the 4661st Air Base Group at Hamilton Air Force Base, who was in charge of the investigation, asked Kolodzinski if Burmeister was still on his wing at the time of the message about the speed brakes.

"The transmission came after the first time I had seen him flying what I thought was a position off my aircraft," Kolodzinski replied.

"I'm trying to establish here whether he received this call at this point and might have diverted his attention into the cockpit to see if his speed brakes were, indeed, retracting. Is it quite possible this could have happened?," Col. Henderson asked.

Kolodzinski replied, "It is possible because I waited a considerable length of time, at least more than normal before I rogered the call, expecting him to say 'yes, my boards were open' or 'have got them closed now,' so I rogered the call when he said nothing."

Despite the speed brakes being open on takeoff, observers said he was still holding his position on the lead plane until he disappeared into the overcast, the investigation board reported. The ceiling was 300 feet and there was three miles visibility.

Investigation also showed that the speed brake actuators were fully retracted and locked on impact, and even if they had remained open that wouldn't have created sufficient drag to prevent Burmeister's plane from climbing through the overcast, the report said.

Kolodzinski said that when Burmeister didn't return his calls, he started looking for him and, when he rolled his plane to the left, noticed "dark gray smoke that had come up through the overcast."

Investigators reported Burmeister's plane was "operational ready" and one of the best in the 87th Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

Although Burmeister had made no emergency calls, there was no evidence of radio malfunction, the board reported.

Burmeister was "physically fit," experienced in flying the F-106 and had sufficient rest before the flight, the board said.

Burmeister had been to dinner in San Francisco with Kolodzinski and Ray the evening before the flight and had two beers and one mixed drink over a four-hour period, the board said. He retired at 11:30 p.m. and arose about 8 a.m. and was reported alert before takeoff, the board said.

An autopsy indicated no physical condition that would have caused Burmeister to lose control of the plane, the board reported.

Volunteer Bureau Picks Up

The Volunteer Bureau of Marin County has announced a 20 per cent increase in registration of new volunteers since Feb. 11.

Executive director Marion R. Kelley credits the rise with an advertisement run in the Independent-Journal during the seven-week period of Feb. 11 through March 31.

"In both February and March, we received a definite increase in phone calls from people who are employed daily, often out of the county, but who nonetheless want to get involved," Kelley said.

"We can conclude that advertising in the I-J has boosted our registration statistics by at least 20 per cent during the seven-week period of Feb. 11 through March 31, 1973," Kelley said.

The volunteer bureau, a member agency of United Crusade, has offices at 725 A Street in San Rafael.

$20,372 From Charity Walk

With only half the pledges collected so far, young participants in the March 3 "happiness walk" benefit for the United Cerebral Palsy Association had turned in $20,372 by yesterday.

Mimi Zellers, publicity chairman for the fund campaign said at least 500 more of the 1,000-plus hikers who participated are expected to turn in their pledges by Friday.

The Marin hikers had planned to walk 20 miles; the marathon was cut short by rain, but almost all donors have met their pledges for the full distance, Miss Zellers said. Similar hikes were held in four other counties, with free trips to Disneyland promised to the 10 hikers in the Bay Area who collect the most contributions.

Six-Month Jail Stay Is Ordered

A 25-year-old San Rafael man, who stole a banquet in liquor and frozen food from a San Rafael restaurant, was given six months in jail or a treatment facility yesterday for the felony burglary.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Philip Bryan Crist on probation for three years and directed him to pay $158 for food that spoiled after he stole it Dec. 30 from the Medallion restaurant.

Crist's probation officer, Patricia L. Schuman, said he is "on a treadmill of alcohol acting as a catalyst leading to violence and consequential law violations."

Crist told her he broke into the restaurant "out of curiosity" and believes alcohol gives him power. However, Crist promised the judge not to drink during his probationary years.

He was in jail for being drunk the day after the burglary when the stolen food and drink were found in his house.

How Can She Convince Hubby He Should Go To Law School?

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My husband and I married right out of junior college. We're very happy, but he has one regret. He wants to be a lawyer and he's got the brains for it, but he didn't continue his education.

There's a good law school at the university here, and Don could get his degree by going to night classes. Later, with me working, he could take a year off and really hit the books until he passes his bar exam.

But —we're both 26 and have two children, and while he burns with ambition, he says it would take at least ten years (taking time out for family and work). I point out that he loves to study, so it wouldn't be such a grind — and we'd all help.

What else can I say to inspire my man when he groans, "But in ten years I'll be middle-aged!"? — MRS. T. J.

DEAR MRS. J.;

Ask your husband how old he'll be in ten years. When he answers, "Thirty-six," then ask, "And how old will you be in ten years if you've passed the bar exam?"

Point out the answer is still "Thirty-six," so what has he got to lose — except some evening TV he won't really miss if he wants that degree badly enough. Then aim him toward the college registrar's office before he has time to argue. Good luck! — SUE

DEAR MRS. J.:

And remind him that at 36, a man won't feel "middle-aged" if he has a brand new career ahead of him. Rather, he'll be starting a great second life.

Your husband is a lucky fellow: He's blessed with brains, burns with ambition, and — equally important —he's got a wife who won't let the fire go out! — HELEN

RAP:

I am a guy who just got braces on his teeth. My girlfriend and I were getting along fine, and I'd just got to the point of kissing her, but now she won't kiss me anymore. She's my first girlfriend.

She gives flimsy excuses. She doesn't have to be scared of cutting her lips. If I have to wait two years for a kiss, I'd just as soon have crooked teeth.

Any suggestions? — TOOTH FAIRY

T.F.:

It takes awhile adjusting to braces (and you should know!) Kiss your girl on the cheek until she gets accustomed. — SUE

T.:

. . .And if she doesn't allow even that, maybe it's not the braces but the boy who turns her off. In other words, don't expect to keep one girlfriend forever. — HELEN

HELEN AND SUE:

For years my family has had a serious problem with weekend relatives. We live on a beautiful, average-sized farm. Aunts, uncles, cousins and second cousins consider it their second home. They never let us know they're coming, just drop in, making our private home open house every Saturday and Sunday.

We don't want hurt feelings —we love our relatives — but hints dropped are useless, and if we avoid them by going away, they just move in and take over anyway. Don't say "Give them a taste of their own medicine." We weren't brought up to intrude without invitations.

R.R.:

It appears you've been brought up to be gracious hosts no matter how you're put-upon. The antidote? If honesty is too harsh, then try "doctor's orders." Your mother must be "terribly tired and run down" from all this company, so get the word around that she needs more rest, less relatives. — HELEN

RAGGED:

And if that doesn't work, then stop being so "well brought up" and move in on your relatives as much as they move in on you. . .and bring friends. You deserve a few fun weekends in the city! — SUE

Music Classes To Begin For Children Tomorrow

The Marin Jewish Community Center will start music classes for children tomorrow using the Emile Jaques-Dalcroze concept that every child is basically musical and endowed with natural rhythmic movement.

Through a combination of imaginative responses to musical sounds, bodily responses to rhythmic patterns and creative improvisation at the piano the child will be introduced to music.

Classes for kindergartners will begin at 1:30 p.m. with preschoolers following at 2:30 p.m. and first and second graders at 3:30 p.m.

For further information contact Barbara Figone at the Marin Jewish Community Center in San Rafael, where classes will be held.

Broken Glass Poses Problem

Picking up broken glass or china often poses a problem. First sweep up as much of the debris as you can and put it in a paper bag or wrap it securely so the person who handles your trash will not risk being lacerated.

The remaining splinters can be vacuumed away or picked up with a dampened paper towel. Never try to pick up the pieces with your bare hands; wear gloves.

A Tidy Kitchen Is Safe Kitchen

Maintain a tidy kitchen. Wipe all spills immediately. Clean the stove regularly as a precaution against grease fires. Keep a supply of fire-quenching baking soda close at hand.

If you use chemical cleaners, store them out of reach of children and away from heat. Use non-skid wax on the floor.

Former Ballerina, Actress Doesn't Like To Talk Shop

By JOAN LISETOR

FORMER BALLERINA Moira Shearer will conclude a six-week lecture tour in the United States when she speaks Friday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael. She revealed she never really enjoyed ballet during a visit to Marin County prior to her talk. (I-J photo by Bob Hax)

Moira Shearer would rather talk about her family, politics — just about anything — more than ballet.

The former ballerina and actress is currently on an American lecture tour. She left her home in Scotland in mid-March and will return Friday following her final speaking engagement which will be at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

She is anxious to return home to her husband, Ludovic Kennedy, a writer and journalist, and their four children, aged 10 to 21, she said during a visit to Marin County.

Miss Shearer said she would neither encourage nor discourage her children if they choose to follow into her footsteps, but she is pleased that they show talents for drawing and painting.

"It is difficult to say you enjoy (performing) ballet. It is satisfying occasionally when you feel you have given a good performance, but that only happens about once every five years. Usually there is a flood of tears in the dressing room after a performance because of a mistake that the public does not even know you made," she said.

SHE BEGAN training when she was 10, and "when the war came along you used what you knew, whether you wanted to or not."

She began touring with a company when she was 15, and, because of the popularity of ballet in Britain during the war, was busy 52 weeks a year. They also toured Europe entertaining troops.

In 1947 she made the film, "The Red Shoes," which brought her international fame.

"I love acting, and switched to acting because it allowed a normal married life," she said.

"I had the great, good fortune of getting the role in 'I Am A Camera,' on which 'Cabaret' was based. It ran six or eight months. The timing was good because by then I had more children," she said.

Politics intervened in 1956, she said.

"You know the British loathe their political parties, the Labor and Conservative. They love the Labor party, but they have no courage to vote for it.

"REMEMBER THE Suez crisis, 1956? It incensed my husband, upset him enough to run for Parliament. He very nearly made it, but he is too nice and straightforward for politics," she said.

Kennedy is a journalist on the British Broadcasting Company and has written a book about Americans, "Very Lovely People," published by Simon and Schuster in 1970. Miss Shearer accompanied her husband on a promotion tour following the book's publication here. It was her first time in the United States in 15 years.

"I am enjoying this tour. I talk about the history of ballet. It's fascinating, but I have been in some strange places like a church with Christ looming over me, and I am not at all sure the things I was saying were suitable to a church setting," she said.

Miss Shearer rarely attends ballet today and is not at all familiar with changes that have taken place in the art, she said.

"I was not at all a dedicated dancer. I didn't choose (ballet) myself, and it didn't break my heart to stop dancing," she said.

For entertainment she prefers the straight theater or a good movie, she said.

MR. AND MRS. Henry J. Giambastiani enjoy the cards and gifts they received for their golden wedding Sunday at their home in San Rafael. They were married April 8, 1922, in San Francisco and have lived in San Rafael since 1946.

Giambastianis Are Amazed How Fast 50 Years Passed

Fifty years ago Henry J. Giambastiani and Emma Giordani were married at Holy Redeemer Church in San Francisco, and now, celebrating their golden wedding, they wonder at how quickly the years have gone.

Living in the trim house on Antonette Avenue in San Rafael which they bought in 1946, they remember the golden wedding celebration they held there for his parents, the late Romualdo Giambastiani and his wife Rosina. For their own celebration on Sunday, the Giambastianis and their immediate family gathered for a dinner at the Green Mill Inn in Cotati.

Giambastiani knew Marin well, when they came to San Rafael in 1946. He was born in Inverness Park and lived there until he was 19 and went to work in San Francisco driving a truck. He continued work as a teamster from 1928 to 1966, commuting for some 20 years to his work with Coast Envelope Co. in San Francisco and South San Francisco.

Emma had come from her birthplace in Paganico, Lucca, Italy in 1920 with her aunt and uncle when she was 15. They came from San Francisco to bring her back from Italy.

"My uncle thought it would be an easier life in America because women didn't have to go out to work. Then women worked so hard in the fields and then would come home and cook," she explains. "It took 30 days to come. Now it takes less than a day."

Emma settled with her uncle and aunt in San Francisco and began to work at a cookie factory. The couple met in the city and after they were married they lived in a house on Ord Street. They raised two daughters, now Alice Kabanuck and Geraldine Lovatti, both of Novato, and Emma had become an American citizen.

Henry Giambastiani has been retired for seven years and he enjoys working in their well-kept garden. But he said of the neighborhood, "It's getting crowded. We moved from San Francisco because it was crowded and now it's getting crowded here."

His brother Louis lives just a block away, and his sister Julia Rosino also lives in San Rafael. His brother Emilio still lives in Inverness Park and another brother, Peter, resides in Forest Knolls.

Mrs. Giambastiani's family is in Italy, and she went to visit them for two and a half months in 1963.

"The whole town is related and people are closer there than here. I was busy all the time" she said of the visit. She would like to do it again someday. "Life is much better for people there now," she said.

Meantime, she is content, enjoying crocheting and embroidering, and working in a laundry part-time. "And I love the cooking". "She's a good cook all right," added Giambastiani.

The Giambastianis have four grandchildren, Glen, Gary and Cheryl Kabanuck, and Alan Lovatti, and they have two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Giambastiani is a long-time member of Court St. Ra*phael 1406, Catholic Daughters* of America, and her husband is a member of Sons of Retirement and Teamsters Local 85.

"Fifty years went too fast," she commented. "It feels good," said he.

Brides Taking Natural Approach

Instead of hobbling down the aisle on yesterday's spiked heels and pointed-toed shoes, modern brides take the natural approach to fashion.

Today's back-to-nature style trend has liberated the foot and placed it in sandals and open-toed shoes to match casual-style peasant or Victorian gowns.

Lines Dropped From Receipe

Two lines of type were omitted from the Peaches and Cream Squares recipe that appeared in Wednesday's Independent-Journal.

Omitted were the ingredients 1½ cups whipping cream and 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar.

Marin Families To Host German Guests

By MOLLY MARIN

A reception is being given Thursday afternoon in the Redwood High School library for 20 visitors from Preetz, Germany, who will be house guests of Marin families for three weeks.

Most of the visitors have been involved in a student exchange program between families in Marin and Preetz and have either hosted exchange students in their homes or sent their children here.

The families want to sample the taste of America the German and American students have described, according to the coordinator of the visit, Mrs. James Moore of Kentfield, but group trips to Yosemite National Park, Bear Valley and the Sonoma Napa wine country are planned.

MARIN CIVIC Ballet Association members are hosting a reception for former ballerina and actress Moira Shearer Thursday evening in the Marin Civic Ballet Association Building in San Rafael.

CHRISTINE ANNE Humphrey of San Rafael will spend the summer working as a stewardess aboard trains in Switzerland.

ANOTHER YOUNG San Rafael woman planning a trip to Switzerland is Cynthia Joan Pareto, who will attend the American Fashion College of Switzerland.

The college is located in Lucerne and trains American students for careers in the fashion industry in the United States. Students visit European fashion capitols, Paris, Rome and Madrid, to enhance knowledge of famous designers, painters and European cultures.

Born in San Francisco April 3, 1880, Miss Allen was educated on the Isle of Man in Great Britain. She lived in Bolinas for many years before returning to San Francisco and then moving to San Rafael about 25 years ago.

Miss Allen has been active in the Red Cross and St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

Avoid Burns While Cooking

When toiling over a hot stove, turn pot handles to the rear to avoid a disastrous collision with what's cooking. Never wear loose-fitting clothes while cooking, for they might be ignited by burners. Keep dish towels and pot holders away from burners.

See that boiling liquids do not run over and avert your face when steam spouts from a bubbling pot. Use tongs to handle frying foods. Light your match before you turn on a gas burner.

Keep hands away from burners of electric stoves; they might be on without your being aware of it.

Manufacturers Following 'Handsteps' Of The Young

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

Has the individual handcraftsman always been the true design leader? It seems so. Especially when one observes how manufacturers have been following right in the "handsteps" of our young creative talents. For example: batik fabrics.

A few years ago, student designers at our colleges rediscovered a dyeing technique that had originated in the Dutch East Indies. They found they could cre te original, hand-printed fabrics by immersing cotton cloth into bowls or vats of various colored dyes. Parts of the fabric that were to remain unpatterned were treated to a coating of wax. When the fabric dried, the wax could be removed to reveal white or solid colored areas. That finished fabric design is called batik.

NOW, FINDING these hand-printed fabrics popular with a new generation of consumers, several companies have introduced machine-printed batik-type fabrics. And while we prefer the idea of the handmade originals, these prints do fill the need for families interested in the traditional arts — but without the time and talent to create their own.

One of the most comprehensive lines of these batik-inspired prints is the Nomadics collection from Bloomcraft. This firm has correlated table covers, draperies, bedspreads and pillows in a cotton batik motif. And the result is a nicely exotic feeling that moves a little into the Far Eastern scope.

The bed setting illustrated today combines this batik look with solid cane patterning. Wide borders of the wax-resistant patterns lend themselves to use as valance ruffles, bedspread drops and tablecloth borders, and Bloomcraft has made the most of this bordering technique.

ANOTHER IDEA that some manufacturers have copied from young and old craftswomen is the patchwork look so topical among creative stitchers. But it's a look we don't get tired of because there's infinite variety to the way patches of fabric can be strung together. There's always room for one more interpretation of patchwork, just as there'll always be another fresh idea developed out of the batik wax-resistant process. Manufacturers will have to run to keep up.

DEOCRATING IDEAS travel. This East Indies batik-inspired print can trace its heritage to a recent revival of the technique in America, then back to the Dutch East Indies where it originated. This version of Nomadics correlated furnishings gives the bedroom an Eastern flavor.

Buy Approved Appliances Only

Appliances should bear the stamp of the Underwriter's Laboratories and should be kept in good repair. Frayed or worn cords should be replaced. Insert only one electrical device into one circuit unless your electrician advises otherwise.

Plug the cord into the appliance and then into the wall outlet. Disconnect it in reverse order — from the wall and then from the appliance. Take hold of the plug; don't yank the cord. Never plug appliances into electric light sockets, which are intended to handle less current.

Seeds Kept Fresh By New Packs

Brand new for 1973, "Life Lock" packets are the latest scientific advance of a major seed company. This new type of packaging locks damaging moisture out of seeds. The seed technicians report that the new packaging is effective in preserving harvest-freshness in seeds of sensitive varieties. Some kinds of flower and vegetable seeds lose their growing power much faster than others. The new packages lock the harvest-freshness in such seeds.

Tasty but sometimes touchy vegetables include lettuce, onions, parsley and peppers. Regardless of storage or environmental conditions the seed technicians say the packets hold seeds in harvest-fresh vitality until the packets are opened at planting time. Tests show the packets keep the seeds at peak power, the company says.

GENERATION RAP

How Can She Convince Hubby He Should Go To Law School?

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My husband and I married right out of junior college. We're very happy, but he has one regret. He wants to be a lawyer and he's got the brains for it, but he didn't continue his education.

There's a good law school at the university here, and Don could get his degree by going to night classes. Later, with me working, he could take a year off and really hit the books until he passes his bar exam.

But —we're both 26 and have two children, and while he burns with ambition, he says it would take at least ten years (taking time out for family and work). I point out that he loves to study, so it wouldn't be such a grind — and we'd all help.

What else can I say to inspire my man when he groans, "But in ten years I'll be middle-aged!"? — MRS. T. J.

DEAR MRS. J.;

Ask your husband how old he'll be in ten years. When he answers, "Thirty-six," then ask, "And how old will you be in ten years if you've passed the bar exam?"

Point out the answer is still "Thirty-six," so what has he got to lose — except some evening TV he won't really miss if he wants that degree badly enough. Then aim him toward the college registrar's office before he has time to argue. Good luck! — SUE

DEAR MRS. J.:

And remind him that at 36, a man won't feel "middle-aged" if he has a brand new career ahead of him. Rather, he'll be starting a great second life.

Your husband is a lucky fellow: He's blessed with brains, burns with ambition, and — equally important —he's got a wife who won't let the fire go out! — HELEN

RAP:

I am a guy who just got braces on his teeth. My girlfriend and I were getting along fine, and I'd just got to the point of kissing her, but now she won't kiss me anymore. She's my first girlfriend.

She gives flimsy excuses. She doesn't have to be scared of cutting her lips. If I have to wait two years for a kiss, I'd just as soon have crooked teeth.

Any suggestions? — TOOTH FAIRY

T.F.:

It takes awhile adjusting to braces (and you should know!) Kiss your girl on the cheek until she gets accustomed. — SUE

T.:

. . .And if she doesn't allow even that, maybe it's not the braces but the boy who turns her off. In other words, don't expect to keep one girlfriend forever. — HELEN

HELEN AND SUE:

For years my family has had a serious problem with weekend relatives. We live on a beautiful, average-sized farm. Aunts, uncles, cousins and second cousins consider it their second home. They never let us know they're coming, just drop in, making our private home open house every Saturday and Sunday.

We don't want hurt feelings —we love our relatives — but hints dropped are useless, and if we avoid them by going away, they just move in and take over anyway. Don't say "Give them a taste of their own medicine." We weren't brought up to intrude without invitations.

R.R.:

It appears you've been brought up to be gracious hosts no matter how you're put-upon. The antidote? If honesty is too harsh, then try "doctor's orders." Your mother must be "terribly tired and run down" from all this company, so get the word around that she needs more rest, less relatives. — HELEN

RAGGED:

And if that doesn't work, then stop being so "well brought up" and move in on your relatives as much as they move in on you. . .and bring friends. You deserve a few fun weekends in the city! — SUE

Music Classes To Begin For Children Tomorrow

The Marin Jewish Community Center will start music classes for children tomorrow using the Emile Jaques-Dalcroze concept that every child is basically musical and endowed with natural rhythmic movement.

Through a combination of imaginative responses to musical sounds, bodily responses to rhythmic patterns and creative improvisation at the piano the child will be introduced to music.

Classes for kindergartners will begin at 1:30 p.m. with preschoolers following at 2:30 p.m. and first and second graders at 3:30 p.m.

For further information contact Barbara Figone at the Marin Jewish Community Center in San Rafael, where classes will be held.

Broken Glass Poses Problem

Picking up broken glass or china often poses a problem. First sweep up as much of the debris as you can and put it in a paper bag or wrap it securely so the person who handles your trash will not risk being lacerated.

The remaining splinters can be vacuumed away or picked up with a dampened paper towel. Never try to pick up the pieces with your bare hands; wear gloves.

A Tidy Kitchen Is Safe Kitchen

Maintain a tidy kitchen. Wipe all spills immediately. Clean the stove regularly as a precaution against grease fires. Keep a supply of fire-quenching baking soda close at hand.

If you use chemical cleaners, store them out of reach of children and away from heat. Use non-skid wax on the floor.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Baffling birthplaces! Yes, the test today is to figure out in which country these notables were born — the United States, Germany, Hungary, or England?

1. CLARE BOOTHE LUCE, 70 today, has had a career as a playwright, war correspondent, congresswoman, essayist, radio-television commentator, bathing beauty, magazine editor, ambassador, ecologist, painter and women's rights leader. A reporter once asked if her experience as the Ambassador to Italy was difficult because she was a woman and she replied: "I couldn't possibly tell you. I have never been a man." She was born in — ?

2. GEORGE ARLISS, who lived to age 78, was Hollywood's great man — cast in such roles as Disraeli, Voltaire, Alexander Hamilton, Cardinal Richelieu and Rothschild. Yes, he even portrayed "The Devil" on stage in 1908 and ended his acting career in 1938 as "Dr. Syn." He and Norma Shearer were the Academy Award winners in 1929-30. He was born in — ?

3. HENRY VILLARD (1835-1900) began his journalism career by reporting the Lincoln-Douglas debates. Then he formed his own news agency in the nation's capital, followed by studies of the financial structure of banks and railroads which made him so expert he became a president of the latter. But he never lost interest in journalism, buying controlling interest in New York "Evening Post." He was born in — ?

4. JOSEPH PULITZER (1947-1911) was another 19th century rags to riches success story. After serving in the Union Army, he became a reporter in St. Louis, found a clever way to make money by buying a defunct newspaper and selling its subscription list. Soon he controlled the St. Louis "Dispatch" and the New York "World." Journalism prizes are given today in his honor. He was born in — ?

ANSWERS: 1 - Luce (U.S.A.); 2 - Arliss (England); 3 - Villard (Germany); 4 - Pulitzer (Hungary).

HOW TO PLAY

REFUSES TRICK

West opened the five of hearts, and South refused the first trick. This did no particular good, for West returned another heart to force out the ace.

Now South had to plan his play carefully. He had to hope for a reasonable division of the diamonds, for his contract depended on winning four diamond tricks.

NOT SLAM-BANG

A slam-bang type of player would lay down the ace and king of diamonds and would then give up the third round of diamonds. The suit would break, but South would lose his game contract. The defenders would never give him the chance to get back to his hand for the king of spades, and declarer would therefore make only eight tricks. The defenders would get three hearts, one diamond and one club.

The correct play is to give away a diamond at the very first opportunity. The defenders take their two heart tricks, and South can throw away two low clubs from his hand.

IN POSITION

South is then in position to take the rest of the tricks. No matter what the defenders do, South can take dummy's ace of spades, get to his hand with a high diamond to cash the king of spades, clear the other high diamond and then enter dummy with a high club to take the rest of the diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

Respond in a suit rather than in notrump whenever you can afford to do so. When you have a choice of four-card suits, respond in the cheaper suit. It is cheaper to bid one heart than to bid one spade.

Students Help Attack Graffiti

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — High school art students are cooperating with the New Zealand Railways Department in an experiment to clean up graffiti covered walls.

Students at Porirua, near here, painted attractive pictures and designs over smutty pictures and poetry in a pedestrian subway.

Rail commuters have praised the school art designs.

The railways say it will examine the walls after two months to see if the graffiti artists have been discouraged.

Manufacturers Following 'Handsteps' Of The Young

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

Has the individual handcraftsman always been the true design leader? It seems so. Especially when one observes how manufacturers have been following right in the "handsteps" of our young creative talents. For example: batik fabrics.

A few years ago, student designers at our colleges rediscovered a dyeing technique that had originated in the Dutch East Indies. They found they could cre te original, hand-printed fabrics by immersing cotton cloth into bowls or vats of various colored dyes. Parts of the fabric that were to remain unpatterned were treated to a coating of wax. When the fabric dried, the wax could be removed to reveal white or solid colored areas. That finished fabric design is called batik.

NOW, FINDING these hand-printed fabrics popular with a new generation of consumers, several companies have introduced machine-printed batik-type fabrics. And while we prefer the idea of the handmade originals, these prints do fill the need for families interested in the traditional arts — but without the time and talent to create their own.

One of the most comprehensive lines of these batik-inspired prints is the Nomadics collection from Bloomcraft. This firm has correlated table covers, draperies, bedspreads and pillows in a cotton batik motif. And the result is a nicely exotic feeling that moves a little into the Far Eastern scope.

The bed setting illustrated today combines this batik look with solid cane patterning. Wide borders of the wax-resistant patterns lend themselves to use as valance ruffles, bedspread drops and tablecloth borders, and Bloomcraft has made the most of this bordering technique.

ANOTHER IDEA that some manufacturers have copied from young and old craftswomen is the patchwork look so topical among creative stitchers. But it's a look we don't get tired of because there's infinite variety to the way patches of fabric can be strung together. There's always room for one more interpretation of patchwork, just as there'll always be another fresh idea developed out of the batik wax-resistant process. Manufacturers will have to run to keep up.

DEOCRATING IDEAS travel. This East Indies batik-inspired print can trace its heritage to a recent revival of the technique in America, then back to the Dutch East Indies where it originated. This version of Nomadics correlated furnishings gives the bedroom an Eastern flavor.

Buy Approved Appliances Only

Appliances should bear the stamp of the Underwriter's Laboratories and should be kept in good repair. Frayed or worn cords should be replaced. Insert only one electrical device into one circuit unless your electrician advises otherwise.

Plug the cord into the appliance and then into the wall outlet. Disconnect it in reverse order — from the wall and then from the appliance. Take hold of the plug; don't yank the cord. Never plug appliances into electric light sockets, which are intended to handle less current.

Seeds Kept Fresh By New Packs

Brand new for 1973, "Life Lock" packets are the latest scientific advance of a major seed company. This new type of packaging locks damaging moisture out of seeds. The seed technicians report that the new packaging is effective in preserving harvest-freshness in seeds of sensitive varieties. Some kinds of flower and vegetable seeds lose their growing power much faster than others. The new packages lock the harvest-freshness in such seeds.

Tasty but sometimes touchy vegetables include lettuce, onions, parsley and peppers. Regardless of storage or environmental conditions the seed technicians say the packets hold seeds in harvest-fresh vitality until the packets are opened at planting time. Tests show the packets keep the seeds at peak power, the company says.

BIRD? PLANE? COLLAR STAY?

In her March 16 review of artist Maggie Hazell-Rosen's painting (above) Independent-Journal art critic Ada Garfinkel asked, "Planes in flight, flying geese, or Indian symbols?" The question of where an artist may have found inspiration for the creation of beauty was answered by I-J subscriber Kay Poulson who furnished the design (right) and wrote: "Those of us who are patrons of the Vogue Cleaners had no trouble at all identifying the inspiration. . .the flying objects are cardboard insertions used to hold the collars of men's shirts. . .the idea, however, was novel."

Concurrent Term For Auto Theft

Danny Ray Pyles, 24, of Novato, given one year in jail last week on a robbery charge, received a concurrent term yesterday for stealing a car to flee the robbery count.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also gave Pyles a suspended prison sentence and five years' probation on the charge that he embezzled a car Jan. 6 from Pacific Car Rental in San Rafael.

After a cross-country journey with three teen-agers, he was caught Jan. 23 in Maryland and returned to Marin for trial on a felony charge of helping rob a 79-year-old invalid.

A jury convicted him last month of robbing Ralph D. Hoy last June 28. He then admitted embezzling the car on condition he received concurrent sentences.

His brother, Leonard Franklin Pyles, 20, also fled the January trial and was last seen in Georgia, according to San Rafael police Inspector Bart Stinson.

The third defendant in the robbery case, 25-year-old Paul Brent Caldwell of Sonoma, was acquitted.

The three and a 13-year-old boy were arrested on suspicion of being the four persons that went to Hoy's San Rafael home on the pretext of having a set repaired, but instead held a toy pistol to his head, took $300 and knocked him from his wheelchair.

MUSIC REVIEW

Japanese Violinist Pleases The Crowd

By VERA M. OLMSTED

The engaging young Japanese violinist, Teiko Maehashi, gave a recital of varied concert pieces last night at the Veterans Memorial Building for the Marin Concert Association's last program of the season.

A good showing of the association's approximately 1,400 subscribers went a good way toward filling the 2,000-seat auditorium.

Miss Maehashi's tone was warm and mellow rather than brilliant, but her playing was strong and secure and her stage presence was very appealing.

Her opening work was "Nigun" from the "Baal Shem" Suite by Ernest Bloch. Bloch weaves Hebraic melodies and harmonies in the movement to give the effect of an improvised florid monophonic chant.

The next work, Mozart's Sonata in G Major (K. 301), assigns equal roles to the violin and piano. Miss Maehashi was extremely fortunate in her choice of Nathan Schwartz, bay area pianist, as her accompanist. The piano has a very prominent part in this sonata, and Schwartz's sensitive and elegant playing pointed up Mozart's lovely lyric sections, while the rapid passages were executed with precision.

There was a change in programming and Johannes Brahms's Sonata in D Minor, Opus 108 was played instead of the Cesar Franck sonata. This rich and dark work is varied in its moods, and the finale is a powerful and fierce movement which Miss Maehashi played with firm bow strokes and controlled excitement.

Three Caprices for unaccompanied violin by Niccolo Paganini were presented next. These virtuoso pieces were written to show off the ability of the violinist and are not themselves interesting musically. Miss Maehashi whipped through the arpeggio trills and multiple stops with ease.

A poem for violin and piano, "La Fontaine D'Arethuse," by Polish composer Karol Szymanowski describes ancient legends in a programmatic work that is technically demanding. Its flowing lines and impressionistic color effects, such as ethereal glissandos, were effectively interpreted by Miss Maehashi.

The last work and obvious audience favorite was the familiar Introduction et Rondo Capriccioso, Opus 28, by Saint-Saens. The balance between violin and piano was excellent, they maintained the drive of the piece without letting it sound rushed. This brilliant work proved the ideal final number, and Miss Maehashi rounded out the evening by giving the large audience two encores.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Even In Bridge, Pick The Right Time To Bestow Diamond

Many a man has found himself in trouble because he has given away a diamond at the wrong time, and the same thing can happen to a bridge player.

REFUSES TRICK

West opened the five of hearts, and South refused the first trick. This did no particular good, for West returned another heart to force out the ace.

Now South had to plan his play carefully. He had to hope for a reasonable division of the diamonds, for his contract depended on winning four diamond tricks.

NOT SLAM-BANG

A slam-bang type of player would lay down the ace and king of diamonds and would then give up the third round of diamonds. The suit would break, but South would lose his game contract. The defenders would never give him the chance to get back to his hand for the king of spades, and declarer would therefore make only eight tricks. The defenders would get three hearts, one diamond and one club.

The correct play is to give away a diamond at the very first opportunity. The defenders take their two heart tricks, and South can throw away two low clubs from his hand.

IN POSITION

South is then in position to take the rest of the tricks. No matter what the defenders do, South can take dummy's ace of spades, get to his hand with a high diamond to cash the king of spades, clear the other high diamond and then enter dummy with a high club to take the rest of the diamonds.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

Respond in a suit rather than in notrump whenever you can afford to do so. When you have a choice of four-card suits, respond in the cheaper suit. It is cheaper to bid one heart than to bid one spade.

Students Help Attack Graffiti

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — High school art students are cooperating with the New Zealand Railways Department in an experiment to clean up graffiti covered walls.

Students at Porirua, near here, painted attractive pictures and designs over smutty pictures and poetry in a pedestrian subway.

Rail commuters have praised the school art designs.

The railways say it will examine the walls after two months to see if the graffiti artists have been discouraged.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Baffling birthplaces! Yes, the test today is to figure out in which country these notables were born — the United States, Germany, Hungary, or England?

1. CLARE BOOTHE LUCE, 70 today, has had a career as a playwright, war correspondent, congresswoman, essayist, radio-television commentator, bathing beauty, magazine editor, ambassador, ecologist, painter and women's rights leader. A reporter once asked if her experience as the Ambassador to Italy was difficult because she was a woman and she replied: "I couldn't possibly tell you. I have never been a man." She was born in — ?

2. GEORGE ARLISS, who lived to age 78, was Hollywood's great man — cast in such roles as Disraeli, Voltaire, Alexander Hamilton, Cardinal Richelieu and Rothschild. Yes, he even portrayed "The Devil" on stage in 1908 and ended his acting career in 1938 as "Dr. Syn." He and Norma Shearer were the Academy Award winners in 1929-30. He was born in — ?

3. HENRY VILLARD (1835-1900) began his journalism career by reporting the Lincoln-Douglas debates. Then he formed his own news agency in the nation's capital, followed by studies of the financial structure of banks and railroads which made him so expert he became a president of the latter. But he never lost interest in journalism, buying controlling interest in New York "Evening Post." He was born in — ?

4. JOSEPH PULITZER (1947-1911) was another 19th century rags to riches success story. After serving in the Union Army, he became a reporter in St. Louis, found a clever way to make money by buying a defunct newspaper and selling its subscription list. Soon he controlled the St. Louis "Dispatch" and the New York "World." Journalism prizes are given today in his honor. He was born in — ?

Tiburon Council Extends Time Limit For Downtown Parking

Parking on the south side of Tiburon Boulevard between Beach Road and Juanita Lane will be allowed for one hour from now on, the Tiburon City Council decided last night.

The council voted unanimously to increase the time limit from 24 minutes at the request of the Downtown Merchants Association.

Councilman Allan N. Littman called the action "only an interim solution" to problems of traffic congestion in the downtown area and said the city "should move full speed ahead in forming a parking district" to finance permanent parking improvements.

Councilman Branwell D. Fanning objected that the 24-minute limit originally was set up to halt double parking by increasing the number of spaces available, but in the end he joined the other four councilmen in voting for the measure.

In other action at one of the shortest meetings in recent memory, the council applied for $117,822 in federal disaster relief funds for damage to city property, mostly streets and rights-of-way, caused by heavy rains Jan. 12-18.

The bulk of the damage, City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said, was done by a landslide from a steep slope down onto Tiburon Boulevard between Mar West and Mar East streets.

Some of the aid requests may not be granted, Balmer said, but if this happens the city will apply to the state for disaster relief for those items.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SMITH — Continued to May 14 second reading on prezoning and rezoning 102 acres on Paradise Drive to limited agricultural use. Architect Neill Smith has requested the action to build an ecology school on the site. The matter was delayed to allow city staff time to prepare an environmental impact report.

MAIN STREET — Continued to April 23 consideration of master and precise plans for an office and apartment building at 7-11 Main Street to allow for preparation of an environmental impact report.

DECK — Continued to May 14 action on abating a deck at 100 East View Drive which the city claims is unsafe and was built without city permission. Mayor Albert H. Sennett said he thought the city and the landowner, Edward C. Friedrichs III, can reach an "amicable adjustment of differences."

PERMIT — Granted a use permit to Pacific Land Projects of Mill Valley to begin planning for a 21-unit single family development on 19 acres on Paradise Drive north of Trestle Glen Boulevard. The vote was 4-1, with Albert Aramburu dissenting.

FEE — Set a $25 filing fee for candidates for city office. The vote was 4-1, with Branwell D. Fanning dissenting.

TB — Heard on first reading an ordinance to eliminate a requirement that food handlers in Tiburon have X-rays to detect tuberculosis before beginning work. The change was suggested by the Marin board of supervisors.

ANIMAL — Adopted an ordinance increasing the impound fees for stray animals from $7 to $10 for the first impounding, $10 to $15 for the second and $10 to $25 for ty third. The change was requested by Marin supervisors to bring in more revenue to the county. The vote was 3-2, with Littman and Fanning dissenting.

LIGHTS — Requested certification from the state to administer a traffic signal project, a legal technicality before the city can install two traffic signals on Tiburon Boulevard, one at Avenida Miraflores and the other at Beach Road. The state will pay 70 per cent of the project cost, estimated by Balmer at $60,000.

When does your town stop being your town?

Whether you've lived in San Rafael 5 years or 50 years, you've seen a lot of changes. Positive changes are always easy to take, but unfortunately, many of our community changes haven't gone that way.

There comes a time in every community's history when planning for the future must become more than just an idea. We have reached that point, and the next few years will determine whether the reasons you enjoy San Rafael will be enhanced or diminished.

Your City Council will determine the attitudes of those years. They will be your voice in establishing the future of your town. Your vote on April 17 is important. Your vote for someone who cares about your town's future is even more important. Make sure San Rafael continues being your town.

BIRD? PLANE? COLLAR STAY?

In her March 16 review of artist Maggie Hazell-Rosen's painting (above) Independent-Journal art critic Ada Garfinkel asked, "Planes in flight, flying geese, or Indian symbols?" The question of where an artist may have found inspiration for the creation of beauty was answered by I-J subscriber Kay Poulson who furnished the design (right) and wrote: "Those of us who are patrons of the Vogue Cleaners had no trouble at all identifying the inspiration. . .the flying objects are cardboard insertions used to hold the collars of men's shirts. . .the idea, however, was novel."

Concurrent Term For Auto Theft

Danny Ray Pyles, 24, of Novato, given one year in jail last week on a robbery charge, received a concurrent term yesterday for stealing a car to flee the robbery count.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also gave Pyles a suspended prison sentence and five years' probation on the charge that he embezzled a car Jan. 6 from Pacific Car Rental in San Rafael.

After a cross-country journey with three teen-agers, he was caught Jan. 23 in Maryland and returned to Marin for trial on a felony charge of helping rob a 79-year-old invalid.

A jury convicted him last month of robbing Ralph D. Hoy last June 28. He then admitted embezzling the car on condition he received concurrent sentences.

His brother, Leonard Franklin Pyles, 20, also fled the January trial and was last seen in Georgia, according to San Rafael police Inspector Bart Stinson.

The third defendant in the robbery case, 25-year-old Paul Brent Caldwell of Sonoma, was acquitted.

The three and a 13-year-old boy were arrested on suspicion of being the four persons that went to Hoy's San Rafael home on the pretext of having a set repaired, but instead held a toy pistol to his head, took $300 and knocked him from his wheelchair.

Japanese Violinist Pleases The Crowd

By VERA M. OLMSTED

The engaging young Japanese violinist, Teiko Maehashi, gave a recital of varied concert pieces last night at the Veterans Memorial Building for the Marin Concert Association's last program of the season.

A good showing of the association's approximately 1,400 subscribers went a good way toward filling the 2,000-seat auditorium.

Miss Maehashi's tone was warm and mellow rather than brilliant, but her playing was strong and secure and her stage presence was very appealing.

Her opening work was "Nigun" from the "Baal Shem" Suite by Ernest Bloch. Bloch weaves Hebraic melodies and harmonies in the movement to give the effect of an improvised florid monophonic chant.

The next work, Mozart's Sonata in G Major (K. 301), assigns equal roles to the violin and piano. Miss Maehashi was extremely fortunate in her choice of Nathan Schwartz, bay area pianist, as her accompanist. The piano has a very prominent part in this sonata, and Schwartz's sensitive and elegant playing pointed up Mozart's lovely lyric sections, while the rapid passages were executed with precision.

There was a change in programming and Johannes Brahms's Sonata in D Minor, Opus 108 was played instead of the Cesar Franck sonata. This rich and dark work is varied in its moods, and the finale is a powerful and fierce movement which Miss Maehashi played with firm bow strokes and controlled excitement.

Three Caprices for unaccompanied violin by Niccolo Paganini were presented next. These virtuoso pieces were written to show off the ability of the violinist and are not themselves interesting musically. Miss Maehashi whipped through the arpeggio trills and multiple stops with ease.

A poem for violin and piano, "La Fontaine D'Arethuse," by Polish composer Karol Szymanowski describes ancient legends in a programmatic work that is technically demanding. Its flowing lines and impressionistic color effects, such as ethereal glissandos, were effectively interpreted by Miss Maehashi.

The last work and obvious audience favorite was the familiar Introduction et Rondo Capriccioso, Opus 28, by Saint-Saens. The balance between violin and piano was excellent, they maintained the drive of the piece without letting it sound rushed. This brilliant work proved the ideal final number, and Miss Maehashi rounded out the evening by giving the large audience two encores.

A Giant Gem In Home Opener

What a great start for the Giants! The cozy crowd of 18,560 for yesterday's Candlestick Park opener was treated to a gem of a performance from curly-haired Ron Bryant as once more the S.F. pitching department scored a big plus.

In four games, with the Giants winning three of them, there have been two distance-going performances by the hurling staff, Juan Marichal in the season opener against the Reds and yesterday's 2-1 job by Bryant in the home opener against the Padres.

CANDLESTICK PARK openers are always more colorful than regular season games because it seems so many little old ladies in tennis shoes come equipped with orange hats or orange sweaters. But this time it was even more colorful on the field, since the Giants have made a change in their uniforms, the first, I'm told, since they began putting numbers on the backs of the shirts a few decades ago.

The Giants' uniforms are still white, but the letters and numbers are orange, rather than black, and the names are spelled out on the back, catching up with teams which have been doing this for years.

Even the name of Chris Speier, the super shortstop who hit a game-winning home run in the fifth inning, is spelled correctly on his uniform. That's more than you can say about the way his name is spelled at the bat box in the dugout. There it reads: "SPIR," prompting him to joke before the game, "I guess I'm not so much of a star after all; they can't even spell my name right."

AFTER THAT CLOUT of Speier's yesterday, a towering shot which came down about 20 feet to the right of the foul pole two rows into the left field grandstands, Chris said, "It was a high fast ball. He (Padre southpaw Mike Caldwell) just made a mistake. It was the only bad pitch he threw me all day."

Bryant, sitting in his dressing stall with ice packs on his left elbow and shoulder — something he has been doing after pitching performances for the past couple of years — admitted he was nervous at the start of the game because it was opening day. That was why he was not in complete control when he allowed a run and a pair of hits in the first inning and another hit in the second. But from the third inning on, he gave up only one hit and three walks, one of them intentional, and had a string of 12 straight outs.

"I relaxed later," Bryant said about his early game jitters. "It just came to me naturally. I started getting better rhythm."

AND JUST ABOUT then, just like those toothpaste ads on television, this little curly haired boy came squirming through the crowd of sports writers surrounding Bryant. It was Todd, three-year-old son of Ron, and instead of saying, "Look, dad! No cavities!" Todd just looked up at his pop and smiled.

About the only Giant in the clubhouse who wasn't smiling after the game was third baseman Alan Gallagher who had cooled down some from his pre-game anger. The anger came when Gallagher, who had been told by manager Charlie Fox that he would be starting against left-handers, arrived at the ballpark to find Jim Hart's name penciled in on the lineup card.

After Hart botched two grounders which came his way, the first which resulted in the Padres' unearned run, I doubt seriously that Gallagher will have cause for anger next time a left-hander faces the Giants.

About his anger with Fox, Gallagher said, "I have to play the game. I can't worry about him. Those other 24 guys are more important." He said Fox told him he had to find a fifth position hitter in the lineup. "Great, but why does that fifth place hitter have to come from third base?"

Gallagher had replaced Hart in the fifth inning of the game, and no one had to explain it was for defensive reasons. The way Hart was

Counting Helps Aaron In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Tommy Aaron can count, after all. If he couldn't he wouldn't be the new Masters champ.

Incredible as it may sound, Tommy Aaron, the man who penciled Roberto de Vicenzo out of the 1968 Masters title, almost had the same thing happen to him Monday.

AARON

Aaron, in the final accounting, had a 5-under-par 283 to beat J.C. Snead by one stroke and Jack Nicklaus, Peter Oosterhuis and Jim Jamieson by two. But, he found when he checked his card that playing partner Johnny Miller had charged him with 69 strokes for the final round—one more than he actually took.

Miller had mistakenly credited Aaron with a par 5 on the 13th hole where Aaron made a birdie 4.

REASON

"That is the reason you check those things," Aaron said. "I know exactly what I shot. It happens quite often. I found the mistake, changed it, and signed it.

"That's why they have the rule," Aaron continued. "I don't think a lot of people really understood what happened the last time."

The last time, five years ago, Aaron wrote down a 4 for de Vicenzo at the 17th hole of the final round instead of the three the Argentinian scored. De Vicenzo signed his card without changing it and thextra stroke was the margin by which Bob Goalby beat him to win.

PREVIOUS WIN

Aaron, whose only previous U.S. victory in 13 years as a touring pro was the 1970 Atlanta Classic, didn't have any strokes to spare.

In fact, his victory was not assured until Snead was wide on an 18-foot birdie try on the final hole of the tournament.

Aaron watched that putt on a television monitor and said the only thought that went through his mind at that moment was "I didn't relish an 18-hole playoff."

The bespectacled, 36-year-old Georgian came into this year's Masters figuring his chances were at low ebb. He had not played particularly well earlier in the year and had had to leave the tour for a month because of his wife's illness.

'THE DREAM'

"It's the dream of a lifetime for me to win this tournament," Aaron beamed. "I've been dreaming of this since I was a small boy. My only disappointment is that my wife, who has never missed a Masters I played in before, couldn't be here with me to share my joy."

Snead, Sam Snead's nephew, held a two-stroke lead seven holes from the end Monday, but went into the water at the par three 12th hole and "that was it."

J.C. said he let his caddie talk him into using a seven iron when he had planned to use a six iron and he was short with his shot off the tee.

"I'm stupid, I guess," Snead said sadly. "When you make up

SONOMA COACH RETURNS

'Things Have Changed' In Chapman Area—Trumbo

By PAUL DWORIN

Athletic director and basketball coach Bill Trumbo will definitely remain at Sonoma State College next year, he announced at a press conference yesterday.

Trumbo, who led the Cossacks to their first Far Western Conference crown last season with a 10-2 record and was named FWC coach of the year, turned in his resignation late Thursday night to accept the head coaching job at Chapman College in Orange County, his alma mater.

STATEMENT

When Trumbo quit, he stated that he had "thoroughly evaluated all of the possibilities here and (saw) no resolution of the financial problems of the athletic program at Sonoma State in the immediate future."

After apologizing to both colleges for the inconvenience and public relations problems he caused them, Trumbo went on to explain his change of heart.

"I went to school at Chapman, played my collegiate ball there and still know some of the professors, so I felt that if I ever had a chance to go back, I would be happy there.

'THINGS CHANGED'

"But the last time I was there was in 1966 and things have changed quite a lot. I've been spoiled over the past seven years. On the way back to the airport, I was driving with the department secretary down there and I could barely make out El Toro Air Force Base through the smog. There was a brown blanket over everything and the secretary said that it was just a light smog; I decided that I couldn't move my family down there.

BILL TRUMBO
Choice explained

"So, when I got back to the airport in San Francisco, I called up Doug Earl (chairman of the Sonoma State Physical Education Department), and asked if they had replaced me yet. He said no, so the next thing I did was call down to Chapman and ask if they would release me from the contract."

The financial picture at Sonoma did not change in the period of Trumbo's absence. The athletic department is still $8,000 in the red, and no funds are forthcoming either from the student body or the chancellor's office.

Dr. Earl indicated in his brief summation of the problem prior to Trumbo's comments that the athletic department should be able to overcome the $8,000 debt by June through spring fund-raising events, and that a community support group is working diligently to raise sufficient money to run the program next year.

SPORTS FUTURE

Dr. Earl said that with the return of Trumbo and the total effort of the faculty behind his effort, the future of Sonoma athletics is not as dim as it was two days ago, but there is still the possibility of dropping intercollegiate sports unless ample funds are provided.

Trumbo said that while he fully intended to accept the position at Chapman when he went down there, he had not really sold himself on leaving Sonoma State. "I should have noticed the reluctance on my part," he commented.

NO SLEEP

"I didn't sleep well Thursday night (after he resigned). I asked myself the question, 'Have I really depleted all areas of finances for this department.' We're not working that hard and have never worked that hard to realize the full potential of the area.

"It has been a struggle each year and it will continue to be one, so we are going to spearhead the leadership of this thing rather than the community support group, which has been tremendous."

After acknowledging the efforts of the college president, Tom McGrath, to raise money through his office and the community support group, Trumbo said "I'm revitalized and I'm thoroughly aware of the problems here and I'm thoroughly prepared to fight them."

Weather, Bucks Face Warriors

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks didn't have a bona fide home court advantage to begin with for the fifth game of their National Basketball Association Western Conference playoffs with the Golden State Warriors tonight. The game will be televised live by KTVU Channel 2 starting at 6 o'clock.

And now the token advantage has been virtually wiped out by the weather.

The Bucks, tied with the Warriors 2-2 after four games, had to schedule the fifth game in the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse here because the Milwaukee Arena was being used for a week-long home show.

On Monday a crippling snowstorm socked the Midwest, closing Wisconsin highways and airports by the heavy snowfall which dumped more than 13 inches here.

Giant Bryant In Change

Erstwhile Wild Lefty Is Winner In Home Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ron Bryant's transformation seems complete.

A year ago this time he was just another wild left-hander trying to prove he could pitch in the major leagues.

When injury befell Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell, Bryant got all the chances he needed, and by season's end he was the best pitcher on the San Francisco Giants staff.

Monday, in his club's home opener, Bryant showed his 1972 performance was no fluke, stopping the San Diego Padres on four hits while pitching the Giants to a 2-1 victory.

"I guess you'd have to say getting my breaking pitches over the plate is the big difference from last spring," said the chunky 25-year-old native of Redlands, Calif., who now makes his home in nearby Davis. "I have a lot of confidence now in my curve, slider and changeup. I feel I can get them over the plate any time I want."

Bryant made only 104 pitches in getting the job done over the Padres.

"He's a pitcher now," said coach Don McMahon. "A year ago this time he had to rely too often on his fastball and the hitters knew it. Now, because he knows he can get breaking balls in the strike zone, he has the hitters guessing, and that's the name of the game."

Back-to-back doubles by Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes in the third produced the Giants' first run and Chris Speier hit his first homer of the year in the fifth for the margin of difference.

The Giants managed only five hits off starter Mike Caldwell in six innings and one more off reliefer Rich Troedson in two, but they proved enough.

"My guy pitched a pretty good game and I'm satisfied with it," said Padres skipper Don Zimmer. "It's just a shame we couldn't win it for him but the other guy (Bryant) was pretty good too. That makes three top pitchers we've faced already, but we beat the other two."

The other two were Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The loss evened the young Padres' record at 2-2 while the Giants improved to 3-1 to lead the National League West.

"It's a good start for us," beamed Giants manager Charlie Fox. "We need a good start to give our younger players confidence. Winning the home opener never hurts either. When you play good, solid baseball as we did in this game, the fans start getting the idea we can win. I've felt right along we could win this year. It's just a matter of fitting all the pieces together."

The Padres' only run off Bryant came in the first and was unearned. Jim Ray Hart, a late addition to the third base derby, booted a smash by leadoff batter Enzo Hernandez, who eventually made his way around on singles by Leron Lee and Nate Colbert.

Tiburon Council Extends Time Limit For Downtown Parking

Parking on the south side of Tiburon Boulevard between Beach Road and Juanita Lane will be allowed for one hour from now on, the Tiburon City Council decided last night.

The council voted unanimously to increase the time limit from 24 minutes at the request of the Downtown Merchants Association.

Councilman Allan N. Littman called the action "only an interim solution" to problems of traffic congestion in the downtown area and said the city "should move full speed ahead in forming a parking district" to finance permanent parking improvements.

Councilman Branwell D. Fanning objected that the 24-minute limit originally was set up to halt double parking by increasing the number of spaces available, but in the end he joined the other four councilmen in voting for the measure.

In other action at one of the shortest meetings in recent memory, the council applied for $117,822 in federal disaster relief funds for damage to city property, mostly streets and rights-of-way, caused by heavy rains Jan. 12-18.

The bulk of the damage, City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said, was done by a landslide from a steep slope down onto Tiburon Boulevard between Mar West and Mar East streets.

Some of the aid requests may not be granted, Balmer said, but if this happens the city will apply to the state for disaster relief for those items.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SMITH — Continued to May 14 second reading on prezoning and rezoning 102 acres on Paradise Drive to limited agricultural use. Architect Neill Smith has requested the action to build an ecology school on the site. The matter was delayed to allow city staff time to prepare an environmental impact report.

MAIN STREET — Continued to April 23 consideration of master and precise plans for an office and apartment building at 7-11 Main Street to allow for preparation of an environmental impact report.

DECK — Continued to May 14 action on abating a deck at 100 East View Drive which the city claims is unsafe and was built without city permission. Mayor Albert H. Sennett said he thought the city and the landowner, Edward C. Friedrichs III, can reach an "amicable adjustment of differences."

PERMIT — Granted a use permit to Pacific Land Projects of Mill Valley to begin planning for a 21-unit single family development on 19 acres on Paradise Drive north of Trestle Glen Boulevard. The vote was 4-1, with Albert Aramburu dissenting.

FEE — Set a $25 filing fee for candidates for city office. The vote was 4-1, with Branwell D. Fanning dissenting.

TB — Heard on first reading an ordinance to eliminate a requirement that food handlers in Tiburon have X-rays to detect tuberculosis before beginning work. The change was suggested by the Marin board of supervisors.

ANIMAL — Adopted an ordinance increasing the impound fees for stray animals from $7 to $10 for the first impounding, $10 to $15 for the second and $10 to $25 for ty third. The change was requested by Marin supervisors to bring in more revenue to the county. The vote was 3-2, with Littman and Fanning dissenting.

LIGHTS — Requested certification from the state to administer a traffic signal project, a legal technicality before the city can install two traffic signals on Tiburon Boulevard, one at Avenida Miraflores and the other at Beach Road. The state will pay 70 per cent of the project cost, estimated by Balmer at $60,000.

Whether you've lived in San Rafael 5 years or 50 years, you've seen a lot of changes. Positive changes are always easy to take, but unfortunately, many of our community changes haven't gone that way.

There comes a time in every community's history when planning for the future must become more than just an idea. We have reached that point, and the next few years will determine whether the reasons you enjoy San Rafael will be enhanced or diminished.

Your City Council will determine the attitudes of those years. They will be your voice in establishing the future of your town. Your vote on April 17 is important. Your vote for someone who cares about your town's future is even more important. Make sure San Rafael continues being your town.

San Marin's Lathrop Gets To Places In A Big Hurry

By LEW CODDINGTON

Whether he is hiking, bicycle riding or running cross-country or track, Gary Lathrop has discovered several effective ways of moving from point A to point B in a hurry.

The San Marin High School senior's consistently victorious distance running has been a major factor in his school's rise to undefeated, league-leading status in the Marin County Athletic League track and field standings.

Last week, for example, Lathrop won the mile Wednesday against San Rafael in 4:29.2 and lowered the time Friday to 4:28.6 against Tamalpais, best in the MCAL this year, and won the two-mile twice in 9:52.9 and 9:53.3 to become Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

"I like the mile best, because it's my best event," says Lathrop. His personal best time is 4:25.8, recorded last year, and he says his goal "is to go under 4:20."

His coach, Jim Van der Beets, concurs. "Under good conditions, he's capable of 4:18 or 4:19. He really hasn't been pushed this year. We use him whenever we need him - in the 880, mile, two-mile, and relays - but his best is the mile.

"When he first came to the varsity he was running the 880 - he still holds the league 'B' record of 1:59.1 in 1971 - but to win the varsity 880 you have to run a 53 or 54 second first quarter and he doesn't have that kind of speed. He accepted that."

It wasn't the first adjustment Lathrop has made. "I always wanted to be a sprinter," he says, explaining he first began running six years ago after watching a cousin, Diane Smith, competing in Amateur Athletic Union meets. "It didn't take me too long to switch, though. I kept getting beaten."

Lathrop also runs cross-country, and prefers it. "I'm not better at it, but I like to run through the woods."

His affection for the woods continues when he's not running. "I like hiking, bike riding and camping," he says. He will get good use out of his back pack next year when he enrolls at Humboldt State College near the mountains, the redwoods and the sea in Arcata, just north of Eureka.

He hasn't decided what his major will be, saying "I'll just take what I need to the first couple of years and decide on a major later." He will continue running, but probably won't pursue his brief basketball career, which saw him as a reserve on San Marin's varsity this year "until I got a job and had to work Friday nights."

He may enjoy a slower pace when he's traveling, but when he's running he likes things faster. "He's always in condition, he runs on the weekends, he runs all the time," says Van der Beets. "He's very dedicated. I wish I had 40 Gary Lathrops."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Bench's Arm Passes Braves' Stiff Test

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Johnny Bench is 3-for-3 for the season and the Cincinnati Reds figure that statistic should end all speculation about the condition of their all-star catcher's throwing arm.

Bench's ability to throw came close to being the No. 1 mystery of spring training. The National League's two-time Most Valuable Player underwent surgery late last season and it was possible that some of the muscles cut would adversely affect what some consider the strongest and most accurate throwing arm any catcher has been blessed with in the game's history.

Well, three runners have tried to steal on Bench so far this season and all three made right turns at second base and headed for the dugout after being gunned down. Bench made it 3-for-3 when he gunned down Rod Gilbreath and Dave Johnson Monday night during the Reds' 8-7 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Just so nobody will worry whether Bench's hitting prowess has been affected by the surgery, he also contributed a homer to the Reds' 10-hit attack.

"The Giants tried once and he nailed the guy," said jubilant Red Manager Sparky Anderson Monday night. "The Braves tried twice tonight and got nowhere."

"There never was any doubt about John's arm," he said. "John never throws much early in spring training. But during the last week of spring training he was throwing and everybody had a good laugh when we saw that story suggesting his arm might be weak."

The Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 and the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 2-1 in the other National League games while the Cleveland Indians topped the New York Yankees 3-1 in Monday's only American League game.

ting the feel of the UW fieldhouse floor.

To compound the situation, the storm nearly paralyzed traffic in Milwaukee and Bucks Coach Larry Costello could only gather about half of his players for practice.

All that still wouldn't appear too bad except, in Costello's eyes, the Bucks urgently needed to practice.

He was angry about the effort of some of his players in Milwaukee's 102-97 loss at Oakland Saturday night and was hoping to regroup before tonight's battle.

"The way we played the other night, I'm not sure that we wanted it half as bad as they did," he said. Costello said it looked to him like every Warrior player "was busting his tail" to win Saturday night.

Of his own players, Costello said they "should extend themselves and play to exhaustion. The playoffs are what it's all about. If you're ever going to put out, this is the time."

He credited guards Lucius Allen and Oscar Robertson and forward Curtis Perry for their play Saturday night but found fault with the efforts of center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and forward Bob Dandridge.

Dandridge went scoreess in the first half and Abdul-Jabbar sank only one of 10 shots and grabbed only three rebounds during the same two quarters.

Costello said the only way the Bucks can beat Golden State is to "take away their fast break and get ours going."

Super Midgets To Race Saturday

Super midgets will open the racing season Saturday night at Petaluma Speedway, it was announced by promoter Joe Bellotti.

Ability To Count Helps Aaron Win Masters Title

your mind to do something, and then change it, that's when you get hurt."

Nicklaus, bidding to become the first five-time Masters champ and the first man ever to win 14 major titles, made a brilliant last moment bid to pull it out.

NICKLAUS

Nicklaus had eight birdies Monday while shooting a 6-under-par 66, the best round of the entire tournament. But a Friday 77 that included three straight three-putt greens followed immediately by a double bogey, and a water-soaked triple bogey on Sunday had forced him to start the final round eight strokes off the pace.

English golf star Peter Oosterhuis took a three-stroke lead into the final round and saw it slowly dissipate.

Aaron, who has finished second 14 times but whose only other pro victory was the 1969 Canadian Open, earned $30,000 for his Masters victory, the most he ever won. Snead got a $22,500 consolation prize and the three men who tied for third earned $12,500 each.

In Nicklaus' case, that was enough to vault him past Lee Trevino and Bruce Crampton into first place on this year's PGA money list at $106,064. Trevino, who was over the $100,000 mark coming into the Masters, and Crampton both got $1,675 as both shot 14-over-par 299s.

Trevino, who has won two U.S. Opens and two British Opens, was furious at himself for his showing here. He indicated he might boycott the Masters next year, as he did in 1970 and 1971, because he is convinced he can not play well on the Augusta National course.

Only five golfers were able to break par for four days of play over the Augusta National. Johnny Miller played it in 2-under, but wound up at even par 288 when he was penalized two strokes for touching his ball twice after hitting it into a paper cup. Bob Goalby, the man who benefited from Aaron's scoring error in 1968, also had a 288.

Four-time champion Arnold Palmer was never a factor in this year's Masters after shooting a 77 in the opening round and he finished at 7-over-par 295.

A's Look Forward To Road Tour

CHICAGO (UPI) — The weather is so bad in Chicago that today's scheduled Oakland A's-Chicago White Sox game was postponed Monday by officials who knew there was no way things could clear up in 24 hours.

This gives the A's even more time to brood about their disastrous showing so far in the young 1973 campaign after Minnesota swept them in a trio of games at Oakland that saw numerous mental and defensive lapses by the World Champions.

"We've always played better on the road," Manager Dick Williams said after the three losses.

The A's committed three errors in the opener.

"All the fellows who made mistakes played good defense in spring training," said Williams glumly. "Our prime thing now is to work on defense."

Sal Bando said "we're too tight. I'll be glad to get on the road. I think it will relax us."

A Giant Gem In Home Opener

What a great start for the Giants! The cozy crowd of 18,560 for yesterday's Candlestick Park opener was treated to a gem of a performance from curly-haired Ron Bryant as once more the S.F. pitching department scored a big plus.

In four games, with the Giants winning three of them, there have been two distance-going performances by the hurling staff, Juan Marichal in the season opener against the Reds and yesterday's 2-1 job by Bryant in the home opener against the Padres.

CANDLESTICK PARK openers are always more colorful than regular season games because it seems so many little old ladies in tennis shoes come equipped with orange hats or orange sweaters. But this time it was even more colorful on the field, since the Giants have made a change in their uniforms, the first, I'm told, since they began putting numbers on the backs of the shirts a few decades ago.

The Giants' uniforms are still white, but the letters and numbers are orange, rather than black, and the names are spelled out on the back, catching up with teams which have been doing this for years.

Even the name of Chris Speier, the super shortstop who hit a game-winning home run in the fifth inning, is spelled correctly on his uniform. That's more than you can say about the way his name is spelled at the bat box in the dugout. There it reads: "SPIR," prompting him to joke before the game, "I guess I'm not so much of a star after all; they can't even spell my name right."

AFTER THAT CLOUT of Speier's yesterday, a towering shot which came down about 20 feet to the right of the foul pole two rows into the left field grandstands, Chris said, "It was a high fast ball. He (Padre southpaw Mike Caldwell) just made a mistake. It was the only bad pitch he threw me all day."

Bryant, sitting in his dressing stall with ice packs on his left elbow and shoulder — something he has been doing after pitching performances for the past couple of years — admitted he was nervous at the start of the game because it was opening day. That was why he was not in complete control when he allowed a run and a pair of hits in the first inning and another hit in the second. But from the third inning on, he gave up only one hit and three walks, one of them intentional, and had a string of 12 straight outs.

"I relaxed later," Bryant said about his early game jitters. "It just came to me naturally. I started getting better rhythm."

AND JUST ABOUT then, just like those toothpaste ads on television, this little curly haired boy came squirming through the crowd of sports writers surrounding Bryant. It was Todd, three-year-old son of Ron, and instead of saying, "Look, dad! No cavities!" Todd just looked up at his pop and smiled.

About the only Giant in the clubhouse who wasn't smiling after the game was third baseman Alan Gallagher who had cooled down some from his pre-game anger. The anger came when Gallagher, who had been told by manager Charlie Fox that he would be starting against left-handers, arrived at the ballpark to find Jim Hart's name penciled in on the lineup card.

After Hart botched two grounders which came his way, the first which resulted in the Padres' unearned run, I doubt seriously that Gallagher will have cause for anger next time a left-hander faces the Giants.

About his anger with Fox, Gallagher said, "I have to play the game. I can't worry about him. Those other 24 guys are more important." He said Fox told him he had to find a fifth position hitter in the lineup. "Great, but why does that fifth place hitter have to come from third base?"

Gallagher had replaced Hart in the fifth inning of the game, and no one had to explain it was for defensive reasons. The way Hart was

Counting Helps Aaron In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Tommy Aaron can count, after all. If he couldn't he wouldn't be the new Masters champ.

Incredible as it may sound, Tommy Aaron, the man who penciled Roberto de Vicenzo out of the 1968 Masters title, almost had the same thing happen to him Monday.

AARON

Aaron, in the final accounting, had a 5-under-par 283 to beat J.C. Snead by one stroke and Jack Nicklaus, Peter Oosterhuis and Jim Jamieson by two. But, he found when he checked his card that playing partner Johnny Miller had charged him with 69 strokes for the final round—one more than he actually took.

Miller had mistakenly credited Aaron with a par 5 on the 13th hole where Aaron made a birdie 4.

REASON

"That is the reason you check those things," Aaron said. "I know exactly what I shot. It happens quite often. I found the mistake, changed it, and signed it.

"That's why they have the rule," Aaron continued. "I don't think a lot of people really understood what happened the last time."

The last time, five years ago, Aaron wrote down a 4 for de Vicenzo at the 17th hole of the final round instead of the three the Argentinian scored. De Vicenzo signed his card without changing it and thextra stroke was the margin by which Bob Goalby beat him to win.

PREVIOUS WIN

Aaron, whose only previous U.S. victory in 13 years as a touring pro was the 1970 Atlanta Classic, didn't have any strokes to spare.

In fact, his victory was not assured until Snead was wide on an 18-foot birdie try on the final hole of the tournament.

Aaron watched that putt on a television monitor and said the only thought that went through his mind at that moment was "I didn't relish an 18-hole playoff."

The bespectacled, 36-year-old Georgian came into this year's Masters figuring his chances were at low ebb. He had not played particularly well earlier in the year and had had to leave the tour for a month because of his wife's illness.

'THE DREAM'

"It's the dream of a lifetime for me to win this tournament," Aaron beamed. "I've been dreaming of this since I was a small boy. My only disappointment is that my wife, who has never missed a Masters I played in before, couldn't be here with me to share my joy."

Snead, Sam Snead's nephew, held a two-stroke lead seven holes from the end Monday, but went into the water at the par three 12th hole and "that was it."

J.C. said he let his caddie talk him into using a seven iron when he had planned to use a six iron and he was short with his shot off the tee.

"I'm stupid, I guess," Snead said sadly. "When you make up

SONOMA COACH RETURNS

'Things Have Changed' In Chapman Area—Trumbo

By PAUL DWORIN

Athletic director and basketball coach Bill Trumbo will definitely remain at Sonoma State College next year, he announced at a press conference yesterday.

Trumbo, who led the Cossacks to their first Far Western Conference crown last season with a 10-2 record and was named FWC coach of the year, turned in his resignation late Thursday night to accept the head coaching job at Chapman College in Orange County, his alma mater.

STATEMENT

When Trumbo quit, he stated that he had "thoroughly evaluated all of the possibilities here and (saw) no resolution of the financial problems of the athletic program at Sonoma State in the immediate future."

After apologizing to both colleges for the inconvenience and public relations problems he caused them, Trumbo went on to explain his change of heart.

"I went to school at Chapman, played my collegiate ball there and still know some of the professors, so I felt that if I ever had a chance to go back, I would be happy there.

'THINGS CHANGED'

"But the last time I was there was in 1966 and things have changed quite a lot. I've been spoiled over the past seven years. On the way back to the airport, I was driving with the department secretary down there and I could barely make out El Toro Air Force Base through the smog. There was a brown blanket over everything and the secretary said that it was just a light smog; I decided that I couldn't move my family down there.

BILL TRUMBO
Choice explained

"So, when I got back to the airport in San Francisco, I called up Doug Earl (chairman of the Sonoma State Physical Education Department), and asked if they had replaced me yet. He said no, so the next thing I did was call down to Chapman and ask if they would release me from the contract."

The financial picture at Sonoma did not change in the period of Trumbo's absence. The athletic department is still $8,000 in the red, and no funds are forthcoming either from the student body or the chancellor's office.

Dr. Earl indicated in his brief summation of the problem prior to Trumbo's comments that the athletic department should be able to overcome the $8,000 debt by June through spring fund-raising events, and that a community support group is working diligently to raise sufficient money to run the program next year.

SPORTS FUTURE

Dr. Earl said that with the return of Trumbo and the total effort of the faculty behind his effort, the future of Sonoma athletics is not as dim as it was two days ago, but there is still the possibility of dropping intercollegiate sports unless ample funds are provided.

Trumbo said that while he fully intended to accept the position at Chapman when he went down there, he had not really sold himself on leaving Sonoma State. "I should have noticed the reluctance on my part," he commented.

NO SLEEP

"I didn't sleep well Thursday night (after he resigned). I asked myself the question, 'Have I really depleted all areas of finances for this department.' We're not working that hard and have never worked that hard to realize the full potential of the area.

"It has been a struggle each year and it will continue to be one, so we are going to spearhead the leadership of this thing rather than the community support group, which has been tremendous."

After acknowledging the efforts of the college president, Tom McGrath, to raise money through his office and the community support group, Trumbo said "I'm revitalized and I'm thoroughly aware of the problems here and I'm thoroughly prepared to fight them."

Weather, Bucks Face Warriors

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks didn't have a bona fide home court advantage to begin with for the fifth game of their National Basketball Association Western Conference playoffs with the Golden State Warriors tonight. The game will be televised live by KTVU Channel 2 starting at 6 o'clock.

And now the token advantage has been virtually wiped out by the weather.

The Bucks, tied with the Warriors 2-2 after four games, had to schedule the fifth game in the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse here because the Milwaukee Arena was being used for a week-long home show.

On Monday a crippling snowstorm socked the Midwest, closing Wisconsin highways and airports by the heavy snowfall which dumped more than 13 inches here.

Giant Bryant In Change

Erstwhile Wild Lefty Is Winner In Home Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ron Bryant's transformation seems complete.

A year ago this time he was just another wild left-hander trying to prove he could pitch in the major leagues.

When injury befell Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell, Bryant got all the chances he needed, and by season's end he was the best pitcher on the San Francisco Giants staff.

Monday, in his club's home opener, Bryant showed his 1972 performance was no fluke, stopping the San Diego Padres on four hits while pitching the Giants to a 2-1 victory.

"I guess you'd have to say getting my breaking pitches over the plate is the big difference from last spring," said the chunky 25-year-old native of Redlands, Calif., who now makes his home in nearby Davis. "I have a lot of confidence now in my curve, slider and changeup. I feel I can get them over the plate any time I want."

Bryant made only 104 pitches in getting the job done over the Padres.

"He's a pitcher now," said coach Don McMahon. "A year ago this time he had to rely too often on his fastball and the hitters knew it. Now, because he knows he can get breaking balls in the strike zone, he has the hitters guessing, and that's the name of the game."

Back-to-back doubles by Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes in the third produced the Giants' first run and Chris Speier hit his first homer of the year in the fifth for the margin of difference.

The Giants managed only five hits off starter Mike Caldwell in six innings and one more off reliefer Rich Troedson in two, but they proved enough.

"My guy pitched a pretty good game and I'm satisfied with it," said Padres skipper Don Zimmer. "It's just a shame we couldn't win it for him but the other guy (Bryant) was pretty good too. That makes three top pitchers we've faced already, but we beat the other two."

The other two were Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The loss evened the young Padres' record at 2-2 while the Giants improved to 3-1 to lead the National League West.

"It's a good start for us," beamed Giants manager Charlie Fox. "We need a good start to give our younger players confidence. Winning the home opener never hurts either. When you play good, solid baseball as we did in this game, the fans start getting the idea we can win. I've felt right along we could win this year. It's just a matter of fitting all the pieces together."

The Padres' only run off Bryant came in the first and was unearned. Jim Ray Hart, a late addition to the third base derby, booted a smash by leadoff batter Enzo Hernandez, who eventually made his way around on singles by Leron Lee and Nate Colbert.

That Crab Feed Was Excellent

Oh Brother! I've got crab coming out of my ears! If you haven't been able to afford those high prices for crab this year, and if you didn't attend the Marin Rod and Gun Club's annual crab feed Saturday night, you missed the boat.

The club put on a feed of cracked crab, salad, french bread, butter and beer that was fit for a king. It served up 1,250 pounds of crab to approximately 350 people. That's almost four pounds per person. It was "all you can eat." Can you believe it? And the price was right.

MEMBERS OF the club prepared the feed at their clubhouse at Point San Quentin. At the feed, it was announced that there were some new memberships open. Maybe you should prepare now for next year by joining. A rare bargain.

Wasn't it a great weekend? Fishermen en masse were out everywhere in the county. The abalone pickers generally had limits at the areas checked. The clam diggers at Tomales Bay had a field day taking cockles, gaper clams and various other types of shellfish. Up at Lagunitas Lake, 80 anglers averaged about three trout apiece. It was an afternoon check, so reportedly many of the anglers with limits had already gone home.

PERCH FISHING is at its peak; one angler took 10 offshore at Millerton Point at Tomales Bay in an hour, using bait. Frank Spence at the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier said the flounders, smelt and king fish were really hitting.

Over at Loch Lomond Bait & Tackle, Keith Fraser was having his problems keeping customers supplied with grass shrimp. He says there's still a shortage with so much fresh water in the bay. Even the shiner perch are late in arriving this year. Keith feels that draft fishing with shiners will be on the "hot" side when the bait shows.

Three sturgeon had been logged in Saturday when I stopped at the shop. I believe the sturgeon have left the upper bay and are down in the Sausalito-Golden Gate areas where the water and feed is more to their liking. Too much fresh water has moved the feed out of the bay.

VERY FEW SMALL crabs are showing at the fishing spots which somewhat proves the above theory or should I say "guess"? With smelt now showing (strictly a salt water fish) things should be back to normal soon. I expect to see many more sturgeon caught yet this season.

SALMON FISHING has got to get better. Last year in February, about 30,000 salmon were landed by party boats in the San Francisco Bay area. The weather and the seas were exactly right then for top fishing. This year only 3,600 salmon were landed in February by those same boats just because they couldn't get out most days, and the fish were much further out off shore from the Gate. The heavy rains have pushed the bait fish far out to sea.

They say that a salmon can gain 10 pounds in sixth months at sea. If all those salmon which haven't been caught to date put on this kind of weight, we might have a season with bigger fish catches. Don't give up on the salmon yet. I think we will still have a top season. Bob Locke and his crew of old-timers on the Lo Hat got six last Thursday.

ON SUNDAY, I checked the Lo Hat again. The boys had 15 salmon; the biggest 14 pounds. It goes to show you how quick conditions can change. They were fishing out by the "A" Buoy.

Saturday at Loch Lomond 32 boats had one bass, two sturgeon, three king fish and some flounders. Sunday, at the Rod and Gun Club ramp, a boat came in with six stripers, nearly all 20-pounders, and one sturgeon, about 70 pounds. I asked them where they fished. Their answer — "Same place you do, Al. South of the Richmond Bridge!"

Trout plants in Rodeo Lagoon near Sausalito and Stafford Lake near Novato are scheduled for this week.

Two Marin Aquatic Club members and a Petaluman took three first places each at the Masters Swim Meet Sunday at Serra High School in San Mateo.

MAC's Nancy Ridout, 30-34 age group, set national age records in the 50 yard butterfly (30.9) and the 100 freestyle (1:01.6). She also won the 100 individual medley (1:12.8).

MAC's Jane McCollister, 50-54, set a national mark in the 500 free (7:54.0) and tied another in the 100 breaststroke (1:43.0). She also won the 100 free (1:22.3).

Petaluma's Gail Roper, 40-44, of the Santa Rosa Swim Club set a national record in the 500 free (7:01.8). She also won in the 50 fly and 100 IM, but her times were unavailable.

Two other Marinites won a pair of events. Dore Schwab of MAC, 50-54, won the 50 fly (34.0) and 100 IM (1:17.0). Denis Rice of Tiburon took the 100 free (1:00.5) and 500 free (6:26.0).

MAC's Tilden Hansen, 30-34, won the 50 yard breaststroke "B" event, but his time was unavailable.

Dave Roberts leading off the fourth were the only other hits Bryant gave up. He struck out six batters and walked three.

Speier said he was surprised his blast to left in the fifth went out for a homer.

"I don't feel all that strong yet," said the young Giants shortstop. "That's why I didn't think I could hit one out." A crowd of 18,650 turned out for the first game of the year in Candlestick Park on an overcast but warm afternoon. It was a little less than the Giants had anticipated.

The Giants and Padres go at it again tonight with Marichal (1-0) pitching against Mike Corkins (0-0).

Aparicio's Family Is Threatened

Combined AP & UPI

BOSTON — Police in Maracaibo, Venezuela, are keeping the 15-year-old son of Luis Aparicio under constant guard because of threats that he would be kidnaped, the Boston Red Sox star shortstop says.

Aparicio, 38, said yesterday that a gang of extortionists has threatened to kidnap his oldest son, Luis, if they are not paid off.

"My son is 15 years old," Aparicio said. "I'm not only worried about him, but I worry about everybody. I've got four more (children) at home."

Aparicio, a major leaguer since 1956, said he was first informed of the threats "about a week ago when my wife called me from Venezuela." He was still at the Red Sox' spring training camp in Winter Haven, Fla., at the time.

"The police don't know who is doing it or why they're doing it, outside of the money," Aparicio said. He did not say how much the extortionists were seeking.

Aparicio said his wife, Sonia, received threatening telephone calls from the extortionists.

"The police are investigating the whole thing," Aparicio said.

Aparicio said he had no plans to return to Venezuela and would accompany the Red Sox on their road trip to Milwaukee and New York.

"The last fight I was at, I got hit in the head with a silver dollar," Garcia told the Assembly Commerce and Public Utilities Committee.

The panel voted 5-0 approval to the measure yesterday.

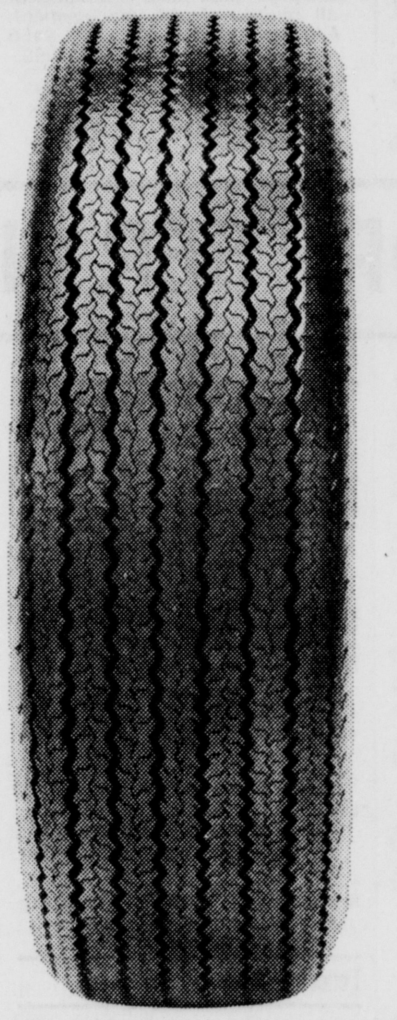
LIFESAVER RADIAL XL-100



HOW'S A RADIAL TIRE DIFFERENT?
Unique radial construction reduces damaging heat build-up. Sidewalls remain flexible to help absorb shock and keep the tread flat on the road.
The Lifesaver® Radial XL-100 has 4 belts of tough Dynacor® rayon cord directly under the tread – to minimize squirm and scuff-off, major factors in tire wear. What's in it for you? Long mileage.
WHY BFG RADIALS?
B.F.Goodrich introduced the first American radial in 1965. Every Lifesaver Radial XL-100 is soundly backed by years of BFG experience and leadership in radial tire technology.
WHO NEEDS RADIALS?
You do. If your kind of driving demands a hard-working tire that gives you superior mileage.
You be the judge. Think about how you drive and under what conditions (highway or city, rough roads or smooth). Then consider what you expect from the tire you depend on.
HOW ARE RADIALS ECONOMICAL?
Long mileage, tough impact-resistance, great handling, smooth ride, cornering and traction . . . it all adds up. Radial tires are a better value in the long run.

San Marin's Lathrop Gets To Places In A Big Hurry

By LEW CODDINGTON

Whether he is hiking, bicycle riding or running cross-country or track, Gary Lathrop has discovered several effective ways of moving from point A to point B in a hurry.

The San Marin High School senior's consistently victorious distance running has been a major factor in his school's rise to undefeated, league-leading status in the Marin County Athletic League track and field standings.

Last week, for example, Lathrop won the mile Wednesday against San Rafael in 4:29.2 and lowered the time Friday to 4:28.6 against Tamalpais, best in the MCAL this year, and won the two-mile twice in 9:52.9 and 9:53.3 to become Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

"I like the mile best, because it's my best event," says Lathrop. His personal best time is 4:25.8, recorded last year, and he says his goal "is to go under 4:20."

His coach, Jim Van der Beets, concurs. "Under good conditions, he's capable of 4:18 or 4:19. He really hasn't been pushed this year. We use him whenever we need him - in the 880, mile, two-mile, and relays - but his best is the mile.

"When he first came to the varsity he was running the 880 - he still holds the league 'B' record of 1:59.1 in 1971 - but to win the varsity 880 you have to run a 53 or 54 second first quarter and he doesn't have that kind of speed. He accepted that."

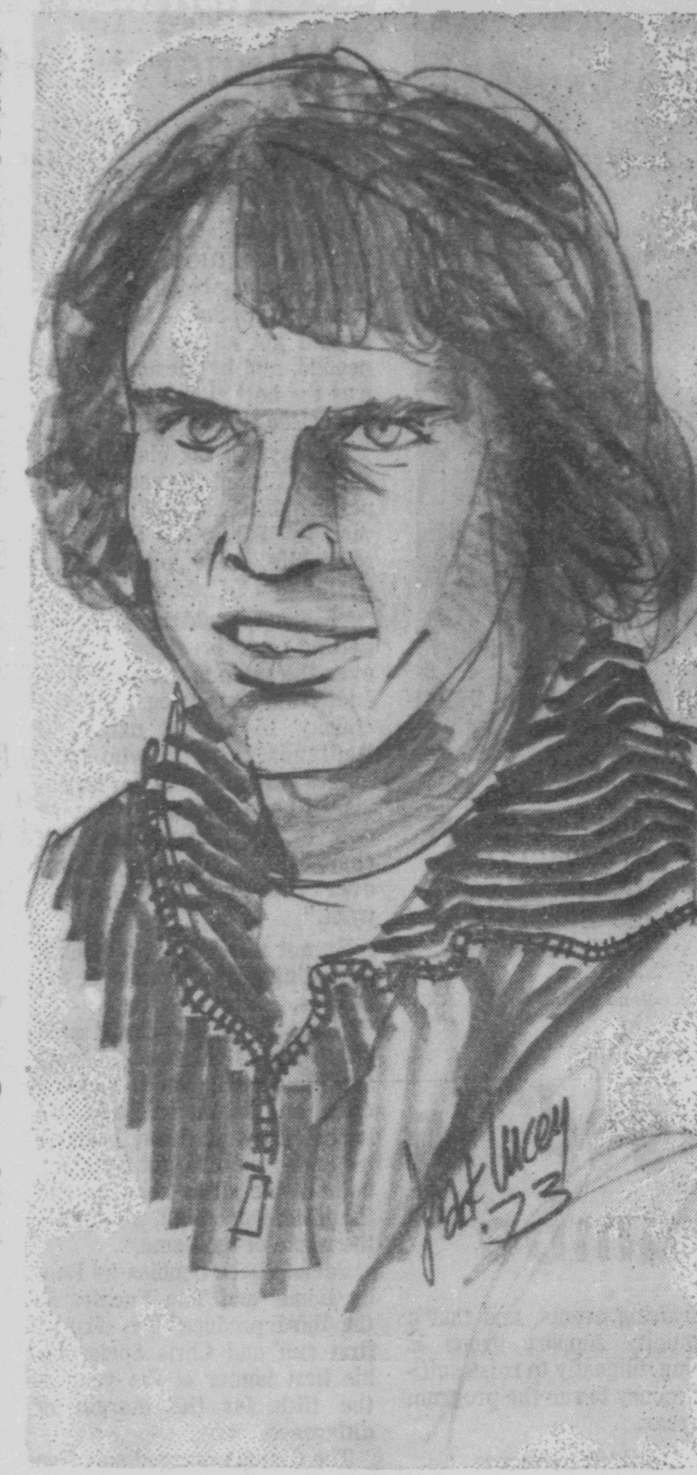
It wasn't the first adjustment Lathrop has made. "I always wanted to be a sprinter," he says, explaining he first began running six years ago after watching a cousin, Diane Smith, competing in Amateur Athletic Union meets. "It didn't take me too long to switch, though. I kept getting beaten."

Lathrop also runs cross-country, and prefers it. "I'm not better at it, but I like to run through the woods."

His affection for the woods continues when he's not running. "I like hiking, bike riding and camping," he says. He will get good use out of his back pack next year when he enrolls at Humboldt State College near the mountains, the redwoods and the sea in Arcata, just north of Eureka.

He hasn't decided what his major will be, saying "I'll just take what I need to the first couple of years and decide on a major later." He will continue running, but probably won't pursue his brief basketball career, which saw him as a reserve on San Marin's varsity this year "until I got a job and had to work Friday nights."

He may enjoy a slower pace when he's traveling, but when he's running he likes things faster. "He's always in condition, he runs on the weekends, he runs all the time," says Van der Beets. "He's very dedicated. I wish I had 40 Gary Lathrops."



GARY LATHROP
"He's very dedicated, he runs all the time," says his coach. "I wish I had 40 Gary Lathrops."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Bench's Arm Passes Braves' Stiff Test

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Johnny Bench is 3-for-3 for the season and the Cincinnati Reds figure that statistic should end all speculation about the condition of their all-star catcher's throwing arm.

Bench's ability to throw came close to being the No. 1 mystery of spring training. The National League's two-time Most Valuable Player underwent surgery late last season and it was possible that some of the muscles cut would adversely affect what some consider the strongest and most accurate throwing arm any catcher has been blessed with in the game's history.

Well, three runners have tried to steal on Bench so far this season and all three made right turns at second base and headed for the dugout after being gunned down. Bench made it 3-for-3 when he gunned down Rod Gilbreath and Dave Johnson Monday night during the Reds' 8-7 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Just so nobody will worry whether Bench's hitting prowess has been affected by the surgery, he also contributed a homer to the Reds' 10-hit attack.

"The Giants tried once and he nailed the guy," said jubilant Red Manager Sparky Anderson Monday night. "The Braves tried twice tonight and got nowhere."

"There never was any doubt about John's arm," he said. "John never throws much early in spring training. But during the last week of spring training he was throwing and everybody had a good laugh when we saw that story suggesting his arm might be weak."

The Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 and the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 2-1 in the other National League games while the Cleveland Indians topped the New York Yankees 3-1 in Monday's only American League game.

To compound the situation, the storm nearly paralyzed traffic in Milwaukee and Bucks Coach Larry Costello could only gather about half of his players for practice.

All that still wouldn't appear too bad except, in Costello's eyes, the Bucks urgently needed to practice.

He was angry about the effort of some of his players in Milwaukee's 102-97 loss at Oakland Saturday night and was hoping to regroup before tonight's battle.

"The way we played the other night, I'm not sure that we wanted it half as bad as they did," he said. Costello said it looked to him like every Warrior player "was busting his tail" to win Saturday night.

Of his own players, Costello said they "should extend themselves and play to exhaustion. The playoffs are what it's all about. If you're ever going to put out, this is the time."

He credited guards Lucius Allen and Oscar Robertson and forward Curtis Perry for their play Saturday night but found fault with the efforts of center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and forward Bob Dandridge.

Dandridge went scoreess in the first half and Abdul-Jabbar sank only one of 10 shots and grabbed only three rebounds during the same two quarters.

Costello said the only way the Bucks can beat Golden State is to "take away their fast break and get ours going."

Super Midgets To Race Saturday

Super midgets will open the racing season Saturday night at Petaluma Speedway, it was announced by promoter Joe Bellotti.

Gates open at 5, followed by warmups at 6:30, qualifying at 7 and the first race at 8 o'clock. Prices range from $1 to $3.

your mind to do something, and then change it, that's when you get hurt."

Nicklaus, bidding to become the first five-time Masters champ and the first man ever to win 14 major titles, made a brilliant last moment bid to pull it out.

NICKLAUS

Nicklaus had eight birdies Monday while shooting a 6-under-par 66, the best round of the entire tournament. But a Friday 77 that included three straight three-putt greens followed immediately by a double bogey, and a water-soaked triple bogey on Sunday had forced him to start the final round eight strokes off the pace.

English golf star Peter Oosterhuis took a three-stroke lead into the final round and saw it slowly dissipate.

Aaron, who has finished second 14 times but whose only other pro victory was the 1969 Canadian Open, earned $30,000 for his Masters victory, the most he ever won. Snead got a $22,500 consolation prize and the three men who tied for third earned $12,500 each.

In Nicklaus' case, that was enough to vault him past Lee Trevino and Bruce Crampton into first place on this year's PGA money list at $106,064. Trevino, who was over the $100,000 mark coming into the Masters, and Crampton both got $1,675 as both shot 14-over-par 299s.

Trevino, who has won two U.S. Opens and two British Opens, was furious at himself for his showing here. He indicated he might boycott the Masters next year, as he did in 1970 and 1971, because he is convinced he can not play well on the Augusta National course.

Only five golfers were able to break par for four days of play over the Augusta National. Johnny Miller played it in 2-under, but wound up at even par 288 when he was penalized two strokes for touching his ball twice after hitting it into a paper cup. Bob Goalby, the man who benefited from Aaron's scoring error in 1968, also had a 288.

Four-time champion Arnold Palmer was never a factor in this year's Masters after shooting a 77 in the opening round and he finished at 7-over-par 295.

A's Look Forward To Road Tour

CHICAGO (UPI) — The weather is so bad in Chicago that today's scheduled Oakland A's-Chicago White Sox game was postponed Monday by officials who knew there was no way things could clear up in 24 hours.

This gives the A's even more time to brood about their disastrous showing so far in the young 1973 campaign after Minnesota swept them in a trio of games at Oakland that saw numerous mental and defensive lapses by the World Champions.

"We've always played better on the road," Manager Dick Williams said after the three losses.

The A's committed three errors in the opener.

"All the fellows who made mistakes played good defense in spring training," said Williams glumly. "Our prime thing now is to work on defense."

Sal Bando said "we're too tight. I'll be glad to get on the road. I think it will relax us."

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

That Crab Feed Was Excellent

Oh Brother! I've got crab coming out of my ears! If you haven't been able to afford those high prices for crab this year, and if you didn't attend the Marin Rod and Gun Club's annual crab feed Saturday night, you missed the boat.

The club put on a feed of cracked crab, salad, french bread, butter and beer that was fit for a king. It served up 1,250 pounds of crab to approximately 350 people. That's almost four pounds per person. It was "all you can eat." Can you believe it? And the price was right.

MEMBERS OF the club prepared the feed at their clubhouse at Point San Quentin. At the feed, it was announced that there were some new memberships open. Maybe you should prepare now for next year by joining. A rare bargain.

Wasn't it a great weekend? Fishermen en masse were out everywhere in the county. The abalone pickers generally had limits at the areas checked. The clam diggers at Tomales Bay had a field day taking cockles, gaper clams and various other types of shellfish. Up at Lagunitas Lake, 80 anglers averaged about three trout apiece. It was an afternoon check, so reportedly many of the anglers with limits had already gone home.

PERCH FISHING is at its peak; one angler took 10 offshore at Millerton Point at Tomales Bay in an hour, using bait. Frank Spence at the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier said the flounders, smelt and king fish were really hitting.

Over at Loch Lomond Bait & Tackle, Keith Fraser was having his problems keeping customers supplied with grass shrimp. He says there's still a shortage with so much fresh water in the bay. Even the shiner perch are late in arriving this year. Keith feels that draft fishing with shiners will be on the "hot" side when the bait shows.

Three sturgeon had been logged in Saturday when I stopped at the shop. I believe the sturgeon have left the upper bay and are down in the Sausalito-Golden Gate areas where the water and feed is more to their liking. Too much fresh water has moved the feed out of the bay.

VERY FEW SMALL crabs are showing at the fishing spots which somewhat proves the above theory or should I say "guess"? With smelt now showing (strictly a salt water fish) things should be back to normal soon. I expect to see many more sturgeon caught yet this season.

SALMON FISHING has got to get better. Last year in February, about 30,000 salmon were landed by party boats in the San Francisco Bay area. The weather and the seas were exactly right then for top fishing. This year only 3,600 salmon were landed in February by those same boats just because they couldn't get out most days, and the fish were much further out off shore from the Gate. The heavy rains have pushed the bait fish far out to sea.

They say that a salmon can gain 10 pounds in sixth months at sea. If all those salmon which haven't been caught to date put on this kind of weight, we might have a season with bigger fish catches. Don't give up on the salmon yet. I think we will still have a top season. Bob Locke and his crew of oldtimers on the Lo Hat got six last Thursday.

ON SUNDAY, I checked the Lo Hat again. The boys had 15 salmon; the biggest 14 pounds. It goes to show you how quick conditions can change. They were fishing out by the "A" Buoy.

Saturday at Loch Lomond 32 boats had one bass, two sturgeon, three king fish and some flounders. Sunday, at the Rod and Gun Club ramp, a boat came in with six stripers, nearly all 20-pounders, and one sturgeon, about 70 pounds. I asked them where they fished. Their answer — "Same place you do, Al. South of the Richmond Bridge!"

Trout plants in Rodeo Lagoon near Sausalito and Stafford Lake near Novato are scheduled for this week.

Moore To Attend

Novato's David Moore, administrator for the Little Leagues of District 3 in California, will represent the district at the 12th International Congress of Little League Baseball in Tampa, Fla., Saturday through Tuesday.

MORE CHATOIAN

playing he was turning third base into a disaster area.

Garry Maddox, Giant center fielder who is batting .412, was limping very noticeably as he left the clubhouse. He said he fouled a pitch off his left foot his second time at bat but the foot didn't swell until after he had showered. There is a possibility the injury could keep him out of tonight's game against the Padres.

Marin A.C. Members In Swim Wins

Two Marin Aquatic Club members and a Petaluman took three first places each at the Masters Swim Meet Sunday at Serra High School in San Mateo.

MAC's Nancy Ridout, 30-34 age group, set national age records in the 50 yard butterfly (30.9) and the 100 freestyle (1:01.6). She also won the 100 individual medley (1:12.8).

MAC's Jane McCollister, 50-54, set a national mark in the 500 free (7:54.0) and tied another in the 100 breaststroke (1:43.0). She also won the 100 free (1:22.3).

Petaluma's Gail Roper, 40-44, of the Santa Rosa Swim Club set a national record in the 500 free (7:01.8). She also won in the 50 fly and 100 IM, but her times were unavailable.

Two other Marinites won a pair of events. Dore Schwab of MAC, 50-54, won the 50 fly (34.0) and 100 IM (1:17.0). Denis Rice of Tiburon took the 100 free (1:00.5) and 500 free (6:26.0).

MAC's Tilden Hansen, 30-34, won the 50 yard breaststroke "B" event, but his time was unavailable.

GIANTS

Dave Roberts leading off the fourth were the only other hits Bryant gave up. He struck out six batters and walked three.

Speier said he was surprised his blast to left in the fifth went out for a homer.

"I don't feel all that strong yet," said the young Giants shortstop. "That's why I didn't think I could hit one out." A crowd of 18,650 turned out for the first game of the year in Candlestick Park on an overcast but warm afternoon. It was a little less than the Giants had anticipated.

The Giants and Padres go at it again tonight with Marichal (1-0) pitching against Mike Corkins (0-0).

Aparicio's Family Is Threatened

Combined AP & UPI

BOSTON — Police in Maracaibo, Venezuela, are keeping the 15-year-old son of Luis Aparicio under constant guard because of threats that he would be kidnaped, the Boston Red Sox star shortstop says.

Aparicio, 38, said yesterday that a gang of extortionists has threatened to kidnap his oldest son, Luis, if they are not paid off.

"My son is 15 years old," Aparicio said. "I'm not only worried about him, but I worry about everybody. I've got four more (children) at home."

Aparicio, a major leaguer since 1956, said he was first informed of the threats "about a week ago when my wife called me from Venezuela." He was still at the Red Sox' spring training camp in Winter Haven, Fla., at the time.

"The police don't know who is doing it or why they're doing it, outside of the money," Aparicio said. He did not say how much the extortionists were seeking.

Aparicio said his wife, Sonia, received threatening telephone calls from the extortionists.

"The police are investigating the whole thing," Aparicio said.

Aparicio said he had no plans to return to Venezuela and would accompany the Red Sox on their road trip to Milwaukee and New York.

Basketball

NEW YORK — Billy Cunningham, Carolina Cougar forward and one-time scourge of the National Basketball Association, Monday was named most valuable player of the American Basketball Association in his first season with the league.

Cunningham was a four-time NBA All-Star choice with Philadelphia before signing with the Cougars and leading them to the ABA's Eastern Division championship. For his efforts, Cunningham was named on 44 of the 58 ballots cast by sports writers and television broadcasters in the 10 league cities.

Julius Erving, Virginia's "Dr. J.," was a distant second with seven votes.

Boxing

SACRAMENTO — A bill making it a crime to throw anything at the ring during a boxing match moved to the Assemby floor today after being unanimously approved in committee.

Its author, assemblyman Alex P. Garcia, D-Los Angeles, said the measure was in response to the "extremely dangerous practice" of fans throwing coins at fighters for a good performance.

"The last fight I was at, I got hit in the head with a silver dollar," Garcia told the Assembly Commerce and Public Utilities Committee.

The panel voted 5-0 approval to the measure yesterday.

Rec Softball Results

Dave Olbrantz smashed two doubles and drove in three runs as Mainline Nine defeated Independent Electric, 9-4, in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league game last night at Albert Field. Thirty-Nine Main forfeited the other scheduled game to Ball Four.

Football

BUFFALO, N.Y. — The Buffalo Bills of the National Football League announced yesterday they have acquired safety Chuck Detwiler and defensive end Lee Thomas from the San Diego Chargers for an undisclosed draft choice.

Detwiler is a 6-foot, 185-pound four-year veteran, while Thomas, at 6-5, 240 pounds, has three years of professional experience.

Tennis

BRUSSELS — Roy Emerson of Australia yesterday topped New Zealand's Onny Parun, 6-0, 6-2, and Australia's Rod Laver bested Bernard Mignot of Belgium 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 in second round action at the World Championship tourney.

HOUSTON — Australian Ken Rosewall yesterday rallied from two service breaks in the third set and defeated Fred Stolle, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5 in the finals of the River Oaks American General Invitational tourney.

CLEVELAND — Soviet star Alex Metrevelli yesterday overcame Yugoslavia's Boro Jovanovic, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2, in the opening round of the Cleveland Classic.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Linda Tuero, of Metairie, La., yesterday scored a first round victory over Ireland's Sue Minford 6-2, 6-1in the $20,000 Miami Beach Carner Bank Open tourney.

B.F.Goodrich
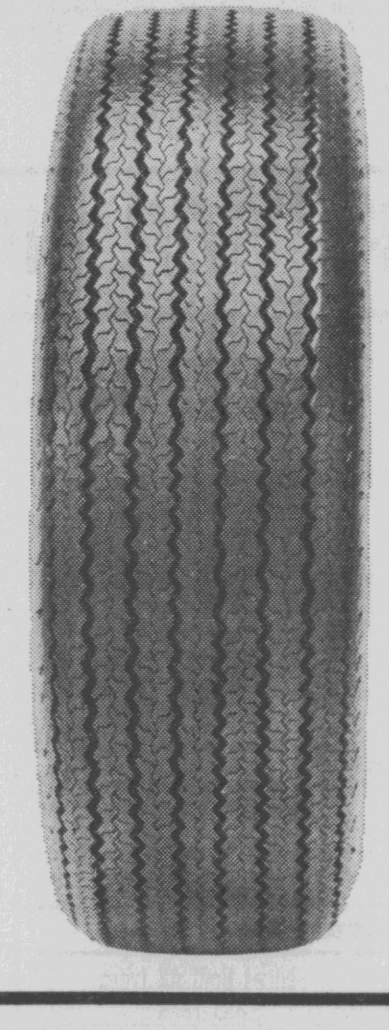
LIFESAVER RADIAL XL-100



HOW'S A RADIAL TIRE DIFFERENT?
Unique radial construction reduces damaging heat build-up. Sidewalls remain flexible to help absorb shock and keep the tread flat on the road.
The Lifesaver® Radial XL-100 has 4 belts of tough Dynacor® rayon cord directly under the tread — to minimize squirm and scuff-off, major factors in tire wear. What's in it for you? Long mileage.
WHY BFG RADIALS?
B.F.Goodrich introduced the first American radial in 1965. Every Lifesaver Radial XL-100 is soundly backed by years of BFG experience and leadership in radial tire technology.
WHO NEEDS RADIALS?
You do. If your kind of driving demands a hard-working tire that gives you superior mileage.
You be the judge. Think about how you drive and under what conditions (highway or city, rough roads or smooth). Then consider what you expect from the tire you depend on.
HOW ARE RADIALS ECONOMICAL?
Long mileage, tough impact-resistance, great handling, smooth ride, cornering and traction . . . it all adds up. Radial tires are a better value in the long run.
$39 as low as
Whitewalls size DR70-13 plus Fed. Ex. tax of $2.51 and trade

STEEL RADIALS
Guaranteed 40,000 Miles
The only radials in the world with Cushioned Steel® Construction. Steel for strength and long wear. Cushioned between double layers of Dynacor rayon cord for a smooth ride.
40,000 MILE GUARANTEE
In normal driving you'll get at least 40,000 miles of tread wear from the Lifesaver Radial Steel R/S on your car. If you don't get 40,000 miles, take the guarantee back to your BFG retailer. He'll allow you credit for the difference toward the going trade-in price of new ones. And add a small service charge.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, April 10, the 100th day of 1973 with 265 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

Faed U. S. Navy Commodore Matthew Perry was born April 10, 1794.

On this day in history:

In 1849, Walter Hunt of New York received a patent for his invention of the safety pin.

In 1945, the Nazi concentration camp Buchenwald was liberated by the U. S. 80th Division.

In 1971, the U. S. table tennis team arrived in Red China, the first American group to penetrate the "Bamboo Curtain" since the 1950s.

In 1972, between 2,000 and 4,000 were estimated dead in an earthquake in southern Iran.

A thought for the day: French writer Francois Rabelais said, "So much is a man worth as he esteems himself."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Services Board Cancels Meet

The Bel Marin Keys Community Services District Board has canceled its regular meeting scheduled for Thursday evening because of a conflict in dates, according to secretary Betty L. Zoeller.

The board will meet intead at 7:30 p.m. April 18 at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center, Mrs. Zoeller reported.

Elementary Spanish Booted In Kentfield

Trustees of the Kentfield School District last night approved eliminating Spanish instruction in the elementary schools, while at the same time boosting foreign language instruction at the junior high school level.

Interim Supt. Byron D. Mauzy said that while several parents objected to the elementary cut, "the program was not what it was originally intended to be and so there was no use in continuing it."

At the start, the program had two full-time people directing it, but now is down to a part-time director, Mauzy said.

The foreign language curriculum at the junior high level, due for general upgrading, still includes French, Italian and German, as well as Spanish.

The Kentfield School District board also:

SALARIES — Received a request from the district's 30 nonteaching employees for a 5.5 per cent pay boost for 1973-74, representing an added outlay of up to $45,000. The board later went into closed session to instruct Mauzy in upcoming negotiations with the workers.

EXTENDED — Approved continuing the extended learning program next year, as well as starting it at another elementary school. Under the program, residents with special experience, talent or skill are brought into the classroom to aid students. The board also voted to establish the position of program coordinator as a full-time certificated responsibility.

INVENTORY — As now required by state law, approved conducting an inventory of district equipment and hired the Tait Appraisal Co. for $2,900 to do the job.

BUBBLE — Received a letter from the Standard Oil Co. saying it is withdrawing plans to construct a bubble machine car wash on College Avenue near Adaline E. Kent School. The district had objected because of potential noise and traffic congestion.

LAYOFFS — Mindful of the possibility that up to four teachers may have to be laid off because of budget problems, said rehirings would occur in the inverse order of layoff. It also established a seniority list amid plans to lay off several classified workers.

MEETING — Said its next meeting would be April 23.

Homeowner Unit Will Sponsor Candidate Night

The Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association agreed last night to sponsor a candidate night for the June 12 Petaluma election.

Publicity chairman Cheryl Heringer said the program will be held May 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Kenilworth Junior High School. Organizations assisting the homeowners will be Newcomers Club, Business and Professional Women's Club and American Association of University Women.

Entries in a children's drawing contest to promote KQED's annual fund raising auction will be accepted through May 1 at the office of the Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center, 618 Town and Country Village, Mill Valley.

All Marin children in the third through fifth grades may submit entries done in crayon, paint or paper and paste, and depicting impressions of past auctions, according to Susan Kolb, Marin publicity chairman for the auction.

Deadline for entries is May 1, Mrs. Kolb said. Photos of last year's auction, to be used as guides by entrants, have been sent to all Marin elementary schools and also are on display at the shopping center office.

The entries should be no larger than 11 by 14 inches and include children's name, address, school and grade.

First prize is a $50 savings bond. It will be awarded at ceremonies at a fun fair to be held May 12 at the shopping center to publicize the auction, Mrs. Kolb said.

Entries will be on display at the fair. The top five artists will tour the station's studios and their entries will be sold at the auction, Mrs. Kolb said.

KQED, San Francisco's educational station, will hold its auction June 1 through 10.

Flood Area Building Ban Asked

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended that the city council create a flood plain zone banning building on approximately 200 acres beside Novato Creek between South Novato Boulevard and Highway 101.

The Novato City Council will consider such an ordinance at its meeting next Tuesday.

The council had previously adopted a flood control zone for the creek between Highway 101 and its mouth at San Pablo Bay and another creating ponding areas.

If adopted by the council, the new ordinance would stop all building in the flood plain area beside the creek where several developments are planned.

The planning commission then approved variances for a warehouse for Stan's for Sports Inc. for Stanley Goldsmith and a distributing warehouse for Ciampi Distributors for Paul Ciampi.

This was done over the protest of several residents of Yukon Way and Nave Gardens whose homes were flooded or threatened by flood waters during the January flood.

Keith Hastings of the Murray-McCormick Environmental Group, told the commission that the two warehouses to be constructed across the creek from Yukon Way would increase the height of the flood waters by five inches.

The vote on the variances was 4-2, with Beverly Ehreth and John Schoonover against and Gail Wilhelm absent.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

WOODLANDS — Recommended that the city council prezone to planned residential single-family homes on 40,000 square feet for 66 acres on Olive Avenue east of the city limits for Woodlands Co.

NOVATO FAIR — Tentatively approved plans for adding a drug store and other stores to the Novato Fair Shopping Center. The plans call for a connecting pedestrian mall in the parking lot between the two clusters of buildings.

REPORT — Received but took no action on the guidelines adopted by the council for making environmental impact reports.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to a joint meeting with the council at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House and set a special meeting on the general plan for 8 p.m. next Tuesday at Novato City Hall.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, April 10, the 100th day of 1973 with 265 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

Faed U. S. Navy Commodore Matthew Perry was born April 10, 1794.

On this day in history:

In 1849, Walter Hunt of New York received a patent for his invention of the safety pin.

In 1945, the Nazi concentration camp Buchenwald was liberated by the U. S. 80th Division.

In 1972, between 2,000 and 4,000 were estimated dead in an earthquake in southern Iran.

A thought for the day: French writer Francois Rabelais said, "So much is a man worth as he esteems himself."

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

Services Board Cancels Meet

The Bel Marin Keys Community Services District Board has canceled its regular meeting scheduled for Thursday evening because of a conflict in dates, according to secretary Betty L. Zoeller.

The board will meet intead at 7:30 p.m. April 18 at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center, Mrs. Zoeller reported.

Elementary Spanish Booted In Kentfield

Trustees of the Kentfield School District last night approved eliminating Spanish instruction in the elementary schools, while at the same time boosting foreign language instruction at the junior high school level.

Interim Supt. Byron D. Mauzy said that while several parents objected to the elementary cut, "the program was not what it was originally intended to be and so there was no use in continuing it."

At the start, the program had two full-time people directing it, but now is down to a part-time director, Mauzy said.

The foreign language curriculum at the junior high level, due for general upgrading, still includes French, Italian and German, as well as Spanish.

The Kentfield School District board also:

SALARIES — Received a request from the district's 30 nonteaching employees for a 5.5 per cent pay boost for 1973-74, representing an added outlay of up to $45,000. The board later went into closed session to instruct Mauzy in upcoming negotiations with the workers.

EXTENDED — Approved continuing the extended learning program next year, as well as starting it at another elementary school. Under the program, residents with special experience, talent or skill are brought into the classroom to aid students. The board also voted to establish the position of program coordinator as a full-time certificated responsibility.

INVENTORY — As now required by state law, approved conducting an inventory of district equipment and hired the Tait Appraisal Co. for $2,900 to do the job.

BUBBLE — Received a letter from the Standard Oil Co. saying it is withdrawing plans to construct a bubble machine car wash on College Avenue near Adaline E. Kent School. The district had objected because of potential noise and traffic congestion.

LAYOFFS — Mindful of the possibility that up to four teachers may have to be laid off because of budget problems, said rehirings would occur in the inverse order of layoff. It also established a seniority list amid plans to lay off several classified workers.

MEETING — Said its next meeting would be April 23.

KQED (9), 8:30 p.m. — "Bill Boyers' Journal" presents "Samuel Eliot Morison," an informal conversation with the 85-year-old historian who won a Pulitzer prize for his 1942 biography of Columbus.

Contest To Promote KQED Auction Set

Entries in a children's drawing contest to promote KQED's annual fund raising auction will be accepted through May 1 at the office of the Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center, 618 Town and Country Village, Mill Valley.

All Marin children in the third through fifth grades may submit entries done in crayon, paint or paper and paste, and depicting impressions of past auctions, according to Susan Kolb, Marin publicity chairman for the auction.

Deadline for entries is May 1, Mrs. Kolb said. Photos of last year's auction, to be used as guides by entrants, have been sent to all Marin elementary schools and also are on display at the shopping center office.

The entries should be no larger than 11 by 14 inches and include children's name, address, school and grade.

First prize is a $50 savings bond. It will be awarded at ceremonies at a fun fair to be held May 12 at the shopping center to publicize the auction, Mrs. Kolb said.

Entries will be on display at the fair. The top five artists will tour the station's studios and their entries will be sold at the auction, Mrs. Kolb said.

KQED, San Francisco's educational station, will hold its auction June 1 through 10.

Stabbing Victim Recovering Well

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The 24-year-old Japanese coed brutally stabbed three weeks ago by a man who tried to rape her, may be going home in another week.

Officials at San Francisco General Hospital said Monday Yoshika Tanaka, the attractive student who was stabbed two dozen times when a man attacked her at her door, was "coming along just fine."

Reporter Sets Freedom Talk

New York Times reporter Earl Caldwell will discuss the freedom of the press at 3 p.m. Sunday at the home of Ruth Lederman, 16 Tree Top Way in Kentfield.

Caldwell became a central figure in the battle between the press and the courts when he refused to reveal his sources in articles he wrote about the Black Panther Party.

The event is sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union and is open to the public.

Flood Area Building Ban Asked

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended that the city council create a flood plain zone banning building on approximately 200 acres beside Novato Creek between South Novato Boulevard and Highway 101.

The Novato City Council will consider such an ordinance at its meeting next Tuesday.

The council had previously adopted a flood control zone for the creek between Highway 101 and its mouth at San Pablo Bay and another creating ponding areas.

If adopted by the council, the new ordinance would stop all building in the flood plain area beside the creek where several developments are planned.

The planning commission then approved variances for a warehouse for Stan's for Sports Inc. for Stanley Goldsmith and a distributing warehouse for Ciampi Distributors for Paul Ciampi.

This was done over the protest of several residents of Yukon Way and Nave Gardens whose homes were flooded or threatened by flood waters during the January flood.

Keith Hastings of the Murray-McCormick Environmental Group, told the commission that the two warehouses to be constructed across the creek from Yukon Way would increase the height of the flood waters by five inches.

The vote on the variances was 4-2, with Beverly Ehreth and John Schoonover against and Gail Wilhelm absent.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

WOODLANDS — Recommended that the city council prezone to planned residential single-family homes on 40,000 square feet for 66 acres on Olive Avenue east of the city limits for Woodlands Co.

NOVATO FAIR — Tentatively approved plans for adding a drug store and other stores to the Novato Fair Shopping Center. The plans call for a connecting pedestrian mall in the parking lot between the two clusters of buildings.

REPORT — Received but took no action on the guidelines adopted by the council for making environmental impact reports.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to a joint meeting with the council at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House and set a special meeting on the general plan for 8 p.m. next Tuesday at Novato City Hall.

REDUCE! WITH OUR Guaranteed RESULTS

Gloria Marshall says:

LOOK 10 YEARS YOUNGER FOR Mother's Day

Every woman wants to look a little younger, and she can, by losing those aging pounds and inches. Start now at Gloria Marshall's and you will be amazed at how quickly you will notice the results.

. . . through the nationally famous Gloria Marshall methods

1 THE GLORIA MARSHALL GUARANTEE: Tell us the dress size you want to be. We will then analyze your figure and tell you exactly the number of inches you need to lose. We are so sure of your results that we Guarantee in writing that if your measurements are not as promised, you may continue your treatments at no charge until your goal is reached.

2 HOW THE GLORIA MARSHALL SYSTEM WORKS: On your first visit, for which there is no charge or obligation, you will receive a complete demonstration and sample treatment. You will be weighed and measured (this does not require disrobing) and a trained specialist will analyze your figure and prepare a personalized program for you.

3 THE GLORIA MARSHALL METHOD is pleasant. Results are achieved through a program of nutritional guidance and individually designed triming and toning techniques. Each woman's figure problem is different. The results you achieve from your personalized program may be different than those achieved by someone else.*

ALSO NOTE THE DRAMATIC CHANGE IN FACIAL FEATURES

Ericka Emery, glamorous grandmother, lost 23 3/4" and went from a size 14 to a size 10. She states, "I tried crash diets and gyms, nothing worked for me until I came to Gloria Marshall's. Now I wear the same size dress I wore on the day I was married."

Affidavits of authenticity on file in home office.

SAN RAFAEL NOW PROCESSES MAIL BY HAND AS FAST AS SAN FRANCISCO DOES WITH THEIR "FABLED" LSM MACHINES
THINK WHAT IT WILL BE LIKE WHEN WE REALLY GET SERIOUS
WE WILL BURY SAN FRAN WITH PRODUCTIVITY

INCENTIVE FOR WORKERS — Signs affixed to the wall of the main San Rafael Post Office on Bellam Boulevard proclaim even the workers' opposition to ill-fated plans to sort Marin mail in San Francisco. Postal officials announced today that the proposal, which attracted widespread opposition, has been scuttled.

Marin Mail Will Not Be Transferred

Postal Plans To Sort In San Francisco Out

By MARY LEYDECKER

In the wake of a flurry of complaints and petitioners, the U.S. Postal Service today did an about-face on plans to send Marin mail to San Francisco for sorting.

Guido A. Alasia, district manager for the San Francisco Postal District, said his department had "reassessed and re-evaluated" earlier plans to put Marin's mail routinely through San Francisco's mechanized sorting system.

Alasia acknowledged there have been more complaints about mail service from Marin County than from other parts of the Bay Area, including petitions circulated and sent to Washington.

He said he thinks there is a "misunderstanding at this time" among many Marin residents, who do not realize that mail is sorted at the San Rafael Post Office Mondays through Fridays. On weekends, he said, Marin mail has been sent to San Francisco for distribution.

This practice will be discontinued beginning this weekend, Alasia said, and may result in "a little improvement" in service.

Alasia maintained, however, that Marin residents are now getting overnight delivery for letters mailed to recipients within the county "95 per cent of the time" and the most recent survey, he said, indicated 100 per cent such service.

He said problems caused after Christmas by a shortage of postal workers, a deluge of mail and a flu epidemic have been solved. Twenty-six additional employees, mainly clerks, are being hired for the San Rafael office, according to Postmaster Hugh Cassidy. San Rafael is the distribution point for Marin and Southern Sonoma post offices.

Alasia blamed slipups in the postal system on human error, saying we "are at the mercy of the operator and it is very easy for an operator in the San Francisco center to punch the wrong key" and send a letter in the wrong direction.

He himself, he said, had a pay check delayed several days because it went to Miami instead of his home in San Francisco.

Despite such problems, Alasia predicted that within a year and a half to two years, Marin's mail will go to San Francisco for mechanized sorting. At that time a letter mailed in Mill Valley to San Rafael would go by way of the Rincon Annex Post Office. Alasia said the machines by then would be better able to handle the mail than now, but did not say next-day delivery could be counted on.

Most of the mail originating on the Peninsula is now handled in this manner, Alasia said, but he admitted "there are some complaints."

In an attempt to allay other concerns expressed by petition signers, Alasia said there are "no immediate plans to discontinue Saturday deliveries in Marin" nor to discontinue window service at local post offices on Saturday mornings.

Alasia said that petitions signed by Marin residents had expressed fears such services would be discontinued.

He said his department, though, does intend to "evaluate" Saturday deliveries in San Francisco's financial district.

New School Head Guidelines Given

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Noneducators are invited to apply for the job of San Rafael superintendent of schools in one paragraph of an announcement brochure being circulated in the search for a new superintendent.

The paragraphs that follow, however, virtually rule out anyone who has not had administrative experience within a school district.

The brochure, prepared by outgoing Supt. John F. Plank and his staff, says under "Qualifications":

"The board of education is seeking the most qualified administrative leadership available. The position is not limited to candidates with school administration certification and experience."

Following this, however, the list of requirements specifies:

"Evidence of administrative experience at the district level in a unified or common-administration school district or its equivalent.

"Experience in working directly with the board of education. . .

"Demonstrated ability to work in harmony with the board of education, students, district employees and the public."

The brochure announces that 'a screening committee of professional educators will review the applications and may conduct preliminary interviews." This further reduces the possibility of a noneducator being selected.

"Candidates selected by the professional screening committee will be interviewed by a representative committee of teachers, parents, students, administrators and community leaders," the brochure continues. "Candidates selected by the screening process have an interview with the San Rafael Board of Education beginning May 21."

The May 21 start on interviews means that the two members of the board of education elected next Tuesday — at least one of whom will be new — will participate in the selection. San Rafael Board of Education members take office seven days after election, although trustees elected in school districts not governed by city charters do not take office until July 1.

The brochure specifies that the beginning salary for the new superintendent "will range between $25,000 and $30,000." Superintendent Plank is receiving $30,000 per year.

The announcement also says

Mill Valley Hits Report On Shelter Ridge Plan

By REBECCA LARSEN

The Mill Valley Planning Commission, agreeing with residents last night, took issue with a consultant's report on proposed Shelter Ridge development and declared it finds the project would significantly affect the city's environment.

The commission's finding that significant increase in sewage, traffic and population would result was made at a hearing on the project planned on a hill above Highway 101 where 104 units have already been built.

Proposed by developer Harder-Odenthal are another 179 units on Shelter Ridge and, by a foundation, 72 nearby units of low and moderately priced housing.

For the developer, it was the second go-round before the commission, because the city council last week ruled that previously granted approval was void since deadlines on phases of planning had passed without being met.

The planning commission also voted unanimously to take an April 18 field trip to the Shelter Ridge site to prepare for further review of the environmental impact report on April 23. Representatives from interested homeowners associations, the city staff and the developer were asked to join the inspection.

However, commissioners indicated that they are sympathetic to the Shelter Hill low and moderate income housing units to be built near Shelter Ridge by the Interfaith Housing Foundation. At the request of the foundation's attorney Douglas Ferguson, they voted 5-1 to approve the concept of locating these units on the Shelter Hill site.

Ferguson asked that a record of the vote be sent to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission so that the foundation can apply for permits needed from that board. Commissioner Louis G. Millin voted against the measure.

During the hearing, both planning commissioners and audience members said that they disagreed with several conclusions of the environmental impact report on the Harder-Odenthal project by Environmental Science Associates of Burlingame.

"How can they say that new sewer hookups would have a 'slight' effect on the environment when we have such sewage problems here?" asked Jack Lloyd, 85 Shelley Drive.

Other residents complained about "slight" ratings given to noise and traffic created by the project.

Charles B. Bennett of Environmental Science Associates replied that the ratings were given because "any presence of human beings in an area would contribute to these problems."

"Significant ratings are given when a developer would have an impact out of proportion to the number of people there," he said.

At the suggestion of chairman Ivan S. Poutiatine, the commission decided to rate the development's impact on the environment as "significant" in several ways questioned by the audience.

Bradford McNutt, representing the developer, said he

Tiburon District To Consider A Full-Scale Treatment Plant

A pilot waste treatment system which uses algae to turn treated sewage into almost pure water will remain in operation at the Tiburon Sanitary District plant through the end of April while the fate of a full-scale plant is considered.

John F. Gorsich, president of Bio-Kinetics Co. of San Rafael, last night told directors of the sanitary district that Bio-Kinetics is having technical problems and trouble with suppliers and has not been able to meet a sefl-imposed timetable for installing a full-scale plant.

The district has a contract with Bio-Kinetics, signed last April, which gives the firm 18 months to perform and install equipment which will convert the district's entire sewage flow to almost pure water.

The company had planned to begin construction on the full plant last September, Gorsich said, but the inability to obtain satisfactory parts, coupled with fluctuations in the quality of the treated water, has resulted in delays.

The Tiburon board has been concerned, Gorsich said, at the delays and had asked Bio-Kinetics for a report on when the construction will begin.

Gorsich said he told directors last night the company wants to leave the pilot equipment in place at least through the end of April, when the firm will have a better idea of when construction can begin or whether the project indeed is feasible.

Directors agreed to give Bio-Kinetics 30 days to decide what to do. During that time the company will examine different ways of solving the treatment problems.

Under the contract, the Tiburon district will owe Bio-Kinetics nothing if the full-scale plant is not in operation by October, or $81,000 per year if the plant is built to the satisfaction of the district and the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

San Rafael Blocks Report On Santa Venetia Townhouse Plan

By ERIK M. INGRAM

San Rafael officials temporarily blocked county approval yesterday of an environmental impact report on a controversial townhouse project proposed for the picturesque ridgelands overlooking Santa Venetia.

The move came as the Marin County Planning Commission resumed its hearing on the San Pedro Reserve townhouse project, also opposed by some Santa Venetia residents who are contemplating purchase of the land for open space. (Another county planning commission story, page 3.)

Headed by San Rafael Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner, a contingent of six city officials charged that the project's environmental impact report, required by state law, is inadequate. They urged it be redrafted.

Among flaws in the report, they said, are unanswered questions on traffic, sewage, police and fire protection. The show of force by San Rafael, which sent officials from its police, fire, planning, public works and parks departments, drew applause from members of the audience.

After hours of discussion, the planning commission postponed action to its April 23 meeting so its staff and representatives of the firm which prepared the report can make corrections and additions to the report.

The project proposes 1,100 units in five cluster villages on a 256-acre site behind the Rafael Convalescent Hospital on North San Pedro Road.

Hotchner, who criticized the county planning department for not being critical enough in its review of the project, said the environmental report took too much for granted.

Backed by Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci and Deputy Police Chief Thomas Stevenson, Hotchner said the design of the project made it a nightmare for police and fire protection.

The environmental report, Marcucci said, dismissed fire protection saying a county "fire station" was located nearby.

That fire station, he continued, amounts to a brush fire truck and one fireman, whereas proper fire protection would require special structural fire equipment.

Hotchner added that the city would refuse to answer fire calls to the development.

Other city officials questioned traffic figures for the project and its lack of detailed plans for recreation facilities. (Its master plan shows tennis courts and a swimming pool at each village.)

A spokesman for Applied Sciences, which drafted the report, said the firm was limited economically from delving into the various points raised in depth.

Other speakers, three of whom said they represented the Las Gallinas Valley Master Plan Committee, also called the report inadequate since it failed to deal in depth with noise and air pollution or economic impact on the rest of the valley.

After postponing action on the environmental report, the commission heard a description of the project from architect Eugene Wedell of Sausalito.

In other matters yesterday, the commission approved a specific plan for Indian Valley near Novato, directed its staff to investigate illegal road grading on a ridge overlooking Forest Knolls, and refused to grant a use permit to Arthur H. Meyer to operate a plant nursery at the old Whole Systems recycling depot near the county heliport on Richardson Bay.

Nixon Asks Sweeping Foreign Trade Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress today for sweeping powers to expand trade with Communist nations, negotiate new foreign trade agreements, and retaliate for unfair restrictions on American exports by other nations.

In a message to Congress outlining the first major U.S. trading reforms since the mid 60s, Nixon also proposed tighter restrictions on American-owned firms whose operations abroad are deemed to threaten employment at home.

The trade bill, Nixon said in a short broadcast statement, "can mean more jobs and better jobs for American workmen." He added, "It can help American consumers get more for their money."

Under the proposed legislation, "most favored nation" treatment could be extended to the Soviet Union and China, putting their exports to this country in a competitive position with products of free world

Allende Charges U.S. Aided In Overthrow Plot

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — President Salvador Allende accused the U.S. government for the first time today of plotting with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) to prevent his inauguration and subsequently to cause civil war in Chile.

The Socialist president's accusation at an international workers' conference marked the first time he had publicly linked the U.S. government with ITT's alleged efforts against his government.

Allende said U.S. Senate hearings had proven "collusion" between the ITT and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in efforts to block his inauguration in November 1970 and later cause his overthrow.

SAVING LAGOON DUCKS

Foul For The Fish But Fine For Fowl

Marin County supervisors today played lord over fish and fowl at Civic Center Lagoon and decreed the ducks should be saved but the fish must perish.

The board's decision came after Pierre W. Joske, director of parks and recreation, told the board the friendly duck population is threatened with extermination from a disease called fowl choleria.

To combat the disease, he said, chlorine must be added to the water which will mean certain death to the carp, blue gills and sunfish.

Joske said about five ducks a day are dying from the disease, adding it would probably run its course in three to five weeks — enough time to wipe out the ducks.

However, he said with a note of optimism, the Civic Center Lagoon is usually replenished with a number of ducklings after the Easter holidays.

The choice is, he continued, adding chlorine to save the ducks and kill the fish, not add chlorine to save the fish and kill the ducks or "drain the lagoon and kill everything."

Supervisors, agreeing ducks are "better pets" than fish, decided to sacrifice the fish by adding chlorine. New fish can be planted in several weeks once the chlorine has done its job, Joske said.

"It sounds like an ecological loser either way," moaned Supervisor Michael Wornum good naturedly. "The fish lovers will hate us if we do and the duck lovers will hate us if we don't."

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini cast the lone opposing vote, saying nature "should be allowed to take its course."

House Sustains Nixon's Rural Sewer Grant Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today sustained President Nixon's veto of a rural water and sewer grant program, giving him his second major victory in a week in his fight with Congress over federal spending priorities.

This was the first test of House support for Nixon's drive to hold spending at $250 billion for the current year. The Senate last Tuesday fell short by four votes in a move to overturn Nixon's veto of a $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation program which he said violated his spending ceiling.

Nixon late last year ordered the water and sewer grant program terminated as of Jan. 1, claiming there were other rural aid programs that could be used for the same purpose at less cost to the government and that continued spending would be inflationary.

The new Congress passed a bill directing Nixon to continue the program, and this was the measure he vetoed last Thursday, claiming he was not subject to such a congressional order.

ACTION IN MIDEAST — This United Press International newsmap spots the latest centers of action in the growing Mideast crisis. Today Israeli units staged a bold raid on Beirut, killing three top Arab guerrilla leaders.

Israeli Units Stage Bold Raid On Beirut

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli paratroops and commandos landed on beaches near Beirut today, drove into the city in a fleet of cars apparently hired earlier by secret agents and killed three top Arab guerrilla leaders in their first strike into the heart of the Lebanese capital.

An Israeli leader called it a reprisal raid for previous Arab guerrilla attacks against Israelis and said the bold raid had struck a "serious blow" to the guerrilla movement. The Lebanese said the raid showed no one is safe from Israeli aggression.

The Israelis swooped in aboard launches at two beaches on Beirut's southern outskirts and drove to their target areas in a fleet of six civilian cars later found abandoned and bloodstained. One of the beaches was used for U.S. Marine landings in 1958, when the Lebanese government called for American help to fend off a threatening civil war.

Lt. Gen. David Elazar, the Israeli armed forces chief of staff, said in Tel Aviv the commandos, some of them dressed in civilian clothing, hit eight targets in Beirut and Sidon, 30 miles to the south, and warned that there might be more such attacks if Palestinian guerrillas attack Israelis again.

He said this raid was in retaliation for the attacks in Nicosia, Cyprus, Monday by Arab guerrillas against an El Al jet airliner and the home of the Israeli Ambassador to Cyprus. In the airliner attack, Israeli gunmen held the guerrillas at bay and prevented a bomb and machinegun attack on a loaded plane.

UPI Correspondent Charles R. Ridley reported from Beirut that the Israelis, in a meticulously planned raid that lasted only about two hours, assassinated the three guerrilla leaders, blew up buildings and garages, one of them a Palestinian headquarters, and fought street battles with Lebanese police and troops.

A separate Israeli force blew up a garage near the South Lebanon port of Sidon.

A Defense Ministry communique listed Lebanese casualties at four killed and 29 injured. The dead included two riot police and two Lebanese civilians. The ministry did not list casualties among "nonLebanese" which would include Palestinians. But the Beirut newspaper Al Safa said "some 40 Palestinians were killed or wounded." The Lebanese Red Cross issued appeals today for blood donors for the wounded.

An Israeli military spokesman said the Israelis suffered two dead and two wounded in the combined paratroop, naval and air operation.

Phnom Penh Embassies Are Ordered Abandoned

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today three foreign embassies, faced with dwindling supplies and a threatened Communist attack on Phnom Penh on Friday, have ordered all dependents temporarily out of the capital.

The sources said the evacuation of the British, Japanese and Israeli Embassies will be completed by Friday—the Buddhist New Year. They said the evacuation was prompted not only by security problems, but also because of shortages of fuel, power blackouts and a shrinking water supply.

Military intelligence reprts indicate that Communist units now operating within a 15-mile radius of the capital are planning to launch a combined rocket and sapper attack on the capital in celebration of the New Year.

Word of the evacuation came as a U.S. Embassy spokesman said Washington had approved an airlift of fuel supplies to ease critical shortage in Phnom Penh caused by encirclement of the capital by Communist troops.

Military officials at the same time said government troops had reopened one of the city's five severed major land supply routes—Highway 4.

Wage Floor Of $2.30 Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration proposed today to raise the federal minimum wage from $1.60 to $2.30 over a three-year period. This is more than administration backers in Congress have sought, but less than some Democrats have asked.

Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan presented the administration proposal before a House labor subcommittee.

Brennan, formerly a New York building trades union official, had supported organized labor's drive last year for an immediate $2 increase. Congress could not agree on a bill and labor this year proposed going to $2.20 an hour in one year and eventually to $2.50 an hour without a stated time goal.

TIMETABLE

Brennan said the wage for employes covered by the law before 1966 should go to $1.90 on enactment, $2.10 a year later, $2.20 in 1975 and $2.30 in 1976.

Those covered after 1966 would go to $1.80 immediately, $2 a year later, $2.10 in 1975, $2.20 in 1976 and $2.30 in 1977. The bulk of the covered workers are in the pre-1966 group.

Brennan also urged that the $1.30-per-hour minimum wage for farm workers be increased to $1.50 immediately, $1.70 a year later, $1.85 in 1975 and to $2 in 1976.

Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., ranking GOP member of the subcommittee and staunch administration backer, sponsored the main earlier GOP bill in the House.

FARM WORKERS

It called for an increase in the hourly minimum for nonfarm workers to $1.80 immediately, $2 a year later, and $2.10 in 1975 for pre-1966 workers and go to $2.10 in three years for post-1966 workers. The farm wage increase under Erlenborn's bill would be to $1.80 after two years.

Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., the subcommittee chairman, studied Brennan's prepared statement prior to the start of the hearing and Brennan's appearance, and asked Erlenborn: "When did he change his mind? This isn't the song he was singing last year as a member of organized labor."

Erlenborn had no response except to say he had not been advised prior to Brennan's appearance what the administration would propose.

Peron Is Planning Argentina Return

SAN LUIS, Argentina (UPI) — President-elect Hector J. Campora said Monday that after his inauguration May 25 former President Juan D. Peron "will definitely settle in Argentina."

Campora won the March 11 elections with the aid of the slogan "Campora to office, Peron to power." Peron has spent most of his time in exile in Spain since he was overthrown by a miliitary coup in Argentina in 1955.

Environment Fair On 'Glassphalt'

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Visitors to the World Environmental Exposition next year will walk on 70 tons of old bottles and aluminum beer cans.

The material collected in a two-week public drive will be crushed and shredded into ingredients for the "glassphalt" Environmental Plaza at the expo site.

Plane Crashes; 146 On Charter

BASEL, Switzerland (UPI) — A British charter airliner circling for a second instrument landing attempt in a blinding snowstorm ripped through treetops in the hills south of Basel today and crashed in a thunderous explosion, killing most of the 146 persons on board.

Basel airport officials said they believed there were only seven survivors. Police, however, said: "There are believed to be 10 to 20 survivors, all badly injured."

The four-engine Vanguard turboprop craft, carrying clothing merchants and other visitors from Bristol, England, to the Basel Trade Fair, fell 12 miles south of this western Switzerland town near the farming community of Hochwald while making a second instrument landing attempt at the airport.

"Apparently the pilot had no time to signal an emergency," airport officials said. "There had been no may day or other emergency signal and obviously the hill just came out of the snow, and by then it was too late."

Because of the heavy snow conditions, communications and power in the Huchwald area went out shortly after the crash. It was two hours before the crash site was known and four hours before the first two survivors could be taken to the Basel County hospital. Helicopters ferried doctors and nurses to the crash scene.

Eyewitnesses said they heard the plane, engines whining, as it approached through the snowstorm. Then it crashed and exploded, they said.

Airport officials said the plane, owned by the Invicta Co., had overflown the airport and was trying a new approach from the opposite direction when it went down.

"The plane crashed onto wooded hills covered in three feet of snow," they said. "Rescue and search operations are extremely difficult because of the snow."

Russo Explains Why He Copied Secrets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Anthony Russo, weeping on the witness stand, said Monday he started down the road that eventually led to the Pentagon Papers trial when he began to empathize with the Viet Cong he interrogated for the Air Force.

Russo, on trial with Daniel Ellsberg in U.S. District Court, acknowledged he helped Ellsberg make copies of the secret Pentagon report on the war. His involvement was the upshot of a conversation with Ellsberg at a beach, Russo testified.

When he was still a researcher for the Rand Corp., Russo spent 18 months in Vietnam as the head of a team that interviewed scores of Viet Cong prisoners to study their motivation and morale.

Russo described spending two days with one Communist who Russo said had been tortured for months by the South Vietnamese, but would not break.

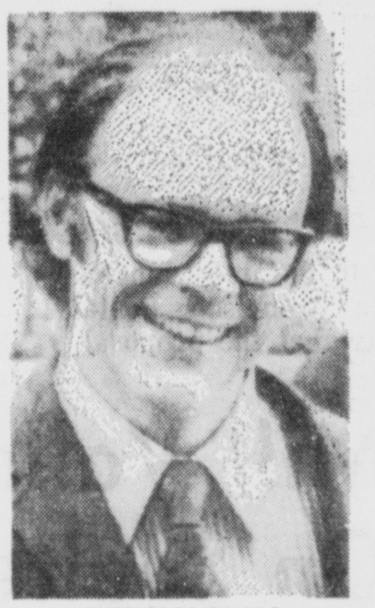
"He was the strongest man I have ever met—his constitution and personality," Russo said. "He talked about the presence of the Americans in Vietnam, the goals of the independence movement, how the people in the villages felt, how his own village was attacked.

"He recited poetry and sang a song to me. We established a rapport. I came to know the Vietnamese..."

Russo's voice broke. He held his head in his hands and wept. For almost a full minute he was unable to go on.

He sipped from a cup of water and looked up.

"As you see, even now when I think of it, it comes back to me..."



ANTHONY RUSSO
Smiles at first. . .

He began to weep again. His wife, Catharine, sitting in the front row of spectators, bowed her head.

He learned that in many cases children picked up unexploded bombs and "took them home where they would go off and the entire family would be killed," Russo said.

Russo said he resigned from the project when he learned his research was being used to bolster arguments in favor of Air Force bombing.

"It was lies, lies, lies," he said.

U.N. Observer Status Is Denied

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has declined to grant the Viet Cong observer status at the U.N. headquarters, informed diplomatic sources said Monday.

Waldheim had discussed the possibility of establishing a "liaison office" for the Viet Cong during the Paris peace talks.

An official U.N. spokesman merely announced that a response is being transmitted" to Madame Nguyen Thi Binh's appointment of a U.N. observer for the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Amnesty Debate

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark said America should forgive draft evaders and deserters. A former prisoner of war said America should forget them.

Clark debated four POWs — Cmdrs. John Fellowes and Edwin Shuman and Lt. Cmdr. Paul Galanti of the Navy; and Air Force Maj. Ronald Webb — on the question of amnesty before about 100 persons at the College of William and Mary Monday night.

"I just think we ought to be big enough and generous enough to do this, to say come home, we are ready to forgive you and forget this," Clark said.

Truce Team

SAIGON (UPI) — The international truce supervising organization said today it is halting all of its helicopter flights indefinitely, apparently because of a helicopter downed Saturday over territory controlled by Communists.

Nine men, two of them Americans, died in the crash.

A spokesman read newsmen a one-sentence statement announcing the decision, but did not elaborate on the reasons.

Gunman Shot

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops shot and wounded a gunman today in central Belfast in the third almost identical incident in three days.

Troops on patrol in the heavily Roman Catholic Lower Falls Road area spotted two men armed with rifles, kneeling in firing position. The men started to run and the British troops opened fire.

One was hit in the leg. Both were captured.

Sailors Punished

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Kitty Hawk courts-martial ended Monday with a total of 17 sailors, all black, ordered punished.

Nine blacks and the one white defendant were freed.

In the windup of the courts-martial that began in December, Capt. Bobby D. Bryant Monday imposed sentence on Airman Noel Smith, 19, of San Francisco, who was found guilty of assault and disrespect to an officer. Smith was fined $300, given 30 days at hard labor and reduced to seaman recruit.

A race riot raged through the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk last October as it steamed toward Vietnam from the Philippines.

Auto Emissions

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock Monday urged the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to grant a one-year extension to the auto industry for meeting stringent 1975 emission control standards.

In a letter to EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus, Woodcock said the recommendation was being made "after careful study, relying on reputable objective expert information and mindful of the essential need to protect our living environment."

Woodcock also urged the agency to insist that the industry made an "absolute good faith effort" to comply with the standards if the extension is granted.

Picasso Buried

MOUGINS, France (UPI) — The body of Pablo Picasso was removed today from his hilltop villa before dawn and entombed without ceremony in a crypt at his chateau 60 miles away.

The body was placed in the chapel of the chateau, a home Picasso bought at Aix en Provence in 1958.

A spokesman for the undertaker said only Picasso's 46-year-old widow Jacqueline, his son Paolo and a niece from Spain, Mrs. Dolores Vilato-Ruiz, were present when the body was placed in the crypt.

Warehouse Is Raided; 'Speed' Factory Found

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Narcotics officers raided a warehouse less than a block from police headquarters Monday and reported finding a "million dollar" amphetamine laboratory that could produce up to $200,000 worth of "speed" daily.

Police Sgt. Charles Hoenish said Clifford Ashworth, 27, was arrested as he fled from the "highly sophisticated" laboratory just two doors from the Hall of Justice.

Raiders hauled off two truckloads of chemicals, heaters, furnaces, test tubes and 21 partially filled gallon jugs they believed contained amphetamines.

Ashworth was arrested last week in a raid in another part of town and the warehouse was checked when it was learned he had rented part of it.

New Gallinas Growth Study Due

The Marin County Planning Commission sent its staff back to the drawing board yesterday to come up with some way of limiting growth in the Las Gallinas Valley pending adoption of the proposed countywide general plan. (Another county planning commission story, page 1.)

County planning officials two weeks ago suggested a building moratorium on new residential projects that do not conform with the slow growth recommendations of the countywide plan.

The county counsel's office killed the idea, however, saying it would be questionable to base a moratorium ordinance on recommendations contained in an unadopted plan.

At the urging of a San Rafael official, who charged that the county counsel's office is "unwilling to shoulder the burden" of a moratorium, the county planning commission voted unanimously to direct its staff to draft another ordinance leaving out direct reference to the countywide plan.

The two-hour discussion came as Sol Silver, chief of advanced planning, and Harvey Bragdon, chief of current planning, told the commission the planning department was ready to let the matter rest.

Silver, chief architect of the proposed countywide plan, said the moratorium proposed two weeks ago would have served as a test of the countywide plan's recommendations on growth limitation.

While not pleased with the county counsel's ruling, Silver said he was not in favor of a blanket moratorium to stop all growth in the valley — an alternative proposal suggested yesterday.

San Rafael Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner, who headed a contingent of six city officials, urged the commission and staff to try again on its moratorium proposal.

He said both his planning commission and city counsel are concerned over increasing development pressure in the valley, an area included in the city's "sphere of influence."

(The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board decided last Thursday to proceed with an interim expansion of sewage treatment facilities that will provide for about 1,000 additional residents in the valley over the next year.

(The board agreed to use district funds for the interim improvement, which will cost about $40,000 for construction of a sewage pond, he said.

(The board also agreed last Thursday that the one-year interim expansion will be followed by expansion providing for 800 to 1,000 new residents annually until 1978. The four-year incremental improvement will be made with federal funds.)

Hotchner suggested the county copy San Rafael's moratorium which allows development by use permit only until the general plan is adopted.

"The county counsel has taken the most narrow approach" in interpreting the law, Hotchner told the commission, adding it appeared to be "an unwillingness to shoulder the burden or a lack of research" on the county counsel's part.

Offering the services of the San Rafael City Attorney, Hotchner said the commission would find a moratorium could be declared legally "to shut the barn door" on runaway development.

Hotchner, who drew applause from the large audience, was supported by several valley residents representing the Las Gallinas Valley Master Plan Committee, which also called for a moratorium until the future of the valley can be adequately planned.

Harvey Bragdon cautioned that the board of supervisors has turned down moratorium requests from Strawberry and Tamalpais Valley residents who voiced similar concerns last year.

Chairman Jack G. Nixon, who said he supported limiting growth in the valley, told Hotchner he was "delighted with the city's position."

Noting San Rafael's past opposition to portions of the plan, Nixon asked "Does this mean your commission and council are endorsing the growth rate proposed by the countywide plan?"

Hotchner answered that both the commission and council realize some kind of growth rate limitation will have to be imposed countywide but still questions what the rate should be.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo then took her turn asking if San Rafael officials were departing from their past position that the city's general plan supersede the county's for areas within the city's sphere of influence.

Hotchner repeated the city's contention that San Rafael "is better able to do detailed planning" for areas around the city.

However, he continued, for limiting growth now the "pseudofigures" contained in the countywide plan would serve the purpose.

Following the brief exchange, Commissioner John F. West moved to continue study of the proposed moratorium and request the county counsel to attend the April 23 meeting to explain the county's liabilities in imposing a building ban. His motion passed unanimously.

Man Constructs Cross For Wife

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Walter L. Schwartz has constructed a 65-foot illuminated cross here in memory of his wife of 42 years, Betty, who died about a year ago.

The cross, which stands on an eight-foot concrete base, is constructed of steel covered by aluminum, and is illuminated at night by three 100-watt mercury vapor lights. "I sincerely believe it was God's will that I erect this beautiful and inspiring cross, the symbol of Christ, as a memorial to my beloved wife, Betty, that it would radiate and instill in man's mind God's love for us all," Schwartz said after a dedication service.

Film Set On Exercise Program

Health Watch, an experimental program of jogging and supervised aerobic exercise for businessmen and women will be explained at a lecture and film showing at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Room 101 of the Science Building at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

The program will begin April 30 at the college, cosponsored by the Institute of Health Research in San Francisco. Each weekday from 6:45 a.m. to 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 6:15 p.m., medical technicians and a coach will supervise participants who will make a three-mile jog or walk on the college track.

Each participant will receive a physical examination and undergo five weekly blood tests to check on progress of the exercise for men and women previously lacking a regular exercise program. Shower and dressing rooms will be available.

A fee will be charged for the jogging program and physical examinations.

Foundation Sets Officer Vote

The North Bay Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes will elect officers and board members at its annual dinner meeting, 7:30 p.m. May 14 at Terry's Waffle Shop, Vallejo.

W. R. Russell, vice president and director of the New York City chapter, will be guest speaker.

Reservations are necessary, the chapter announced, and may be made through the March of Dimes' Marin office, Post Office Box 692, San Rafael, by May 10.

In San Rafael

The concert by the Tamalpais Chamber Orchestra will be at 8 p.m. Thursday in the San Rafael High School auditorium, and not the Mill Valley Methodist Church as reported Saturday in the Independent-Journal's Marin Magazine.

Board Seeks Advice On Marsh At School

The Mill Valley School District board last night decided to get expert advice before allowing a marsh near Strawberry Point School to be disturbed.

Developers planning a condominium project on property across the Salt Works Canal from the school asked the board that an easement for access to the canal be on the district side and not the condominium side.

Marin Cay condominiums, a 49-unit project planned for 14 acres, was approved last week by Marin supervisors on condition that the county be given an easement to maintain the flood control canal.

Paul J. Broman, developer of the project, is reluctant to grant the easement, however, because about half of the 14 acres are under water and the easement would take still more of the project site, said William Schenck of the Marin County Planning Department.

Since an easement for the Richardson Bay Sanitary District already runs along the school side of the canal, Broman asked that the school district agree to the flood control easement there as well, according to Patsy White, secretary to the superintendent.

Trustees, however, delayed a decision until an expert in biology can study the marshland fronting the canal to determine if maintenance equipment would damage it, Mrs. White said.

The board also asked for more information on the financial and legal implications of allowing children from the Sausalito School District to attend Mill Valley's Middle School next year.

Mill Valley has said it can accept up to 40 Sausalito children in an experiment to expose them to greater selection of classes and to prepare them for the larger classes they will be attending at Tamalpais High School.

wants the report to note that the project would be one of the last places in the area where middle income families can buy homes. "Shelter Ridge fits precisely the objectives of the proposed Marin countywide plan already approved by the Mill Valley City Council," he said. "In our present economy, even at prices of $29,000 to $32,000, the units are moderate in cost. Another year of waiting, and prices could rise to $35,000 to $40,000."

"The project may represent a microcosm of the countywide plan," answered Edward J. Gingras, president of the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association which opposes the plans. "But why do the apartments have to be four stories high, right on the crest of the hill?"

Included in the master plan of Shelter Ridge before the commission are proposals for 23 single-family and duplex residences and for 156 condominiums. The developer is also seeking rezoning for an office building, not included in the plans originally approved in 1969.

The developer still has valid building permits for another 83 townhouses yet to be constructed.

Also last night, the planning commission discussed plans for rebuilding the Safeway market at Camino Alto and Miller Avenue along with constructing an office complex and car wash. Most comments centered on the noise that the car wash would produce.

Capitol Termed Quake Hazard

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The century-old, golden-domed Capitol—judged "hazardous" in case of fire or an earthquake—will have to be vacated, probably by the end of the year, according to a key lawmaker.

"I really believe it has come to the point that we have to move," declared Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, chairman of the Joint Rules Committee.

Burton's comment came following presentation to the committee of a study by VTN Consolidated Inc., of Irvine. It warned that earthquake damage to the Capitol, first used by the legislature in 1869, could cause a "catastrophic disruption of state government."

The VTN study, commissioned by the committee at a cost of $43,860, recommended that the historic west wing of the Capitol be dismantled and reconstructed from the ground up at a cost of $41 million.

TRADE

nations entering the U.S. market.

Nixon urged rejection of congressional moves to deny most-favored-nation status to the Soviet Union until it lifts an emigration tax on Soviet Jews wishing to emigrate to Israel.

"I do not believe that a policy of denying most-favored-nation treatment to Soviet exports is a proper or even effective way of dealing with this problem," Nixon said.

"Most favored nation" tariff treatment means a foreign trading partner can import its goods into the United States at the lowest existing legal tariff in this country.

Poland and Yugoslavia are the only Communist countries at present enjoying this status, which also extends to the free world countries with whom the U.S. is joined under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The legislation would give Nixon power to decide when a trading nation appeared to be discriminating against American goods, and to retaliate with temporary higher tariffs or quota restrictions against products of that country entering the United States.

At present such retaliation can be imposed only against a country violating international trade agreements.

On the other hand, Nixon would be able to cut import restrictions temporarily in order to lessen inflationary pressures at home by putting foreign goods in price competition with domestic manufacturers whose price seemed too high.

The proposed legislation also would:

— Liberalize unemployment benefits for domestic workers displaced by imports.

—Impose new taxes on overseas subsidiaries of American companies, particularly those which ship finished products back to the United States.

—Grant trading concessions to underdeveloped countries.

—Authorize temporary import restrictions to help correct extraordinary deficits in the U.S. balance of payments.

Marinwood Summer Rec Budget Set

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission last night approved a preliminary budget of $4,200 for its 1973 summer program.

This year's budget is $200 less than in 1972, said Genevieve T. Bolding, district business manager. The commission predicted that $3,500 would be raised through fees for summer programs, the balance to be paid from tax revenues.

The commission also approved $370 for maintenance and repair of the district pool.

It recommended to the district board that $140 be authorized to buy a pacer clock to be used by the Marinwood swim team. The commission suggested it be paid for by excess registration fees from swim meets.

The commission adjourned until 8 p.m. May 3 when it will discuss the 1973-74 yearly budget in the Marinwood Community Center.

Novato Sets Up Impact Report Review Group

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee last night set up a subcommittee to review environmental impact reports, now required by the city on most developments.

Named to the subcommittee were Ernestine Barnwell, Donald Dickenson, Guy Napolitano and Lynn Childs, according to city administrative assistant Rodney B. Brown.

Subcommittee members are scheduled to sit in when the city's environmental impact report committee determines which projects require reports, Brown said.

The committee tentatively scheduled a joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission on an open space plan for Mount Burdell for April 26, Brown said.

Jail Is Given In Heroin Case

A mother of three, who sold heroin to supplement her welfare check, was ordered yesterday to serve eight months in jail for selling the narcotic to an undercover agent.

Marie Hendrix, 25, of Marin City also received three years probation from Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court. The judge followed a plea bargain under which she pleaded guilty last month.

Miss Hendrix was given a one-week stay to apply for work furlough since she recently obtained work as a grocery checker.

She was arrested Oct. 31 at the Corte Madera Shopping Center after selling five balloons of heroin totaling almost eight grams.

Alvarez Does Not Contest

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez, Jr., was divorced in the United States Monday by the woman he married only four months before he became the first American prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

Hortencia (Tangee) Alvarez, 32, obtained a Mexican divorce from the Navy flier in 1970. She now is married to Andrew Gonzales, 26, an Oakland auto parts dealer, and has an 18-month-old daughter. Her attorney advised her to obtain a California divorce.

Alvarez, 35, a POW for 8 ½ years, did not contest the divorce petition by his former wife which cited "irreconcilable differences." He did not appear for the divorce hearing.

Mercury Taken

BROCHURE

the board will consider a four-year contract (Plank resigned in the middle of such a contract), and will provide the superintendent with an automobile.

The brochure contains a paragraph which has brought objections from some board of education candidates, as follows:

"The instructional emphasis and curriculum development has been toward greater individualized educational programs for children. The districts support such arrangements as open classrooms, multi-age grouping, team teaching and flexible use of time and space. For example, San Rafael High School is on a flexible, modular-time schedule and houses a school-within-a-school unit of 150 students, served by six teachers. There are two alternative on-location high school programs, and there is an emphasis on continuating (sic) education with a strong adult program."

Some of the board candidates contend the new superintendent should not be tied in advance to experimental programs which are still being evaluated.

Reagan Surplus Bill Is Stalled

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's bill to return a $852 million treasury surplus to income and sales taxpayers stalled in the legislature today as a Democratic-sponsored rival measure advanced.

Reagan's plan for disposing of the state's one-time $852 million surplus calls for delaying the scheduled June 1 imposition of the sales tax increase until Jan. 1 and granting a once-only 20 per cent reduction in personal income taxes on 1973 income.

The Democratic rival, co-authored by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, would consume the surplus by delaying the tax increase until July 1, 1974.

But unlike Reagan's, the Democratic proposal makes no provision for an income tax cut.

Quake Building Code Questioned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Earthquake experts believe stronger building codes are needed as research reveals more about how damage occurs during temblors.

A panel of scientists meeting here said Monday that California's current earthquake building codes might not be adequate to prevent damage to hospitals and other buildings if a strong quake occurred.

John A. Blume, an engineer, said that some of the buildings damaged in the 1970 quake in the San Fernando Valley were up to state building specifications. Structures could now be made safer because of more recent findings, he said.

Canada Unhappy In Truce Role

OTTAWA (UPI) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Monday Canada will withdraw from the Vietnam truce observer force at the end of June if the situation "does not improve very substantially."

In a statement to Parliament, he said Canada would withdraw from the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) rather than risk Canadian lives for "a task which is not worth doing."

Sharp said the shooting down of an ICCS helicopter on Saturday with the loss of nine lives, including one Canadian, showed the situation in Vietnam was worsening.

Wagner To Decide

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robert F. Wagner said today he would "definitely" announce on Wednesday his decision on whether to seek an unprecedented fourth term as mayor of New York City.

Wilson's Skipper To Take A Rest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Commodore Joseph D. Cox sailed the S.S. President Wilson beneath the Golden Gate Bridge for the last time Monday after 25 years as skipper of one of America's last and finest passenger ships.

"The day of transportation by ship is long gone," he declared as the 300 passengers who made the liner's last voyage as a U.S. flag vessel disembarked.

Cox, 66, the master of the last American President Lines passenger ship since a year after she was launched in 1947, said he plans a long vacation but it won't be by boat.

The RAP is a "rotating acoustic pipe." A foot in diameter and four feet long, it contains a set of rattle bars that set up a clatter and explode mines that are normally triggered by the sounds of a ship's propeller.

City Redevelopment Pact With County Is Approved

The San Rafael City Council last night formally approved an agreement with the county regarding the city's redevelopment plans on condition that the Marin Community College District also accepts a city compromise offer on redecelopment financing.

Meeting in special session, the council heard Stephen Goldfarb, legal consultant to the redevelopment agency, outline the county agreement, which limits the city to a seven-year program for redevelopment and includes a complicated formula for sharing with noncity agencies some of the tax revenue generated by redevelopment.

Under state law, the redevelopment agency can freeze assessed valuation in the redevelopment area for up to 20 years, and use any increased revenue resulting from improvements to repay redevelopment financing.

Approval by the board of supervisors last Tuesday of 13 downtown San Rafael redevelopment projects ended a months-long battle over who would get increased tax revenue from increased property values in the redevelopment area.

College district trustees last Wednesday rejected two offers by the city to return some revenue that would be siphoned from the district in order to pay for redevelopment.

They appointed a four-man committee to further study the offers, one the same as that worked out with the county and the second the same as that accepted by the San Rafael Board of Education.

The college district is expected to make a final decision on the compromise proposals when it meets April 18.

"I am hopeful the college district will accept the same offer we made the city schools," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

And if the district doesn't, "then we go to court," the mayor said.

The council also met in closed session to instruct the city attorney on salary negotiations with city employees.

Fire Break Started In Eucalyptus Area

OAKLAND (UPI) — The state government had started cutting a 200-foot wide fire break through two million dead eucalyptus trees in the hills behind Oakland and Berkeley.

A team of 30 Ecology Corps members from the Division of Forestery started cutting the first of 500,000 trees on Monday, hoping to complete the job before the tinder-dry summer season starts in June.

City Seeks Change In Present County Fire Protection Role

The San Rafael Fire Commission last night declared that the County of Marin is taking advantage of the city which provides fire services in unincorporated areas without compensation, and commissioners suggested a city committee work with county officials on the problem.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said it costs the city $2,100 for each call to any of six areas lying outside the city limits but within the city's sphere of influence.

Even more critical than the cost, he said, is that every time a fire department unit leaves the city, it decreases fire protection within the city limits.

The city currently is providing fire protection in the unincorporated areas of Rafael Meadows, Santa Venetia, Country Club, Bayside Acres, California Park and Knocknaboul.

A small county brush rig manned by one fireman at a Santa Venetia service station is incapable of providing structural fire protection in Rafael Meadows or Santa Venetia, and the city provides "first response" fire services in the other four unincorporated areas, Marcucci said.

The chief noted that San Rafael has unofficial mutual aid agreements with other cities and receives more aid from these cities than it provides. "It's truly mutual aid," he said. But the county has neither the trained men nor the equipment to provide reciprocal protection for structural fires.

"We have to put a lid on expenditures for the fire department," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini, who sat in on a portion of the meeting. He noted that cost of the fire deartment is the largest single expense in the city budget.

The county collects $67,000 annually in fire protection taxes in the area around San Rafael for fire services actually provided by the city, according to City Mgr. William J. Bielser, who also attended a part of the meeting.

The commission discussed alternatives to the problem, including a "get tough" proposal to refuse to provide fire protection services in unincorporated areas.

"Let the county feel some of the chagrin for not providing adequate service to these areas," Bielser said. "Let them bear the guilt."

The commission appointed commissioners Daniel C. Dufficy and H. Robert Ghilotti to a proposed committee to take the issue to the county. It would be rounded out by two city councilmen and Bielser, Bettini said they will be appointed at the next city council meeting.

The commission also authorized Marcucci to work out a mutual aid agreement with the Marinwood Fire Department for assistance during structural fires and resuscitator calls in the Mount Marin area of the city south of Lucas Valley Road.

Because response time to that area from city fire stations "is considerable," the agreement would make Marinwood fire units available on an "on call" basis to provide quicker service, Marcucci said.

"I am particularly concerned with resuscitator calls," he said. "Every second counts."

In return, Marinwood would participate in joint monthly training sessions with San Rafael and would be allowed to use the city's drill tower. Marinwood also would be allowed to borrow a reserve fire engine from San Rafael on a 72-hour basis in the event one of its engines breaks down, Marcucci said.

Judge Sees Hope For A Violator

A Fairfax man — even the judge thought had overcome his prison past — was ordered yesterday to serve six months in jail concurrent with the time he expects to receive for violating parole by engaging in a barroom brawl.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court reduced to a misdemeanor a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against George Robert Simpson, 45, then volunteered to write a letter on his behalf to his parole officer.

"He can make it, and he will make it, too," the judge said.

Simpson pleaded guilty March 19 to the assault charge filed after he struck two San Rafael men with a broken pool cue in a scuffle over use of a pool table at McKee's Hof Brau, 721 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, last Oct. 19.

Simpson, sent to prison in 1963 for robbery and kidnap, had been free of serious violations from his parole in 1971 until October and Menary said he thought his latest violation would not have occurred had he stayed out of bars.

"Mr. Simpson, when you get out, stay away from bars and booze," the judge warned.

Failure To File Sentence Given

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Allen V. Dowling, 60, former president of Chicago National Life Insurance Co., was sentenced Monday for failing to file federal income tax returns in 1966, when he made more than $77,000.

Dowling was given a one year suspended sentence and placed on two years probation. Dowling, a former newspaper financial editor, had pleaded guilty.

Mr. & Mrs. Patrick A. Lejeune

Mr. & Mrs. Patrick A. Lejeune,
Ready ReservAccount and taxes.

The following is a transcript of an interview held with Mr. Pat Lejeune, produce broker.

"Well, Ready ReservAccount has come in handy a lot of times, in a lot of ways, but this could be the first year I've had to use it to cover my tax bill.

"In the past, I've used it on vacations when I ran short of money in my checking account, and wasn't in town to put more in. I've used it when there was 'too much month left at the end of the money.' Now, I'm getting ready to go out of town again, and I could end up a little short on April 16. So it's good to know I've got Ready ReservAccount to back up my checkbook. It's something special. You can quote me."

Thank you. We did. Ready ReservAccount. For when you have to write checks for more than you have in your checking account. Just one more of Security Pacific Bank's special services for special people. Like the Lejeunes. And you.

NEWS RACK PAYOFF — FOR POLICE

Fairfax Council Asks Rec Study

The Fairfax Town Council, faced with a park and recreation commissioner's demand for a sweeping reorganization of the town's recreation program, last night asked the commission to evaluate the program by next month.

The action comes in the wake of a recommendation by commissioner Irma Kay that the city fire recreation directors Susan and Richard Woodall and recreation leader Kim Parker.

"The council is concerned that our recreation program doesn't amount to much," said Mayor Albert E. Gately, adding that it is little more than a "paper program" due to an apparent lack of interest.

Mrs. Kay, however, said that the program had suffered due to an inadequate staff and a powerless parks and recreation commission. "We don't even have any authority over hiring and firing," she declared.

In addition to the dismissal of current recreation staff because they are "incompetent," Mrs. Kay is urging that the commission be responsible for preparing a budget for submission to City Aministrator Robert E. Crowe "prior to his submitting the budget to the city council"; that the commission interview all recreational staff before they are hired and that commissioners convene in special session to "formulate policy, goals and philosophy as well as establishing areas of responsibility for the commissioners."

Though other commissioners last night said they are also confused about the commission's goals and operating functions, they appeared to be in wide disagreement over what action to take.

"The commission is incompetent, not the recreation leaders," commissioner Leo Cronin told the Independent-Journal. "We haven't been giving direction" to the town recreational program, he said. Commissioner Randall Garrison said the proposal to fire the three recreation heads "ought to be looked into" and indicated that a review of their performance might show they need "more support" from the commission.

Gately asked commissioners to discuss the matter at 8 p.m. April 24, at the regular commission meeting, and come up with a "collective recommendation" on the situation.

The Fairfax Town Council Also:

ENVIRONMENT — Said the town will join other agencies in the county as a cosponsor of the "Total Environment Marin" conference on May 19, an event aimed at exploring human and environmental needs, according to resident Carol Staley.

MONO AVENUE — Approved a permit as requested by planning commissioner Harold S. Lezzeni for construction of a retail shop topped by three apartment units at 80 Mono Avenue.

FORREST AVENUE — Approved, with Egger dissenting, an appeal by Emil Renati of planning commission denial of a permit allowing two uncovered parking spaces on a car deck at 214 Forrest Avenue.

PAVILION — Authorized expenditure of up to $3,000 to hire architect Donald Olsen for drafting plans and specifications for renovation of the Fairfax Pavilion.

PERSONNEL — Approved a salary step increase to $974 monthly for building inspector Thomas Klarenbach.

SALES TAX — Said the city supports the City of Baldwin Park (Los Angeles County) in its effort to overhaul apportionate of sales taxes from a point of sale to a per-capita basis, but made no commitment on funding litigation on the matter.

STREET OVERLAY — Approved plans for the 1973 street overlay and resurfacing program, and called for bids on the resurfacing work.

CLAIM — Denied a claim for $2,178,000 filed by Max Friedman, who claims the zoning of his Marin Town and Country Club parcel represents inverse condemnation of the property.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fairfax Women's Club to consider the remainder of a lengthy agenda.

New Traffic Light Now In Operation

A newly installed traffic signal at South Novato Boulevard and Sunset Parkway, Novato, was to start operating today, according to Asst. Public Works Director Thomas J. Nolan.

The light will operate on green-yellow-red signals from 4 to 6:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8 a.m., the heavy traffic hours, Nolan said.

Breakfast With PT&T Is Praised

A breakfast meeting conducted by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. for the Fairfax City Council and phone company employees was praised last night by Fairfax's mayor as a public spirited activity, but one that might have been less controversial had it been publicly announced in advance.

Mayor Albert E. Gately called the meeting, attended by 63 phone company employees living in Fairfax, an example of "what democracy and America is all about."

"I think it's a good thing that corporations should encourage this type of thing," Gately said of the meeting at the Deer Park Villa last Wednesday. He added, however, that the company might have sparked better public relations had it informed the press of the event.

Gately asserted the breakfast made no violation of the spirit of the law since it was merely a social event aimed at promoting community involvement among company employees.

He said that he and council colleagues would welcome the opportunity to meet with other working residents "if any other corporation has this program."

Councilman E. Ross Parkerson later told a reporter that adverse publicity resulting from the meeting had apparently scuttled a public relations trip to view telephone operations in Monterey, a trip planned by the company for officials from Fairfax and other Bay Area communities.

The famous Klondike Valley, scene of the most spectacular gold rush in the world, was originally pronounced "Thrcndiuk" by the Yukon Indians.

Turfing Fuss Stalls Playground Proposal

A plan by the Fairfax School District board to turf a playground area and provide other improvements at Deer Park School failed to win the blessing of the Fairfax Town Council last night as councilmen deadlocked on how much grass should be planted.

The 2-2 split, with Councilman Lee Nelder absent, came after a parade of neighbors argued that plans to improve the playground would result in costly maintenance, more traffic congestion along Porteous Avenue and potential development of nearby water district lands.

Plans by the school district call for turfing two baseball diamonds and providing an access road to a play area at the school in a joint effort with the county parks and recreation department, which has jurisdiction over the unincorporated area of the school near Fairfax.

Councilmen were willing to ax the access road from the plan in an attempt to stem fears of future development of the area, but failed to agree on how much turfing should be allowed.

Councilmen Frank J. Egger and Robert R. Souza voted to support a "partial turfing" of about one acre of the schoolgrounds and supported annexation of the school site. Mayor Albert E. Gately and E. Ross Parkerson rejected the move.

Gately and Parkerson then voted to support turfing of about two acres of land as proposed by school officials, a move rejected by Egger and Souza.

The fate of the playground improvement plan appeared uncertain after the council's inconclusive action, with Gately saying that county officials would be wary of splitting an estimated $37,000 tab with the school district without a nod from the city fathers. School board member Laurence G. Hermann said trustees will wrestle with the matter at 7:45 p.m. next Tuesday when they meet in White Hill School.

Local residents, led by Robert Stout of 10 Barker Avenue who presented city fathers with a 115-signature petition opposing the improvement, declared they will appear at the meeting.

Citizen opposition scuttled a more massive plan to improve the area in 1968, when a plan to add a county park next to Deer Park School was abandoned.

Verdict Against Ford Is Upheld

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — An appellate court Monday upheld a $249,000 jury verdict against Ford Motor Co., because of an accident that occurred when a driveshaft broke on a 1968 Ford stationwagon.

Mrs. Susan Tokarz, who was injured in the three-car collision in 1970 near Kalama, Wash., contended Ford was responsible for the faulty equipment.

A superior court jury issued the judgment against Ford Oct. 29, 1971 and the State Court of Appeals unanimously upheld the decision, saying there was "established precedent" for the award.

Jail Ordered In Check Case

A 20-year-old Cupertino woman, who passed fraudulent checks to raise money for heroin, was ordered yesterday to serve 45 days in jail for two felony counts of passing illegal checks.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Patricia Ann Halajian on probation for one year, and told her she must redeem $423 in checks she passed and undergo periodic drug testing for drug use.

The former high school cheerleader told her probation officer she began using heroin at 17, about the time her parents separated.

San Rafael police arrested her March 5 on a warrant charging she passed an $82 check last Nov. 29 at George's San Rafael Recreation Parlor.

The Lagunitas School District board last night approved overnight field trips to Death Valley and Point Reyes for about 45 students.

About 30 fourth through sixth grade students will camp at Death Valley April 19 through 23. Another 15 from the Open Classroom program — an informal educational program without highly organized curriculum — will camp at Point Reyes April 11 through 13 to study the mechanics of backpacking and hiking, said Anna Mae Kondratieff, business manager. They will join a group from the Mill Valley Middle School.

The Lagunitas School District Board Also:

President Thieu Gets Icy Welcome In Bonn

BONN (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam received an icy welcome today from the few government officials on hand for his visit that was marked by the most violent left-wing demonstrations since the 1968 political riots.

Thieu flew to Taipei after a stopover during which most government leaders' including Chancellor Willy Brandt were out of town.

Thieu witnessed none of the violence —the teargas, the water cannon, the flying cobblestones, the chants of "Thieu Out! Nixon Murderer!" His hosts shuttled him to and from the airport by helicopter and police kept the demonstrators far away.

The most violent episodes occurred before his arrival for a 50-minute chat with President Gustav Heinemann, the only ranking official who was in town to greet him.

Government spokesmen described the Heinemann-Thieu meeting as a cool and formal affair. They said Heinemann frankly outlined his nation's concern for political prisoners in South Vietnam and explained the popular hostility to Thieu's visit.

Prior to his Bonn stop, Thieu met for two hours in informal talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath at Checquers, the prime minister's official residence.

San Rafael Man Arrested On Weapon Charge

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A San Rafael man has been arrested by Sonoma County sheriff's deputies on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Stephen Michael Boyle, 22, of 1325 Lincoln Avenue, Apt. 2, was arrested by San Rafael police Sunday after a bulletin was issued in Sonoma County. He was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Central Sonoma Municipal Court.

Sheriff's Lt. John Hess said Boyle was arrested in connection with an incident Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Sonoma County Jail honor farm. Hess said Boyle had an argument with Paul R. Begins, 24, of Santa Rosa, and threatened him with a .32 caliber pistol. Begins had been visiting a friend at the honor farm.

Police said the gun was found hidden under a mattress in Boyle's apartment.

All Foundation Officers Are Elected Again

All officers of the Marin General Hospital Foundation were reelected for another year, at the foundation's annual meeting in the hospital yesterday, according to Jack Craemer, board secretary.

The 11-man board of directors also voted to expand its membership to 18 members, and elected Jack Blaine, Shane Brady, Jane Drexler, Dr. James L. Goebel, Dr. Harry N. Hensler, William P. Murray Jr. and Anise Turina as new board members.

A. Crawford Greene Jr. was seated for another term as president, and Irving D. Chapman as vice president.

Burglary To Superior Court

Donald Edward Burns, 27, of San Francisco was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on two felony counts of burglary.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered him to appear April 18 after hearing the evidence of two burglaries in Sausalito homes Feb. 22.

Burns became a suspect March 5 when Sausalito police stopped a car containing Burns and his roommate, Paul Julian Bolton, 27, and noticed they were wearing clothes and jewelry similar to things taken in the burglaries.

Bolton is to be turned over to Marin courts after completing a hearing on probation violation in Contra Costa County.

Council Approves Residence Zoning

The Novato City Council last night approved residential use for 21 acres owned by Harold Bloom south of Indian Valley Road with density conforming to the Indian Valley master plan, a minimum of one-acre lots.

For the Sidney Kerston property, 11 acres along Indian Valley Road, opposite Arthur Street, the council designated residential with density from one house per acre to one house per five acres, depending upon the slope.

Recreation Land Buying Plan Is Hit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Friends of the Earth charged yesterday the federal government has declined to take advantage of an opportunity to gain at least partial control of more land in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area than ordinarily could be obtained.

Connie Parrish, California representative of the conservation organization, said the National Park Service has decided against using $5.9 million in recently transferred park funds for down payments on land sought for the recreation area, which includes substantial acreage in Marin.

While the government is empowered to use the time-payment provision under legislation which approved the park, Miss Parrish said the park service has chosen to use the $5.9 million instead for full payment on purchase of large tracts of land.

She said the government thus will lose an opportunity to obtain at least partial control over more park acreage.

"This gives an outrageous boost to the land speculators and developers," she said. Miss Parrish said it will take $61.6 million to purchase 16,500 acres of private land for park completion.

Jon E. Cook, associate director for the park service's western region, said it was decided in Washington not to use the down-payment method, without indicating why, other than to say outright purchase is normal park service policy.

Peters Files For Divorce

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — William Wesley Peters, chief architect for the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, has filed for divorce from his wife, Svetlana, daughter of the late Russian dictator Joseph Stalin.

Peters said grounds for the divorce action filed Monday "are simply that my wife left me over a year ago." He said he did not know whether the action would be contested.

The couple separated in December 1971, when Mrs. Peters left Taliesin West, a community founded by Frank Lloyd Wright northeast of Phoenix. She said at that time she did not like communal living.

The couple was married April 7, 1970, at Taliesin West after a three-week courtship. They have a daughter, Olga, born May 21, 1971, in Greenbrae, Calif., during a stay with Peters' sister, Mrs. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

Peters said, "There's been a property settlement and a separation arrangement has been made which covers the child. I've agreed that Svetlana can have custody of the child."

Corte Maderans Ask For Marina On Creek

Eugene K. Royal and 127 other Corte Madera residents living east of Highway 101 petitioned the Corte Madera Planning Commission last night for a marina on San Clemente Creek.

Royal, of 69 Golden Hinde Passage, recited the neighborhood's long history of attempts to form an assessment district or otherwise have the creek dredged for yachtmen's use, according to William G. McBride, town zoning administrator.

The petitioners linked their request to redevelopment agency plans for the proposed Hahn shopping center east of Highway 101, just north of their neighborhood. They suggested the creek project might be part of the redevelopment plans, McBride reported.

Royal argued that although present thinking on the town's general plan is to preserve the creek as open space, the preservation of the Heerdt Marsh and bayward portions of the redevelopment district should provide enough preserves therefore, the creek should be dredged, he said.

The commissioners referred the petition to the town's general plan and open space committees, McBride said.

The Corte Madera Planning Commission also:

SHOPPING CENTER — Approved, with little discussion, the changes in the redevelopment area plans that will be given full-scale hearing before the Corte Madera Town Council at 7:45 p.m. Monday in the recreation center.

TAMAL VISTA — Split 2-2, with Commissioner William Collier absent, over proposed design changes in Trans Marin Properties' proposed eight-acre industrial-office project at 200 Tamal Vista. The developers proposed to lower the roofline and make the overall design more rectangular; several neighbors supported the changes. The issue was continued to May 14, for action by a full commission.

PUMP STATION — Approved design of the Fifer Pumping station on Lucky drive, and set a public hearing on the required environmental impact report for 7:30 p.m. April 24.

HEARINGS — Also called a special meeting for April 24 for hearings on Amin Quance's application to use a house at 102 Edison Avenue as a parish house, for the environmental impact report on the Madera Del Presidio development, on rezoning the southwest corner of Fifer Avenue and Lucky Drive from M to C-1, and on abandonment of Church Court.

BUDGET — Routinely approved a list of proposed capital outlays by various town departments for fiscal 1973-74, including $50,250 in flood control and drainage work; $31,000 in town park improvements; $8,000 for updating the zoning ordinance, and $58,800 for street improvements.

SIGN — Modified plans and approved a freestanding illuminated sign for the Sizzler restaurant, 101 Nellen Avenue.

DENIALS — Voted denial to a take-out restaurant at 305 Montecito Drive, for lack of offstreet parking, and a commercial sauna at 5776 Paradise Drive.

CONTINUED — To May 14, hearings on revising the subdivision ordinance to provide for dedication of school sites, planned unit developments and other changes.

A Hi-Fi Show in Burlingame calls for a SALE at Pacific Stereo

The Institute of High Fidelity show at the Burlingame Hyatt House is this weekend and you'll have the chance to see all the latest in audio equipment. In the meantime, you can see some of the best values in stereo components right here, and at all Pacific Stereo stores. Come take a look, and pick up your discount tickets for the Hi Fi show on April 13, 14 and 15. We'll be there too, with featured displays of Quadraflex speakers and Spectrosonic receivers in room 210.

Save Over $130 on a Popular Harman-Kardon System

The Harman-Kardon 330A AM/FM stereo receiver is rated at 45 watts (RMS), ample power for room-filling volumes with the efficient TransAudio speakers. Its tuner section is the best of six receivers we tested in this price range. Convenience features include indicator lights for the program sources, provision for two sets of speakers, tape monitor facilities and separate left and right tone controls. The price for all this is a surprisingly low $239.95. (The walnut case is optional.)

The popular Garrard 40B is another outstanding value. It's a totally reliable record changer with a cueing lever to gently put the arm and the Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge on your records for you. With this cartridge and the base, the 40B's normal price is $60.90.

TransAudio 1010's are two-way systems with ten-inch bass speakers that will go all the way down to the bass man's low E. They're a fine value at $119.90 a pair.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty

A Good Choice for a First System

Here's a complete stereo component system featuring BSR reliability, and we have it at a low price of $177. The receiver is the new BSR 30, and they're to be complimented for coming up with a $130 receiver that sounds this good. An unusual feature is the FM center-channel tuning meter, which shows when you have the cleanest signal for good FM stereo reception. This AM/FM stereo receiver also has bass and treble tone controls, a headphone jack and an attractive oiled walnut case.

The BSR automatic record player is a fine value at $49.45, including a base and a Shure M75 magnetic cartridge with a diamond stylus. The 310 is an extremely reliable performer with a cueing lever that makes it awfully hard to scratch your records.

You probably know Harman-Kardon's very fine receivers and you should get to know their speakers, too. The model 20's included here are two-way eight-inch systems in walnut cabinets. You'll like both their sound and their low price of $79.90 a pair.

Get a Lenco Turntable, An Empire Cartridge and a $37.50 Savings

Like a fine watch, the Lenco L75 turntable is a Swiss precision instrument and it treats your records superbly. A really effective anti-skating device keeps the stylus centered in the record groove to prevent one form of distortion, and damped cueing lowers the arm gently. The infinitely variable speed control lets you slow down a musical piece to hear all its intricacies or adjust the pitch to suit your ear. We supply the L75 with the excellent Empire 999ZE/X elliptical diamond cartridge and Lenco's walnut base. Our usual price for this combination is $137.45 but you can get it now for $99.95.

SPEAR COLUMN NOT RECEIVED

Roger Spear's "Successful Investing" column for this week has not yet been received by the Independent-Journal.

The column will be resumed as soon as it is received.

Stocks Show Strength In Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices advanced strongly in active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange in what analysts called investor enthusiasm over first quarter earnings reports.

Turnover totaled around 7,500,000 shares, against 5,190,000 shares Monday. Analysts were encouraged by the increased volume, saying it indicated the advance has more buying interest than the gains of the past two sessions.

The market's strength was attributed primarily to anticipation of substantial gains in first quarter net income and to declining short-term interest rates.

Magnavox was most active on the Big Board, unchanged at 14 ¾ on 62,500 shares.

Prices were higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. National Kinney Corp. was most active issue, off ¼ at 7 ⅜ on 128,200 shares.

Longs Drugs Stores Show Big Earnings

Longs Drug Stores, Inc., a retail drug chain operating 64 stores in California and Hawaii, today announced a 13 per cent increase in earnings and a 15-1/2 per cent increase in sales for its fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1973.

Unaudited net earnings for the year were $8,642,000 or $1.66 per share of common stock outstanding against $7,671,000 or $1.48 per share the previous year.

Behind The Profit Picture

By RICHARD NENNEMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

First-quarter earnings reports are starting to stream across the business wires. Some of them are going to be looking extremely good, and if anything can keep the stock market turned around — that might do it — at least after April 15 is behind us.

But there is a double edge to good profits. If they look too good, this will be used as ammunition by some to prove that wage and price controls have been too heavy on wages and not heavy enough on prices. This in turn could reinforce pressures on the government to be a little easier on the major labor contracts coming up this spring and summer.

So let's look at profits with more than just this quarter, or even last year, in mind. We need to pay attention to two figures — profits as an absolute number and profit margins as a per cent of sales.

As an absolute number, profits are doing very well. But it is only since mid-1972 that they have climbed back to their previous record peaks of 1966. Yet the gross national product in 1966 was only $750 billion against a GNP of $1,152 billion in 1972.

These are current dollar figures and don't take into account the changing value of the dollar in those six years. But compared with an increase of 54 per cent in current-dollar GNP, corporate profits at first declined because of the recession and have only now recovered to the point they were at in mid-1966. As a slice of the total income pie, the profits piece was definitely not the one a hungry boy would grab.

Now look at the bottom line on the accompanying chart — pre-tax profit margins. This is the counterpart, or the explanation, of the fact that absolute dollar profits have only caught up with their 1966 levels while the economy has been galloping forward. During most of the postwar period (this chart goes back to 1950) pre tax profit margins ran somewhere in the 10 to 15 per cent-of-sales area. From the end of 1965, they began to trend downward. From a level of 14 cents on each sales dollar in 1965, they went to a recession level of 7½ per cent, and are only now climbing back to the 10 per cent level.

We should be reading the coming corporate profits reports with two things in mind — what they augur for increased controls or for the labor negotiations, and, longer term, whether the margins can manage to hold up to at least the 10 per cent-of-sales level they enjoyed during almost all of the 1950's and 1960's.

Marin Society Of Artists Sets Downtown Easter Art Festival

A downtown art festival will be sponsored in San Rafael during Easter Week, Monday through Saturday next week, by the Marin Society of Artists in cooperation with the San Rafael Chamber of Commerceand the Downtown Merchants Association.

About 1,500 works of art by members of the artists society will be displayed in show windows and interiors of downtown business establishments. One artist will be featured per store.

Gayle Luchessa of Sleepy Hollow and Blanche Ayers of San Rafael are in charge of the downtown art festival.

NORTHGATE A & W Restaurant, which is going up at 3741 Redwood Highway across the highway from the Marin Civic Center, will open about June 15 as a regular sit-down restaurant with seating for about 65.

Owners of Northgate A & W are John A. Brunner of San Rafael, Hugh M. Wilcox of Ross and James R. King of Novato, who bought the property from Tamalpais Land and Development Co. in January. John Reynolds Realtor of Terra Linda handled the transaction. King and Wilcox now operate the A & W Root Beer Drive-In at 836 Second Street in San Rafael.

"Northgate A & W will be completely different," said King. "It will be a regular sit-down restaurant with carpets, fireplace and the works."

Gentry Construction Co. is contractor, and Ghilotti Bros. is doing the site work. The pagoda-roofed building will be built of used brick. A landscaped parking lot will provide for 40 cars.

Immediately to the north of Northgate A & W is the new Grotto Restaurant, which is scheduled to open next month. Stan Valan of San Anselmo has operated the Grotto seafood restaurant at 909 Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael for the past five years.

Booby's Restaurant, which was dismantled to make way for Northgate A & W, will built anew where Herb's Pool Service is located at 3765 Redwood Highway. However, that construction cannot begin until Herb's Pool builds its own new building immediately to the north.

STUART D. MENIST of Kentfield was re-elected chairman of the board of the National Automobile Club at the annual stockholders' meeting last week. KEITH M. ASKEW of San Anselmo was re-elected president of the organization.

Menist is president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies. Askew is manager of The Hartford Insurance Group.

Judge Gives Ex-Convict Final Chance

Tommie Lee Walker, the pugnacious ex-convict who beat a Sausalito policeman into amnesia last year, received one final chance from a Marin Superior Court judge yesterday.

Claiming sending Walker back to prison would be tantamount to a death sentence, Judge Henry J. Broderick instead ordered the 27-year-old San Rafael man to serve six months in jail, then 18 more in the Delancey Street Foundation of San Francisco.

Walker was convicted in February of beating officer Robert Klein and a hitchhiker with whom he had a disagreement while waiting for a ride Sept. 28 in the 3000 block of Bridgeway.

Since Walker had prior assault convictions, he faced return to prison unless the judge ruled his case was unusual. Broderick made that finding yesterday and followed the recommendation of probation officer Jesse W. Johnson.

Johnson said, "It is obvious the defendant is not capable, in times of what he perceives as stress or provocation, to exercise control each citizen must maintain in his everyday relationships."

However, Johnson said, Walker "sincerely and generally attempted to develop appropriate controls" following his release from prison.

Committed to the California Youth Authority in 1961 for robbing a bus driver, Walker remained behind bars until 1970 because he three times assaulted guards in prisons.

For battery and resisting arrest last fall, the judge also placed him on three years' probation, raising to four the number of cases for which Walker is now on probation.

Johnson felt Walker might have avoided trouble after his release from prison had not "radical-liberals" befriended him. Johnson said these friends persuaded him to leave a training program in the East Bay.

Although the judge agreed to probation this time, he warned Walker it is his last chance.

Walker's trial was marked by a prosecution charge that defense witness Sandra Kahn, wife of a Stanford professor perjured herself when she denied knowing Walker and did not mention her membership in Venceremos, a Maoist revolutionary group.

She testified that Walker hit Klein, inflicting a broken nose, concussion and cuts and bruises, after the officer hit Walker with his night stick.

Perjury charges against Mrs. Kahn are still being considered, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman.

Richmond Firm Target Of Pollution Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District announced today it was taking action against a Richmond firm which has been accused of violating pollution standards.

The district said it has filed an abatement proceeding against Bituminous Products & Applications Company, Inc.

It said the firm's Richmond plant has been cited 33 times in the past 15 months for violating district regulations.

The action is the first step towards obtaining a court order which could close the plant.

Hopefuls Can't See Dollar Mansion Funds

Little hope for using city tax money to purchase the Dollar Estate was offered Marin Heritage members last night by candidates for San Rafael City Council.

Candidate Richard C. Fox said public money "should be spent only as a last resort" to save the Dollar mansion, "but may have to be used."

Candidate Jack G. Nixon said "we don't have a lot of public money for these things (but) the city should make every effort to do what it can."

Candidate Thomas R. O'Toole suggested federal and state money might be obtained to save historic structures, but said top priority should go to restoring the old Boyd home, owned by the city and occupied by the Marin County Historical Society.

Candidate Carl J. Brown suggested a special 10-cent city tax be set up to build up a capital outlay fund, but pointed out that such a fund might be needed for many other things besides the Dollar property purchase.

Candidate Leo J. Tinkler said, "I don't believe it should be left up to the city council to decide what landmarks should go. . . They have misused their power."

O'Toole suggested that open space bond money might be used to buy the rear portion of the 11-acre Dollar property but expressed doubt it could be spent to purchase the mansion.

Mulryan felt there is a possibility that redevelopment funds could be used to save the building, since this could be interpreted as correcting blight within the redevelopment area.

The candidates appeared at Davidson School before a membership meeting of Marin Heritage, attended by about 30 members. Their remarks and the question session were restricted to the subjects of saving historic buildings and open space.

All endorsed a suggestion first put forward by Mulryan that the city set up a committee to review and evaluate old buildings that might have heritage value.

Tinkler, in his initial remarks, provided a musical interlude by singing a song of his own composition, "Ring a Bell for San Rafael." At its conclusion, he rang a bell.

Marinwood, San Rafael Fire Aid Pact Sought

The Marinwood Fire Commission last night supported a proposed mutual aid agreement with the San Rafael Fire Department.

Under the proposal, the Marinwood Fire Department would respond on an "on call" basis to structural fires and resuscitator calls in the Mount Marin-Twelveoak Drive area of the city in order to speed service, said Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield.

In return, Marinwood would hold monthly training sessions with San Rafael, using the city drill tower, and would be allowed to borrow a reserve city engine in the event one of its engines breaks down. San Rafael also would provide backup assistance if needed when Marinwood is on a fire call.

The commission also referred to the district business manager a contractual agreement with County Service Area 13, upper Lucas Valley, for fire protection services, and approved a raise effective May 1 for fireman William Doyle, hiking his salary to $ 891.

Family Picnic Plans Approved In Rohnert Park

The Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission last night approved plans for a family picnic April 21 at the proposed regional park area.

Recreation director James Pekkain said the John Rapoza ranch in the foothills of the Sonoma Mountains will be open for picnickers all day. Commissioners said it would give residents a chance to see the 110-acre ranch, which is slated to become a regional park if county and state funds are available.

Pekkain said golden Easter eggs will be scattered throughout the property and will yield prizes for children. Portable restrooms will be available, but families must bring blankets for picnic lunches since no other facilities will be provided.

The traditional city Easter egg hunt will be held Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Benecia Park.

In other business, the commission scheduled two special meetings. Pekkain said plans for bicycle paths will be reviewed April 23 at 7:30 p.m. and programs for 1973-74 on April 26 at 7:30 p.m.

Redevelopment Board To Meet

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency board will consider forming a committee to review the progress and staffing practices of the agency's project area committee at 8 p.m. today in the board of supervisor's chambers in the Marin Civic Center.

The project area committee, a citizens group formed to advise the board in redevelopment matters, has been almost inactive in recent months and has held only a few meetings since it was organized.

Man Nabbed For Exposure

Bail was set at $10,000 for King Owen Tolles Jr., 35, of 15 Winged Foot Drive. He was scheduled for arraignment April 23 in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said he was arrested at 2:20 p.m. in the parking lot of the Petaluma Plaza Shopping Center after a woman reported a man exposed himself. Officers said the felony charge was lodged because of prior convictions on the same offense.

Important Choice For School Board

The campaign for two seats on the San Rafael Board of Education has been somewhat overshadowed by that for city council. It shouldn't be. How the public schools are managed is of overwhelming importance both to the taxpayers and to their children.

Adding to the importance of next Tuesday's board election is the upcoming choice of a new superintendent. Although the screening process already is beginning, those elected Tuesday will share in the selection. How well they choose will have a great effect on the schools.

AS IN the city council race, there is one elected incumbent seeking a first full term — in this case, Paul K. McMullen, who was appointed a year ago to fill out the term of Paul L. Jones.

And, as in the city council race, there is no lack of qualified contenders.

The three with the most experience with school district affairs are McMullen, Lewis W. Pollock and Marie J. Sessi.

Pollock's experience has been gained "inside." He has worked on a series of committees for the city schools. In doing so, he has been closely associated with the present board and the outgoing superintendent. To an extent, he is privy to the inner workings.

Mrs. Sessi's experience has been gained as an "outsider." She has often been critical of things which went on in the schools. And she is a person who does not shrug her shoulders and say "there's nothing I can do about it." She tries to get to the bottom of the problem — which, with the school system, is no easy task. In her efforts, she has gained considerable knowledge about school laws and school operations.

POLLOCK IS running with open support of some of the holdover board members.

Pollock and incumbent McMullen therefore must be viewed as the administration candidates.

Pollock, however, is outspoken about some of what he considers shortcomings in the conduct of the schools, despite his closeness to the current administration. McMullen, while conceding in private conversations that the San Rafael schools have problems which need correction, offers little criticism in public, generally taking the attitude that all is well — although, of course, "it could be better."

Candidates Suzanne Beittel and Gale B. Fisher are by no means unacquainted with the schools and their problems. But they are not nearly so well acquainted with them as Pollock, Mrs. Sessi — and, presumably, McMullen, since he has been on the board a year.

WE BELIEVE in a variety of outlooks on a governing board. Any board made up of think-alikes will fail to do a good job of representing the people.

At the same time, we believe in some continuity. And since only one of the holdovers — Herman L. Childress — has served beyond two years, we feel Pollock's longtime close association with the school administration is important.

We therefore endorse Marie J. Sessi and Lewis W. Pollock for election to the San Rafael Board of Education.

Moonlighting Fair Director Prompts State Inquiry

By EARL G. WATERS

A full investigation of the management of California's district fairs has been ordered by Brunel Christensen, director of the state Department of Agriculture.

It is under his department that the Division of Fairs and Expositions supervises the activities of 76 district, county and citrus fairs supported by state funds. Their expenditures total some $25 million annually.

Christensen's inquiry is not prompted by any thought that the overall operations of these fairs is not going well. Rather his attention has been drawn to them by some reported improprieties on the part of few.

FOR THE MOST PART, these stem from the activities of Allen Ross, manager of the 19th Agricultural District at Santa Barbara. His job there is a full-time one paying him $19,500 a year, or about 10 per cent of the operating revenues.

Part of his duties at Santa Barbara is the management of the horse shows held there. But Ross has been using his state position as a base for the promotion of other horse shows. These outside activities constitute a flourishing private business for Ross, requiring a substantial amount of his time.

Some of these outside shows are state supported. Ross last year collected $13,800 in state funds over and above his regular salary from three other fair districts. He did this through contractual agreements with the Grand National Exposition (Cow Palace in Daly City), the Ventura County Fair (31st District), and the State Fair (52nd District).

He also received additional money for managing at least seven other outside shows, some of them supported with state funds.

ROSS' EXTENSIVE moonlighting activities, while a full-time state employee, have raised some serious questions of public policy. In the first place it is disconcerting to other fair managers who devote all their efforts to the jobs for which they were hired. And his competition is bitterly resented by those whose entire livelihood is gained by managing horse shows.

The disclosure that Ross has "negotiated" trophy purchases for at least three of these shows gave further cause for investigation, for the purchases in question totalled $10,000 of state funds. Some of the purchases circumvented state law while others were in direct violation of the purchasing law which requires bids on orders over $500.

District boards which have contracted with Ross defend their action on the grounds Ross is a good horse show manager. But this image is threatened by charges of favoritism from exhibitors. Ross not only names all ring officials, but employs a member of his own board, Warren Underwood, as a steward.

This was the basis for a complaint lodged with the Cow Palace board by David B. Goodstein. He charged Ross and Underwood violated both state and show rules by permitting a post entry. He further stated it was not unusual for Ross to act "arbitrarily, capriciously and in a discriminatroy fashion".

The board heard Goodstein's complaint and then went into executive session to deny his protest. Since the law requires fair board meetings to be open to the public, Christensen is also questioning the board's action in closing its meeting.

Looks like the administration is trying to shut the Watergate after the cat is out of the bag.

A Democrat is a fellow who publicly washes the Republicans' dirty linen in Watergate seepage.

The application of an orb to the Watergate keyhole sure did cause a lot of political black eyes.

If you must have a moral: The best time for the GOP elephant to bug the Demo donkey is never again!

Commission Actions Confusing To Citizen

The action of the San Rafael Planning Commission on March 27 boggles the mind. They agreed to extend the moratorium on large developments for one year to allow for adoption of our new general plan. This plan, being drawn up by competent consultants, along with a 60-member citizen committee, will be a well-thought-out guide to future development and will be ready in six to nine months. It is the very reason for the moratorium and will enlarge good planning and development requirements.

In the same meeting the commission agreed to hear, in only 90 days, pleas for special use permits, which bypass the moratorium, for several massive developments. They did this against the recommendations of our city planning department, who want to wait for the new general plan.

I'm sure the developers want these permits before we adopt the new general plan which may be more restrictive on them (ut in the interest of all San Rafael).

I'm very disappointed in all this. . .

Some 'Welcome Home' Flags Flew Too Late

I want to thank you for the coverage you gave the return of Capt. William Butler to San Rafael and particularly Glenwood. The whole day was, as you said, like an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration.

The main reason for this letter is hopefully to inform citizens of the proper display of our flag. I was responsible for the delivery of flags to homeowners who wished to fly but did not have a flag of their own. The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce loaned us flags for this purpose, for which we are very grateful. Unfortunately, many people left their flags up all night or at least until 11 p.m. when I observed many still flying. Flags should be taken down at sunset at the latest. Seeing them flying late sort of took the edge of the otherwise joyous day.

We are trying to recover all the flags, but some homeowners have as of this writing failed to return the flags and a reminder to them would help.

Duty To Country Held Mistaken Idea

The question of amnesty for those who fled from military service during the Vietnam War is based on the premise that all young American men have a "duty to their country." This, of course, runs counter to the basic premise of the United States that each individual has a inailable (sic) right to his life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

The old shibbolith that the government is the servant of the people is curiously missing from the idea of "duty to one's country." This reverses the master-servant status so that the servant (government) is the master of the master (people) when it can forcibly coerce a young man to go out and die for the idea of government. So, the question of amnesty, based on the premise of the United States, is invalid in as much that the right to live or die for another's cause should be left to the individual and not to outside forces . . .

Someone Speaks Up For The Smokers

Re: "Non-Smoking Jurors Denied Facilities," Charlotte Patera, March 29 I-J:

Why the petty gripe? True, there are no specified rooms for non-smokers. She mentioned the jurors' lounge, the waiting place — very comfy, hot drinks, and smoking allowed. The jurors' assembly room, "straight-back chairs, windows shrouded in draperies, shutting out sunlight." TV permissable. No smoking. Her words.

Truth is, it is all very comfortable and suited to most during their waiting period and beyond.

When the prospective jurors are selected, it sometimes becomes a trying and traumatic experience for some till the trial is finished, but we deem it our civic and birthright duty. I sat on the same jury panel with Mrs. Patera. All this lady seemed fretful about was the smoke she thinks she absorbed in her hair, clothing and lungs being forced to be amongst the smokers. She was duly paid for her time contributed. I would like to know how she conducts her daily chores outside her home, amongst the dirty smokers.

Teachers' Judgments Not Always Reliable

Mr. Daubenfeld's letter (Apr. 3) is, I think, the straw that etc.

. . . Professionals are incapable of fairly judging their peers, as witness the attempts of doctors and lawyers.

An intelligent student knows a stupid teacher when he encounters one. Our son wasn't impressed with his freshman English teacher (at Redwood High School) who said teaching English grammar bored her, nor were we. She's now running for a place on the Tamalpais High School District board!

He knew how "intelligent" his third grade teacher was — or wasn't. We got around that one by telling him he had to learn to live with the vast majority of people who weren't overblessed with brains.

And how about the eighth grade teacher, now a principal, who told me our son was "in no way exceptional." Or the "adviser" at Redwood who told him he could probably get into any second-rate college he chose? (He graduated from M.I.T.)

These should judge each other? Oh, great!

Second-Class Mail Increase Threatens Voices Of Dissent

WASHINGTON — "These are the times that try men's souls." Those often quoted words of Thomas Paine, the great pamphleteer of our Revolution, have an echo today. It is the echo of the lonely dissenter, the angry dissenter, speaking out against the great bland mass that bears in our time the spurious label of the conventional wisdom.

With the overpowering force of television, the dissenting voices are having an increasingly difficult time being heard or, for that matter, even surviving. The United States Postal Service, the hybrid creature that seems to have embodied all the ills of the old post office, is proceeding with rate increases threatening the existence of small publications, many of them nonprofit or skirting close to the edge.

With Life the last in a long series of fatalities, the carnage for the printed word has been terrible. When the postal rate increase on second-class mail was first announced, Life in an editorial said this would mean finding an additional $130 million in revenue by 1976, which was more than twice the profit earned by all magazines in 1970. Reports today have it that at least one surviving mass publication is in trouble.

BUT IT IS NOT the big commercial operation that is the concern of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., in the measure he is pushing in the Senate. His bill is a response to the threat to the dissenters, and also to the pressure that sharply increased postal rates would put on the religious, labor and agriculture press. Following the practice of 178 years, prior to the creation of the Postal Service, it would restore the subsidy for publications that might not otherwise survive.

From Human Events on the right to the New Republic on the left, the margin of survival is increasingly narrow. Across the country are many lively, stimulating monthlies and weeklies that may be crowded out. The Progressive in Wisconsin, carrying the flag for the great LaFollette tradition, and the Texas Observer in Austin, so far standing up to the powerhouse of money and Texas-style politics as an independent critic, are two examples. In presenting his measure, Senator Nelson quoted Walter Lippmann:

"The unexamined life, said Socrates, is unfit to be lived by man. This is the virtue of liberty, and the ground on which we may best justify our belief in it, that it tolerates errors in order to serve the truth. When men are brought face to face with their opponents, forced to listen and learn and mend their ideas, they cease to be children and savages and begin to live like civilized men. Then only is freedom a reality, when men may voice their opinions because they must examine their opinions."

THE WAY IN WHICH the President can command the television networks is a phenomenon unknown to the era of the printed word. It is a power increasingly great, as authority is centralized in the White House. With a notice of only an hour or two, the President can order up an audience of millions.

Requests for equal time, if the address has political implications — as it almost invariably has — are more often than not refused. Many disturbing signs point to a concerted intention within the administration to narrow the channels of dissent. The attacks on the media, both direct and indirect, have had a cautionary effect, particularly on the networks.

If non-small independent journals are to be forced out — and among the number are many weekly newspapers — the flow of ideas, of criticism, protest will be further narrowed. Nelson notes that for small, diverse publications the postal rate increase can be many times 127 per cent which is to be effective beginning July 6 and phased in over five years. For many of these publications, postal rates represent a large percentage of their costs.

THE SENATOR has several co-sponsors for his measure, and it is believed that the chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., leans toward it. Opposition to the subsidy in the past has come from the conviction that wealthy publications, such as Reader's Digest, were getting a free ride at the taxpayers' expense. At one point the subsidy to the Digest was estimated to be $17 million. But with the whopping increase in the rates the giants, or those that have survived, are no longer so happily situated.

Billy Graham, who runs one of the largest religious publishing houses in the country with a big operation in Minneapolis, would be hit by the increase. He could put in a word to his friend the President if he would. But it is the small publications that are caught in the switches. With its lamentable performance, the United States Postal Service has drawn a growing chorus of anger and disgust, coming not from publishers but from outraged citizens across the land.

GOP May Survive Its Scandals —If Prices Quit Skyrocketing

The troubles come in two kinds. First, there are the matters concerning the 1972 election campaign. These include the Watergate burglaries, the soliciting of campaign contributions from persons in difficulty with the law or regulatory agencies of government (The Vesco case), and the unbrilliant performance of President Nixon's candidate for the directorship of the FBI, L. Patrick Gray III, on a Senate witness stand. The three stories, all tangled together, are bad, and apparently getting worse.

The second kind of trouble concerns the state of the economy. Phase 3 is losing believers. Inflation seems to be once more out of control — or a lot of people think it is.

FOR SOME LIGHT on the political weight of such troubles, we thumbed back through the history books to see how much harm Republican scandal in the past has done the Republican Party.

The Grant administration was notroious. One of its worst, of many, scandals came during the first Grant term. Personal friends of the President himself were mixed up in an effort to corner the gold market. It nearly worked. Henry Adams said "the worst scandals of the 18th century were relatively harmless by the side of this." Reform Republicans joined with Democrats to nominate New York editor Horace Greeley to run against Grant. On election day General Grant carried all but six states of the Union with over two-thirds of the popular vote.

The second Grant term was marked by even worse scandals. This time the voters paid some attention. Democrats won the 1874 mid-term election and very nearly took the presidency two years later. Republicans held it only by methods which most historians now agree include just plain vote stealing as well as a corrupt deal at the expense of southern Negroes. The Democrats did get the White House in 1884. A decisive reason was that the Republican candidate, James G. Blaine, had personally profited from office both when speaker of the House of Representatives and later as secretary of state.

The Harding administration was tainted by more thievery from public funds and by more misuse of office than was the Grant administration. But the early death of President Harding and a reform administration under Calvin Coolidge seemed to smooth the matter over. The Republicans lost the White House in 1932, not over the Harding scandals, but because of, and after the beginning of, the 1930 depression.

THE RECORDS WOULD seem to indicate that American voters are much more influenced by economic conditions than by scandal in high places. The Grant scandals had some, but small political effect. Blaine's personal misdeeds do seem to have denied him the presidency. The behavior of Harding's friends ruined the Harding reputation, and probably ended his life. They seem to have done the Republican Party minimal if any immediate damage.

President public attitudes seem to conform to the established pattern. Citizens all over the country are loud in their protests over high food prices. Interest in the Watergate, Vesco, and Gray affairs is still limited and seems not to concern most people greatly.

The tentative conclusion from the above would seem to be that Mr. Nixon can probably ride out the Watergate-Vesco-Gray business (unless it gets very much worse) provided the economy is stable and prosperous by next election time. If the economy is off then, of course, the scandals would probably look larger to the voters than they yet seem to do. The American voter has, so far, been tolerant of impropriety in high places, when his pocket was full.

Latest Inside Tips On Marin, Direct From Martha Mitchell

Not too long ago, when the Independent-Journal had a new telephone system installed, communication was shaky and a stray call slipped through the switchboard to the Novato bureau office.

"Is this the United Press?" the caller asked.

"No, this is the Independent-Journal."

"Oh, well, are you a reporter?"

"Yes."

"Good, because I have some news for you. I was going to give it to the wire services, but you'll do."

"Okay, I'm ready."

"THIS IS MARTHA Mitchell and I'm calling from my secret shoe telephone so I'll have to speak quietly. . .Now on this Watergate thing. . ."

"Wait a minute," the reporter said. "I'd rather not hear anything about Watergate. You can give that to James Reston. We're a local newspaper. Don't you have anything about Marin County?"

"Just a minute," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I'll have to look in my secret diary."

DURING THE WAIT, the reporter ordered his co-workers to lock the doors and shouted, "If you see the FBI coming, don't let them in. I'm talking to Martha Mitchell."

"Hello, I'm back," Mrs. Mitchell said. "I've got something for you on Hamilton Air Force Base. They are going to sell it to Howard Hughes."

"You mean the story about joint use by Hughes Air West and the Air Force is a cover up?"

"Well, it's the start of the takeover, and as soon as Hughes gives the Air Force the plans for his flying boat, he gets the whole base," Mrs. Mitchell said.

"HERE'S ANOTHER one I got from a high source," she said. "ITT is contributing $250,000 to a campaign to keep James Kimo Campbell from being elected to the Marin Community College District board. They're spreading rumors he's a friend of Rick Beban."

"How about the Point Reyes National Seashore? Have you heard anything about that?" the reporter said.

"Well, Pat told me the other day. Oh, my! Did I say Pat? I didn't mean I heard it from that high a source. Maybe it was Tricia. At any rate, the reason they're buying the seashore is it's going to be the summer White House for President Agnew. He didn't want to have a place too close to San Clemente. You know Dick would be butting in all the time."

"HAVE THEY DECIDED yet what they're going to do with Alcatraz Island?"

"Oh yes, we have a guerrilla force out there now plotting the overthrow of Mayor Alioto."

"I can't believe it," the reporter said. Those were his last words, for when he hung up two CIA agents disguised as telephone repairmen whisked him away and his stories were never written.

Duties At Camp Are Described

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan, described by her husband as "a wonderful wife and a wonderful friend," picked up Jewish children by the hair and tossed them onto trucks headed for the gas chambers, according to court testimony.

The testimony was revealed Monday in Brooklyn federal court where Mrs. Ryan, 51, a former Nazi concentration camp guard and now a housewife in Queens, is fighting extradition to face murder charges in West Germany. Former inmates of the camps where she worked gave the testimony in 300 pages of affidavits.

One of them, Rachel Strauser, said she "remembered several trucks driving up to the camp ... I saw the Braunsteiner woman drag out children by their hair and brutally throw them into the trucks. They screamed and it was horrible. When the children tried to run away she grabbed them and threw them back into the trucks."

Lucyna Domb, a former prisoner at Maidanek who now lives in Israel, said, "The Braunsteiner woman was never without a whip or tvstol. She always found a reason for beating someone. During roll call one day she whipped a woman. The woman collapsed. She was blue all over. Later she was carried to the sick quarter and died."

Mrs. Ryan was a guard at concentration camps at Maidanek, Poland, and Ravensbruck, Germany. An estimated 1.5 million Jews were murdered at Maidanek.

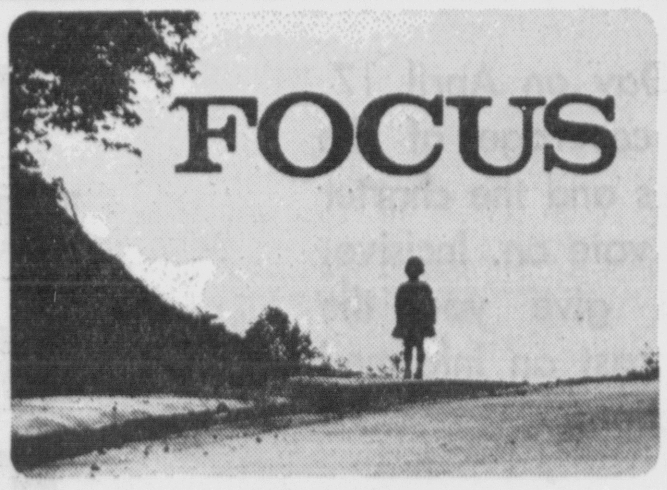
Her husband, Russell Ryan, embraced his wife when he joined her at the defense table. Later, outside the courtroom, he said, "She's a dedicated woman, a wonderful wife and a wonderful friend and neighbor to everyone.

Ship's Captain Shark Victim

BEIRA, Mozambique (UPI) — Port authorities said today they think the captain of a Greek tanker was eaten by sharks when he dived overboard in the Mozambique channel in an attempt to repair the propellor of his ship.

The 16,000-ton vessel was sailing from the Persian Gulf with a cargo of petroleum for U.S. ports. The captain reported a slow leak in the stern because of propeller damage, then crewmen said he dived overboard to see what he could do to fix it.

He did not surface and the ship continued toward Lourenco Marques.



Earth Week

During Earth Week, one environmental problem receiving attention is our soaring need for energy. While individuals can conserve energy by burning fewer lights and doing more walking and bicycling, conservation also can be practiced by industry. One large corporation found it could cut heating costs at its new headquarters by partly relying on such previously ignored factors as the body heat of workers. It's estimated that such conservation measures could reduce our total energy demand between 10 and 15 per cent.

ART BUCHWALD

Watergate Culprit Discovered —Just Like In Detective Stories

WASHINGTON — Peter Falk, playing his famous role of Columbo. walked into the East Room of the White House in his dirty raincoat and flashed his police card. "Inspector Columbo," he said, showing it to President Nixon. "Say, this sure is a nice house you got here. How much does a place like this cost?"

"I'm having a private party for the staff," the President said indignantly. "What do you want?"

"Oh, I really apologize," Columbo said. "I didn't mean to come busting in on a party. Say, is this a real oil painting of George Washington? It's a fantastic work of art —don't get me wrong, I don't know anything about painting."

"WILL YOU STATE your business, inspector?"

"I'm just making some routine inquiries about the Watergate bugging case. You see, I'm on loan to the Senate investigating committee from the Los Angeles Police Department. It will only take a few minutes."

"We have nothing to hide here," the President said. "This is my assistant, H. R. Haldeman; my legal aide, John Dean III; my former assistant, Charles Colson; the former secretary of commerce, Maurice Stans, and the former attorney general, John Mitchell, and his wife Martha."

"This is really a great honor," Columbo said. "I never thought I would get to meet so many important people. Wait till I tell my wife. She's really going to be bowled over."

"What exactly is it you want to know?" the President asked.

"Oh, yes," Columbo said, taking out his pad and pencil. "Now let me see."

MARTHA MITCHELL said, "Inspector, I'd like to tell you a few things about the Watergate. . ."

"Martha, will you shut up?" John Mitchell interrupted.

"They're not going to hang this on my John," Martha said.

"Martha!"

"Can I offer you a drink, inspector?" the President asked.

"Just some orange juice if you've got it, Mr. President. I have a bad stomach. You know in this job you never eat properly. Last night I had a tuna fish sandwich on a roll and. . ."

"WILL YOU GET ON with it, inspector?" H. R. Haldeman said.

"I'm sorry, where was I? Oh yes, now about the Watergate. This is just routine, you understand, but where were each of you the night of the break-in?"

"I was watching 'Patton,'" the President said.

"I was in Mexico City at a bank," Maurice Stans said.

"I was reading FBI files," John Dean III said.

"I was cutting the budget," H. R. Haldeman replied.

"I'll tell you where John was," Martha Mitchell said.

"Martha, clam up," John Mitchell said.

"Well if I don't tell him, I'll tell United Press," Martha said.

"You see," Columbo said, shutting his notebook, "I knew this would all be a waste of time. I told them no one in the White House knows anything about the Watergate. Say, that is some rug. Do you mind if I take a picture of it to show the folks in Los Angeles?"

JUST THEN the Butler came in with Columbo's glass of orange juice.

"Thank you very much," Columbo said to the butler, "I didn't get your name."

"Alfonse, sir."

"Where were you on the night of the break-in, Alfonse?"

"I was polishing the silver."

"You're lying, Alfonse. You were at the Watergate."

"See here, Columbo," the President said, "you're relying on hearsay evidence."

"No, I'm not, Mr. President. This coaster that the orange juice was served on says 'Property of the Watergate Bar and Grill.'"

"My God!" said H. R. Haldeman, "the butler did it."

"WHY DIDN'T WE think of that?" John Dean III said.

"Thank heavens, Columbo, you discovered the culprit," John Mitchell said. "Now we can all sleep tonight."

Martha Mitchell piped, "Wait a minute, Mr. Columbo, there's a lot more to this than you think."

"Dammit Martha!" yelled John Mitchell, "will you keep your big trap shut?"

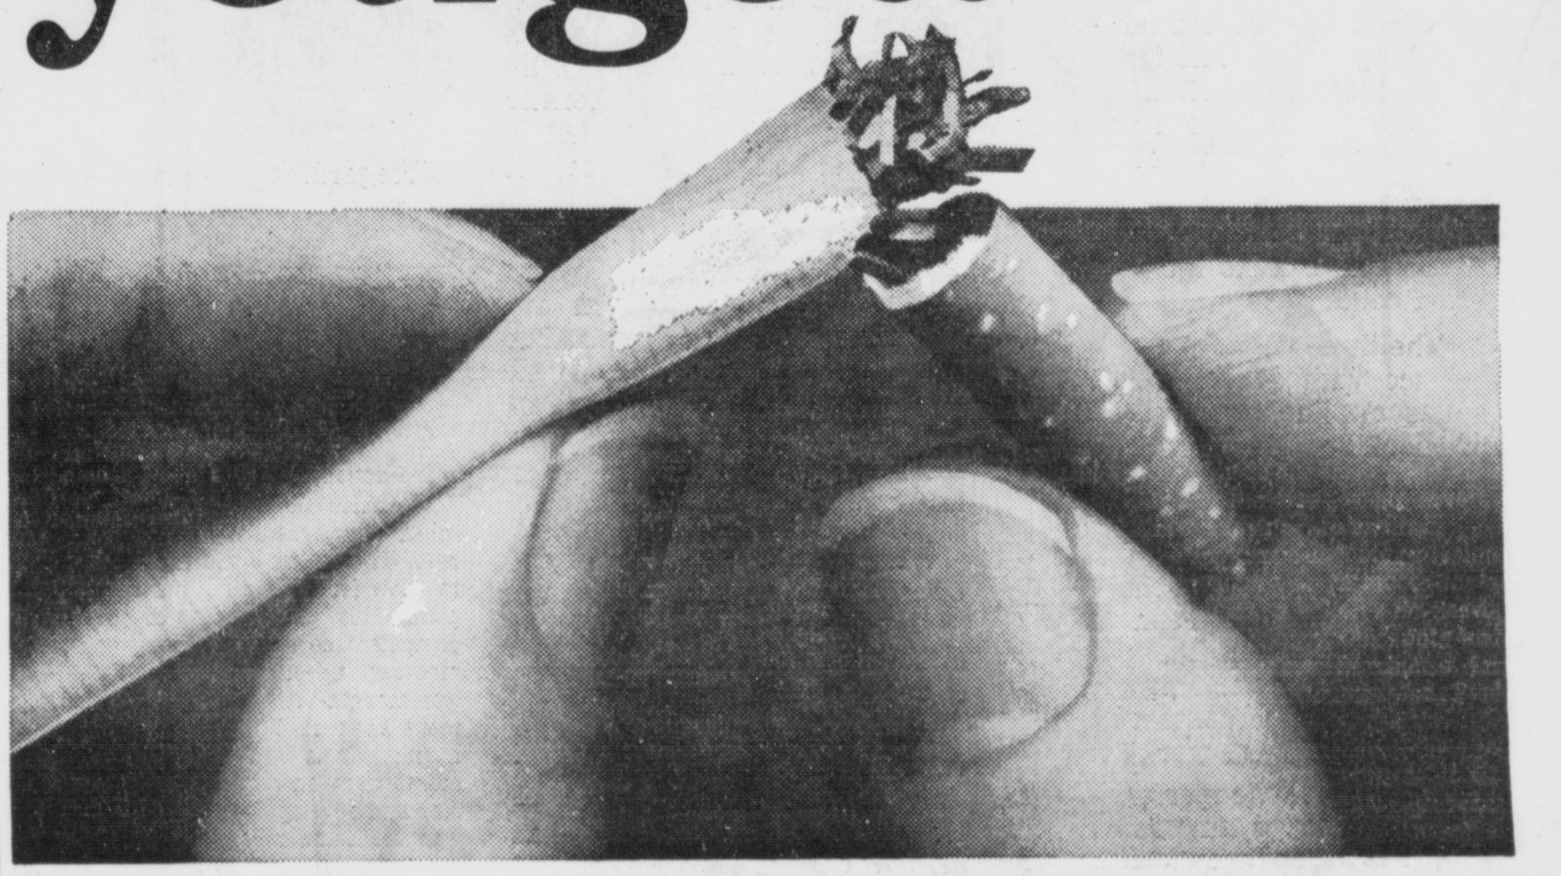
Take away your filter and what've you got?



A lot of brands are talking about their filters lately.

That's all well and good. The filter is an important part of your cigarette. (We know. We give you the most famous one of all: the Kent Micronite filter.)

But how many cigarettes have something to say about the other end? The tobacco end. The part that gives you what you smoke for... taste.

One brand that has plenty to say is Kent.

24 quality tobaccos are blended into each Kent. And we go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find them.

We also insist upon the lower-leaf tobaccos for Kent. They're a lot milder than the leaves at the top of the plant.

In fact, we place as much importance on our tobacco as we do on our famous filter.

Because without either one, we couldn't give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

Mild, smooth taste. Micronite filter.
Kent. America's quality cigarette.

Orchestra Wins Top Citation

The combined Santa Venetia School and Davidson Middle School orchestra of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students won a "comlmand perform ance" award Saturday at the California Music Educators Festival in Santa Rosa.

The award is given to those groups which receive a superior rating from each of three judges in the competition, said orchestra director Robert Jacobson.

The Marin group was among three of 25 competitors to get the top award, Jacobson said.

Youth Killed In Break-in Try

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A homeowner shot and fatally wounded a youth who police said appeared to be attempting to break into a house in Ingleside Terrace.

John Mona, 68, said he fired Monday night when he saw the youth on the ledge of his house.

The dead youth was identified tentatively as Vincent Barrow, 16, of San Francisco.

Mona's shot with a .22-caliber rifle struck the youth in the head and he fell 18 feet to a cement patio, police said.

Investigators reported finding a loaded 9-millimeter pistol and a pellet gun in the area where the youth fell.

No Reason Found For Jet Crash

By FRANK FARRARA

Capt. Michael D. Burmeister, 25, of Northfield. Minn., killed in the crash of an F-106 fighter jet plane four miles north of Novato Nov. 26., may have been distracted or disoriented before the crash.

An Air Force investigation board, which didn't list a cause, said the plane was in sound condition and there was no indication of "dereliction of duty or substandard performance on the part of anyone connected with the aircraft accident."

In testimony, Capt. Manly A. Ray Jr. of K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich., who observed the take-off, said: "The only opinion I have as to what caused the accident is that the wing man (Burmeister) may have been distracted or disoriented for some reason that is not known at this time."

Burmeister and Capt. David Kolodzinski had taken off for their home base in Michigan and disappeared into the overcast when Burmeister's plane crashed into a hill east of H Lane on a Sunday morning.

Testimony revealed that Capt. Burmeister, flying as wing man, had lost the leader, Kolodzinski, in the overcast.

Kolodzinski testified that at one point Burmeister "told me he had lost me. I said, 'Okay I'm on top, just 1,100 feet, go ahead and get in trail with me'."

The control tower had noticed that the speed brakes on Burmeister's plane were open on takeoff and a radio message was sent to him.

Capt. Paul R. Henderson of the 4661st Air Base Group at Hamilton Air Force Base, who was in charge of the investigation, asked Kolodzinski if Burmeister was still on his wing at the time of the message about the speed brakes.

"The transmission came after the first time I had seen him flying what I thought was a position off my aircraft," Kolodzinski replied.

"I'm trying to establish here whether he received this call at this point and might have diverted his attention into the cockpit to see if his speed brakes were, indeed, retracting. Is it quite possible this could have happened?," Col. Henderson asked.

Kolodzinski replied, "It is possible because I waited a considerable length of time, at least more than normal before I rogered the call, expecting him to say 'yes, my boards were open' or 'have got them closed now,' so I rogered the call when he said nothing."

Despite the speed brakes being open on takeoff, observers said he was still holding his position on the lead plane until he disappeared into the overcast, the investigation board reported. The ceiling was 300 feet and there was three miles visibility.

Investigation also showed that the speed brake actuators were fully retracted and locked on impact, and even if they had remained open that wouldn't have created sufficient drag to prevent Burmeister's plane from climbing through the overcast, the report said.

Kolodzinski said that when Burmeister didn't return his calls, he started looking for him and, when he rolled his plane to the left, noticed "dark gray smoke that had come up through the overcast."

Investigators reported Burmeister's plane was "operational ready" and one of the best in the 87th Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

Although Burmeister had made no emergency calls, there was no evidence of radio malfunction, the board reported.

Burmeister was "physically fit," experienced in flying the F-106 and had sufficient rest before the flight, the board said.

Burmeister had been to dinner in San Francisco with Kolodzinski and Ray the evening before the flight and had two beers and one mixed drink over a four-hour period, the board said. He retired at 11:30 p.m. and arose about 8 a.m. and was reported alert before takeoff, the board said.

An autopsy indicated no physical condition that would have caused Burmeister to lose control of the plane, the board reported.

Volunteer Bureau Picks Up

The Volunteer Bureau of Marin County has announced a 20 per cent increase in registration of new volunteers since Feb. 11.

Executive director Marion R. Kelley credits the rise with an advertisement run in the Independent-Journal during the seven-week period of Feb. 11 through March 31.

"In both February and March, we received a definite increase in phone calls from people who are employed daily, often out of the county, but who nonetheless want to get involved," Kelley said.

"We can conclude that advertising in the I-J has boosted our registration statistics by at least 20 per cent during the seven-week period of Feb. 11 through March 31, 1973," Kelley said.

The volunteer bureau, a member agency of United Crusade, has offices at 725 A Street in San Rafael.

$20,372 From Charity Walk

With only half the pledges collected so far, young participants in the March 3 "happiness walk" benefit for the United Cerebral Palsy Association had turned in $20,372 by yesterday.

Mimi Zellers, publicity chairman for the fund campaign said at least 500 more of the 1,000-plus hikers who participated are expected to turn in their pledges by Friday.

The Marin hikers had planned to walk 20 miles; the marathon was cut short by rain, but almost all donors have met their pledges for the full distance, Miss Zellers said. Similar hikes were held in four other counties, with free trips to Disneyland promised to the 10 hikers in the Bay Area who collect the most contributions.

Six-Month Jail Stay Is Ordered

A 25-year-old San Rafael man, who stole a banquet in liquor and frozen food from a San Rafael restaurant, was given six months in jail or a treatment facility yesterday for the felony burglary.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Philip Bryan Crist on probation for three years and directed him to pay $158 for food that spoiled after he stole it Dec. 30 from the Medallion restaurant.

Crist's probation officer, Patricia L. Schuman, said he is "on a treadmill of alcohol acting as a catalyst leading to violence and consequential law violations."

Crist told her he broke into the restaurant "out of curiosity" and believes alcohol gives him power. However, Crist promised the judge not to drink during his probationary years.

He was in jail for being drunk the day after the burglary when the stolen food and drink were found in his house.

Marin Women

Former Ballerina, Actress Doesn't Like To Talk Shop

By JOAN LISETOR

FORMER BALLERINA Moira Shearer will conclude a six-week lecture tour in the United States when she speaks Friday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael. She revealed she never really enjoyed ballet during a visit to Marin County prior to her talk. (I-J photo by Bob Hax)

Moira Shearer would rather talk about her family, politics — just about anything — more than ballet.

The former ballerina and actress is currently on an American lecture tour. She left her home in Scotland in mid-March and will return Friday following her final speaking engagement which will be at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

She is anxious to return home to her husband, Ludovic Kennedy, a writer and journalist, and their four children, aged 10 to 21, she said during a visit to Marin County.

Miss Shearer said she would neither encourage nor discourage her children if they choose to follow into her footsteps, but she is pleased that they show talents for drawing and painting.

"It is difficult to say you enjoy (performing) ballet. It is satisfying occasionally when you feel you have given a good performance, but that only happens about once every five years. Usually there is a flood of tears in the dressing room after a performance because of a mistake that the public does not even know you made," she said.

SHE BEGAN training when she was 10, and "when the war came along you used what you knew, whether you wanted to or not."

She began touring with a company when she was 15, and, because of the popularity of ballet in Britain during the war, was busy 52 weeks a year. They also toured Europe entertaining troops.

In 1947 she made the film, "The Red Shoes," which brought her international fame.

"I love acting, and switched to acting because it allowed a normal married life," she said.

"I had the great, good fortune of getting the role in 'I Am A Camera,' on which 'Cabaret' was based. It ran six or eight months. The timing was good because by then I had more children," she said.

Politics intervened in 1956, she said.

"You know the British loathe their political parties, the Labor and Conservative. They love the Labor party, but they have no courage to vote for it.

"REMEMBER THE Suez crisis, 1956? It incensed my husband, upset him enough to run for Parliament. He very nearly made it, but he is too nice and straightforward for politics," she said.

Kennedy is a journalist on the British Broadcasting Company and has written a book about Americans, "Very Lovely People," published by Simon and Schuster in 1970. Miss Shearer accompanied her husband on a promotion tour following the book's publication here. It was her first time in the United States in 15 years.

"I am enjoying this tour. I talk about the history of ballet. It's fascinating, but I have been in some strange places like a church with Christ looming over me, and I am not at all sure the things I was saying were suitable to a church setting," she said.

Miss Shearer rarely attends ballet today and is not at all familiar with changes that have taken place in the art, she said.

"I was not at all a dedicated dancer. I didn't choose (ballet) myself, and it didn't break my heart to stop dancing," she said.

For entertainment she prefers the straight theater or a good movie, she said.

MR. AND MRS. Henry J. Giambastiani enjoy the cards and gifts they received for their golden wedding Sunday at their home in San Rafael. They were married April 8, 1922, in San Francisco and have lived in San Rafael since 1946.

Giambastianis Are Amazed How Fast 50 Years Passed

Fifty years ago Henry J. Giambastiani and Emma Giordani were married at Holy Redeemer Church in San Francisco, and now, celebrating their golden wedding, they wonder at how quickly the years have gone.

Living in the trim house on Antonette Avenue in San Rafael which they bought in 1946, they remember the golden wedding celebration they held there for his parents, the late Romualdo Giambastiani and his wife Rosina. For their own celebration on Sunday, the Giambastianis and their immediate family gathered for a dinner at the Green Mill Inn in Cotati.

Giambastiani knew Marin well, when they came to San Rafael in 1946. He was born in Inverness Park and lived there until he was 19 and went to work in San Francisco driving a truck. He continued work as a teamster from 1928 to 1966, commuting for some 20 years to his work with Coast Envelope Co. in San Francisco and South San Francisco.

Emma had come from her birthplace in Paganico, Lucca, Italy in 1920 with her aunt and uncle when she was 15. They came from San Francisco to bring her back from Italy.

"My uncle thought it would be an easier life in America because women didn't have to go out to work. Then women worked so hard in the fields and then would come home and cook," she explains. "It took 30 days to come. Now it takes less than a day."

Emma settled with her uncle and aunt in San Francisco and began to work at a cookie factory. The couple met in the city and after they were married they lived in a house on Ord Street. They raised two daughters, now Alice Kabanuck and Geraldine Lovatti, both of Novato, and Emma had become an American citizen.

Henry Giambastiani has been retired for seven years and he enjoys working in their well-kept garden. But he said of the neighborhood, "It's getting crowded. We moved from San Francisco because it was crowded and now it's getting crowded here."

His brother Louis lives just a block away, and his sister Julia Rosino also lives in San Rafael. His brother Emilio still lives in Inverness Park and another brother, Peter, resides in Forest Knolls.

Mrs. Giambastiani's family is in Italy, and she went to visit them for two and a half months in 1963.

"The whole town is related and people are closer there than here. I was busy all the time" she said of the visit. She would like to do it again someday. "Life is much better for people there now," she said.

Meantime, she is content, enjoying crocheting and embroidering, and working in a laundry part-time. "And I love the cooking". "She's a good cook all right," added Giambastiani.

The Giambastianis have four grandchildren, Glen, Gary and Cheryl Kabanuck, and Alan Lovatti, and they have two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Giambastiani is a long-time member of Court St. Raphael 1406, Catholic Daughters of America, and her husband is a member of Sons of Retirement and Teamsters Local 85.

"Fifty years went too fast," she commented. "It feels good," said he.

Brides Taking Natural Approach

Instead of hobbling down the aisle on yesterday's spiked heels and pointed-toed shoes, modern brides take the natural approach to fashion.

Today's back-to-nature style trend has liberated the foot and placed it in sandals and open-toed shoes to match casual-style peasant or Victorian gowns.

Two lines of type were omitted from the Peaches and Cream Squares recipe that appeared in Wednesday's Independent-Journal.

Omitted were the ingredients 1½ cups whipping cream and 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar.

Avoid Burns While Cooking

When toiling over a hot stove, turn pot handles to the rear to avoid a disastrous collision with what's cooking. Never wear loose-fitting clothes while cooking, for they might be ignited by burners. Keep dish towels and pot holders away from burners.

See that boiling liquids do not run over and avert your face when steam spouts from a bubbling pot. Use tongs to handle frying foods. Light your match before you turn on a gas burner.

Keep hands away from burners of electric stoves; they might be on without your being aware of it.

Marin Families To Host German Guests

By MOLLY MARIN

A reception is being given Thursday afternoon in the Redwood High School library for 20 visitors from Preetz, Germany, who will be house guests of Marin families for three weeks.

Most of the visitors have been involved in a student exchange program between families in Marin and Preetz and have either hosted exchange students in their homes or sent their children here.

The families want to sample the taste of America the German and American students have described, according to the coordinator of the visit, Mrs. James Moore of Kentfield, but group trips to Yosemite National Park, Bear Valley and the Sonoma Napa wine country are planned.

MARIN CIVIC Ballet Association members are hosting a reception for former ballerina and actress Moira Shearer Thursday evening in the Marin Civic Ballet Association Building in San Rafael.

CHRISTINE ANNE Humphrey of San Rafael will spend the summer working as a stewardess aboard trains in Switzerland.

ANOTHER YOUNG San Rafael woman planning a trip to Switzerland is Cynthia Joan Pareto, who will attend the American Fashion College of Switzerland.

The college is located in Lucerne and trains American students for careers in the fashion industry in the United States. Students visit European fashion capitols, Paris, Rome and Madrid, to enhance knowledge of famous designers, painters and European cultures.

CATHERINE ALLEN was honored last Tuesday, her 92nd birthday, by a group of friends at a tea at her home in San Rafael.

Born in San Francisco April 3, 1880, Miss Allen was educated on the Isle of Man in Great Britain. She lived in Bolinas for many years before returning to San Francisco and then moving to San Rafael about 25 years ago.

Miss Allen has been active in the Red Cross and St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael.

Her niece, Mrs. Stanley Allen of Alta Loma, attended the party.

How Can She Convince Hubby He Should Go To Law School?

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My husband and I married right out of junior college. We're very happy, but he has one regret. He wants to be a lawyer and he's got the brains for it, but he didn't continue his education.

There's a good law school at the university here, and Don could get his degree by going to night classes. Later, with me working, he could take a year off and really hit the books until he passes his bar exam.

But —we're both 26 and have two children, and while he burns with ambition, he says it would take at least ten years (taking time out for family and work). I point out that he loves to study, so it wouldn't be such a grind — and we'd all help.

What else can I say to inspire my man when he groans, "But in ten years I'll be middle-aged!"? — MRS. T. J.

DEAR MRS. J.:

Ask your husband how old he'll be in ten years. When he answers, "Thirty-six," then ask, "And how old will you be in ten years if you've passed the bar exam?"

Point out the answer is still "Thirty-six," so what has he got to lose — except some evening TV he won't really miss if he wants that degree badly enough. Then aim him toward the college registrar's office before he has time to argue. Good luck! — SUE

DEAR MRS. J.:

And remind him that at 36, a man won't feel "middle-aged" if he has a brand new career ahead of him. Rather, he'll be starting a great second life.

Your husband is a lucky fellow: He's blessed with brains, burns with ambition, and — equally important —he's got a wife who won't let the fire go out! — HELEN

RAP:

I am a guy who just got braces on his teeth. My girlfriend and I were getting along fine, and I'd just got to the point of kissing her, but now she won't kiss me anymore. She's my first girlfriend.

She gives flimsy excuses. She doesn't have to be scared of cutting her lips. If I have to wait two years for a kiss, I'd just as soon have crooked teeth.

Any suggestions? — TOOTH FAIRY

T.F.:

It takes awhile adjusting to braces (and you should know!) Kiss your girl on the cheek until she gets accustomed. — SUE

T.:

. . .And if she doesn't allow even that, maybe it's not the braces but the boy who turns her off. In other words, don't expect to keep one girlfriend forever. — HELEN

HELEN AND SUE:

For years my family has had a serious problem with weekend relatives. We live on a beautiful, average-sized farm. Aunts, uncles, cousins and second cousins consider it their second home. They never let us know they're coming, just drop in, making our private home open house every Saturday and Sunday.

We don't want hurt feelings —we love our relatives — but hints dropped are useless, and if we avoid them by going away, they just move in and take over anyway. Don't say "Give them a taste of their own medicine." We weren't brought up to intrude without invitations.

R.R.:

It appears you've been brought up to be gracious hosts no matter how you're put-upon. The antidote? If honesty is too harsh, then try "doctor's orders." Your mother must be "terribly tired and run down" from all this company, so get the word around that she needs more rest, less relatives. — HELEN

RAGGED:

And if that doesn't work, then stop being so "well brought up" and move in on your relatives as much as they move in on you. . .and bring friends. You deserve a few fun weekends in the city! — SUE

April 'Good Neighbor' Is Swim Instructor

LORRAINE DENNY-STORMS
Red Cross Volunteer

Mrs. Denny-Storms has been a volunteer Red Cross water safety instructor since 1961. She started teaching Red Cross swim classes at motel pools in Novato and has volunteered during Easter Week Life Saving courses for 10 years.

She started the Learn to Swim Program in Novato, which was recently taken over by the Novato Recreation District, and she now teaches infants survival swimming in private pools throughout the county. She also teaches Red Cross swim lessons in the summer at the "Lorraine Denny Swim School."

Mrs. Denny-Storms will be a volunteer instructor for the April 16-21 life Saving Courses in Marin. Junior and Senior Life Saving will be held at Novato High School from 6 to 10 p.m., Monday, April 16 through Thursday, April 19 and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 21.

Classes will be held at Hamilton Air Force Base Monday, April 16 through Friday, April 20 from 4 to 8 p.m. At the Tiburon Peninsula Club in Tiburon, Terra Linda High School and Redwood High School, the courses will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Monday, April 16 through Saturday, April 21.

Music Classes To Begin For Children Tomorrow

The Marin Jewish Community Center will start music classes for children tomorrow using the Emile Jaques-Dalcroze concept that every child is basically musical and endowed with natural rhythmic movement.

Through a combination of imaginative responses to musical sounds, bodily responses to rhythmic patterns and creative improvisation at the piano the child will be introduced to music.

Classes for kindergartners will begin at 1:30 p.m. with preschoolers following at 2:30 p.m. and first and second graders at 3:30 p.m.

For further information contact Barbara Figone at the Marin Jewish Community Center in San Rafael, where classes will be held.

Broken Glass Poses Problem

Picking up broken glass or china often poses a problem. First sweep up as much of the debris as you can and put it in a paper bag or wrap it securely so the person who handles your trash will not risk being lacerated.

The remaining splinters can be vacuumed away or picked up with a dampened paper towel. Never try to pick up the pieces with your bare hands; wear gloves.

A Tidy Kitchen Is Safe Kitchen

Maintain a tidy kitchen. Wipe all spills immediately. Clean the stove regularly as a precaution against grease fires. Keep a supply of fire-quenching baking soda close at hand.

If you use chemical cleaners, store them out of reach of children and away from heat. Use non-skid wax on the floor.

Manufacturers Following 'Handsteps' Of The Young

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

Has the individual handcraftsman always been the true design leader? It seems so. Especially when one observes how manufacturers have been following right in the "handsteps" of our young creative talents. For example: batik fabrics.

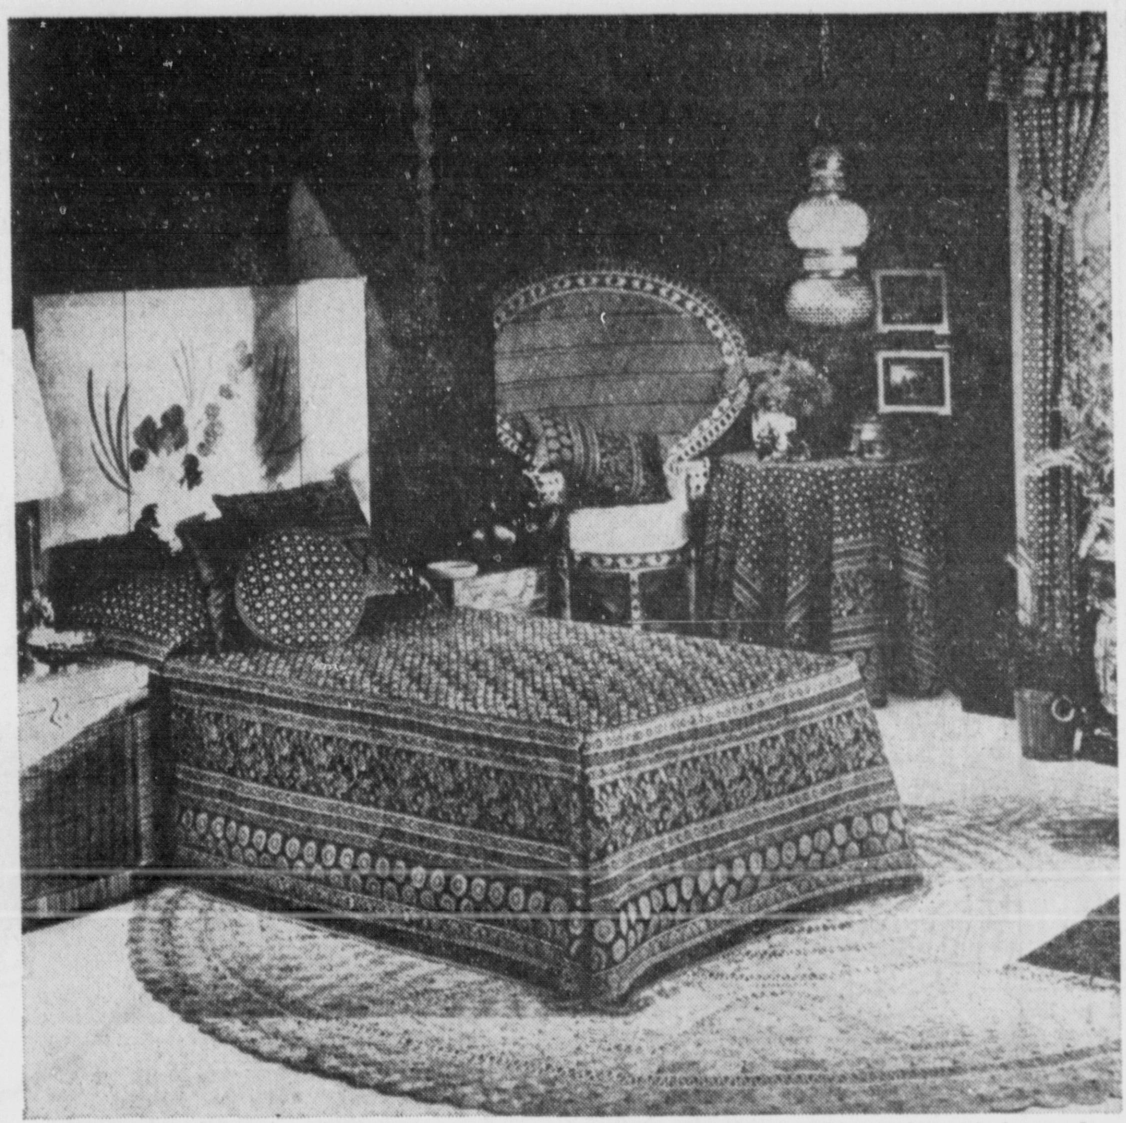
A few years ago, student designers at our colleges rediscovered a dyeing technique that had originated in the Dutch East Indies. They found they could cre te original, hand-printed fabrics by immersing cotton cloth into bowls or vats of various colored dyes. Parts of the fabric that were to remain unpatterned were treated to a coating of wax. When the fabric dried, the wax could be removed to reveal white or solid colored areas. That finished fabric design is called batik.

NOW, FINDING these hand-printed fabrics popular with a new generation of consumers, several companies have introduced machine-printed batik-type fabrics. And while we prefer the idea of the handmade originals, these prints do fill the need for families interested in the traditional arts — but without the time and talent to create their own.

One of the most comprehensive lines of these batik-inspired prints is the Nomadics collection from Bloomcraft. This firm has correlated table covers, draperies, bedspreads and pillows in a cotton batik motif. And the result is a nicely exotic feeling that moves a little into the Far Eastern scope.

The bed setting illustrated today combines this batik look with solid cane patterning. Wide borders of the wax-resistant patterns lend themselves to use as valance ruffles, bedspread drops and tablecloth borders, and Bloomcraft has made the most of this bordering technique.

ANOTHER IDEA that some manufacturers have copied from young and old craftswomen is the patchwork look so topical among creative stitchers. But it's a look we don't get tired of because there's infinite variety to the way patches of fabric can be strung together. There's always room for one more interpretation of patchwork, just as there'll always be another fresh idea developed out of the batik wax-resistant process. Manufacturers will have to run to keep up.



DEOCRATING IDEAS travel. This East Indies batik-inspired print can trace its heritage to a recent revival of the technique in America, then back to the Dutch East Indies where it originated. This version of Nomadics correlated furnishings gives the bedroom an Eastern flavor.

Appliances should bear the stamp of the Underwriter's Laboratories and should be kept in good repair. Frayed or worn cords should be replaced. Insert only one electrical device into one circuit unless your electrician advises otherwise.

Plug the cord into the appliance and then into the wall outlet. Disconnect it in reverse order — from the wall and then from the appliance. Take hold of the plug; don't yank the cord. Never plug appliances into electric light sockets, which are intended to handle less current.

Seeds Kept Fresh By New Packs

Brand new for 1973, "Life Lock" packets are the latest scientific advance of a major seed company. This new type of packaging locks damaging moisture out of seeds. The seed technicians report that the new packaging is effective in preserving harvest-freshness in seeds of sensitive varieties. Some kinds of flower and vegetable seeds lose their growing power much faster than others. The new packages lock the harvest-freshness in such seeds.

Tasty but sometimes touchy vegetables include lettuce, onions, parsley and peppers. Regardless of storage or environmental conditions the seed technicians say the packets hold seeds in harvest-fresh vitality until the packets are opened at planting time. Tests show the packets keep the seeds at peak power, the company says.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Even In Bridge, Pick The Right Time To Bestow Diamond

Many a man has found himself in trouble because he has given away a diamond at the wrong time, and the same thing can happen to a bridge player.

REFUSES TRICK

West opened the five of hearts, and South refused the first trick. This did no particular good, for West returned another heart to force out the ace.

Now South had to plan his play carefully. He had to hope for a reasonable division of the diamonds, for his contract depended on winning four diamond tricks.

NOT SLAM-BANG

A slam-bang type of player would lay down the ace and king of diamonds and would then give up the third round of diamonds. The suit would break, but South would lose his game contract. The defenders would never give him the chance to get back to his hand for the king of spades, and declarer would therefore make only eight tricks. The defenders would get three hearts, one diamond and one club.

The correct play is to give away a diamond at the very first opportunity. The defenders take their two heart tricks, and South can throw away two low clubs from his hand.

IN POSITION

South is then in position to take the rest of the tricks. No matter what the defenders do, South can take dummy's ace of spades, get to his hand with a high diamond to cash the king of spades, clear the other high diamond and then enter dummy with a high club to take the rest of the diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- J 9 8 2
♥- J 9 8 5
♦- J 10
♣- Q J 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

Respond in a suit rather than in notrump whenever you can afford to do so. When you have a choice of four-card suits, respond in the cheaper suit. It is cheaper to bid one heart than to bid one spade.

Students Help Attack Graffiti

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — High school art students are cooperating with the New Zealand Railways Department in an experiment to clean up graffiti covered walls.

Students at Porirua, near here, painted attractive pictures and designs over smutty pictures and poetry in a pedestrian subway.

Rail commuters have praised the school art designs.

The railways say it will examine the walls after two months to see if the graffiti artists have been discouraged.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Baffling birthplaces! Yes, the test today is to figure out in which country these notables were born — the United States, Germany, Hungary, or England?

1. CLARE BOOTHE LUCE, 70 today, has had a career as a playwright, war correspondent, congresswoman, essayist, radio-television commentator, bathing beauty, magazine editor, ambassador, ecologist, painter and women's rights leader. A reporter once asked if her experience as the Ambassador to Italy was difficult because she was a woman and she replied: "I couldn't possibly tell you. I have never been a man." She was born in — ?

2. GEORGE ARLISS, who lived to age 78, was Hollywood's great man — cast in such roles as Disraeli, Voltaire, Alexander Hamilton, Cardinal Richelieu and Rothschild. Yes, he even portrayed "The Devil" on stage in 1908 and ended his acting career in 1938 as "Dr. Syn." He and Norma Shearer were the Academy Award winners in 1929-30. He was born in — ?

3. HENRY VILLARD (1835-1900) began his journalism career by reporting the Lincoln-Douglas debates. Then he formed his own news agency in the nation's capital, followed by studies of the financial structure of banks and railroads which made him so expert he became a president of the latter. But he never lost interest in journalism, buying controlling interest in New York "Evening Post." He was born in — ?

4. JOSEPH PULITZER (1947-1911) was another 19th century rags to riches success story. After serving in the Union Army, he became a reporter in St. Louis, found a clever way to make money by buying a defunct newspaper and selling its subscription list. Soon he controlled the St. Louis "Dispatch" and the New York "World." Journalism prizes are given today in his honor. He was born in — ?

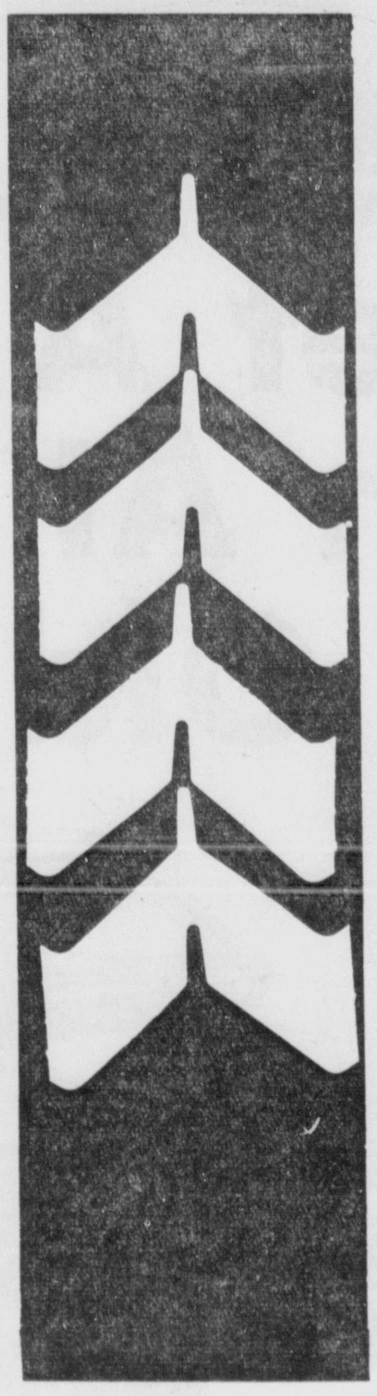
BIRD? PLANE? COLLAR STAY?

In her March 16 review of artist Maggie Hazell-Rosen's painting (above) Independent-Journal art critic Ada Garfinkel asked, "Planes in flight, flying geese, or Indian symbols?" The question of where an artist may have found inspiration for the creation of beauty was answered by I-J subscriber Kay Poulson who furnished the design (right) and wrote: "Those of us who are patrons of the Vogue Cleaners had no trouble at all identifying the inspiration. . .the flying objects are cardboard insertions used to hold the collars of men's shirts. . .the idea, however, was novel."



Concurrent Term For Auto Theft

Danny Ray Pyles, 24, of Novato, given one year in jail last week on a robbery charge, received a concurrent term yesterday for stealing a car to flee the robbery count.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also gave Pyles a suspended prison sentence and five years' probation on the charge that he embezzled a car Jan. 6 from Pacific Car Rental in San Rafael.

After a cross-country journey with three teen-agers, he was caught Jan. 23 in Maryland and returned to Marin for trial on a felony charge of helping rob a 79-year-old invalid.

A jury convicted him last month of robbing Ralph D. Hoy last June 28. He then admitted embezzling the car on condition he received concurrent sentences.

His brother, Leonard Franklin Pyles, 20, also fled the January trial and was last seen in Georgia, according to San Rafael police Inspector Bart Stinson.

The third defendant in the robbery case, 25-year-old Paul Brent Caldwell of Sonoma, was acquitted.

The three and a 13-year-old boy were arrested on suspicion of being the four persons that went to Hoy's San Rafael home on the pretext of having a set repaired, but instead held a toy pistol to his head, took $300 and knocked him from his wheelchair.

Singer To Perform

The Marin County Folk Music Club has announced it will present folk singer Bruce (U. Utah) Phillips at 8:30 p.m. Friday at 81 Hillside Avenue in Mill Valley. The event is open to the public.

MUSIC REVIEW

Japanese Violinist Pleases The Crowd

By VERA M. OLMSTED

The engaging young Japanese violinist, Teiko Maehashi, gave a recital of varied concert pieces last night at the Veterans Memorial Building for the Marin Concert Association's last program of the season.

A good showing of the association's approximately 1,400 subscribers went a good way toward filling the 2,000-seat auditorium.

Miss Maehashi's tone was warm and mellow rather than brilliant, but her playing was strong and secure and her stage presence was very appealing.

Her opening work was "Nigun" from the "Baal Shem" Suite by Ernest Bloch. Bloch weaves Hebraic melodies and harmonies in the movement to give the effect of an improvised florid monophonic chant.

The next work, Mozart's Sonata in G Major (K. 301), assigns equal roles to the violin and piano. Miss Maehashi was extremely fortunate in her choice of Nathan Schwartz, bay area pianist, as her accompanist. The piano has a very prominent part in this sonata, and Schwartz's sensitive and elegant playing pointed up Mozart's lovely lyric sections, while the rapid passages were executed with precision.

There was a change in programming and Johannes Brahms's Sonata in D Minor, Opus 108 was played instead of the Cesar Franck sonata. This rich and dark work is varied in its moods, and the finale is a powerful and fierce movement which Miss Maehashi played with firm bow strokes and controlled excitement.

Three Caprices for unaccompanied violin by Niccolo Paganini were presented next. These virtuoso pieces were written to show off the ability of the violinist and are not themselves interesting musically. Miss Maehashi whipped through the arpeggio trills and multiple stops with ease.

A poem for violin and piano, "La Fontaine D'Arethuse," by Polish composer Karol Szymanowski describes ancient legends in a programmatic work that is technically demanding. Its flowing lines and impressionistic color effects, such as ethereal glissandos, were effectively interpreted by Miss Maehashi.

The last work and obvious audience favorite was the familiar Introduction et Rondo Capriccioso, Opus 28, by Saint-Saens. The balance between violin and piano was excellent, they maintained the drive of the piece without letting it sound rushed. This brilliant work proved the ideal final number, and Miss Maehashi rounded out the evening by giving the large audience two encores.

Tiburon Council Extends Time Limit For Downtown Parking

Parking on the south side of Tiburon Boulevard between Beach Road and Juanita Lane will be allowed for one hour from now on, the Tiburon City Council decided last night.

The council voted unanimously to increase the time limit from 24 minutes at the request of the Downtown Merchants Association.

Councilman Allan N. Littman called the action "only an interim solution" to problems of traffic congestion in the downtown area and said the city "should move full speed ahead in forming a parking district" to finance permanent parking improvements.

Councilman Branwell D. Fanning objected that the 24-minute limit originally was set up to halt double parking by increasing the number of spaces available, but in the end he joined the other four councilmen in voting for the measure.

In other action at one of the shortest meetings in recent memory, the council applied for $117,822 in federal disaster relief funds for damage to city property, mostly streets and rights-of-way, caused by heavy rains Jan. 12-18.

The bulk of the damage, City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said, was done by a landslide from a steep slope down onto Tiburon Boulevard between Mar West and Mar East streets.

Some of the aid requests may not be granted, Balmer said, but if this happens the city will apply to the state for disaster relief for those items.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SMITH — Continued to May 14 second reading on prezoning and rezoning 102 acres on Paradise Drive to limited agricultural use. Architect Neill Smith has requested the action to build an ecology school on the site. The matter was delayed to allow city staff time to prepare an environmental impact report.

MAIN STREET — Continued to April 23 consideration of master and precise plans for an office and apartment building at 7-11 Main Street to allow for preparation of an environmental impact report.

DECK — Continued to May 14 action on abating a deck at 100 East View Drive which the city claims is unsafe and was built without city permission. Mayor Albert H. Sennett said he thought the city and the landowner, Edward C. Friedrichs III, can reach an "amicable adjustment of differences."

PERMIT — Granted a use permit to Pacific Land Projects of Mill Valley to begin planning for a 21-unit single family development on 19 acres on Paradise Drive north of Trestle Glen Boulevard. The vote was 4-1, with Albert Aramburu dissenting.

FEE — Set a $25 filing fee for candidates for city office. The vote was 4-1, with Branwell D. Fanning dissenting.

TB — Heard on first reading an ordinance to eliminate a requirement that food handlers in Tiburon have X-rays to detect tuberculosis before beginning work. The change was suggested by the Marin board of supervisors.

ANIMAL — Adopted an ordinance increasing the impound fees for stray animals from $7 to $10 for the first impounding, $10 to $15 for the second and $10 to $25 for ty third. The change was requested by Marin supervisors to bring in more revenue to the county. The vote was 3-2, with Littman and Fanning dissenting.

LIGHTS — Requested certification from the state to administer a traffic signal project, a legal technicality before the city can install two traffic signals on Tiburon Boulevard, one at Avenida Miraflores and the other at Beach Road. The state will pay 70 per cent of the project cost, estimated by Balmer at $60,000.

A Giant Gem In Home Opener

What a great start for the Giants! The cozy crowd of 18,560 for yesterday's Candlestick Park opener was treated to a gem of a performance from curly-haired Ron Bryant as once more the S.F. pitching department scored a big plus.

In four games, with the Giants winning three of them, there have been two distance-going performances by the hurling staff, Juan Marichal in the season opener against the Reds and yesterday's 2-1 job by Bryant in the home opener against the Padres.

CANDLESTICK PARK openers are always more colorful than regular season games because it seems so many little old ladies in tennis shoes come equipped with orange hats or orange sweaters. But this time it was even more colorful on the field, since the Giants have made a change in their uniforms, the first, I'm told, since they began putting numbers on the backs of the shirts a few decades ago.

The Giants' uniforms are still white, but the letters and numbers are orange, rather than black, and the names are spelled out on the back, catching up with teams which have been doing this for years.

Even the name of Chris Speier, the super shortstop who hit a game-winning home run in the fifth inning, is spelled correctly on his uniform. That's more than you can say about the way his name is spelled at the bat box in the dugout. There it reads: "SPIR," prompting him to joke before the game, "I guess I'm not so much of a star after all; they can't even spell my name right."

AFTER THAT CLOUT of Speier's yesterday, a towering shot which came down about 20 feet to the right of the foul pole two rows into the left field grandstands, Chris said, "It was a high fast ball. He (Padre southpaw Mike Caldwell) just made a mistake. It was the only bad pitch he threw me all day."

Bryant, sitting in his dressing stall with ice packs on his left elbow and shoulder — something he has been doing after pitching performances for the past couple of years — admitted he was nervous at the start of the game because it was opening day. That was why he was not in complete control when he allowed a run and a pair of hits in the first inning and another hit in the second. But from the third inning on, he gave up only one hit and three walks, one of them intentional, and had a string of 12 straight outs.

"I relaxed later," Bryant said about his early game jitters. "It just came to me naturally. I started getting better rhythm."

AND JUST ABOUT then, just like those toothpaste ads on television, this little curly haired boy came squirming through the crowd of sports writers surrounding Bryant. It was Todd, three-year-old son of Ron, and instead of saying, "Look, dad! No cavities!" Todd just looked up at his pop and smiled.

About the only Giant in the clubhouse who wasn't smiling after the game was third baseman Alan Gallagher who had cooled down some from his pre-game anger. The anger came when Gallagher, who had been told by manager Charlie Fox that he would be starting against left-handers, arrived at the ballpark to find Jim Hart's name penciled in on the lineup card.

After Hart botched two grounders which came his way, the first which resulted in the Padres' unearned run, I doubt seriously that Gallagher will have cause for anger next time a left-hander faces the Giants.

GALLAGHER SAID he can't find fault with the platoon plan of Fox since Ed Goodson is such a good left-handed hitter, but he wants his chance against the southpaw pitcher.

About his anger with Fox, Gallagher said, "I have to play the game. I can't worry about him. Those other 24 guys are more important." He said Fox told him he had to find a fifth position hitter in the lineup. "Great, but why does that fifth place hitter have to come from third base?"

Gallagher had replaced Hart in the fifth inning of the game, and no one had to explain it was for defensive reasons. The way Hart was

Counting Helps Aaron In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Tommy Aaron can count, after all. If he couldn't he wouldn't be the new Masters champ.

Incredible as it may sound, Tommy Aaron, the man who penciled Roberto de Vicenzo out of the 1968 Masters title, almost had the same thing happen to him Monday.

AARON

Aaron, in the final accounting, had a 5-under-par 283 to beat J.C. Snead by one stroke and Jack Nicklaus, Peter Oosterhuis and Jim Jamieson by two. But, he found when he checked his card that playing partner Johnny Miller had charged him with 69 strokes for the final round—one more than he actually took.

Miller had mistakenly credited Aaron with a par 5 on the 13th hole where Aaron made a birdie 4.

REASON

"That is the reason you check those things," Aaron said. "I know exactly what I shot. It happens quite often. I found the mistake, changed it, and signed it.

"That's why they have the rule," Aaron continued. "I don't think a lot of people really understood what happened the last time."

The last time, five years ago, Aaron wrote down a 4 for de Vicenzo at the 17th hole of the final round instead of the three the Argentinian scored. De Vicenzo signed his card without changing it and thextra stroke was the margin by which Bob Goalby beat him to win.

PREVIOUS WIN

Aaron, whose only previous U.S. victory in 13 years as a touring pro was the 1970 Atlanta Classic, didn't have any strokes to spare.

In fact, his victory was not assured until Snead was wide on an 18-foot birdie try on the final hole of the tournament.

Aaron watched that putt on a television monitor and said the only thought that went through his mind at that moment was "I didn't relish an 18-hole playoff."

The bespectacled, 36-year-old Georgian came into this year's Masters figuring his chances were at low ebb. He had not played particularly well earlier in the year and had had to leave the tour for a month because of his wife's illness.

'THE DREAM'

"It's the dream of a lifetime for me to win this tournament," Aaron beamed. "I've been dreaming of this since I was a small boy. My only disappointment is that my wife, who has never missed a Masters I played in before, couldn't be here with me to share my joy."

Snead, Sam Snead's nephew, held a two-stroke lead seven holes from the end Monday, but went into the water at the par three 12th hole and "that was it."

J.C. said he let his caddie talk him into using a seven iron when he had planned to use a six iron and he was short with his shot off the tee.

"I'm stupid, I guess," Snead said sadly. "When you make up

SONOMA COACH RETURNS

'Things Have Changed' In Chapman Area—Trumbo

By PAUL DWORIN

Athletic director and basketball coach Bill Trumbo will definitely remain at Sonoma State College next year, he announced at a press conference yesterday.

Trumbo, who led the Cossacks to their first Far Western Conference crown last season with a 10-2 record and was named FWC coach of the year, turned in his resignation late Thursday night to accept the head coaching job at Chapman College in Orange County, his alma mater.

STATEMENT

When Trumbo quit, he stated that he had "thoroughly evaluated all of the possibilities here and (saw) no resolution of the financial problems of the athletic program at Sonoma State in the immediate future."

After apologizing to both colleges for the inconvenience and public relations problems he caused them, Trumbo went on to explain his change of heart.

"I went to school at Chapman, played my collegiate ball there and still know some of the professors, so I felt that if I ever had a chance to go back, I would be happy there.

'THINGS CHANGED'

"But the last time I was there was in 1966 and things have changed quite a lot. I've been spoiled over the past seven years. On the way back to the airport, I was driving with the department secretary down there and I could barely make out El Toro Air Force Base through the smog. There was a brown blanket over everything and the secretary said that it was just a light smog; I decided that I couldn't move my family down there.

BILL TRUMBO

"So, when I got back to the airport in San Francisco, I called up Doug Earl (chairman of the Sonoma State Physical Education Department), and asked if they had replaced me yet. He said no, so the next thing I did was call down to Chapman and ask if they would release me from the contract."

The financial picture at Sonoma did not change in the period of Trumbo's absence. The athletic department is still $8,000 in the red, and no funds are forthcoming either from the student body or the chancellor's office.

Dr. Earl indicated in his brief summation of the problem prior to Trumbo's comments that the athletic department should be able to overcome the $8,000 debt by June through spring fund-raising events, and that a community support group is working diligently to raise sufficient money to run the program next year.

SPORTS FUTURE

Dr. Earl said that with the return of Trumbo and the total effort of the faculty behind his effort, the future of Sonoma athletics is not as dim as it was two days ago, but there is still the possibility of dropping intercollegiate sports unless ample funds are provided.

Trumbo said that while he fully intended to accept the position at Chapman when he went down there, he had not really sold himself on leaving Sonoma State. "I should have noticed the reluctance on my part," he commented.

NO SLEEP

"I didn't sleep well Thursday night (after he resigned). I asked myself the question, 'Have I really depleted all areas of finances for this department.' We're not working that hard and have never worked that hard to realize the full potential of the area.

"It has been a struggle each year and it will continue to be one, so we are going to spearhead the leadership of this thing rather than the community support group, which has been tremendous."

After acknowledging the efforts of the college president, Tom McGrath, to raise money through his office and the community support group, Trumbo said "I'm revitalized and I'm thoroughly aware of the problems here and I'm thoroughly prepared to fight them."

Weather, Bucks Face Warriors

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks didn't have a bona fide home court advantage to begin with for the fifth game of their National Basketball Association Western Conference playoffs with the Golden State Warriors tonight. The game will be televised live by KTVU Channel 2 starting at 6 o'clock.

And now the token advantage has been virtually wiped out by the weather.

The Bucks, tied with the Warriors 2-2 after four games, had to schedule the fifth game in the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse here because the Milwaukee Arena was being used for a week-long home show.

On Monday a crippling snowstorm socked the Midwest, closing Wisconsin highways and airports by the heavy snowfall which dumped more than 13 inches here.

That left the Bucks no choice but to practice on a gym floor in Milwaukee while the Warriors, who flew here Sunday before the storm hit, were get-

Giant Bryant In Change

Erstwhile Wild Lefty Is Winner In Home Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ron Bryant's transformation seems complete.

A year ago this time he was just another wild left-hander trying to prove he could pitch in the major leagues.

When injury befell Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell, Bryant got all the chances he needed, and by season's end he was the best pitcher on the San Francisco Giants staff.

Monday, in his club's home opener, Bryant showed his 1972 performance was no fluke, stopping the San Diego Padres on four hits while pitching the Giants to a 2-1 victory.

"I guess you'd have to say getting my breaking pitches over the plate is the big difference from last spring," said the chunky 25-year-old native of Redlands, Calif., who now makes his home in nearby Davis. "I have a lot of confidence now in my curve, slider and changeup. I feel I can get them over the plate any time I want."

Bryant made only 104 pitches in getting the job done over the Padres.

"He's a pitcher now," said coach Don McMahon. "A year ago this time he had to rely too often on his fastball and the hitters knew it. Now, because he knows he can get breaking balls in the strike zone, he has the hitters guessing, and that's the name of the game."

Back-to-back doubles by Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes in the third produced the Giants' first run and Chris Speier hit his first homer of the year in the fifth for the margin of difference.

The Giants managed only five hits off starter Mike Caldwell in six innings and one more off reliefer Rich Troedson in two, but they proved enough.

"My guy pitched a pretty good game and I'm satisfied with it," said Padres skipper Don Zimmer. "It's just a shame we couldn't win it for him but the other guy (Bryant) was pretty good too. That makes three top pitchers we've faced already, but we beat the other two."

The other two were Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The loss evened the young Padres' record at 2-2 while the Giants improved to 3-1 to lead the National League West.

"It's a good start for us," beamed Giants manager Charlie Fox. "We need a good start to give our younger players confidence. Winning the home opener never hurts either. When you play good, solid baseball as we did in this game, the fans start getting the idea we can win. I've felt right along we could win this year. It's just a matter of fitting all the pieces together."

The Padres' only run off Bryant came in the first and was unearned. Jim Ray Hart, a late addition to the third base derby, booted a smash by lead-off batter Enzo Hernandez, who eventually made his way around on singles by Leron Lee and Nate Colbert.

San Marin's Lathrop Gets To Places In A Big Hurry

By LEW CODDINGTON

Whether he is hiking, bicycle riding or running cross-country or track, Gary Lathrop has discovered several effective ways of moving from point A to point B in a hurry.

The San Marin High School senior's consistently victorious distance running has been a major factor in his school's rise to undefeated, league-leading status in the Marin County Athletic League track and field standings.

Last week, for example, Lathrop won the mile Wednesday against San Rafael in 4:29.2 and lowered the time Friday to 4:28.6 against Tamalpais, best in the MCAL this year, and won the two-mile twice in 9:52.9 and 9:53.3 to become Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

"I like the mile best, because it's my best event," says Lathrop. His personal best time is 4:25.8, recorded last year, and he says his goal "is to go under 4:20."

His coach, Jim Van der Beets, concurs. "Under good conditions, he's capable of 4:18 or 4:19. He really hasn't been pushed this year. We use him whenever we need him - in the 880, mile, two-mile, and relays - but his best is the mile.

"When he first came to the varsity he was running the 880 - he still holds the league 'B' record of 1:59.1 in 1971 - but to win the varsity 880 you have to run a 53 or 54 second first quarter and he doesn't have that kind of speed. He accepted that."

It wasn't the first adjustment Lathrop has made. "I always wanted to be a sprinter," he says, explaining he first began running six years ago after watching a cousin, Diane Smith, competing in Amateur Athletic Union meets. "It didn't take me too long to switch, though. I kept getting beaten."

Lathrop also runs cross-country, and prefers it. "I'm not better at it, but I like to run through the woods."

His affection for the woods continues when he's not running. "I like hiking, bike riding and camping," he says. He will get good use out of his back pack next year when he enrolls at Humboldt State College near the mountains, the redwoods and the sea in Arcata, just north of Eureka.

He hasn't decided what his major will be, saying "I'll just take what I need to the first couple of years and decide on a major later." He will continue running, but probably won't pursue his brief basketball career, which saw him as a reserve on San Marin's varsity this year "until I got a job and had to work Friday nights."

He may enjoy a slower pace when he's traveling, but when he's running he likes things faster. "He's always in condition, he runs on the weekends, he runs all the time," says Van der Beets. "He's very dedicated. I wish I had 40 Gary Lathrops."

ting the feel of the UW fieldhouse floor.

To compound the situation, the storm nearly paralyzed traffic in Milwaukee and Bucks Coach Larry Costello could only gather about half of his players for practice.

All that still wouldn't appear too bad except, in Costello's eyes, the Bucks urgently needed to practice.

He was angry about the effort of some of his players in Milwaukee's 102-97 loss at Oakland Saturday night and was hoping to regroup before tonight's battle.

"The way we played the other night, I'm not sure that we wanted it half as bad as they did," he said. Costello said it looked to him like every Warrior player "was busting his tail" to win Saturday night.

Of his own players, Costello said they "should extend themselves and play to exhaustion. The playoffs are what it's all about. If you're ever going to put out, this is the time."

He credited guards Lucius Allen and Oscar Robertson and forward Curtis Perry for their play Saturday night but found fault with the efforts of center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and forward Bob Dandridge.

Dandridge went scoreess in the first half and Abdul-Jabbar sank only one of 10 shots and grabbed only three rebounds during the same two quarters.

Costello said the only way the Bucks can beat Golden State is to "take away their fast break and get ours going."

Super Midgets To Race Saturday

Super midgets will open the racing season Saturday night at Petaluma Speedway, it was announced by promoter Joe Bellotti.

Gates open at 5, followed by warmups at 6:30, qualifying at 7 and the first race at 8 o'clock. Prices range from $1 to $3.

your mind to do something, and then change it, that's when you get hurt."

Nicklaus, bidding to become the first five-time Masters champ and the first man ever to win 14 major titles, made a brilliant last moment bid to pull it out.

NICKLAUS

Nicklaus had eight birdies Monday while shooting a 6-under-par 66, the best round of the entire tournament. But a Friday 77 that included three straight three-putt greens followed immediately by a double bogey, and a water-soaked triple bogey on Sunday had forced him to start the final round eight strokes off the pace.

English golf star Peter Oosterhuis took a three-stroke lead into the final round and saw it slowly dissipate.

Aaron, who has finished second 14 times but whose only other pro victory was the 1969 Canadian Open, earned $30,000 for his Masters victory, the most he ever won. Snead got a $22,500 consolation prize and the three men who tied for third earned $12,500 each.

In Nicklaus' case, that was enough to vault him past Lee Trevino and Bruce Crampton into first place on this year's PGA money list at $106,064. Trevino, who was over the $100,000 mark coming into the Masters, and Crampton both got $1,675 as both shot 14-over-par 299s.

Trevino, who has won two U.S. Opens and two British Opens, was furious at himself for his showing here. He indicated he might boycott the Masters next year, as he did in 1970 and 1971, because he is convinced he can not play well on the Augusta National course.

Only five golfers were able to break par for four days of play over the Augusta National. Johnny Miller played it in 2-under, but wound up at even par 288 when he was penalized two strokes for touching his ball twice after hitting it into a paper cup. Bob Goalby, the man who benefited from Aaron's scoring error in 1968, also had a 288.

Four-time champion Arnold Palmer was never a factor in this year's Masters after shooting a 77 in the opening round and he finished at 7-over-par 295.

A's Look Forward To Road Tour

CHICAGO (UPI) — The weather is so bad in Chicago that today's scheduled Oakland A's-Chicago White Sox game was postponed Monday by officials who knew there was no way things could clear up in 24 hours.

This gives the A's even more time to brood about their disastrous showing so far in the young 1973 campaign after Minnesota swept them in a trio of games at Oakland that saw numerous mental and defensive lapses by the World Champions.

"We've always played better on the road," Manager Dick Williams said after the three losses.

The A's committed three errors in the opener.

"All the fellows who made mistakes played good defense in spring training," said Williams glumly. "Our prime thing now is to work on defense."

Sal Bando said "we're too tight. I'll be glad to get on the road. I think it will relax us."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Bench's Arm Passes Braves' Stiff Test

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Johnny Bench is 3-for-3 for the season and the Cincinnati Reds figure that statistic should end all speculation about the condition of their all-star catcher's throwing arm.

Bench's ability to throw came close to being the No. 1 mystery of spring training. The National League's two-time Most Valuable Player underwent surgery late last season and it was possible that some of the muscles cut would adversely affect what some consider the strongest and most accurate throwing arm any catcher has been blessed with in the game's history.

Well, three runners have tried to steal on Bench so far this season and all three made right turns at second base and headed for the dugout after being gunned down. Bench made it 3-for-3 when he gunned down Rod Gilbreath and Dave Johnson Monday night during the Reds' 8-7 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Just so nobody will worry whether Bench's hitting prowess has been affected by the surgery, he also contributed a homer to the Reds' 10-hit attack.

"The Giants tried once and he nailed the guy," said jubilant Red Manager Sparky Anderson Monday night. "The Braves tried twice tonight and got nowhere."

"There never was any doubt about John's arm," he said. "John never throws much early in spring training. But during the last week of spring training he was throwing and everybody had a good laugh when we saw that story suggesting his arm might be weak."

The Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 and the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 2-1 in the other National League games while the Cleveland Indians topped the New York Yankees 3-1 in Monday's only American League game.

Terra Linda Netters Win

The doubles teams of Clarke Harding-Bob Vaupen and Ken Chew-Robert Reamey defated their counterparts from Marin Catholic yesterday to give visiting Terra Linda High School a 4-3 victory and temporary possession of first place in the Marin County Athletic League tennis standings with a 3-0 record to 2-0 for Redwood and San Rafael, who play each other today.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

That Crab Feed Was Excellent

Oh Brother! I've got crab coming out of my ears! If you haven't been able to afford those high prices for crab this year, and if you didn't attend the Marin Rod and Gun Club's annual crab feed Saturday night, you missed the boat.

The club put on a feed of cracked crab, salad, french bread, butter and beer that was fit for a king. It served up 1,250 pounds of crab to approximately 350 people. That's almost four pounds per person. It was "all you can eat." Can you believe it? And the price was right.

MEMBERS OF the club prepared the feed at their clubhouse at Point San Quentin. At the feed, it was announced that there were some new memberships open. Maybe you should prepare now for next year by joining. A rare bargain.

Wasn't it a great weekend? Fishermen en masse were out everywhere in the county. The abalone pickers generally had limits at the areas checked. The clam diggers at Tomales Bay had a field day taking cockles, gaper clams and various other types of shellfish. Up at Lagunitas Lake, 80 anglers averaged about three trout apiece. It was an afternoon check, so reportedly many of the anglers with limits had already gone home.

PERCH FISHING is at its peak; one angler took 10 offshore at Millerton Point at Tomales Bay in an hour, using bait. Frank Spence at the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier said the flounders, smelt and king fish were really hitting.

Over at Loch Lomond Bait & Tackle, Keith Fraser was having his problems keeping customers supplied with grass shrimp. He says there's still a shortage with so much fresh water in the bay. Even the shiner perch are late in arriving this year. Keith feels that draft fishing with shiners will be on the "hot" side when the bait shows.

Three sturgeon had been logged in Saturday when I stopped at the shop. I believe the sturgeon have left the upper bay and are down in the Sausalito-Golden Gate areas where the water and feed is more to their liking. Too much fresh water has moved the feed out of the bay.

VERY FEW SMALL crabs are showing at the fishing spots which somewhat proves the above theory or should I say "guess"? With smelt now showing (strictly a salt water fish) things should be back to normal soon. I expect to see many more sturgeon caught yet this season.

SALMON FISHING has got to get better. Last year in February, about 30,000 salmon were landed by party boats in the San Francisco Bay area. The weather and the seas were exactly right then for top fishing. This year only 3,600 salmon were landed in February by those same boats just because they couldn't get out most days, and the fish were much further out off shore from the Gate. The heavy rains have pushed the bait fish far out to sea.

They say that a salmon can gain 10 pounds in sixth months at sea. If all those salmon which haven't been caught to date put on this kind of weight, we might have a season with bigger fish catches. Don't give up on the salmon yet. I think we will still have a top season. Bob Locke and his crew of oldtimers on the Lo Hat got six last Thursday.

ON SUNDAY, I checked the Lo Hat again. The boys had 15 salmon; the biggest 14 pounds. It goes to show you how quick conditions can change. They were fishing out by the "A" Buoy.

Saturday at Loch Lomond 32 boats had one bass, two sturgeon, three king fish and some flounders. Sunday, at the Rod and Gun Club ramp, a boat came in with six stripers, nearly all 20-pounders, and one sturgeon, about 70 pounds. I asked them where they fished. Their answer — "Same place you do, Al. South of the Richmond Bridge!"

Trout plants in Rodeo Lagoon near Sausalito and Stafford Lake near Novato are scheduled for this week.

Moore To Attend

playing he was turning third base into a disaster area.

Garry Maddox, Giant center fielder who is batting .412, was limping very noticeably as he left the clubhouse. He said he fouled a pitch off his left foot his second time at bat but the foot didn't swell until after he had showered. There is a possibility the injury could keep him out of tonight's game against the Padres.

Marin A.C. Members In Swim Wins

Two Marin Aquatic Club members and a Petaluman took three first places each at the Masters Swim Meet Sunday at Serra High School in San Mateo.

MAC's Nancy Ridout, 30-34 age group, set national age records in the 50 yard butterfly (30.9) and the 100 freestyle (1:01.6). She also won the 100 individual medley (1:12.8).

MAC's Jane McCollister, 50-54, set a national mark in the 500 free (7:54.0) and tied another in the 100 breaststroke (1:43.0). She also won the 100 free (1:22.3).

Petaluma's Gail Roper, 40-44, of the Santa Rosa Swim Club set a national record in the 500 free (7:01.8). She also won in the 50 fly and 100 IM, but her times were unavailable.

Two other Marinites won a pair of events. Dore Schwab of MAC, 50-54, won the 50 fly (34.0) and 100 IM (1:17.0). Denis Rice of Tiburon took the 100 free (1:00.5) and 500 free (6:26.0).

MAC's Tilden Hansen, 30-34, won the 50 yard breaststroke "B" event, but his time was unavailable.

GIANTS

Dave Roberts leading off the fourth were the only other hits Bryant gave up. He struck out six batters and walked three.

Speier said he was surprised his blast to left in the fifth went out for a homer.

"I don't feel all that strong yet," said the young Giants shortstop. "That's why I didn't think I could hit one out." A crowd of 18,650 turned out for the first game of the year in Candlestick Park on an overcast but warm afternoon. It was a little less than the Giants had anticipated.

The Giants and Padres go at it again tonight with Marichal (1-0) pitching against Mike Corkins (0-0).

Aparicio's Family Is Threatened

Combined AP & UPI

BOSTON — Police in Maracaibo, Venezuela, are keeping the 15-year-old son of Luis Aparicio under constant guard because of threats that he would be kidnaped, the Boston Red Sox star shortstop says.

Aparicio, 38, said yesterday that a gang of extortionists has threatened to kidnap his oldest son, Luis, if they are not paid off.

"My son is 15 years old," Aparicio said. "I'm not only worried about him, but I worry about everybody. I've got four more (children) at home."

Aparicio, a major leaguer since 1956, said he was first informed of the threats "about a week ago when my wife called me from Venezuela." He was still at the Red Sox' spring training camp in Winter Haven, Fla., at the time.

"The police don't know who is doing it or why they're doing it, outside of the money," Aparicio said. He did not say how much the extortionists were seeking.

Aparicio said his wife, Sonia, received threatening telephone calls from the extortionists.

"The police are investigating the whole thing," Aparicio said.

Aparicio said he had no plans to return to Venezuela and would accompany the Red Sox on their road trip to Milwaukee and New York.

Basketball

NEW YORK — Billy Cunningham, Carolina Cougar forward and one-time scourge of the National Basketball Association, Monday was named most valuable player of the American Basketball Association in his first season with the league.

Cunningham was a four-time NBA All-Star choice with Philadelphia before signing with the Cougars and leading them to the ABA's Eastern Division championship. For his efforts, Cunningham was named on 44 of the 58 ballots cast by sports writers and television broadcasters in the 10 league cities.

Julius Erving, Virginia's "Dr. J.," was a distant second with seven votes.

Boxing

SACRAMENTO — A bill making it a crime to throw anything at the ring during a boxing match moved to the Assemby floor today after being unanimously approved in committee.

Its author, assemblyman Alex P. Garcia, D-Los Angeles, said the measure was in response to the "extremely dangerous practice" of fans throwing coins at fighters for a good performance.

"The last fight I was at, I got hit in the head with a silver dollar," Garcia told the Assembly Commerce and Public Utilities Committee.

The panel voted 5-0 approval to the measure yesterday.

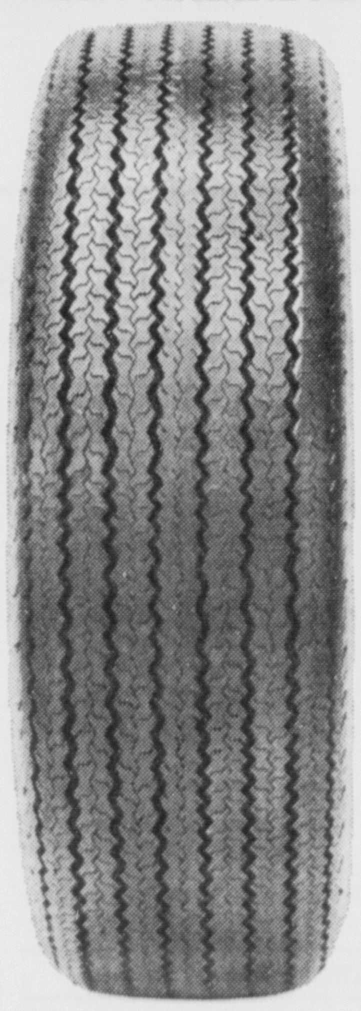
B.F.Goodrich
You Would Expect A Tire This Good To Cost Much More.
LIFESAVER RADIAL XL-100



HOW'S A RADIAL TIRE DIFFERENT?
Unique radial construction reduces damaging heat build-up. Sidewalls remain flexible to help absorb shock and keep the tread flat on the road.
The Lifesaver® Radial XL-100 has 4 belts of tough Dynacor® rayon cord directly under the tread — to minimize squirm and scuff-off, major factors in tire wear. What's in it for you? Long mileage.
WHY BFG RADIALS?
B.F.Goodrich introduced the first American radial in 1965. Every Lifesaver Radial XL-100 is soundly backed by years of BFG experience and leadership in radial tire technology.
WHO NEEDS RADIALS?
You do. If your kind of driving demands a hard-working tire that gives you superior mileage.
You be the judge. Think about how you drive and under what conditions (highway or city, rough roads or smooth). Then consider what you expect from the tire you depend on.
HOW ARE RADIALS ECONOMICAL?
Long mileage, tough impact-resistance, great handling, smooth ride, cornering and traction . . . it all adds up. Radial tires are a better value in the long run.
as low as $39

STEEL RADIALS
Guaranteed 40,000 Miles
The only radials in the world with Cushioned Steel® Construction. Steel for strength and long wear. Cushioned between double layers of Dynacor rayon cord for a smooth ride.
40,000 MILE GUARANTEE
In normal driving you'll get at least 40,000 miles of tread wear from the Lifesaver Radial Steel R/S on your car. If you don't get 40,000 miles, take the guarantee back to your BFG retailer. He'll allow you credit for the difference toward the going trade-in price of new ones. And add a small service charge.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, April 10, the 100th day of 1973 with 265 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

Faed U. S. Navy Commodore Matthew Perry was born April 10, 1794.

On this day in history:

In 1849, Walter Hunt of New York received a patent for his invention of the safety pin.

In 1945, the Nazi concentration camp Buchenwald was liberated by the U. S. 80th Division.

In 1971, the U. S. table tennis team arrived in Red China, the first American group to penetrate the "Bamboo Curtain" since the 1950s.

In 1972, between 2,000 and 4,000 were estimated dead in an earthquake in southern Iran.

A thought for the day: French writer Francois Rabelais said, "So much is a man worth as he esteems himself."

Services Board Cancels Meet

The Bel Marin Keys Community Services District Board has canceled its regular meeting scheduled for Thursday evening because of a conflict in dates, according to secretary Betty L. Zoeller.

The board will meet intead at 7:30 p.m. April 18 at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center, Mrs. Zoeller reported.

Elementary Spanish Booted In Kentfield

Trustees of the Kentfield School District last night approved eliminating Spanish instruction in the elementary schools, while at the same time boosting foreign language instruction at the junior high school level.

Interim Supt. Byron D. Mauzy said that while several parents objected to the elementary cut, "the program was not what it was originally intended to be and so there was no use in continuing it."

At the start, the program had two full-time people directing it, but now is down to a part-time director, Mauzy said.

The foreign language curriculum at the junior high level, due for general upgrading, still includes French, Italian and German, as well as Spanish.

The Kentfield School District board also:

SALARIES — Received a request from the district's 30 nonteaching employees for a 5.5 per cent pay boost for 1973-74, representing an added outlay of up to $45,000. The board later went into closed session to instruct Mauzy in upcoming negotiations with the workers.

EXTENDED — Approved continuing the extended learning program next year, as well as starting it at another elementary school. Under the program, residents with special experience, talent or skill are brought into the classroom to aid students. The board also voted to establish the position of program coordinator as a full-time certificated responsibility.

INVENTORY — As now required by state law, approved conducting an inventory of district equipment and hired the Tait Appraisal Co. for $2,900 to do the job.

BUBBLE — Received a letter from the Standard Oil Co. saying it is withdrawing plans to construct a bubble machine car wash on College Avenue near Adaline E. Kent School. The district had objected because of potential noise and traffic congestion.

LAYOFFS — Mindful of the possibility that up to four teachers may have to be laid off because of budget problems, said rehirings would occur in the inverse order of layoff. It also established a seniority list amid plans to lay off several classified workers.

MEETING — Said its next meeting would be April 23.

Contest To Promote KQED Auction Set

Entries in a children's drawing contest to promote KQED's annual fund raising auction will be accepted through May 1 at the office of the Strawberry Town and Country Village shopping center, 618 Town and Country Village, Mill Valley.

All Marin children in the third through fifth grades may submit entries done in crayon, paint or paper and paste, and depicting impressions of past auctions, according to Susan Kolb, Marin publicity chairman for the auction.

Deadline for entries is May 1, Mrs. Kolb said. Photos of last year's auction, to be used as guides by entrants, have been sent to all Marin elementary schools and also are on display at the shopping center office.

The entries should be no larger than 11 by 14 inches and include children's name, address, school and grade.

First prize is a $50 savings bond. It will be awarded at ceremonies at a fun fair to be held May 12 at the shopping center to publicize the auction, Mrs. Kolb said.

Entries will be on display at the fair. The top five artists will tour the station's studios and their entries will be sold at the auction, Mrs. Kolb said.

KQED, San Francisco's educational station, will hold its auction June 1 through 10.

Stabbing Victim Recovering Well

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The 24-year-old Japanese coed brutally stabbed three weeks ago by a man who tried to rape her, may be going home in another week.

Officials at San Francisco General Hospital said Monday Yoshika Tanaka, the attractive student who was stabbed two dozen times when a man attacked her at her door, was "coming along just fine."

Reporter Sets Freedom Talk

New York Times reporter Earl Caldwell will discuss the freedom of the press at 3 p.m. Sunday at the home of Ruth Lederman, 16 Tree Top Way in Kentfield.

Caldwell became a central figure in the battle between the press and the courts when he refused to reveal his sources in articles he wrote about the Black Panther Party.

The event is sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union and is open to the public.

Lawmakers Reverse On Premarital Sex

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The Pennsylvania House reversed itself Monday and defeated a proposal to make premarital and extramarital sex illegal. The vote was 101-81.

The House had approved the proposal — included as an amendment to a bill to make malicious mischief in caves a crime—last week by a vote of 118-69.

Flood Area Building Ban Asked

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended that the city council create a flood plain zone banning building on approximately 200 acres beside Novato Creek between South Novato Boulevard and Highway 101.

The Novato City Council will consider such an ordinance at its meeting next Tuesday.

The council had previously adopted a flood control zone for the creek between Highway 101 and its mouth at San Pablo Bay and another creating ponding areas.

If adopted by the council, the new ordinance would stop all building in the flood plain area beside the creek where several developments are planned.

The planning commission then approved variances for a warehouse for Stan's for Sports Inc. for Stanley Goldsmith and a distributing warehouse for Ciampi Distributors for Paul Ciampi.

This was done over the protest of several residents of Yukon Way and Nave Gardens whose homes were flooded or threatened by flood waters during the January flood.

Keith Hastings of the Murray-McCormick Environmental Group, told the commission that the two warehouses to be constructed across the creek from Yukon Way would increase the height of the flood waters by five inches.

The vote on the variances was 4-2, with Beverly Ehreth and John Schoonover against and Gail Wilhelm absent.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

WOODLANDS — Recommended that the city council prezone to planned residential single-family homes on 40,000 square feet for 66 acres on Olive Avenue east of the city limits for Woodlands Co.

NOVATO FAIR — Tentatively approved plans for adding a drug store and other stores to the Novato Fair Shopping Center. The plans call for a connecting pedestrian mall in the parking lot between the two clusters of buildings.

REPORT — Received but took no action on the guidelines adopted by the council for making environmental impact reports.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to a joint meeting with the council at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House and set a special meeting on the general plan for 8 p.m. next Tuesday at Novato City Hall.

REDUCE! WITH OUR Guaranteed RESULTS

Gloria Marshall says:

LOOK 10 YEARS YOUNGER FOR Mother's Day

Every woman wants to look a little younger, and she can, by losing those aging pounds and inches. Start now at Gloria Marshall's and you will be amazed at how quickly you will notice the results.

. . . through the nationally famous Gloria Marshall methods

1 THE GLORIA MARSHALL GUARANTEE: Tell us the dress size you want to be. We will then analyze your figure and tell you exactly the number of inches you need to lose. We are so sure of your results that we Guarantee in writing that if your measurements are not as promised, you may continue your treatments at no charge until your goal is reached.

2 HOW THE GLORIA MARSHALL SYSTEM WORKS: On your first visit, for which there is no charge or obligation, you will receive a complete demonstration and sample treatment. You will be weighed and measured (this does not require disrobing) and a trained specialist will analyze your figure and prepare a personalized program for you.

3 THE GLORIA MARSHALL METHOD is pleasant. Results are achieved through a program of nutritional guidance and individually designed triming and toning techniques. Each woman's figure problem is different. The results you achieve from your personalized program may be different than those achieved by someone else.*

ALSO NOTE THE DRAMATIC CHANGE IN FACIAL FEATURES

Ericka Emery, glamorous grandmother, lost 23 3/4" and went from a size 14 to a size 10. She states, "I tried crash diets and gyms, nothing worked for me until I came to Gloria Marshall's. Now I wear the same size dress I wore on the day I was married."

Affidavits of authenticity on file in home office.
